Australia To Seek More Immigrants

CANBERRA, Australia, May 27 — (CP) — Acting Prime Minister Francis E. Forde today announced the government intends to embark on a positive migration policy immediately after the war with emphasis on movement of British servicemen and selected children from Britain and Europe.

The scope of the migration would be controlled, he said, by Australia's capacity for absorbing newcomers.

Mr. Forde said particular attention would be given to encouraging settlement of Allied as well as British servicemen and women seeking demobilization here and "who measure up to our standards."

Not Important

LONDON, May 27 — (CP) — The Vichy radio quoted a German military spokesman yesterday as saying "capture of Rome in any case is merely a matter of prestige and is of no military significance." The spokesman was quoted as saying the Germans would "accept battle on a line north of Rome, prepared months ago."

6—Scoring in Contract

MUCH OF the lure of contract comes from the fact that the pair with the stronger hands in a deal will usually try to bid as high as it safely can, because that is the way to score the most. In doing that, it frequently gets high enough for reasonable doubt as to whether its contract can be made. Consequently, its high bidding has put the weaker opponents in the contest, giving them a possible chance to beat the contract.

Scoring is done on a pad or sheet of paper ruled with a vertical line into two columns, with "We" at the top of one and "They" at the top of the other. About a third way up from the bottom is a horizontal line. Below that line no points are scored except those for the value of tricks bid for and won. If the contract is clubs or diamonds, the value of such tricks is 20 apiece, if hearts or spades 30 each, and if No Trumps 40 for the first one and 30 for each additional one. Those values are doubled if a contract is doubled, and quadrupled if it is redoubled.

When a pair gets a total of 100 points in "trick points" below the line, it scores a game, indicating it by drawing a pencil line crosswise under its last score. A new game then starts, and any "trick points" which either side had on its way toward one game cannot count toward the next.

Play keeps on until one side has won the "rubber game." That means, it has won a second game. If it does this without the opponents winning any game, it writes a premium score of 700 for game above the line. But if the opponents won one game, so that it was a case of two out of three, the rubber premium is only 500.

All other scores are recorded in the "premium score," above the line. This includes rewards for beating the opponent's contract, the amounts depending on "vulnerability." If they had won a game, they are "vulnerable," and if not, they are "not vulnerable."

The not vulnerable score for beating an opponent's contract is 50 points for each trick by which you defeat it or "set" it, when it is not doubled; if doubled, 100 for the first trick and 200 for each additional one. The vulnerable score for setting it is 100 for each trick when not doubled; if doubled, 200 for the first trick and 300 for each additional one.

When a declarer takes more tricks than he has contracted for, the extra ones are scored above the line at the regular trick value, but do not count toward game; if he is doubled, the value of such overtricks becomes 100 each when not vulnerable and 200 when vulnerable, and redoubling doubles those values. There is also an extra premium of 50 points for making either a doubled or redoubled contract.

Still extra premiums are awarded for bidding and making slams. A "Little Slam," bidding and taking all but one trick, counts an additional 500 points above the line when not vulnerable and 750 when vulnerable. And a "Grand Slam," bidding and taking all 13 tricks, lifts those premiums to 1,000 when not vulnerable and 1,500 when vulnerable. Doubling and redoubling does not change these amounts.

Holding "honors" gives additional points. If any one player has in his hand four of the highest five cards of a trump suit, his side gets 100 points; if all five of them, or if any player holds four aces during a No Trump contract, his side gets 150 points. These also are not influenced by doubling.

A rubber ends as soon as one side has won two games. All of its points are then added up, also all of the opponents' points. The pair with the larger total is the winner of the rubber.

In the case of an unfinished rubber, the winners of one game score a premium of 300 points; if only one side has a part score in an unfinished game, it scores a premium of 50 points.

Let us suggest that you do not try to memorize these scores at once, but only to understand them. If no printed score pad is handy, giving the foregoing figures, keep this item for reference, or write the figures down on a memorandum sheet.

Quints To Have Free Hand In Way Of Life

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALLANDER, Ont., May 27—(CP)—When the Dionne Quintuplets grow up to be young ladies—they will be 10 next Sunday—they will decide their futures themselves without anything more than the usual advices from their parents.

Oliva Dionne, their 41-year-old father and guardian, made this quite plain today as he spoke to a Canadian Press reporter in the study of the 20-roomed home in which the Quints were reunited with their parents and seven brothers and sisters late last year.

Neither the Quints' parents nor the girls themselves know what will happen to them when they are 18 or 20 and Mr. Dionne, speaking in his almost accentless English, indicated he was not going out on any limb of prediction at the moment.

There was nothing to stories that he and Mrs. Dionne would "give" the Quints to the church. "People don't give their children to the church or to any other profession these days," he said. "Children decide for themselves."

"The Quints will have every advantage, every bit of education we think suitable. But I'm not kidding myself that, when the time comes, I'll have anything to say about it. Like other parents I'll give my advices but you can be sure those girls will decide for themselves. And if you think the world is interested in what is going to happen to them, how do you think I feel? It's going to be great looking forward to it."

The Quints' father spoke of his satisfaction with their present way of life. For the first time since the five girls were born in the four-roomed farmhouse across the road, Mr. and Mrs. Dionne fully approve the arrangements under which the children are brought up. The fight they waged for almost 10 years has been successful and they now control their children, no longer wards of the state insofar as financial matters are watched over by the official guardian of children in Ontario, Percy D. Wilson.

Now their children all go to school together in the building that was formerly the Dafoe nursery, where the Quints lived from the time they were three months old until last winter.

Mr. Dionne said that, while there is no thought of secluding the Quints permanently, they will not be shown to the public at regular intervals this summer as they were up until last year. Because gas rationing has cut the flow of tourists to a trickle, this is not now necessary. The few tourists who come may see the youngsters playing before their home or going to and from their schoolroom.

Says New Law Would Impose Serfdom

SYDNEY, Australia, May 27 (CP Cable)—The New South Wales full court in an unanimous judgment held yesterday that all national manpower orders directing people to work in canneries or factories or for any other specific private employer are without effect.

The court decided that section 15 of the national security regulations applying to manpower, under which such directions have been given, is invalid.

In the course of the judgment Chief Justice Jordan said: "The regulation as it stands would, if valid, reduce the population of Austrlia to a state of serfdom more abject than any which obtained in the middle ages."

Immediately the judgment was announced the Commonwealth applied to the high court in Melbourne for leave to appeal. This was granted.

The decision caused much discussion in federal political circles, Army Minister F. M. Forde remarking:—

"So far as I know this is the first time any court in the British Empire has chosen to characterize the necessary manpower organizations as imposing serfdom. The regulations were imposed purely temporarily for the duration of the war and for the sake of saving the very life of the country. The public will reject this implied reflection on their patriotism."

Germans Admit Retreat Necessary

LONDON, May 27—(CP)—The Nazis who usually describe the retreats of their troops as "disengaging movements," acknowledged today in a Berlin braodcast that "German troops had to retreat" in the Cisterna area in Italy under a heavy tank assault.

"The attempt of the Anglo-Americans to push on and dislodge the German defensive forces in the town of Villetri, however, was frustratd," the broadcast said.

Expect Germans

Vichy have come wholly unconfirmed reports that no German soldiers are in the city and that even the wounded have disappeared.

The German Transocean Agency, in a broadcast this morning, asserted that for 48 hours Allied planes had been heard over Rome "almost without pause attacking the outskirts and southward road by day and night." The agency said a suburban hospital was hit by a bomb yesterday.

The Vichy broadcast last night, without locating the line to which it said Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's forces would retire, said the Germans had been fortifying this line for months.

Competent military men in London feel Rome itself is incapable of withstanding a long siege and that once the last defences have been broken the enemy possibly may withdraw into the mountains north of the city. The Po River Valley region in the extreme north was mentioned months ago as one likely German defence site.

day raiders headed for the Pas de Calais region of France.

The Mosquitos, in the 12th night excursion this month, struck at Ludwigshafen in South-western Germany for the fourth time in May, and at Aachen ripped up one of the two railroad yards severely mauled by R.A.F. and Canadian heavy bombers in night attacks on Wednesday. Aachen is near the junction of the Netherlands, Belgium and German borders.

Paris radio announced to-day that Ostende, on the coast of Belgium, was bombed yesterday. There was no Allied confirmation.

While weather halted heavy aerial offensive operations from Britain yesterday, medium bombers, attack bombers and fighter bombers conducted sweeps over France.

In the operations from Britain, more than 325 American mediums raced 40 miles south-west of Paris, hitting an airfield near Chartres and bridges in Northern France.

Ceprano Next

Ontario infantry units of Gen. Hoffmeister's division were reported nearing the big reservoir which the Germans had been using to control the Liri and Garigliano Rivers. These units pushed on from the Melfa River bridgehead established by a Western motorized regiment who were followed across by Western armor.

Maritime infantry and armor also figured in the advance that has carried the newest of the two divisions under command of Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burne, the Corps Commander, to their present positions. Their crossing of the Melfa was made near Highway No. 6.

Formations of Gen. Vokes' Division, including the Maritime and French-speaking infantry advanced from the second bridgehead made near the junction of the Melfa and Liri Rivers. They were supported by Ontario reconnaissance troops and armor as they pushed northwest towards Ceprano.

Both bridgeheads were under heavy shelling and mortar fire during Thursday, but were maintained.

During Thursday night German aircraft dropped bombs in the "general area" of the Canadians. Up to noon of May 25 the Canadian Corps was credited with the capture of more than 1,250 prisoners.

monte, along with masses of other equipment and material.

Ceprona was also menaced from the south and southwest by fighting French formations of the 5th Army, who have captured both San Giovanni and Pastena, both heavily defended strong points. San Giovanni is four miles south and slightly east, and Pastena six miles south and slightly west of Ceprano.

Hurry Reserves

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring rushed a hurriedly-assembled battle group of the 334th German Infantry Division from the Adriatic sector into the line against these 5th army forces. These reinforcements were beaten back.

Boring steadily into enemy defences farther west, the French troops seized Monte Rotondo and Monte Quattadorci, and yesterday reached the outskirts of Pastena.

The 5th army reconnaissance elements near Valmontone, which is about 21 miles from Rome, were reported in the vicinity of Artena, about 2½ miles south of Valmontone.

Pacing the drive from the Anzio beachhead, these forces had advanced about 12½ miles north of the former beachhead perimeter after the Allies beat back sharp enemy counter-attacks, in which 15 huge Tiger tanks participated.

An official report said the enemy appeared to be pulling back heavy artillery from the Cisterna-Valmontone road.

An Allied official spokesman declared "a tremendous amount of motor movement" was observed farther southwest, where other 5th army troops crossed the Asemo River and took the village of Castella Valentino.

"All the German divisions in the line and in reserve at the start of the offensive now have been drawn into the main battle area, including two from the Adriatic flank," this official said.

All along the right flank of the 5th Army, near its junction with the 8th Army, resistance weakened gradually. This presumably resulted from the German command finally acknowledging futility of attempting to hold on any longer in that area, and deciding to try pulling big forces out of danger of being cut off and enveloped by the deep penetration in front of the Valmontone Line.

Germans gave ground reluctantly as the 5th Army widened the breach in their defences north and northwest of Cisterna and fought ever deeper into the salient pointed at Highway No. 6.

Cori fell to this attack Thursday night, after a stubborn battle in which American troops fought through dug-in positions and crossed four belts of mines. Then they occupied Monte Arrestino, southeast of Cori and cut the Guilanello-Velletri road.

Late last night it seemed American 5th Army forces were driving the Germans steadily out of Velletri, a key point in the defence line 16 miles southeast of Rome. Associated Press Correspondent Daniel de Luce reported fires were raging in Velletri, and it was indicated the enemy had moved his artillery back into the hills, away from the city.

"The enemy appears to be further thinning out the forces on our left flank, with troops along the Anzio-Albano road taking up new positions in the vicinity of Carroceto," said an Allied commentator. "Considerable motor movement is noted from south to north along the entire bridgehead front, with our airforces harassing all movements with great effect."

Scores of new prisoners were taken north of Cisterna including the second regimental commander and the staff of the Nazi 362nd Division.

CCF Manifesto Outlines Party Platform

REGINA, May 27 — (CP) — Plans of the C.C.F. Party if elected to power in the June 15 Saskatchewan election were outlined yesterday in a manifesto issued from Party headquarters here.

The Party program calls for economic planning "based on human needs and social justice" and directed for the "good of all people."

The C.C.F. will co-operate with the Dominion Government and other provinces in the war effort, and "will use its power to ensure that while men are defending democracy abroad economic dictatorship shall not be established at home," said the manifesto.

It outlined post-war reconstruction plans — a four-point land policy, a program to guarantee all Saskatchewan children equal educational facilities, increased health and social service, and a labor policy guaranteeing the "democratic rights" of the worker, including the principle of collective bargaining.

The manifesto says that the land policy will (1) Stop all foreclosures and evictions from farm homes, (2) protect from seizure that portion of the farmers crop needed for family use; (3) Moratorium, if necessary, to reduce farm debts, and (4) to prevent further accumulation of debt by inserting a crop failure clause in all contracts and agreements of sale.

"The public is continually told that the C.C.F. intends to take ownership of farms, but this is absolutely untrue, always was untrue and always will be untrue," the manifesto added.

Oil Resources

Munitions Minister Howe said that other companies would have the same rights as Imperial Oil to explore for oil in the northwest. Canada at present was "begging" for oil, for she produced less than 17 per cent of what she required. The reception given her by other countries when she asked them to share their oil would not be so cordial if they knew she had large petroleum deposits within her own area she was not attempting to develop.

If Canada could develop large oil supplies in the northwest she could ship them to the Pacific and trade them with the United States for supplies to be delivered to Canada in eastern markets. The ultimate objective of northern oil exploration was to make Canada independent in oil supplies.

Unrest Exists

When the session opened, Mr. Howe said that unrest in munitions plants was caused by statements of public men about the closing down of plants, when there was no foundation for them. Questions about closing plants should not be asked in the House before a member had found out privately whether there was some truth in the report.

The minister made the comment in answering an inquiry by S. H. Knowles (C.C.F.—Winnipeg North Centre) on a report that MacDonald Brothers Aircraft plant in Winnipeg was laying off workers. Mr. Howe quoted a statement by the company that the report was "entirely wrong."

The House approved a bill granting $46,331,283 in interim supply to maintain government services until the budget and other provision of moneys for 1944-45 are passed.

Answering J. G. Diefenbaker (P.C.—Lake Centre), Labor Minister Mitchell said no change was contemplated at the moment in the system of calling up men for compulsory military services.

British Columbia members said the Dominion should complete a road to Prince Rupert, B.C., built as a defence project and on which the Dominion already had spent more than $10,000,000.

Miller Denies Allegations Re High Profit

OTTAWA, May 27—(CP).—Resources Minister Crerar said yesterday in the House of Commons that his department had no information as to whether H. C. Miller, an employee of the Prices Board, had made a profit from his fluorspar mine at Madoc, Ont., which was developed on money advanced by the Government.

Mr. Crerar had said last night he would attempt to find for G. S. White (P.C., Hastings-Peterborough), if Mr. Miller made any profit.

Mr. White had said that Mr. Miller made between $10,000 and $25,000 profit during eight to 10 months' operation of the mine. He said Mr. Miller had received advances of about $35,000 from the Government and had repaid a little more than $7000.

The Minister had said the agreement was entered into with Mr. Miller when fluorspar was desperately needed. The advances had been made but were being repaid, and in the meantime the Government held a claim on the assets of the mine.

Earlier Mr. Miller denied statements by Mr. White that he had made $10,000 to $25,000 profit.

Mr. Miller said in an interview that actually the property, yielding only low-grade ore, had been "down thousands and thousands of dollars in the past month" and had become so unprofitable he was considering closing it.

He said Mr. White's statements, made Thursday night in the House of Commons, were not "altogether disinterested," and claimed the member was the solicitor for an estate collecting royalties from the mine over which there had been a dispute.

Mr. Miller, engaged in the mining field in Toronto before he came to Ottawa two years ago to become Prices Board director of natural varnish resins said an advance of $34,196 made to him to develop the property, at Madoc, Ont., had the "full approval" of the Mines and Resources Department and the "backing" of the Munitions Department.

How his travel intentions might coincide with the invasion timetable remains completely obscure. The secrecy concerning the invasion has not let up. Nor has Mr. Roosevelt's deliberate ambiguity about his planned travels.

Several current factors have suggested that the President might want to make the trip, one being the forthcoming visit of Gen. Charles de Gaulle head of the French Committee of National Liberation, to London for conferences with Mr. Churchill.

Hunger Grows Across Rome

LONDON, May 27 (CP-Reuters)—The situation in Rome is deteriorating daily and 2,000 inhabitants are starving, reports from Chiasso on the Italian-Swiss frontier received in London via Bern, said yesterday.

The reports said the food situation was one of the authorities' most difficult problems, as all the railway stations, even on the outskirts of Rome, had been put out of action.

"Thefts and robberies in the city can no longer be counted," these reports added.

Reports from the Swiss frontier reaching London by way of Stockholm stated that Allied prisoners of war who have escaped are hiding in the Catacombs of Rome.

Help the Young People To Health - Happiness

What a common sight to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidences of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anæmic nature and require a preparation containing iron to improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system and helping to improve the blood content.

8,000 Planes Batter 5 Countries

Aircraft Factories Deep In Poland Hit By 2,200 Planes

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 29—(AP). — A thousand heavy American bombers and 1,200 fighters spanned the length of Germany today, bombing two aircraft factories in Poland and four in central and eastern Germany, while other fleets struck up from the south at the Vienna and Wiener Neustadt areas.

As the stunning day of bombardment drew to dusk, it appeared the Allies might have sent out another fleet as large as the record number of 8,000 warplanes which flew Sunday from British and Italian bases.

Today's raiders bombed the invasion coasts of France and Belgium, strafed the front lines in Italy and reached deep inside Germany, Poland and Austria to tear up hide-away plants of the German aircraft industry.

The Polish factories were at Poznan and Kriesing. Those in Germany were at Leipzig, Tutow, Cottbus and Scrau. The flight to Poznan entailed a round trip of at least 1,450 miles.

The raiding fleet equalled that of yesterday, which was the largest ever dispatched by the U.S. air forces, and followed a powerful R.A.F. night blow at French rail targets and Ludwigshafen, Germany.

Bitter Fighting Continues At Myitkyina

KANDY, Ceylon, May 29 (AP)—Chinese and American forces have penetrated into the southern part of Myitkyina, bitterly-defended Japanese main base in North Burma, a Southeast Asia headquarters communique said today.

The announcement said one Chinese column, swinging up from the Zeygun Ferry, had stormed into the city and advanced to a point about 800 yards from the main railway station.

It was the first notable advance reported by the Allies in the battle of Myitkyina in several days. Yesterday's war bulletin failed to mention the situation around the city, about one-third of which previously had been reported in Allied hands.

Today's communique also announced a Chinese column moving down the Mogaung Valley had captured the village of Charaw north of Kamaing, about 40 miles west of Myitkyina.

The bulletin acknowledged, however, that British air-borne troops had withdrawn from their positions astride the enemy's communication line southwest of Mogaung, about 15 miles south and slightly east of Kaimaing.

The Chindits had held a position southwest of Mogaung since last March, blocking the Mandalay-Myitkyina Railway. A southeast Asia command communique said they had retired after five days of heavy fighting with reinforced Japanese units. These airborne troops have been operating behind the Japanese 18th Division which, in turn, faces the Chinese in the Mogaung Valley.

Penetrating into the southern end of Myitkyina, Chinese and American troops were said to have cut the Japanese exit in that direction after two days of fighting.

Aided by clear weather, Allied aircraft supported the fighting around this bitterly contested enemy base where an enemy westward thrust, apparently by a force attempting to reinforce the Myitkyina garrison, was met with heavy losses, the war bulletin said. Allied artillery shelled Japanese transport in a northern sector of the town.

Japanese near Njip, north of Myitkyina, were ambushed by levies from the north.

Ecuador Torn By Revolution

QUITO, Ecuador, May 29 (AP)—A revolution broke out today among military forces and civilians.

The movement was led by supporters of Velasco Ibarra, former president who is in exile and has been living near the Ecuadorean border in Colombia.

Ecuador is amid a heated presidential campaign, with elections scheduled June 2-3. Some groups opposing the present regime desired Velasco Ibarra to return to the country as a candidate, but the government refused him a visa from Chile. Velasco Ibarra then went to Colombia, where he previously lived several years in exile.

The Liberal candidate in the elections is Miguelangel Albornoz, who is opposed by the Velasco Ibarra forces.

Long Tunnel Used In Prison Break

German Officials At Camp Court Martialled

LONDON, May 29.—(CP Cable.)—Allied airmen, including Canadians, who escaped from Stalag Luft 3 in March made their getaway from the German prison camp in Silesia through a 450-foot tunnel which took 15 months of secret digging, according to a dispatch to the Daily Telegraph to-day from its Stockholm correspondent, Ossian Goulding.

Goulding's story in which he credited the information to "a friend from Breslau," was described by the newspaper in an editor's note as "the first full and authentic account of reports current in Silesia" on the mass escape attempted by 76 airmen. Forty-seven of them, including six Canadians, were killed afterwards by the Germans.

The dispatch said the camp was at Sagan in Silesia and the escape was organized by a wing commander who in peacetime was an engineer. The escape produced excitement in which "the entire province of Silesia became a mad house," the dispatch added.

Goulding quoted a Breslau resident as saying that a few days after the escape the population heard that the German camp commandant and the entire contingent on duty the night of the escape were removed in disgrace and either shot or sent to penal battalions.

One at Time.

The dispatch said that according to his friend's account the airmen crawled through the tunnel singly at regular intervals synchronized with the movement of sentries and the sweeping of searchlights past the exit.

Dewey Admits Some Interest

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

HERSHEY, Pa., May 29—(AP).—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York came closer last night to saying he is a willing candidate for the Republican presidential nomination than at any time since the drive in his behalf began nearly two years ago.

Here for the 36th Governors' Conference, he told nearly 100 newsmen at an interview that he is doing nothing to discourage talk that he is leading in the pre-convention delegate contest, that this talk has "gone beyond the rumor stage," and he expects to have some suggestions for the Republican platform to be adopted at Chicago next month.

Earlier, while touring an army camp, Gov. Dewey was asked by a soldier: "Governor, are you going to run for President in 1944 or 1948?"

"I guess I don't have any control over that," he replied.

Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, second in pledged and claimed delegate strength for the G.O.P. nomination, at a press conference before Gov. Dewey arrived yesterday, challenged those who aspire to presidential office to come out in the open and discuss issues.

Reporter Wins Tilt With Irate Colonel

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LIVERPOOL, May 29—(CP Cable)—Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London, was brushed aside yesterday by a Lieutenant Colonel as he spoke to this reporter at the pier where 627 British and 11 Canadian prisoners of war, who had been exchanged for German prisoners, were being landed.

Mr. Massey and Maj. Gen. C. B. Price, Canadian Red Cross Commissioner in London, were talking to me when the lieutenant-colonel intervened. Mr. Massey had crossed from Belfast on the ship which brought the prisoners to Liverpool to be with his son, Capt. Lionel Massey, one of the prisoners.

The repatriated prisoners were not permitted to talk to reporters and the officer refused to listen to Mr. Massey's explanation that he was not one of the prisoners. The officer said: "You can't speak to this woman."

Previously Mr. Massey had told me he had spoken to all the Canadians taken off at Belfast and added they were all well. The prisoners were taken to Belfast from Barcelona in the exchange liner Gripsholm, which subsequently sailed for North America carrying 48 other Canadians and a number of American prisoners of war.

After interrupting Mr. Massey's talk with me, the lieutenant-colonel had me escorted out of the roped-off area where the prisoners of war were being welcomed back. As this took place, Canadians aboard the ship—who were watching the scene—shouted uncomplimentary remarks at the irate officer and demanded

Forest Fire Unchecked At Algonquin

114 Bush Fires Now Raging Across Ontario

TORONTO, May 29 —(CP)—Ten forest fires of the 114 reported in Ontario in the last week are still out of control while 16 others "are being held," Frank McDougall, deputy minister of lands and forests for Ontario, said today. Fires are being reported at the rate of 12 to 20 a day.

The 10 fires still burning unchecked are in the North Bay, Sudbury, Algonquin Park and Timmins areas. Two thousand men are engaged in fighting the outbreaks, sawmills and mines having suspended operations in affected areas to provide the necessary firefighters. All planes of the Ontario provincial air service are in use and commercial aircraft have also been engaged where possible. Six to seven commercial planes are being used in the Sudbury district alone, flying men and equipment to fires.

Mr. McDougall said the fire hazard is extremely high all through the province, being at its worst in the eastern section where the bush is "practically inflammable."

He said the worst fire was in the Gowganda section near Sudbury.

Weather probabilities today held no hope of rain in the eastern part of the province although thunder showers were predicted for northwestern Ontario.

Quebec forestry officials also expressed alarm at the fire hazard and firefighters battled to control more than 100 blazes in an area extending from near the Ontario border eastward to Lasalle in the north and from the Ontario border eastward to Senneterre. Fires were "spreading alarmingly" in various sections, officials said.

Forestry officials in British Columbia, hampered by dry, hot weather also are experiencing difficulty in controlling raging fires between Prince George and the Yukon border where a 70,000-square-mile area

4 Strongholds Guarding Rome Battered by Allied Armies

3 German Divisions Decimated 15,000 Prisoners

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NAPLES, May 29—(AP). — Fifth Army troops stormed toward four Rome-line strongholds against fierce resistance today, thrusting one wedge within 17 miles of the Eternal City, while the British 8th Army pushed ahead in the Liri and Sacco Valleys to the southeast.

The 8th Army, including the Canadian Corps, was breaking down German rearguard stands after the Canadians captured Ceprano, on Highway 6, and the Liri River, yesterday.

Headquarters said three of 18 German divisions engaged in battle had been virtually destroyed in the broad offensive launched May 11, with more than 15,000 prisoners taken.

Overwhelming Aprilia, once bitterly-contested beachhead fortress, the 5th punched north within a mile of Compoleone—the closest penetration toward Rome. To the east the 5th Army advanced within 2,000 yards of Valmontone, on the shell-torn Via Cacilina, despite flame-throwing German counter-assaults.

Steady artillery fire was pumped onto the Via Casilina, main escape route for eight German divisions being forced back on the front to the southeast by the 8th Army.

In between on the Campoleone-Valmone line, other forces fought in the outskirts of Velletri on the Appian Way, and closed upon Lanuvia, four miles southwest, where the Alban hills begin to rise from the Pontine plain.

Sunday Raids Rip Oil Plants

LONDON, May 29 — (AP). — Fiery and explosive blows to a dozen German targets were delivered on Sunday by the largest American force yet dispatched. Targets included five synthetic oil plants around Leipzig, Dresden and Magdesburg in the heart of the Central Reich, a United States communique said.

Extensive fires and explosions were recorded in fuel factories at Ruhland, Lutzkendorf, Merseburg, Magdeburg and Zeitz. The German army tank and armored vehicle plants at Konigsborn suffered "heavy and extensive damage" with all principal buildings hit, the communique said.

Other damage was done by the 1,000 bombers and 1,200 convoying fighters at a Junkers aircraft engine factory at Leipzig-Taucha; at Zwickau where rail yards and the airdrome were bombed; at the Brandis-Pleng airdrome near Leipzig; and at the railroad yards east of Berlin at Frankfurt and at Cologne.

Canadian bomber group planes were not involved in last nights assaults, their main activity being minelaying.

Weather Perfect For Invasion Tension Grows

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—German broadcasts reflected increased tension in Marshal Von Rundstedt's entire invasion front facing this troop-packed island today as temperatures over the glassy Strait of Dover reached an unofficial 100 degrees shortly before noon.

Nazi commentators claimed the Allies had missed one favorable invasion date when the tides and weather were perfect and cried out: "Germany would prefer for the invasion to come today rather than tomorrow."

This suggested enemy defences at least once already had been brought to a nerve-wracking peak of alertness, only to find that Hitler's command had guessed wrong.

Britain Missed?

"It is no longer a secret that the British have already missed one invasion date," the German Trans-ocean Agency said, quoting a foreign office spokesman. D.N.B., the official enemy agency, said "there can be no doubt that the original date fixed for invasion has passed but there are so many symptoms and speculations in connection with the next date that Germany cannot possibly be taken by surprise."

The Swiss newspaper, Gazette de Lausanne, gave a new clue to the defence problem of Von Rundstedt, complicated by railroads tangled and snarled by profusions of Allied bombs. The newspaper said there was increasing fear of a general D-day strike of French railroad workers that the Nazis were sending in more key transportation officials and workers for key posts.

Canadian Troops Continue To Push Huns Back

By DOUG HOW,
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, May 29 —(CP Cable) — The vital road junction of Ceprano taken after a stiff fight with the Germans, Ontario and Maritime infantry of the Canadian Division, commanded by Maj.-Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister were reported last night moving toward the town of Pofi, about midway between Ceprano and the big town of Frosinone.

Pofi is five miles west of Ceprano and slightly south of the Cassino-Rome highway which runs through Ceprano and Frosinone.

The Canadians continued to advance yesterday after a temporary setback following the fall of Ceprano when excessive shell and mortar fire forced Ontario troops to fall back to the outskirts of the town.

Bridge Under Fire.

The enemy is still falling back today, relying mainly on guns and mortars to delay the Canadians. In Ceprano the Germans threw in some armor and infantry, seeking to halt the advance.

On the flank of the Canadian infantry, Ontario reconnaisance troops crossed the river Sacco southwest of Ceprano. The Sacco flows into the Liri at a big water reservoir which lies three miles southeast of Ceprano. In the advance through this reservoir area,

Fighting Flares Along Dnestr

LONDON, May 29 (CP)—Bursts of fighting on the Lower Dnestr and the White Russian fronts, where localized German attacks were reported repulsed, were announced by Moscow today, but the general situation on the long-dormant eastern front remained unchanged over the week-end, a Soviet communique said.

Northwest of Tiraspol on the Lower Dnestr, the bulletin reported, the Germans attempted a reconnaissance in force but were thrown back wtih heavy losses by withering Russian fire.

The Russians said they had shot down 16 enemy planes yesterday and credited patrol ships of the Soviet Baltic fleet with sinking a Nazi submarine in the Gulf of Finland.

Britain Gets All The Facts

Prison Camp Shooting Believed Aired

LONDON, May 29—(CP Cable)—The British goverment today was believed to being possession of the full facts surrounding the shooting to death of 47 R.A.F. airmen, including six Canadians, in a German prison camp March 25.

Flt. Lt. Jimmy Grocott, 42-year-old New Zealander who was at the camp at the time of shootings, was met yesterday by foreign office officials when he came off a ship which carried repatriated prisoners to Liverpool. He talked for two hours to these officials and British security officers.

Newspapermen were separated from Grocott and other military men being repatriated by medical orderlies and military police who barred the returning men from being interviewed.

But a reporter shouted at Grocott: "Were you at the camp when the shooting took place?"

Grocott, who comes from Auckland, shouted back: "I certainly was."

Strike Situation Improves

7,300 Workers In Chrysler Plant Return

DETROIT, May 29. — (AP).—Michigan's labor crisis eased to-day with an end to the Chrysler "rebel" strike in Detroit and restoration of operations at Saginaw plants of General Motors which had been crippled by a fight over a no-smoking rule. Some 7,300 workers have been affected.

As peace was established in these two instances, however, a new war plant strike took place in Detroit while bakery truck drivers in Detroit and drug workers at Parke Davis & Co. here continued their walkouts. Altogether 4,400 men and women were involved.

The new strike closed the main plant of the Federal Mogul Company, halting production of engine bearings. Representatives of Local 202 United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), said 1,500 men quit in protest of the firing of two union stewards.

Reasons for the discharges were not disclosed. The company made no immediate statement.

Aprilia Taken; Casualties Mount Steadily

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

APRILIA, Italy, May 28—(Delayed)—(AP)—The red stone Christ looks down from Aprilia's ruined church tonight on fresh blood spilled at this ghastly milestone on the Allied road to Rome.

The dust and stench of cordite are drifting away after a crashing German bombardment, and Cpl. William Sweeney of Liverpool, England, who fought at El Alamein in North Africa, has just carried a wounded Tommy out of the rubble.

Aprilia was in German hands last night. It was a no man's land this morning. At 3 p.m. it fell to British troops when Maj. Henry W. King of Burton-On-Trent, Derbyshire, sent his riflemen into its mutilated streets.

Ironically, this model village of Fascism, which has changed hands five times since the Anzio beachhead was establishd and has cost the lives of thousands of Allied and German soldiers, was occupied without a hand-to-hand struggle.

Eighteen miles away lies Rome, and the offensive is rolling onward.

I reached Aprilia across two miles of flat, open fields, thick with red poppies and ripening grain, by hugging the bottom of drainage ditches which crude wooden crosses bore British, American and German names. Shells gave little sighs passing overhead and mortar explosions grunted in the distance.

To the Anglo-American troops who first captured Aprilia in January and lost it the last time Feb. 5, it always was known as "the factory" because it resembled an industrial plant in outline.

Battered by hundreds of heavy bombers and shelled daily for more than four months, Aprilia no longer has a tower or a roof to any of its buildings. Every wall is shell-torn. Each street is pitted with craters.

Aprilia was dedicated to Fascism less than a decade ago. Now the town is dead.

Allies Invade Biak Island

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, May 29 —(AP)—Allied troops pressed forward on Biak Island off the Netherlands New Guinea coast today against increasing Japanese efforts to trip up the invaders in their latest 200-mile stride toward the Phillipines.

A communique reported the Allies have consolidated their positions around Bosnek, captured shortly after the naval and air-supported landings Saturday three miles east of the town, and were reaching for Mokmer airfield 2½ miles away.

Mokmer airfield, four miles west of Bosnek, is one of three airstrips on Biak, largest island in the Schoute group. Capture of the fields will put Allied bombers only 880 miles from the southern tip of the Philippines and 600 miles south of Paulal, the enemy's South Seas headquarters in the Western Carolines.

The Japanese were bitterly defending the prize, their snipers taking a rising toll, a headquarters spokesman said.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur described the Biak landings as virtually concluding the Allied campaign for New Guinea. The thrust was 280 miles west of Wadke Island, which had fallen under the Allied invasion wave May 16.

ALLIED MIGHT GATHERS FOR NEW SMASHES—A spectacular phase of the current drive in Italy centred around the Pontecorvo area. There (2) the Canadian Corps of the Eighth Army tore a huge gap in the Hitler line above Pontecorvo where the enemy was outflanked. The inset gives a close-up of this mountain-hemmed valley stretch, where, according to radio reports, the largest artillery force seen on any front outside of Russia since the outbreak of the war is gathered. In the five-mile area between Aquino and Pontecorvo—shown in the inset—the report said, 2,500 pieces of artillery had been crammed for a great drive. In the same big action U.S. troops and British troops of the Anzio beachhead (1) drove the Nazis from the Pontine Marshes and formed a junction with the Fifth Army from the main Italian front. With the Appian Way escape route now cut off and the Pontecorvo area crashing, the enemy's plight becomes steadily worse.

German Raiders Kill 12 In Hotel

LONDON, May 29 — (CP) — Twelve out of 26 patrons of a south coast hotel were killed by a direct hit in a German raid Sunday night.

Several south coast communities, their names not officially announced, were attacked. The German radio said the main targets were Torquay and Brighton, resort cities.

In houses near the hotel a woman and child in a basement were blown through the wall into the next house, a dentist's quarters was blown up by another direct hit and two children, six and nine years old were trapped.

lighter Allied craft struck heavily and repeatedly today at the French invasion coast, bombing bridges, railroads and airdromes.

The attacking heavy bombers split into several spearheads in efforts to confound the enemy defences. The German radio reported the fleets engaged in a number of sky battles.

Enemy broadcasts said another Allied fleet was striking in the "Lower Danube Basin" from Italy.

A Hot Day.

The operations on this hot, summery day were in force comparable to yesterdays great outpouring, when 6,000 bombers and fighters flew from British bases and 2,000 more struck from Italy, chiefly at the Italian battle area.

Kreisling is five miles south-east of Poznan where the heavy bombers have battered aircraft factories before. Tutow also has been bombed before. Leipzig, Cottbus, and Sorau all are in the very heart of Central Germany between 100 and 130 miles south of Berlin. Poznan is 50 miles inside the Polish border

Seven heavy bombers were forced to land in Sweden, Stockholm dispatches said.

Germany was on the alert almost continuously throughout the day. The "achtung" warnings started cluttering the enemy air waves a couple of hours after dawn and it was not until 4 p.m. that the enemy could assert that the Reich was "Clear of enemy planes." Then, an hour later, the networks warned of "single enemy raiders over south-west Germany."

Wounded HPE Soldier Stays With Regiment

A former member of the Prince of Wales Rangers (C.A.), Pte. Reginald Kenneth White was wounded in action in Italy on May 17, but has remained on duty with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

The young soldier is the son of Mrs. N. White, 515 Bonaccord street. He enlisted with the Rangers in 1942 and some months later went overseas as a reinforcement. Pte. White has been in Italy since last September and was formerly employed at the De Laval Company.

Canadian engineers built a bridge under enemy shell fire.

In other sectors of the British 8th Army front, British troops are moving on Arce, meeting strong German opposition. Arce lies on the main Cassino-Rome Highway, as does Ceprano, but it is farther from Rome than Ceprano. The highway—the via Cassilina—turns southwest between Arce and Ceprano, which are four miles apart, then turns northwest again to run through Frosinone and Valmontone to the Italian capital.

Close on Ceccano

French troops, which form part of the 5th army, were reported today to be closing in on the town of Caccano, five miles due south of Frosinone. Indian troops of the 8th Army continued a mopping-up campaign, moving through the Monte Orio area.

Six miles north of Cassino, New Zealanders of the 8th Army captured the mountain town of Belmonte-Castello and other high points from which the Germans had directed heavy artillery fire during the siege of Cassino.

Canadian formations made twin thrusts Saturday in actions which led to the fall of Ceprano. One thrust was aimed at the town itself The other at Highway No. 6 between Ceprano and Arce.

Maritime and Ontario infantry supported by Maritime tanks, led the northern drive, operating north of the San Giovanni reservoir which is southeast of the road junction town. South of the reservoir French-speaking and more Maritime infantry were astride the Liri River Ontario reconnaissance troops were moving ahead of them.

IODE President Calls For Empire Unity

Morale Of Hun A irmen Sagging

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH A CANADIAN FIGHTER WING IN BRITAIN, May 29 (CP-Cable)—Germany undoubtedly is increasing her air strength along the European invasion coast as the day of Allied assault upon Hitler's fortress approaches, with the greatest concentration probably in northern France. But competent observers agree the Luftwaffe is only defeating itself by remaining relatively inactive.

Doomed to defeat physically when the full Allied air arm is unleashed, the Luftwaffe also is defeating itsel morally. The morale of German airmen cannot be otherwise than low and the resistance they will be able to muster in the face of the overwhelming aerial armadas of the Allies can only be fanatical and therefore not as effective as a methodical, planned defence.

Contrast the average Canadian or other Allied fighter pilot with his German counterpart. The German, on the other hand, must stand on the ground and watch his opponents come and go almost at will over enemy territory. If he is allowed to venture into the air he can be reasonably sure he will be spotted and attacked by an Allied fighter.

While the German is sitting on the ground watching Allied air activity overhead he has lots of time to consider the fact that the British 2nd Tactic Air Force is the largest collection of fighter and fighter-bomber aircraft ever assembled. Observers believe it will take command of the air over whatever section of the continent is to be invaded probably on the first day, certainly after two days.

A commentator has said:—

"Our victory may be dearly bought. But it's in no doubt. Our losses will be not be crippling. German losses on the other hand can mean the end of the Luftwaffe as a fighting force."

New Corvette Peterborough Is Christened

KINGSTON, Ont., May 29.—(Special to The Examiner.)3—H.M.C.S. "Peterborough," the corvette sponsored by the city of Peterborough, was duly christened at a ceromny held at the plant of the Kingston Shipbuilding Company when a bottle of champagne was broken on the bow of the ship. Mrs. Edward Evans, a sister of Llewellyn Evans of Peterborough, who lost his life with the sinking of H.M.C.S. "St. Croix," christened the ship.

A rather peculiar incident occurred during the cermony when Mrs Evans tossed the bottle of champagne, which was attached to a colored string against the ship, and to her amazement the bottle bounced back like a rubber ball; the second time she put more weight behind the throw and the bottle broke and some of the contents spashed on her dress.

H.M.C.S. "Peterborough" was launched at the shipyards on the morning of January 15 last, but on account of the cold weather it was impossible to perform the christening ceremony at that time. The dedication ceremony will take place in the very near future at Cobourg when the ship makes a special trip to to that point.

T. G. Bishop, general manager of the shipbuilding company told the small gathering which was present for the ceremony, that no better ship had left the shipyards, and he was sure the "Peterborough" would bring credit to the city which sponsored it.

Citizens Honored.

Mayor James Hamilton, of Peterborough, said that the city of Peterborough was honored in being privileged to sponsor such an excellent ship and that citizens would watch the movement of the sturdy vessel as she took her part in the diferent battles of the war.

"We are happy to know that the ship was built in Kingston, and we sincerely hope that the officers and members of its crew will soon return to their homes after helping to bring this war to a successful close."

Lt. Cmdr. Hugh Plaxton, commanding officer of H.M.C.S. "Cataraqui" led in the cheering of giving three cheers for the officers and crew of the ship.

Presentation Made.

Following the ceremony the small group adjourned to the wardroom of the naval craft where a presentation of an engraved sterling silver tray was made to Mrs. Evans by Mr. Bishop on behalf of the builders.

Lt. Jack Raine, commanding officer of the ship who is a native of Peterborough, and a shipmate of the late Llewellyn Evans, who lost his life as a result of enemy action, thanked Mr. Bishop for kindnesses shown and said: "If we can do as good a job as the shipbuilders have done in making this ship, we will be alright."

Lt. William Osteler, Victoria, B.C., is the second in command.

Included in the Peterborough delegation were Mrs. F. Merritt, Mayor James Hamilton, Aledrman A. Sands and Mrs. Edward Evans.

tance from the camp told by Breslau friend he heard no sound of firing from the vicinity of Stalag Luft 3 on that night," the correspondent wrote. "This proves the officers were not shot while trying to run from the guards in the few hours of darkness still left after the tunnel was discovered."

Goulding asked why two-thirds of the escaping officers were killed in the case of Stalag Luft 3 whereas all over Germany hundreds of others have been recaptured in similar circumstances without the slightest injury.

He concluded: "No definite accusation against the Nazis of cruel and meaningless murder can yet be made nor is one being made."

Tpr. Art Roode Wounded By Mortar Fire

Overlooked somehow in the official casualty records, a shrapnel injury to Trooper R. Arthur Roode, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Roode, 247 Westcott Street, in heavy mortar fire that overturned the tank in which he was making a reconnaissance patrol on the Italian front, was reported to his parents in his sequent letters during hospital and convalescence treatment.

"It happened about the first of April, according to the news we received in Arthur's letters," Mr. Roode informed the Examiner today. "He mentioned it as a 'motor accident,' and he explained that they were out on a morning reconnaissance patrol when they ran into heavy mortar fire. A shell hit the light tank in which Arthur was riding, and bowled it over. In that action he was hit by shrapnel in the left shoulder, and was removed to a hospital back of the lines where he received treatment until the end of the month. He was then sent to a convalescent camp. The complete news did not reach us until his most recent letter reached us on May 13. He said he was making good progress and was anxious to get back into action.'

In Armored Corps.

Trooper Roode is attached to the Canadian Armored Division on the Italian front. He enlisted at the age of seventeen on April 13, 1943, took his training course at Ottawa and Dundurn, Sask., and went overseas last November.

Two other sons of Mr. and Mrs. Roode are in the Royal Canadian Navy, Leading SA. William J. Roode, two and a half years in the service, and AB. Don F. Roode, who is on active service.

"When Arthur reached England he was keen to meet Bill, who, he heard, was then over there somewhere. Finally they met and were together on a seventy-two hour leave last February, and immediately after that leave Arthur was sent to Italy."

Mr. Roode reminded the Examiner that Arthur is another of the Examiner carrier boys now on active service.

"Naturally it was a great surprise to us when we learned from Arthur that he had been injured in action," Mr. Roode remarked. "We don't know how it could happen that no official notification came to us, but since then I have heard of one other case like that."

Corvette Crew Guests At Dance

The public reception of officers and ratings of the corvette "Peterborough" at the Ashburnham bowl this evening will follow the hour's program announced at the week-end.

Arriving at the C.N.R. at 5:25 p.m. from Port Hope, the officers and crew who will sail the ship to Halifax for its final complement will parade from the C.N.R. station at 6 p.m., accompanied by the local Sea Cadets band and the Air Cadets and their band.

Mayor Hamilton will greet the visitors on behalf of the citizens, and immediately after that salute of welcome a presentation of personal comforts will be made by G. A. Macdonald and Gordon Miller.

The reply to the civic welcome will be expressed by Lieutenant Jack Raine, Captain of the "Peterborough."

Twenty minutes have been set apart for citizens to mingle with the officers and crew and meet personally the men who are going to take the city's namesake ship to sea.

Dine at Kawartha

The ship's company will be dinner guests at the Kawartha Club beginning at 7:30 p.m., and the evening will close with a dance at the Club after nine o'clock. The public generally is invited to attend the dance which has been arranged as a feature of social mingling and introduction of the officers and men to the citizens whom they are to represent. There is no admission charge to this dance.

The crew will spend the night at the local military training centre, and will have Tuesday morning to their leisure about the city, leaving on the noon train for Port Hope.

2 Bombs Barely Miss Sgt. K. Spence

LINDSAY May 29 (ENS)—Only good luck saved the life of Sgt. Kennedy Spence during a bombing raid on London, and resulted in his being able to greet his wife and three children upon his arrival home, here, Saturday. The 40-year-old soldier was standing in the lobby of a London theatre when it was struck directly with a bomb. Partly stunned with the concussion he started running across the street and was halfway across when a Milk Bar to which he was going was also struck by a bomb.

Laying on the tram car tracks halfway between each building Sgt. Spence escaped injuries but hundreds of people within a hundred yards of each side of him were killed and maimed. "The screams of the women and children were terrible," Spence states, "and my own nerves received a shock from which I never recovered and resulted in my being invalided home to Canada."

Sgt. Spence worked for Purity Bakeries and in the locomotive shop of the C.N.R. at Lindsay before enlisting with the 56th Field Battery in April, 1942. He received basic training at Peterborough and advance training at Petawawa, going overseas in August, 1943. "I enlisted because I thought it was my duty to do my own fighting for my wife and children," he said, "and I can honestly say that it is pretty difficult for anyone around 40 years of age to stand up to the shocks of the present method of warfare."

Like Veterans

"It is a battle between young men and I was amazed to see young chaps of 18 and 20 years bearing themselves like veterans and acting as if they did not have a nerve in their bodies. I was sorry to be invalided home for when you get so far with the prospects of being in at the finish you would like to see it through."

Commenting upon the attitude of British civilians towards colonial soldiers, Sgt. Spence especially praised the people of Scotland. "They could not possibly be more gracious or hospitable," he said. "They would stop you on the street and ask if you had a place to stay for your leave and although they were severely rationed they were only too willing to divide with soldier guests. All Canadians I spoke to said they received the same treatment and a trip to Scotland was considered the best leave possible.

"English people were also very good to us, he said, "but they have so many troubles and sorrows of their own and see so many soldiers that they cannot look after them all. There are great armies of Americans in England now and while they are regarded as fine fellows, they are mainly distinguished for their wealth. The poorly paid English soldier boy regards with envy the American displaying large wads of pound notes. Everyone is waiting for the invasion and it is the general feeling that it won't be long. There is no doubt in the people's minds as to the outcome of the war now but they would like to get it over as soon as possible."

Lower Saxony Battered On Weekend

Dogfights Numerous As Nazis Battle Invaders

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 29—(AP).—Allied bombers drove deep across Germany today to its farthest reaches of Lower Saxony and Pomerania, Berlin radio reported, while another fleet struck up from Italy into the Danube area in a two-way blow.

The Germans said heavy air battles were fought, with fighters striking through Allied escort screens into the bomber formations.

The daylight assaults capped a night in which the R.A.F. kept the snowballing air offensive rolling unchecked by assaults on the northwestern French railroad centre of Angers, the German chemical city of Ludwigshafen, and other targets on the French coast.

New Objective.

The German radio reported that as the Allies' southern fleet — its bombing presumably accomplished—wheeled for home, bomber formations from Britain approached northwestern Germany. The broadcast added attacking fighter squadrons had swept into the southwestern portion of the Reich.

The R.A.F. operations last night, which also included mine-laying in enemy waters, cost one plane.

The railway centre at Angers—a new objective—was the main target of the British night bombers. The attack was reported heavy, although the Air Ministry indicated the force was not unusually large. It probably consisted of several hundred bombers.

The Nazi report of the incursion from the south into the Danube Basin toward Southeastern Germany indicated that Mediterranean Allied air force bombers may be on an operation like last Wednesday when they hit a number of objectives around Vienna.

Since dawn Saturday, exclusive of the latest night attack by British planes about 14,500 tons of bombs have been loosed by Allied planes on countless continental objectives by some 12,000 cories flown from both Britain and Italy.

2,200 Bombers Out.

This tempest of fire and steel saw the greatest American aerial armada ever sent on a single mission — a fleet of about 2,200 bombers and fighters — smash at synthetic oil plants and other installations in Central and Western Germany Sunday—heaviest single day in the Western European air war.

In all more than 6,000 warplanes roared out from British bases and

Small Boy Strays Away From His Home

Disappearance of a four-year-old boy from his home in the Burnham Point division of War Time Housing Sunday morning caused a large-scale search that was happily soon terminated by the finding of the little fellow on Water street. He had wandered away from home and crossed the C.P.R. footbridge in search of adventure on the west side of the river.

Meanwhile his family, neighbors, police and a squad of young boys who had been swimming at Mark street wharf all had been hunting for the missing child. It was feared that he might have fallen into the lake and the shore was searched all the way from bridge around to the easterly limit of the point property. At the same time all the available boats were pressed into service.

However, police eventually found the wanderer on the west side of the river and he was returned to his home.

Gnr. E. Haynes Invalided Home

COBOURG, May 29 (ENS)—The armed forces and the civilians in England are in the grip of "invasion fever" with the whole nation keyed up for the moment when the allied armies will storm the bastions of Hitler's Europe, declared Gunner Eddie Haynes, of Cobourg, recently-arrived home from Britain. Gunner Haynes was sent back on a hospital ship and will be discharged from the army because of a back ailment.

"I am only repeating what everyone over there knows. They have waited patiently a long time until they were prepared for the big moment of invasion and take it from me they are ready. Nothing has been left undone which would give the armed forces the necessary training for the invasion. I am sorry I had to come back just when things were ready to pop but orders are orders. It is one of the most impressive spectacles of the war to see the giant bombers and fighter planes roaring over towards Europe, loaded with bombs. They come and go in a steady stream and the damage they are causing must be enormous," Gunner Hayes declared.

Almost wherever he went, he came upon somebody from Cobourg. They seemed to be all over, he said.

Kept Up Hockey

Gunner Hayes played considerable hockey over there with an artillery team, going into the semi-finals. He could skate almost as soon as he could walk when he was a youngster, playing through church league and into the championship Cobourg juveniles. When he was stationed with the Ordnance Corps at Calgary he played on the Canadian Army Senior hockey team. He will be remembered in Cobourg a few years ago as one of the fastest players on skates.

Gunner Hayes was in the Ordnance Corps after his enlistment in August of 1942 until he saw he would not get overseas for an indefinite period and got a transfer to another unit when it was stationed in New Brunswick in July, 1943, going overseas almost immediately. While in England he was engaged in clerical work with the army until a back ailment sent him to hospital, after which he was sent back to Canada for discharge.

Pte. L. Bowman Killed In Italy

PLAINVILLE, May 29 (ENS) — The death in Italy of Pte. Lawrence Bowman, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Bowman near Baltimore was announced last week. His wife who is working in Toronto received this information.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman, Lawrence and their other sons had always lived at Plainville until moving to their new home near Baltimore a few days ago. Pte. Bowman enlisted while there. Besides his wife, small son, Ross, and his parents, he is also survived by three brothers, Pte. Keith Bowman in England, Alvin and Harold at home. Mrs. Ewart King, Fred and Edgar Bowman, all of Plainville are his aunt and uncles.

Canadian Knit Gloves Gratefully Received

BEWDLEY, May 29 (ENS) — Comforts made by civilians in Canada for the people overseas often take a long time for distribution, but go to men and women who need and appreciate them.

The following letter was received this week by Mrs. Well. Kennedy of Bewdley from Howell J. James, Y.M.C.A., Service Canteen, Reading, England.

"Recently I received a pair of woollen gloves from the British Seamen's Comforts Fund and on the inside I found a little tag with your address on.

I should like to send you my thanks and I am sure all the other fellows send theirs to the grand people like you who send these things. I should be very grateful to hear if you receive this letter. I am only 21 so I hope you do not think me impertinent in writing."

Three years ago at a War Workers party at Bewdley, the admission fee was a gift to be sent overseas through the I. O. D. E. It was at this time Mrs. Kennedy donated the woollen gloves which the young English man has recently received.

Kinsmen Work In United Effort

CAMPBELLFORD, May 27 (ENS) —A meeting under the auspices of the Kinsmen's Club was held at Villa Trent recently. Matt. Currie, president of the Belleville club, presided. In his address, he stated that there were now one hundred clubs in Canada, and that Tweed and Trenton reached their quota. He declared the Kinsmen were an all-Canadian organization devoted to a unified war effort that did not conflict in any way with others but worked in conjunction with them, following the old rule that many hands make the work lighter. A committee consisting of Jack Fink, Forrest Dennis and Roy Barnum was appointed to canvass the local situation with the view of forming a club in Campbellford.

A Survey For Peterborough

The Chamber of Commerce has decided to undertake a survey in this city and the surrounding district in order to discover what plans public and private, its citizens have for the immediate postwar period. This decision was strongly influenced by the success of a similar survey which was made recently in Kitchener-Waterloo. There, by means of co-operation among the service clubs, women's organizations and the local Chamber of Commerce, a good deal of information was gathered which cast light on the postwar employment prospects, farming prospects, industrial prospects, and municipal planning. It is expected that this information will be of great value in helping the community to co-ordinate its postwar activities.

We do not know precisely how the survey will be undertaken, but it will need careful organization if it is to be complete. Certainly the information gained in this way should be helpful in showing every citizen what his prospects after the war are likely to be. It will also be useful, we hope, in explaining to the community just how far our municipal planning has gone, and what prospect there is of any of our municipal plans being completed within the next two years. As this paper has said before, many of these plans still seem to be nebulous and are unlikely to make any progress whatever between the present time and the late autumn; our city, which is notably forehanded with its financial planning, is dilatory with planning of every other kind.

The survey will be a big undertaking, but it is of definite value and should reveal the postwar prospects of Peterborough in some detail. Of course the results of the survey cannot be guaranteed as a forecast of the future. The condition of the whole of Canada at the end of the war will determine what will happen here. But the survey will show us roughly what we may expect if conditions are reasonably favourable everywhere in Canada, and we cannot ask for anything more accurate than that.

The Saskatchewan Campaign

Campaigning for the provincial election in Saskatchewan is in full progress, both the Hon. W. J. Patterson and Mr. Tommy Douglas putting forward their claims to power with great enthusiasm. But whereas Mr. Patterson wants to discuss provincial issues and the past record of his government, Mr. Douglas wants to fight the provincial campaign on federal issues. Mr. Patterson refuses to make big promises to the electors; he points to a good record in the past and promises more good work in the future if circumstances permit. He knows that circumstances will only permit if the improvement in farm income which the war has brought can be maintained after the war; if farm incomes drop, the fortunes of Saskatchewan will drop with them. In short, Mr. Patterson makes no spectacular claims, and admits that the future is not completely under his control.

Not so Mr. Douglas. He insists, as his party invariably does, that unless there is a C.C.F. government in Saskatchewan at the end of the war, the province will immediately relapse into the depression which possessed it during the early thirties. The falsity of this stand is obvious. Saskatchewan at present is doing very well by exporting its produce; if it can continue to export, it will continue to do well, whatever government may be in power. But if its exports decline no party can do much about it. And this vital matter of import and export is not controlled by the province, but by the Dominion.

At present, however, there are signs of a vigorous recovery of world trade which could benefit this country enormously. Canada has undertaken to maintain her exports of bacon at their present high level for the next two years, and similar contracts for cheese and eggs are under consideration. These matters lie quite outside the control of the C.C.F. or the Liberal party in Saskatchewan, and the C.C.F. guarantee of prosperity is just so much hot air.

The Saskatchewan campaign will be significant as a sign of what may be expected in the approaching federal election, and the whole country will watch it closely. The C.C.F. which was born during a depression, and gained its sustenance from a depression, is working the depression bogey for all it is worth. How much that is, we shall see.

Y.M.C.A. Centenary

On June 6 of this year the Young Men's Christian Association will celebrate the hundredth anniversary of its foundation; the first Y.M.C.A. to appear in this country was that which was founded at Montreal in November, 1851. The founder of the first Y.M.C.A. was George Williams, a London draper's assistant, who gathered a group of young men about him for Bible study and prayer meetings; in the past century the Association has become international in its scope and although it has never relinquished its aim of inculcating Christian ideals it has enlarged its activities very markedly.

In the nineteenth century the Y.M.C.A. laid stress on two main lines of work, the religious and the physical. Its evangelical work was carried on with great earnestness, and to be a member of a Y.M.C.A. was a sign of unusual piety; physical training and games were also given great prominence in the Y.M.C.A. program and the expression "muscular Christianity" seemed to sum up its aims very neatly.

But during recent years there has been a noticeable change in Y.M.C.A. work. Religious and physical training are still important, but an intellectual branch of the program now rivals them in importance. Discussions, courses of study, and a field of work which, for want of a less pretentious word must be called 'cultural', have become exceedingly popular. The Y.M.C.A. may now be said to provide something of value to every boy within reach of one of its branches, and while he pursues his natural bent under its auspices, he also absorbs something of its atmosphere and influence.

Branches of the Y.M.C.A. vary greatly in 'tone', just as schools do. A good branch gives its members a training in working and playing together which is beneficial, and it may also be said to give them a social training which they cannot always hope to acquire in their public schools and collegiate institutes. The branch of the Y.M.C.A. which is maintained in this city does excellent and unobtrusive work in this direction, and its members are to be recognized by their courtesy and ease of manner.

The Y.M.C.A. has done notable work in the past, and is doing particularly fine work in this war. Its prospects for the century to come could hardly be brighter.

Firetraps

In spite of the rules about fire protection, and the periodical inspections which are insisted upon for all places of entertainment, there seem to be plenty of firetraps left in Canada. Last week a dancehall in Hamilton caught fire, and as it had only one staircase and no fire escape the seventy people who were inside had to leap thirty feet from the windows to the ground. An athlete might hurt himself badly jumping from such a place; these people were not athletes, and some of them did not jump—they were pushed by those who were crowding to the windows themselves. Seven people were killed and many were burned and hurt by the fall.

Now why was a dance being held in such a hall? It can never have passed a fire inspection, for it was an obvious firetrap. There is always a good deal of smoking at dances, and where people smoke there is danger of fire. If our fire regulations are strict enough, and if particular attention is given to public halls, how do these firetraps escape?

NOTE AND COMMENT

Courtship is the period when a girl wraps a man around her little finger before putting him under her thumb.

King Victor Emmanuel, says the New Yorker columnist, will be remembered as a man who began at the top and worked his way down.

The Brantford Expositor calls attention to the fact that two impersonators of American presidents in the movies are Canadians: Raymond Massey (now a citizen of the U.S.A.) played Abraham Lincoln on the screen, and in a film which will shortly be released Alexander Knox of Strathroy will play the leading role of Woodrow Wilson. We should like to add that Captain Jack Young of Norwood, another Canadian, appeared briefly as President F. D. Roosevelt in Yankee Doodle Dandy, bringing the number up to three.

Farming News and Views

By
HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

FARMERS whom I have talked with recently are greatly pleased with their pasture and hay fields. Grass has come along fine and some are wondering where to get cattle to eat it off. Feeder cattle are pretty stiff in price but while beef sells at 11 to 12 cents one must keep in mind the fact that 12 cents per lb. earned on grass by steers for their gain in weight makes quite a fair profit, even if the increase in the price per lb., at which they were bought, is only a small margin. Nearly every cattle feeder will tell you that he always makes more money when cattle are stiff in price and feed worth a good figure.

There are a great many cattle on grass in Ontario now and with plenty of feed and good fresh water these beasts will be working for their owners, either in putting on meat or furnishing a good supply of milk, so this is the time of the farmers' harvest until fall frosts drive the animals into shelter again.

THE grain difficulties of last year have brought more pig pastures into effect this year. Alfalfa is the prime plant by which you can furnish pigs with green fodder and a liberal supply of protein. If an alfalfa pasture gets ahead of the pigs, cut it early with the mower, gather what you cut and put it to some useful purpose and the young green second crop will come on and furnish the sort of grazing which develops young pigs and keeps sows in excellent fit. Spring is the hopeful season on the farm and careful planning will make for a better harvest.

THIS has been a dry winter and spring in the Prairie provinces, but light showers of snow and rain have helped seeding and early growth. By the time this is in print seeding will be completed in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta and the crops must depend to a rather unusual extent upon June rains. There has been a little soil drifting, and stored moisture is almost non-existent. It will take generous summer rains to make a Western crop. It can be done but the time between now and the first of July will be rather critical.

FARMING in Ontario lost one of its outstanding operators in James Douglas who died on May 17. Mr. Douglas was an outstanding breeder of Shorthorn Cattle and the "Browndales" among Shorthorns traced their inception and their great success to the Willowbank farm at Caledonia, Ontario, where Mr. James Douglas was born and spent his life. He was a working farmer who made cattle breeding his main effort, and he was the kind of farmer who always grew good crops to feed his beasts.

James Douglas was the son of a dry goods clerk who emigrated from the city of Aberdeen in Scotland in 1840, cleared a bush farm and built for himself a substantial farming and stock-breeding establishment. James succeeded his father in Willowbank farm and is in turn succeeded by his son Stanley, who has a son James, who bids fair to continue in the cattle business.

He was a kindly man, a good neighbour, a faithful Presbyterian, and fine type of citizen. He did his job well, was honored by his contemporaries as president of the Canadian Shorthorn Association and chairman of the National Records Board. He leaves two sons and two married daughters, and Mrs. Douglas, his second wife. His funeral was very largely attended and many people came long distances. The president of the Canadian Shorthorn Association and five past presidents were among the number. They came to pay tribute to a fine citizen.

I wondered as I drove down the Queen Elizabeth Highway if there had ever been a better crop of dandelions than the boulevard along this highway now shows. If somebody could get back the money wasted erecting lights along his road it could be much better spent eradicating these weeds. The flowers on these dandelions are a perfect platform of "gold" all along the way, but I fear that like some quartz it is "fool's gold" that shows, and when the blossoms go to seed the whole countryside will be literally sown to these deep rooted plants, and pastures and meadows will suffer. Evidently the weed inspectors have been sound asleep or some effort would have been made to compel the Highways Department to clean up this mess. A few men with scythes were cutting some of them but the situation calls for something more effective.

EVEN from a train window the countryside is now very attractive. East of Milton, on the 20th, seeding appeared to be finished, a few fields were ridged for mangels, and some sown. Alfalfa was showing well and the work of spring seeding appeared to have been done with care. Fields had been well prepared, the land showed a good tilth, and water furrows were drawn where needed and many of them carefully shoveled out. The lesson from last year's excessive rainfall was taken to heart and surface water will be able to get away readily, there was evidence of a lot of good farming. The Ontario tiller of the soil is very much alive to effective farm practice.

Eire Fiddles While World Burns

Reports on the pre-election campaign in Eire, which is beating the bush in preparation for the general vote early next week, make it increasingly evident that both Government and opposition parties are taking time out for shallow political shenanigans. There is complete indifference to the fundamental issues that are agitating the rest of the world.

On the Russian front, in Italy, in Britain, and in Burma and India, fighting men and machines of war of a dozen nations are tensed to break into the final, showdown chapter of one of the grimmest and most critical phases of the world's history. A victorious outcome for the Allies, now regarded as inevitable though still to be hardly won, will mean world peace and make progress possible for Eire.

But Eire can't be bothered. To judge from the election campaign and the pronouncements of the leading parties, the world-shaking war might be in Mars and the struggle of fascist tyranny vs. the rights of man a mere theoretical discussion in a secluded cloister.

Both Premier de Valera and opposition leaders have gone out of their way to emphasize that Eire's neutrality is not an issue in the election. Nor is the Government bill to set up a state-controlled system of rail and truck transport, on which defeat of the Government in the Dail led to the election. No, it is just a straight struggle for power, with Mr. De Valera frankly stating the issue as a question of a clear majority for his party or a result that would force a coalition government.—Montreal Gazette.

Telegraph Centenary

(NEW YORK TIMES)

ON Nov. 16, 1832, a man stepped off the packet Sully and in bidding good-bye cockily declared: "Well, Captain, should you hear of the telegraph one of these days as the wonder of the world, remember the discovery was made on board the Sully." The man was Samuel F. B. Morse, the most distinguished American painter of his time, founder of the National Academy of Design, friend of Layafette, Aragon, Humboldt, Bryant and other celebrites. On May 1, 1844, Alfred Vail at Annapolis Junction telegraphed his colleague Morse in Washington that Henry Clay and Theodore Frelinghuysen had been nominated for President and Vice President by the Whig Convention. On May 24 came the famous message to Baltimore from Washington: "What hath God wrought!" The event is fittingly commemorated today.

When he devised his first instruments Morse knew nothing of the successful telegraphs that had been invented before him by Gauss, Steinheil and Wheatstone. Nor was the famous code attributed to Vail stringingly original. Like many another pioneer, Morse experimented in technical innocence, fortunately along lines that led to ultimate success and that brought him richly deserved honours. Who thinks of the chicanery, the patent suits, the frustration and poverty that embittered his early career and that were ultimately surmounted? For decades he has been looked upon as something less than the perfect hero painted in the standard biography and something finer than the grasping monopolist that Horace Greeley accused him of being. The anti-abolitionist who suggested that the flag be torn from corner to corner, one half to be given to the South and the other to the North, the chauvinist who wanted to expel all foreign-born citizens from public office, the Calvinist who loathed all other denominations, have been eclipsed by the inventor.

Today there are seven million miles of telegraph wire in the world—one-third of them in the United States. Mother Shipton's sixteenth century nursery prediction — "all around the eye"—and a bombastic and probably apocryphal world thoughts shall fly in the twinkling of an message which is said to have been transmitted in New York long before the Washington-Baltimore test which read "Attention, the Universe! By Kingdoms right wheel!" were of a piece with Morse's conception of telegraph's destiny. Judged by its social effects the telegraph is one of the outstanding inventions. With it begins that shrinking of the planet which has been accelerated by radio and which is part of the technological unification of mankind.

Nazi Shooting Stirs Canada

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

THE Government has lost no time in requesting a full and immediate report of the circumstances surrounding the shooting of 47 British, Dominion and Allied air force officers in a German prison camp near Dresden, and it must press its inquiries with the greatest vigor and authority.

The details of the incident are clouded by half-truths and evasions. All that is known is that 76 officers attempted to escape and that 47 of them are now dead. Six of them were Canadians. Not even the date is known exactly. The outside world might not have learned of the affair had not a representative of Switzerland, the protecting power, made a routine inspection of the camp some three weeks later.

It is open to every soldier taken prisoner to attempt to escape and rejoin his comrades in arms. The Germans themselves are the most persistent escapees. It is no crime against international law to attempt to regain freedom. It is usually an offence against the rules of the camp, and is punishable by closer confinement for a certain period. But while every soldier is instructed on his privilege to escape if possible, he is also warned not to resist arrest when his escape has been dicovered.

It is highly unlikely, therefore, that the 47 men who are dead resisted en masse. It is a strange circumstance that none of them was wounded, and it is even stranger that the German authorities concealed the facts for something like three weeks. It was the duty of the German Government to disclose the incident immediately to the protecting power for transmission to the countries of the victims.

But these acts fall into the pattern of Nazi brutality and contempt for the ways of civilized men. If the incident turns out to be what it resembles, a mass murder, we need not pretend to be inexpressibly shocked. It would be only one more mass murder, and a small one at that, committed against humanity. As the tides of war sweep in upon the Nazi state we may expect that the pattern will be repeated, with ever more hideous variations, until German Nazism has been engulfed. The task that faces the civilized world is to ensure that it is engulfed forever.

Russia Borrows Also

Socialists used to tell us that Russia had done away with the evils of borrowing, that such capitalistic devices as government bonds had been eliminated in this enlightened state. This is interesting to remember today when it is announced that the Soviet government has decided to float its third war loan, to the amount of 25 billion rubles.

The Russian citizens will buy bonds and profit by them just as our citizens do in Canada. Already in this war the Russians have loaned 35 billion rubles to the state and are thus vast creditors, bondholders and, in fact, capitalists, just as our people are collectively in this country. This is a far cry from the original theories of Lenin, who was going to operate a socialist republic without the capitalist mechanics of debt and with equality of rewards for all. Russia is learning from the West, as the West is learning from her.

Contrasts

To give up city life and move to the country is a perfectly attainable dream. However, in doing so one usually abandons the security of a regular income, the relative ease of urban living, the excitement of almost constant contact with people in the mass....

The significant differences between city and country living lie more in the individual, his knowledge, mental attitudes, and bodily dexterities, than in the physical environments.... These differences may be broadly summarized under two headings: a different concept of money; doing for oneself.

Most city dwellers look upon their community as a huge money reservoir which each week yields so many dollars to its inhabitants in salaries, wages, and profits. Practically every necessity, convenience, and luxury of living must be purchased with their share of these dollars....

In contrast, the country dweller tends to be preoccupied with non-monetary considerations. He carefully cultivates his garden and tends his stock in order to eat more plentifully. He labours to thin out his wood lot in order to provide fuel for the coming year and to assure a permanent future supply. He builds a chicken house or a fence, using his own labour and home-produced materials as far as possible. He produces, repairs, maintains, beautifies with the skill of his hands and the sweat of his brow.—From "How to Live in the Country Without Farming," by Milton Wend.

Old Stuff

Ever since the tide of war began to turn against Germany in the East, Goebbels has been running the Bolshevik bogey for all it was worth. His aim was three-fold: To enlist the sympathy of neutrals; to sow dissension and misgiving between the Allies; and to revive the flagging enthusiasm of the satellites. He has now had to confess openly that the whole campaign has fallen completely flat. Neutrals and enemies, he complains, still maintain "scepticism" despite all German exhortations; and he could have added that the necessity of subjugating satellite Hungary is proof of failure there also. The Jews, as usual, are represented as the culprits who have thwarted him in his benevolent endeavors towards mankind. What he has in reality discovered is that though he may be able to fool all the Herrenvolk all the time, he cannot deceive others. Memories are not so short as to have forgotten that he turns the tap of propaganda on and off precisely as it hapepns to suit German policy. After years of Nazi fulminations against Bolshevism, that creed suddenly became harmless when it was thought useful to have a Pact with Russia in 1939, and it again became a world menace when it was thought expedient to attack Russia in 1941.—London Daily Telegraph.

IRISH FREEDOM

However much the Irish may have hated the England of old, how can they look about them today and reach the conclusion that Britain and her Allies "have no just cause to go to war" or that Eire has no just cause to join in? Few people have done more hollering for "freedom" and "liberty" than have the Irish. By the very nature and intensity of this feeling, you'd think the Irish would be the first to pitch in and fight for freedom and liberty wherever these rights may be threatened. Irishmen of old who have shed their blood on battlefields the world over must be rolling over in their graves at the spectacle of an Ireland sitting on the fence!—R. M. Harrison in Windsor Star.

YOUR BANK ACCOUNT

One reason for the trust the depositors have in the bankers lies in the fact that the bankers keep the depositors' business in strictest confidence. We have heard of ambitious canvassers for bonds endeavoring to get some idea of the size of individual depositors' bank accounts, but we have yet to hear of a banker giving as much as a slight hint about such information. Call it ethics or what you like, but that is something that just isn't done in banking circles.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MUST RETAIN CONTROL

Plainly, our hope of security lies in the terms we shall write into the new peace. These must provide against any possibility that we are recreating a menace to the world, instead of helpful members of the family of nations. Controls must remain in our hands which preserve us from the folly of the indulgent poker winner who lends the loser a stake, with which the latter proceeds in turn to take the winner. This is bad poker, and it will constitute bad management, if the postwar world is to be any improvement on the past.—Detroit News.

LEARNING

Neutrals like Mr. de Valera can have no understanding of the vast changes that the past few years have brought in the thinking and attitudes of men. They have had no real part in the world since 1939. In their stale appraisal of the world it must be incomprehensible to them that the American House of Representatives could last week, pass such important legislation as the extension of lend-lease with only 21 dissenting votes out of 435. That is the kind of national unity in action that the past few years have brought. In the 1939-world of the neutrals such swift and vital decision in a democracy would have seemed, and been, impossible. We weren't as clear about things then. We weren't as unified then. We have grown, clearer, stronger.—New York Post.

A Bible Message

Love worketh no ill to his neighbour; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law....

The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light. (Rom. 13: 10, 12.)

And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever. (Rev. 11: 15.)

And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads.... And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels, and prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ. (Rev. 12: 3, 7-10.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Mistress: What do you think of the new electric fire, Jane?

Maid: Oh, it is wonderful. I lit it last night and it hasn't gone out yet.

He was so full of love for her that it made him poetic.

"Darling," he whispered, "my love for you is as boundless as the ocean; and like the ocean, it cannot be denied."

"I'll say it can't," was the girl's cool retort. "I've kept every letter you've written to me."

A close-fisted farmer supplied to a local house three dozen eggs every week. One week he found that he had accidently sent one egg too many. Determined not to lose on the deal, he called at the house. "Mr. Smith," he said, "I sent along one egg over the three dozen this week."

"Surely you're not going to worry over a little thing like that," Mr. Smith said. "Let's settle it with a drink. What will you have?"

"Egg and milk," was the farmer's reply.

Diamond Anniversary

Sixty years of faithful and untiring duty to the church—1884 to 1944—will be marked by the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, when they celebrate their diamond anniversary on Friday. The occasion will be marked by a special service and musical program in the church. The choir will sing several numbers, and the junior choir will also be included in the program, which will begin at 8 o'clock.

Stewart Hall Auxiliary 25 Years Old

Baskets filled with lilacs, narcissus, tulips and lily of the valley formed a beautiful floral background recently, for the 25th anniversary services of the Stewart Hall Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada. Mrs. E. R. Rowland, Mrs. George Hanbidge and Mrs. James Thorne welcomed the guests, who signed the new secretary's book, a gift from A. Dyell of Peterborough, as they entered. About 100 members and friends sat down at the tables decorated with spring flowers, and set with dainty place cards.

The following program was thoroughly enjoyed: Toast to the King, was proposed by Mrs. C. Hall, Centreville. The Church, proposed by Mrs. H. T Rehill, Peterborough, and responded to by the Rev. E. W. Rowland. To the Women's Missionary Society, proposed by Mrs. E. W. Rowland, and responded to by Miss M. Hanbidge, when she gave an interesting history of the organization and officers of the Auxiliary.

A welcome was given Mrs. George Hanbidge, president of Stewart Hall Auxiliary, who presided. Greetings from Peterborough Presbyterial of the United Church were brought by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, president.

A pleasing event took place when Mrs. W. W. Dawson presented a gift of appreciation to Mrs. Gordon Savigny, a treasurer of the Auxiliary for twenty-two years.

Greetings from Peterborough Presbyterial of the Presbyterian Church were extended by Mrs. Harold Tate, of Centreville, president.

The program also included: Solos by Master Robert Morrison; violin solos, Mrs. Percy Hooper, Peterborough; address, Rev. Mr. McConnachie, who had organized the Auxiliary twenty-five years ago; vocal solo, Mrs. A. Spenceley, Peterborough; piano duet, Mrs. Allan Dawson and Miss Morton, Bensfort.

Another pleasant interlude followed when Mrs. F. Savigny read an address to Mrs. James Thorne, and Mrs. George Stewart presented her with a life membership certificate and pin. Mrs. Thorne had been president for the longest period.

Solo was sung by Mrs. A. Spenceley. Mrs. Harold Dawson was accompanist.

A memorial service was held for the 12 members of the original Auxiliary who had died since its organization. As the Scripture was read, each person lit a tiny candle in their memory. Mrs. Dougal Matchet and Miss Gertrude Thompson were in charge of this service.

Devine Family Guests At Party

Mrs. T. Devine, who with her daughter, Miss J. Devine, is leaving Peterborough to take up residence in Toronto was recently entertained at a farewell party, held at the home of Mrs. L. R. Groombridge, 253 Murray street. Several friends and neighbors gathered at Mrs. Groombridge's home, and Mrs. Devine was presented with a gold leaf pin, and a purse of money by Mrs. Groombridge, on behalf of the group.

A musical program was enjoyed during the social evening, and lunch was served at a table centred with white lilacs and tulips. Mrs. E. Graham, Mrs. G. Groombridge and Mrs. G. Marshall served. Those present were: Mrs. M. Thomas, Mrs. F. Warren, Mrs. W. J. Boddison, Mrs. George Marshall, Mrs. Edward Graham, Mrs. P. Groombridge, Mrs. J. Chambers, Mrs. B. Boothroyd, Mrs. J. Woods, Miss G. Groombridge, Miss J. Devine, Mr. R. Groombridge Mrs. R. Hickson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gaskell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hodson, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Groombridge, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Groombridge.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

We are today going to give you a few tips on the advanced summer styles in hats, dresses, suits and coats. Black and natural in stripes is going to be a leader for the summer. A black and natural milan straw hat, woven in about one inch wide stripes, the shape a medium sized mushroom, with a high cone shaped crown, its only trimming being a band and bow of black grosgrain ribbon. Now this same hat will fit in and can be worn with several different suits or dresses. For instance a sports outfit consisting of a paddy green suit with cardigan neckline, a daffodil yellow frilly blouse, and the black and natural striped hat. This same hat may also be worn with an afternoon dress of black sheer with a bracelet and necklace of gold suede flowers. A black chesterfield coat may be thrown around the shoulders over the suit and still the same hat. For later in the summer, we will see many very smart cotton dresses and suits worn, and with these will be shown the very wide brimmed sailor hat with a very plain trimming. These hats will be worn far on the back of the head, showing a pompadour hairdo in front. For evenings flowers will be shown a great deal in the hair. Another very smart hat that will be much worn this summer is the saucy sou' western hat, in either straw or made in the cottons to match your dresses.

Roman stripes are in the news again, for blouses to be worn with the wool jersey summer suits. Take a grey or a neutral beige wool jersey with a Roman stripe blouse, a close fitting off the face hat made of the Roman stripe material and you have a very smart and up to the minute summer suit, one that will attract attention. Camel-beige with white is another very novel color scheme for summer. Have a coat or suit in this new shade, wear with it a white felt beret on the back of the head, white gloves and white purse, also white shoes if you so desire, and you will be very smartly dressed. Another suit in the camel-beige, the coat being buttoned down the back, a white beret clapped on the side of the head and white gloves.

Rayon crepe dresses, in dots and stripes, will be much in the fashion's eye a little later on. White stripes on navy, red, brown and green and polka dots white on California brown, green, black, and the white ground with the dots and stripes of the different colors. With all of these will be worn the small off the face hat.

W.M. Auxiliary Has Silver Tea

MILLBROOK, May 29 (ENS) — The manse of Grace Presbyterian church was the scene of a pleasant social gathering on Friday from 3.30 to 6 p.m., when the Women's Missionary Auxiliary entertained at a silver tea.

The unusually warm weather brought out a large number of guests, Rev. Walter Patterson, with Mrs. Patterson, and the vice-president, Mrs. Z. Seaton, extending a hearty greeting, and Mrs. A. S. Hall acting as cashier. Mrs. W. Charles Thorndyke invited the guests to the tea room where Mrs. J. H. Paul and Mrs. James Kennedy poured tea at a lace-covered tables centred with white lilacs and red tulips. Serving were Mrs. J. R. Thompson, Mrs. M. W. Kinsman, and Mrs. Gladys Coyte, Mrs. H. C. Lord and Mrs. H. W. Ball.

The society realized over $20 from the silver tea, with other donations yet to come in.

Pretty Cathedral Ceremony Links Prominent Families

St. Peter's Cathedral, decorated with roses and lily of the valley, was the setting for a pretty wedding this morning, when Marguerite Doreen Sheehy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kelly Sheehy, became the bride of Frank J. McNulty, son of Dr. F. P. McNulty and Mrs. McNulty, 289 Hunter street. Rev. Vincent Corkery officiated at the ceremony, and Rev. Fergus Sheehy of Rochester, uncle of the bride, said Mass. Miss Veronica Scollard, A.T.C.M., was at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Geraldine Collins, when she sang "Ave Maria," "On This Day" and "Panis Angelicus." Present in the sanctuary were Rev. J. T. Finn, Rev. V. J. Gillogly and Rev. Kevin Corkery, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white embossed organdy, made with a full skirt, tight-fitting bodice, Sweetheart neckline, and long sleeves, coming to a point over each wrist. Her finger-tip veil of white net was caught to her head with flowers, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Elinor Sheehy, as maid of honor, and Miss Grace Smyth, of Oshawa, as bridesmaid. Both were dressed in gowns made on similar lines to the bride's, but with three-quarter length sleeves. Miss Sheehy wore blue embossed organdy, and yellow and mauve flower cap, and matching veil. Miss Smyth wore yellow embossed organdy, with mauve and yellow flower cap, and matching veil. Both carried nosegays of yellow roses and sweet peas. Jack McNulty, brother of the broom, was best man. Basil Phelan was head usher, assisted by Paul Sullivan and Hugh Sullivan, cousins of the groom, and Romould Brooks.

At the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother received in a blue silk jersey gown, a large white hat trimmed with matching blue, and a corsage of pink roses. Also receiving was the groom's mother, in a gown of royal blue, a pink and mauve flower hat, and a corsage of yellow roses and mauve sweet peas.

As the young couple left from Port Hope for a wedding trip to London and other points, the bride was wearing a blue dress, blue hat and veil, tan accessories, and a corsage of white roses.

Pot Roast of Beef

Tasty, economical and a favourite with the menfolk, pot roast is a dish it is patriotic to serve often

There is nothing more delicious than a pot roast of beef and nothing really that is easier to prepare: I sometimes wonder whether our only reason for not serving it more often is because it is so much less expensive than the roasting cuts, that we cannot believe it can be so good.

Actually I am sure you will all agree if you try it again this coming week-end—that a chuck roast done this way with carrots in the pot is as fine a meat meal as you have ever eaten:

Martha Logan

HOW TO COOK A POT ROAST

5 lbs. beef chuck
Salt and pepper
Flour
Lard
Water
Carrots

Season meat and dredge with flour. Brown meat in hot fat in a heavy pot. Add a small amount of water. Cover and cook slowly in the oven (or on top of the stove) at simmering temperature. After 2½ hours add the scraped and washed carrots. Thicken the broth with flour for gravy.

HOW TO SAVE OTHER FOODS

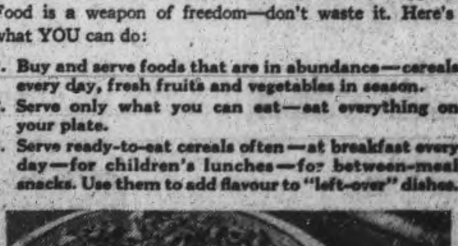
There's plenty of food in Canada for everyone. No one need go hungry. And because we are so fortunate, it is our duty to make the best possible use of our food supplies. Food is a weapon of freedom—don't waste it. Here's what YOU can do:

1. Buy and serve foods that are in abundance—cereals every day, fresh fruits and vegetables in season.
2. Serve only what you can eat—eat everything on your plate.
3. Serve ready-to-eat cereals often—at breakfast every day—for children's lunches—for between-meal snacks. Use them to add flavour to "left-over" dishes.



For a novel treat try a crisp topping of Kellogg's All-Wheat on your lemon chiffon or custard pies.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

By HERB MARTIN.

Looking over the personnel of the rinks that have just been published in the 1944 schedule book, we find it most difficult to point out any one rink as the outstanding rink of the season. In fact we honestly believe that as far as our local schedule is concerned, it is going to be wide open. And there are many reasons for making that statement.

In the first place the men's section is divided into four groups, instead of two and that in itself alters the situaton.

There will be a longer schedule than last season and that means even if you get away to a bad staft you have a chance to catch up.

The personnel of the rinks is all new and this upsets any forecasting. And there are many old timers coming out of their shell and are going to try their hand at skipping again and in many cases have brand new rinks. So taking it all in all we should have a glorious season and your guess is as good as mine.

P.S.—On second thought there is one rink in group two that looks good to us. It is just possible that they might win the group and then go on to win the club championship. Modesty forbids us from saying any more.

In the ladies' section the situation is just about the same. They, too, have a bigger membership and consequently more rinks—they will have a longer schedule and competition will be keener.

There are a few rinks that are standing pat with last year's lineup and maybe they have a slight advantage, but you never can tell—twenty games are a lot of bowling.

Now remember the opening night, Wednesday, May 31st at 7.30 p.m.

We wis hto draw the attention of the lady bowlers to an error in the schedule book. Wednesday, July 5th should read "Ladies' open rink tournament" and "mixed rinks" (milk for Britain) should read Wednesday evening, June 28th.

IT'S BOBBY FELLER—He's still quite a Feller on the pitching mound, that Bobby Feller boy who now is a petty officer in the U.S. Navy, stationed on a battleship in the South Pacific. NEW YORK, May 29—(AP)—Information, please? . . . About 10 years ago when the award for the leading hitter in minor league baseball was established, the National Association considered putting up a similar trophy for scholastic baseball leaders . . . but after learning how many headaches they could expect, the minor league bosses dropped the idea . . . Now this corner, with no prizes to hand out or axes to grind, would like to know who are this year's leading high school and college baseball performers.

Swede Hagberg, Navy grid coach, hasn't seen a football game in a year . . . Did you know that Fred Merkle's famous "boner" not only cost the Giants the 1908 pennant but it also cost Christy Mathewson his only undisputed National League pitching championship? . . . Ed Reulbach won it that year with 24 victories and seven losses. If the Giants and Matty had won that game, Mathewson's record would have been 38 won, 10 lost for a .792 average to Reulbach's .774.

Peterboro Team Defeats Grove School

On Saturday Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club played a return game against Grove School at Lakefield. It will be remembered that two weeks ago the P.-W. won by 101 to 50 and Saturday's game resulted in an almost identical result as the score was 101 to 56 in favor of the local team.

The School team was strengthened by the inclusion of two masters, Messrs. G. W. Smith (headmaster) and W. Rashleigh. The latter is a son of W. W. Rashleigh, former well-known Oxford University and Kent County cricketer who also represented the university at rugby football.

The School batted first sending in Capt. Ketchum and Mr. Smith to the bowling of Dyer and Colbran and quickly lost 3 wickets for 13. Then Alston and Rashleigh made the best stand of the inning, which produced 24 runs. The former hit hard, high and often, without much regard for defence and then skied one to the wicket-keeper for a quickly scored 17. Rashleigh played confident cricket in good style until he hit out a good one from Colbran and was bowled for 13. However the latter batsman did little and the innings closed for 56. Dyer had a great afternoon with the ball, sending down 12 over which only conceded 14 runs and produce 5 wickets. Colbran suffered punishment during the Alston-Rashleigh partnership but did his side a good turn by bowling the latter.

The P.W.'s lost Wild (3), Padgett (10) and Smith (10) for 27 but then B. Roberts and G. Colbran put on the best cricket of the day. They won the match and added 49 runs to the score, taking the total of 76. Colbran was then out for 16, one of his best efforts for some time. As the match was won, Roberts then retired for a fine innings of 33 which included only 5 singles. He showed strong defence and aggressive attack including a sixer to square leg of the same distance and direction as the one he had scored in the previous match. In order to give the tail-enders he retired and Dyer put himself at the bottom of the batting list. However four wickets fell quickly but when he joined J. Graham and a further stand was made. The latter a complete novice playing his first game, not only kept up his end but was not out when Dyer was out for 9. They had added 17 runs and taken the total to 101.

There is no match next Saturday, but a practice is called for that afternoon and it is hoped it will be so well attended that a regular practice game can be played with a full field and two batsmen. A well organized practice of this type is most useful as all batsmen get their full quota of time which they sometimes do not in matches.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The City League battle tonight between St. Peter's and the Military Training Centre should be one of the most entertaining tussles so far this season and attract a good crowd to Riverside Park. Both teams need the win and both will have their strongest lineups in action. The Military Training Centre club will likely show a few changes from the opening night roster as the Soldiers will be fighting to get into the win column. On the other hand St. Peter's will be also gunning for a victory that would put them up in a second-place tie with the Plazas. The two outfits look to be evenly matched. On Tuesday night the league-leading Switchgear team will meet the U.E.W. team and Manager Murph Chambers' team will be seeking their third straight win. The Union team after dropping a couple of games last week has been striving to fill in the weak spots and a stronger lineup will undoubtedly take the field tomorrow night. Both of these games will get under way at 6.45 o'clock sharp.

* * * * * *

Tomorrow night's attraction in the Girls' Softball League will bring together the two championship teams of last season, the Westclox girls who won the senior title and the Brintons who for the second year in succession grabbed off the intermediate honors in 1943. It should be an interesting battle all the way. Word from the Brinton camp is that they have rounded up another good club this season while the Big Bens showed their calibre in the opening game by getting the jump on their old rivals, the Aircraft outfit and defeating them by a late innings rally. The rival pitchers for tomorrow night's clash have not been announced but it is expected that Manager Ab Delahaye will work one of his new twirlers against the Brintons, possibly Nona Whetung and that Isobel Bullock will be seen back in her old position behind the bat. There should be a big crowd at this engagement for Westclox always have a good following and there will be natural interest among the fans over the first appearance this season of the popular Brinton club. On Wednesday night two of this season's new clubs the Quakers and Westclox seconds will be the contestants.

And Wagner, Too

Promoter Frank Tunney has evidently set out with the idea of giving Peterborough wrestling fans plenty of thrills Tuesday night for he has chosen for the opening bout to match Strangler Bob Wagner of Portland Oregon with Verne Baxter who also hails from Oregon. That should prove about as grim an engagement as the four-ring circus in the main event. Wagner and Baxter may hail from the same state but there will be nothing neighborly in their attitude toward each other when they meet in the ring. The Strangler who is back in the form that used to arouse the ire of Toronto and Montreal fans every time he put in an appearance and whose manhandling of Whipper Billy Watson made the Toronto followers of the mat game want a law passed against such villains couldn't be anything but vigorous in his methods. His theory is simple. Why worry about technique and form when you can get the same results by battering your opponent all over the ring is the question that Wagner always asks and he has won a good many bouts inexactly that way. In Baxter however he is meeting a battler who can be just as tough as he is and the result should be a fitting introduction to the mass fight that will form the main bout

* * * * * *

As for the feature attraction the more the fans look at that lineup the more they can picture action galore. Another tussle between John Katan and Frank Sexton would be exciting enough by itself but with a pair of rowdies like the hard-hitting Al Bunny Dunlop and the hard-butting Nick Elitch waiting around in the wings for their chances to get in the odd punch there should be excitement in gobs. Peterborough fans have never seen tag team wrestling but the performers who are going to take part in the first local demonstration of this mass grappling are so well known and their behavior in the ring is such a familar story that the local followers of the game know they will be justified in expecting anything. If the rules of tag wrestling are followed closely the action should be fast and furious with partners changing places time after time. And if the battlers forget all about the rules, and Dunlop and Elitch in particular are likely to do just that, the excitment will be all the greater. The biggest crowd in months is expected for this unusual attraction.

Lots of Baseball

Once again the big leagues were favored with good weather over the weekend and there was plenty of action in both loops and also plenty of features. One development in the National League was the clean-cut manner in which the Boston Braves cooled off the hot Chicago Cubs who were sailing along on a seven-game winning streak until they ran into the Braves and their two ace pitchers Jim Tobin and Al Javery yesterday. Boston took both ends of the double-header, winning the first 7 to 3 in a game in which five home runs were hammered out and taking the second 7 to 4. Another highlight of the National League was the fact that Rip Sewell with his dipsy doodle delivery grabbed off his sixth victory of the season in decisive fashion. The veteran allowed the Philadelphia Blue Jays only six hits. And still another standout performance was the pitching exhibition staged by Mort Cooper yesterday in shutting out the New York Giants Sunday. Cooper had to leave a recent game with a lame flipper and there were alarmist stories that the arm was bad enough to handicap him for some time. Evidently there wasn't much wrong with the Cooper right wing yesterday for he held the Giants to three scattered hits and the Cards took the engagement 8 to 0. The Cardinals with Munger earning his fifth victory as against one loss also defeated the Giants Saturday 6 to 4 but the New Yorkers salvaged something out of the series when Rookie Bill Voiselle held the Cards to three hits in the second game Sunday and the Giants won 3 to 1.

* * * * * *

In the American League Hank Borowy of the Yanks became a six-game winner when he was credited with the win in an eleventh inning tussle, which the Yanks took from the St. Louis Browns 6 to 3. It was 2-2 when the New Yorkers went to bat in the 11th and they chased over four runs while the best reply the Brownies could make in their half was a solitary counter. Detroit Tigers had a good weekend, winning two out of three battles, Hal Newhouser came up with a five-hitter Saturday to beat the Philadelphia A's 2 to 1 and the Bengals had a field day in the second game of Sunday's double-header with Washington which they took 15 to 2 after the Senators had eked out a 4 to 2 victory in the first half of the twin card. It must have been a gratifying surprise for big Rufe Gentry, former Buffalo Bisons to have the Tigers score a flock of runs for him. Detroit piled up 18 hits in that one-sided engagement and Jimmy Outlaw and Rudy York, hit homers, the latter's being his fourth of the season.

Phelan Stops Fight June 9

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century Sporting Club, received a telegram from Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, Saturday instructing him to give no further publicity or permit the sale of tickets "pending the commission's decision" for the Henry Armstrong-Al Davis bout.

The fight was announced Friday by Jacobs who billed it for 10 rounds in Madison Square Garden on June 9.

Armstrong was soundly whipped by Ray Robinson in the Garden on Aug. 27, 1943, and immediately following the bout announced his retirement from the ring. This winter, however, he returned and last Monday in Washington stopped Aaron Perry, young welterweight.

Davis was suspended permanently by the New York commissioners for fouling Fritzie Zivic in November, 1940, but was reinstated this winter and knocked out Bob Montgomery, then New York State lightweight champion, in a single round. He is a Brooklyn welterweight.

Phelan's telegram said that "last night's announcement (at the Lee Savold-Joe Baksi fight) in Madison Square Garden relative to the date for the bout was without authority of this commission . . . as no action has been taken relative to your request to hold the contest."

The next commission meeting is scheduled for Thursday.

St. John's Bantams Defeat St. James'

The bantam teams from St. James' Church and St. John's Church played a league softball game at the Oval on Wednesday last. St. John's won a victory over St. James' by a wide margin. The teams;

St. John's Church — Langhorne, Cutmore, Swanston, Wilfong, Burrows, Wyatt, Van Allen, Paterson, Wyatt.

On May 31 Knox Church bantam team plays St. Andrew's at Queen Mary, St. John's vs. St. Paul's at the Oval, St. James' vs. St. James' II. at King Edward, George Street v. Park Street at Queen Alexandra.

The Church League teams invite fans to its ball games on Wednesday night. Come and cheer the boys.

Killed At Poker

HOLLYWOOD, May 29—(AP)—A familiar scene from old-time western movies—gunplay at the poker table—was enacted in reality early yesterday, police reported, leaving one player dead and a bystander wounded. Slain was Harry Lucenay, 47, film extra and owner of "Pete," a dog with a black-ringed eye, for years a performer in "Our Gang" comedies. Booked on suspicion of murder was Charles Z. Bailey, 71, who said he shot in self-defence.

Graham Trophy Play Gets Under Way

Excellent golfing weather attracted a fair number of golfers to the first tee for the weekly sweepstakes at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club Saturday afternoon. The brand of golf exhibited is rapidly approaching mid-season form and the score cards show that some of new and younger members are going to press the old reliables very hard for top honors this season.

The low gross in the first flight went to Orlie DeGraw with a score of 81. Three players tied for the low net in the first flight, Hugh Waddell scoring an 87, handicap 12, for a net of 75. Gordon Whatman a 90, with a 15 handicap, for 75, and Stan Payne 83, with a handicap of 8 for a net 75. A draw will be made to determine which of these three players takes home the bacon.

In the second flight, C. V. Elliott turned in a nice score of 90, with a handicap of 21 for a net 69, for the gross prize, while R. G. Maniece posted 91 with a handicap of 22, net 69, for the low net in the second flight.

Other scores posted read as follows:

| | Gross | H'cap. | Net |
|---|---|---|---|
| H. Benson | 103 | 24 | 79 |
| J. G. Wharry | 95 | 17 | 78 |
| S. Longhurst | 98 | 22 | 76 |
| T. T. Rodgers | 97 | 20 | 77 |
| J. H. Vernor | 119 | 28 | 91 |
| H. Cranford | 93 | 16 | 77 |
| C. P. Browne | 101 | 22 | 79 |
| W. Brady | 105 | 30 | 75 |
| Rev. George Kelly | 92 | 22 | 70 |

C. G. Graham Trophy

One of the largest number of teams on record teed off Sunday afternoon at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club to compete in a mixde 2-ball foursome tournament for the C. G. Graham Trophy. The trophy, a large silver serving tray, was on display at the Club House and many a coveted glance was cast in its direction.

Losers in the first round and again in the second round, will be redrawn for a consolation prize at a later date. Some surprisingly good scores were turned in and a few upsets were noted in some matches where younger, sometimes more inexperienced players, beat out twosomes who had been at the game for some considerable time.

Graham Whiting teamed with Miss Mary Strickland, handicapped at 26, defeated Andy Rutter and Miss Florence Leach with a handicap of 17. Bob Abbott and daughter Margaret, handicap 22, defeated Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Steer, handicap 19, in a very close match which ended 1 up on the last hole. Max Lauder teamed with Mrs. O. Hutchings, handicap 16, beat out Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Elliott, handicap 24, 2 up and one to go, in a very exciting match. J. M. Watson and Mrs. S. McBride, handicap 24, defeated Tom Mackay and Mrs. Hicks-Lyne, handicap 29.

C. B. Brown and Miss Bullock, handicap 29, tied with Mr. and Mrs. H. Waddell, handicap 15, but later withdrew, due to the fact that Mr. Brown will be unable to compete in further competitions for the Graham Trophy. Miss Bullock will be redrawn with another partner in the consolation round.

Mr. S. McBride and Mrs. J. Watson, handicap 30, defeated Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Manience, handicap 24, three up and two to go. Mr. C. Westbrooke nad Mrs. F. Roy, handicap 20, defeated Mr. G. Monkman and Mrs. McConkey.

Mr. Gordon Whatman and Miss Armstrong, handicap 26, defeated Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Wood, handicap 14. Mr. B. Butler and Miss Betty Richardson, defeated Mr. J. Sackville and Miss M. Wood. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Eastwood, handicap 32, defeated Cyril Monkman and Miss Davidson, handicap 34.

The next two-ball foursome competition will be held Sunday afternoon, June 25, weather permitting. Watch this column for further draws and information. Mr. McCreery and Miss Johnson will be asked to break their tie with Mr. and Mrs. McKerchar before June 25.

TRACK COACH DIES—Kenne Fitzpatrick, 79, dean of American track and field coaches, is dead, after years of illness. Fitzpatrick coached at Yale, Michigan, and then coached at Princeton for 22 years. Among the students he trained were A. A. Stagg and Bill Bonthron.

Bowling Club Plans Tourneys

COBOURG, May 29.—(ENS). — Preparations are going ahead rapidly for the opening of the lawn bowling season here. New players are welcome and all new players will be given instruction in the game. F. J. Skitch was appointed chairman of a committee to look after the new players.

Tournament dates for Cobourg are July 13 and August 25, while men's rinks on the first date and mixed rinks on the latter. The ladies' section of the club is made up of 63 members and will have 12 rinks in the inter-rink competition. Due to the fact that there are more lady members in the club than men, no more members will be admitted to the ladies' club until the two sections are closer to a parity. However new members who are husband and wife may join.

It has been decided to procure a piece of land for the purpose of growing sods for re-surfacing the greens whenever needed. The present plant of seeding each fall does not produce a growth of grass sufficient to stand up for season's play. This season the inter-town games between Cobourg and Port Hope will be continued.

The point system of rink play, which was introduced last summer, has proved popular with the players as it does away with continual postponement of scheduled games through absence of some of the players.

TORONTO, May 29.—(CP).—The gentler sex is far from gentle in its ways when attending a sport spectacle, as many fans can tesify. But it remained for Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle to level a charge against the frails that no doubt will cause squells of rage and sharpening of nails.

In brief, Andy passes on the reported opinions of parimutuel clerks and cashiers, who squirm inwardly whenever the howling mob of female bettors assaults their wickets. The clerks say the "unfair" sex, as they term them, takes undue advantage of a mere man's weakness for curves and limpid peeperjs and does more than a little illegal dealing at the grilled window.

The charge is that the lasses will try every trick of the trade to swindle a little money even to passing "pigeons" or faked winning tickets. That, and other heinous crimes committed in the belief that it's o.k. to try and beat the race racket, just as it's all right to gyp the government.

Well, that's the story but pardon us while we duck out the back way before the shooting starts.

Maurice (Winnipeg Free Press) Smith credits Lou Davies of Winnipeg and the late Hubert Lister of England with introducing the popular daily double at race tracks on this continent. Davies, a racing chart publisher, and his colleague brought the idea from Britain.

Monday Mutterings:

Mike Milner, hurler with the U.S. army officers' fastball team in Edmonton doesn't pull his punches. While chalking up a no-hit, no-run, no-bases-on-balls game, he fanned twelve batters and himself clouted a double and two homers in three chances.... Manager Paul Thompson of Chicago Black Hawks claims he was a little discountenanced when presenting a cup to the Vancouver Juvenile Hockey League champs the other night. Opines Paul sadly: "This is the closest I have been to a cup in years."....Roy Worters, remembered as the pepperpot little goalie with the bygone New York Americans wasn't at a loss for words at a testimonial dinner given Charlie Conacher. But the word were for the wrong guy. Roy talked 20 minutes about colourful anecdotes and reminiscences of his days in the N.H.L., but forgot Charlie until he was reminded. Then he gave out with: "Oh, sure, Charlie is a good guy." And sat down.

After a lapse of one year because of war conditions, Delaware Park at Stanton, Del., resumes operations to-day for a 30-day meeting, the program for which is studded with 13 stake events for purses totalling $478,000. The track is trying the experiment of discarding the daily double for the stated purpose of relieving travel difficulties and discouraging war plant absenteeism.

Back in London from Chatham on week-end leave, Tommy White, ace hurler of the London Army team last season, pitched a no-hit 17-1 victory against Stratford Nationals on Saturday night for the opener of the inter-county senior ball loop. Stratford protested the game, however, claiming White and First-Baseman Hank Biasatti had played in the Kent County League earlier in the week.

A 1-10 favorite, Warren Wright's Twilight Tear scored her seventh straight win as a three-year-old on Saturday in winning the American Coaching Club Oaks at Belmont Park before 34,475 fans.

Widely known as a turf writer and publicity director, Jimmy Loftus, 41, died on Saturday at New York. He played hockey while attending McGill University, Montreal, and later figured as a pro player.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press.

Mort Cooper, Cards, and Bill Voiselle, Giants — Cooper held the Giants to three hits and struck out 10; Voiselle limited Cards to three hits in nightcap.

Dixie Walker and Eddie Basinski, Dodgers — Walker batted in three runs with three hits in 8-7 Dodger victory in opener; Basinski's single with the bases full in sixth inning of second game drove in winning runs to give Brooklyn a double triumph over Cincinnati.

Rip Sewell, Pirates, and Dick Barrett, Phillies — Sewell shut out Phillies 4-0 in the first game; Barrett pitched and batted Phillies to an even split, making three hits and winning 8-2.

Johnny Lindell and Ed Levy, of Yankees—Lindell hit homer in the 11th inning of opener and drove in two other runs; Levy hit two doubles and homer in second to give the Yankees a clean sweep over the Browns.

Edgar Busch, Athletics, and Buddy Rosar, Indians—Busch made three hits in the opener and drove in two runs in 4-3 Athletics victory; Rosar batted in two winning runs in nightcap to give the Indians an even break.

Hatch Entries Dominate Race

TORONTO, May 29 (CP)—Acara, from the stable of H. C. Hatch of Toronto, won the 85th renewal of the King's Plate at Woodbine Park here Saturday before more than 38,000 racing fans.

He broke fast from the starting gate with 11 other top Canadian-bred three-year-olds and covered the mile and an eighth course in 1.54 4-5 seconds to finish 3½ lengths ahead of his stablemate—Ompalo. He was the best of the field and at no time was there any doubt as to the winner.

Korafloyd from the Medway Stables, London, Ont., came in third, 1½ lengths behind Ompalo.

The victory was the fourth Plate triumph for Hatch who first won the event in 1936 with Monsweep. Goldlure carried the colors to victory in 1937 and Budpatch in 1941.

Hatch sent three horses to the Post Saturday, Sayonara, the third of his string, coming home in fourth position.

For his victory Acara earned more than $9,000 for his owner besides the 50 guineas donated by the King.

Ridden by Bobby Watson, leading jockey at Woodbine last week, Acara broke with the leaders and held off all threats through the backstretch. He was third at the half-mile post and from there on gradually moved into the lead, crossing the tape with plenty to spare.

Yankees Sweep Two Games Against Browns

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

It seems to be double or nothing for the New York Yankees when they play a double-header.

Manager Joe McCarthy's Bronx bombers have played four twin bills so far this season and have swept all of them. Their latest double success came yesterday at St. Louis where they whipped the Browns twice 6-3 in 11 innings and 6-2, to take a three-game lead in the American circuit.

The St. Louis Cards, National League leaders, gained only a split with the Giants when Bill Voiselle hurled a three-hitter for the New Yorkers to take the nightcap, 3-1, before 33,104 paid at the Polo Grounds. In the opener big Mort Cooper also twirled a three-hitter and fanned 10 in blanking the Ottmen, 8-0.

Jim Tobin and Al Javery of the Boston Braves put an abrupt end to the seven-game winning streak of the Chicago Cubs. Their pitching coupled with Butch Nieman's two homers and a triple, gave the Braves both ends of a twin bill, 7-3 and 7-4.

The Boston Red Sox made it six
The Boston Red Sox made it six straight over the Chicago White Sox by pasting the Dykemen twice, 6-4 and 4-2.

Brooklyn delighted a turnout of 28,061 at Ebbets Field by beating Cincinnati twice, 8-7 and 3-2. Augie Galan's eighth-inning single won the opener.

Detroit managed to win its third of 16 home starts by pounding out a 15-2 triumph over Washington in the second game of a bargain bill. The Senators won the opener 4-2 behind Johnny Niggeling's effective pitching. A first-inning homer by Jimmy Outlaw with the bases loaded started the Tigers to an easy conquest in the afterpiece.

Rip Sewell pitched and batted Pittsburg to a 4-0 victory over the Phillies, but Freddy Fitzsimmons' men turned on Nick Strincevich to grab the nightcap, 8-2, for a split.

Cleveland and the Philadelphia Athletics also divided a double-header. Jesse Flores' pitching won the opener for the A's, 4-3, but the Tribe won the second, 5-3.

Chess Championship

SASKATOON, May 29 (CP) — The Dominion Chess championship will be held here in the summer of 1945, it was announced yesterday following the annual meeting Saturday of the Canadian Chess Federation.

Canon H. L. Roy of Winnipeg was re-elected president.

One-Armed Batter

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 29 (CP)—Pete Gray, one-armed outfielder with Memphis in the Southern Association, yesterday hit a home run over a fence 330 feet away and 20 feet high. The blow helped Memphis whip Chattanooga 10-2.

Gray, who had a trial with Toronto of the International League some seasons ago, also stole two bases yesterday, to give him the league lead with a total of 15.

4th Battery Plans Recreational Evening

A sports parade and recreational evening, headlined by a softball game and the showing of the Ministry of Informations dramatic film, "Next o Kin", will be enjoyed by members of the 4th (R) Heavy Anti-Aircraft Battery at the Armouries this evening. Refreshments and a sing-song will be part of the program.

Two members of the unit, one of whom is going on active service, have left the Battery recently, and a recruit has been taken on strength this week. Gnr. A. W. Beardsmore, 555 Sherbrooke street, has joined the R. C. A. F. Sgt. R. J. Showalter 445 Albertus street, one of the Battery's most experienced non-coms and a member since 1942, is leaving for Ottawa where he will take a position with the Government Electrical Inspection Board. In Peterborough Sgt. Showalter has been employed by Government Inspection at the Outboard Marine Co. The 4th Battery's recruit is Gnr. C. N. Farrow, 567 Chamberlain street.

The committee which has been responsible for the arrangements for tonight's recreational parade is headed by 2nd Lt. W. G. Ovens, serving as chairman, and also includes BSM. L. G. Anthony, L/Sgt. L. A. McClure and Gnr. J. B. Fuller.

Jersey Climbs To 3rd Spot Takes Twin Bill

By the Associated Press.

Jersey City is the latest club in the International League to go on a spree.

The Little Giants yesterday swept a twin-bill with Syracuse, 5-1 and 5-2, for their third straight win over the Chiefs, to hurdle from the sixth place to third in the standings only one game behind the first-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

The floundering Newark Bears dropped both games of a double-header to the Baltimore Orioles, losing the first 13-5 and the second 3-1. The Orioles banged out four homers, two in each game.

Buffalo advanced to within half-game of first place taking both games from the Rochester Red Wings, who dropped to fourth place. The scores were 5-3 and 8-3. Five home runs were hit, three by the losers. Bobby Maier got three for three in the second game and scored four times. He also stole two bases.

The leading Toronto Maple Leafs divided two games with Montreal Royals, winning the first 8-7 and losing the second 5-3. The Leafs got off to an early 7-0 lead and just managed to stave off a late Montreal bid to tie the game by nipping Red Corriden of the Royals off third base in the ninth inning. The Royals came back in the second game, scoring five runs in the sixth inning to overcome a 3-0 Toronto lead. Ed Stevens' homer with two on was the telling blow.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Vancouver's Jimmy McLarnin won the world's welterweight championship 11 years ago tonight by knocking out Young Corbett III in 2.37 of the first round of their scheduled 10-round titular bout at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles.

YOUNG PITCHER — Fifteen-year-old Joseph Henry Nuxhall, left-handed pitcher of the Hamilton, Ohio, high school team, is scheduled to report to the Cincinnati Reds shortly after June 8. He is shown here in pitching pose. Nuxhall, who is six feet three inches and weighs 195 pounds, will be one of the youngest, if not the youngest player ever to perform in the major leagues.

Fox Terrier Named Best Dog In Show

OTTAWA, May 29 (CP) —"Edswyre Superman," a wire-haired fox terrier owned by Ted Ward of Oakville, Ont., was judged best dog in the show and presented with the main award by Frank H. Plant of Ottawa at the Ottawa Kennel Club's 25th championship dog show here Saturday.

Trophies were presented to the following: sporting dogs class, Miss Elsie Mayhew, Markham, Ont.; sporting hounds, Mrs. E. R. Matchett, West Hill, Ont.; working dogs, J. Elliott, Toronto; non-sporting dogs Stephens and Richardson, Toronto; toys, J. B. Royce, Brookline, Mass.

W. H. Reeves of Oakville judged all breeds except toys and best in show. Mrs. C. de P. Doniphan, Boucherville, Que., judged all toys.

Allies Training Partisans To Use Weapons

CAIRO, May 29—(CP)—Fresh from the Yugoslav battle zones, several hundred of Marshal Tito's Partisans are "somewhere in the Middle East" learning to use Allied mechanized weapons, more of which were promised Wednesday by Prime Minister Churchill.

Among them at a special training centre are two girls, both of whom have seen action and one of whom was wounded seven times, who now serve as medical orderlies.

Fiercely keen to get back to fighting, the Partisan pupils ask only for practical instruction. Everything except essential battle knowledge has been dispensed with in the courses devised by their British instructors, who were specially selected from combat units.

The instructors reckon it takes about a month to make a practical technician of the average Partisan.

Used to warfare under rugged conditions, the Partisan must be able to repair his equipment besides being an expert in its use.

Economy is his watchword. Where every drop of gasoline has to be looted from the enemy, he must know how to get the best consumption performance. Frequently Partisan tank men have gone to the front in captured vehicles towed by oxen, saving their precious fuel for the actual battle.

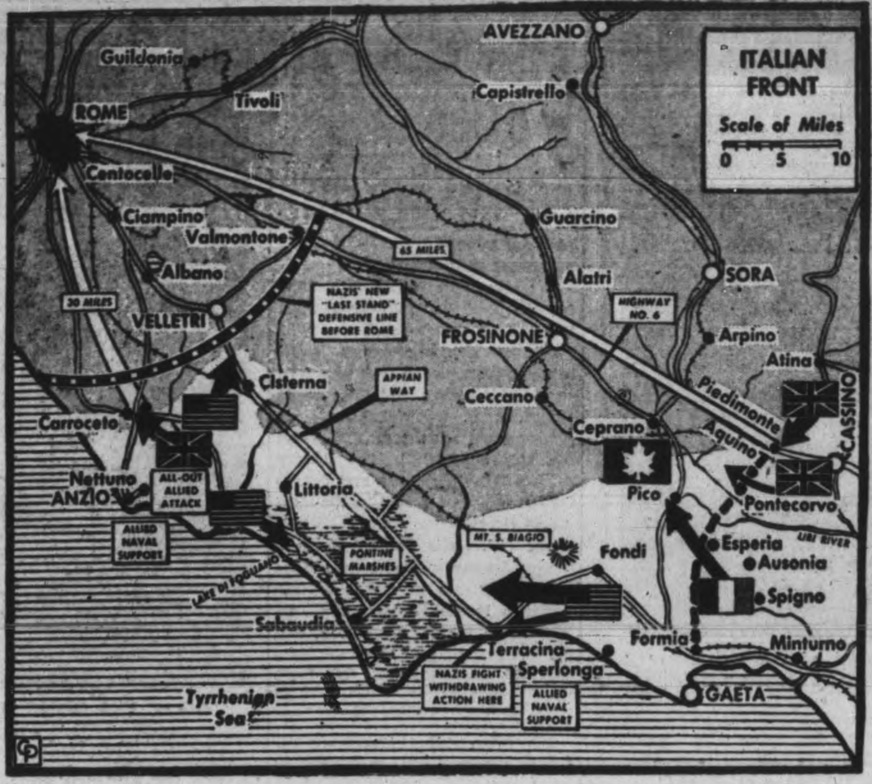
Among the instructors is a British Royal marine who, escaping from Crete, found his way to the Partisans and served with Tito for two years before rejoining the British forces in Italy.

Most of these young soldiers, whose ages run between 17 and 20, have seen plenty of fighting. The younger of the two girls is typical of the others in an army where men and women are on an equal footing.

Aged 17, she took part in a major action when the Germans established a triple ring of troops around a hospital which contained 700 wounded.

A group was selected to attempt a breakthrough. The average age was around 15. One of the bigger lads, in the lead, was wounded. He called the girl and begged her to shoot him because he was too heavy for her to carry back. She refused and attempted to drag him to safety. Then she was hit by a stray shot. A few seconds later two more bullets hit her. She lost consciousness.

Later they were rescued by a second group attempting to make the break. This time they succeeded and the action ended with the Partisans retaining their position.



ITALIAN BATTLEFRONT CONSOLIDATED—ON TO ROME—Canadians are spearheading the drive beyond Cassino through the Hitler line, on the road which leads to Rome. The map indicates this drive as part of a big British drive in the Cassino area, and shows how the armies of the Anzio beachhead have formed a junction with the American Fifth Army and British Eighth Army troops to make a solid Allied line of advance.

rained more than 8,500 tons of bombs on targets ranging all the way from the channel coast to Leipzig.

American losses were 34 heavy bombers and 13 fighters while 93 German planes were shot down, a communique said. American fighters accounted for 61 of the total bag of enemy planes and the gunners on the bombers got the rest. More than 1,200 fighters and fighter-bombers escorted the heavy bombers, 1,000 strong, while R.A.F. and Dominion fighters provided withdrawal cover.

Targets of the American bombers were synthetic oil plants at Merseburg, Zeitz and Lutzkendorf, the tank ordnance depot at Congsborn and other unspecified targets in Central Germany and the Cologne area. The fighters strafed German locomotives, river barges, gun emplacements and airfields.

In morning and evening assaults R.A.F. and U.S. tactical units blasted railroad bridges, yards and coastal installations.

More than 1,000 R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers in a night attack which carried into the early hours of Sunday dropped 4,480 tons of explosives, hitting a major German military depot just outside Bourg-Leopold in Belgium, the already-battered rail yards at Aachen, unannounced targets at Dusseldorf and Berlin and two targets in France, a rail centre at Nantes, and an airfield at Rennes. The operations cost 27 aircraft—including six Canadian—while six German planes were destroyed.

Preceding the night blow nearly 6,000 Allied fighters and bombers were hurled on Saturday against Hitler's transportation system.

German raiders struck the southern British coast on Sunday night, scoring a direct hit on a hotel in one town. Some persons were feared to have been killed. One German plane was declared to have been destroyed.

Mediterranean Allied Air Force Headquarters has revealed that Allied air activity in that theatre reached a new high during the week of May 21-27, with a total of 17,850 sorties flown, of which 11,282 were tactical missions by fighter-bombers. It was announced more than 6,000 tons of bombs were dropped on tactical targets.

5th Army Cuts

War Correspondent, reported.

On the flank of the Infantry, Ontario reconnaissance troops crossed the Sacco southwest of Ceprano. The Sacco flows into the Liri at a large water reservoir three miles southeast of Ceprano.

From the beachhead 5th Army troops met stubborn resistance every inch of the way in their drive to crack the Anzio-Albano highway, down which the Germans poured vicious attacks last February, and past the Aprilia Highway, railroad and factory area, scene of much of the bloodiest fighting since the beachhead was established.

Stiff Counter Blows

Allied forces pounding to within 1½ miles of Lanuvio, southwest of Velletri, ran into some of the most determined counter-attacks the enemy has launched thus far. The Germans threw everything they had into these counter-thrusts, including flame-throwers.

A prisoner of war said the Germans had used tanks as artillery in recent fighting, digging them in where they offered best protection in culverts and buildings.

Further Nazi reinforcements appeared, in addition to elements of the Hermann Goering 92nd Division which until recently had been in a rest area north of Rome.

It was officially reported that the German 71st, 94th and 715th Divisions already had been virtually destroyed out of the 18 Divisions which the Germans had committed to the battle south of Rome.

Lt.-Col. Ziegler, commander of the 361st Grenadiers opposing the 8th Army, wrote in his regiment's story which fell into the hands of the British forces:—

"Our heavy losses are the token of the hardness of the battle. More than half the men of the 3rd battalion have paid the price for their bravery with their life's blood. In the 2nd battalion losses also have been heavy. The majority are missing, either dead or fallen into English hands, gravely wounded."

The 5th and 8th Armies have taken more than 15,000 prisoners in the present offensive.

Allied fighter-bombers maintained their incessant attacks behind enemy lines, destroying nearly 200 vehicles and three tanks, and exploding an ammunition dump north of Rome.

Mediterranean Air Force heavy bombers concentrated their bombs on Genoa harbor and rail yards at Vercelli, on the Turin-Milan line.

At Genoa direct hits were scored on two large merchant ships. The Ansaldo shipyards and a number of other ships were hit.

Targets in Yugoslavia were bombed in support of Marshal Tito's Partisans.

Medium bombers continued the pounding of rail lines, and R.A.F. Wellingtons attacked Santo Stefano harbor at night.

Of 15 enemy aircraft active over battle areas, four were destroyed. The Mediterranean Air Force flew more than 2,000 sorties and lost three planes.

For the second straight day the French Navy supported the land offensive, one of its cruisers bombarding enemy artillery successfully north of Anzio, the Allied communique said. An Allied destroyer also shelled targets in the same area.

These bombardments brought the total of naval supporting shellfire in the current offensive to more than 70,000 rounds.

tiring president of the Order, called for a strengthening of the bonds of Empire and pointed out to members of the Order attending the reception that "the efforts of 40,000 women directed toward the way of peace will be a mighty weapon."

Noting that this is not only the 44th anniversary of the founding of the I.O.D.E. Canada, but also the 100th anniversary of the birth of Margaret Polson, founder of the order, Mrs. Horkins listed the reasons and aims which led to founding of the I.O.D.E.

Lack of knowledge of the Empire both in Great Britain and the Dominions struck Mrs. Clark Murray—Miss Polson married a professor at Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario—and she started "an organization of women to be formed throughout the British Empire which would be the exponent of British customs, British ideals, British traditions, and of the British flag and all that for which it stands."

Paid Our Way

"Canada, as the senior Dominion of the British Commonwealth of Nations, has been at the side of the motherland since the outbreak of hostilities. Much can be said of our achievements—we have paid our way since the outbreak of war. We have never had to use lease-lend help. We have the largest volunteer fighting force in the world. We have developed the largest small arms factory in the British Empire.

"It is with shock and with great surprise that one hears from time to time of a few Canadians who would wish to see Canada completely independent after the war is over," Mrs. Horkins said.

"The junior partner needs the senior partner, but the senior partner needs the junior partner no less. The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, as the largest patriotic organization of women in Canada, both by desire and constitution is pledged to preserve the ties between us and Britain and also to promote Empire unity."

Mrs. Horkins asked that Canada's great war potentialities be geared for peacetime production once victory is won.

"Peace and victory will not be an end they will be but a beginning of leashing our great war potentialities to the ways of peace and this machinery has been turning out products for war but this wartime organization must not be wasted. It must be turned to a better creation," she said.

Immediately before the service of intercession yesterday Mrs. Horkins placed a wreath on the cenotaph.

Last night member sf the National Executive committee held a private dinner in honor of the retiring president and presented her with an antique rose bowl.

Provincial presidents attending the convention are Mrs. Ryland, H. New, Oakville, Ont.; Mrs. A. T. McMurray, M.B.E., Fredericton; Mrs. A. J. Hughes, Winnipeg; Mrs. W. N. Martin, Vancouver; Mrs. E. A. Lay, Regina; Mrs. R. C. Marshall, B.B.E. Edmonton; rMs. J. N. Foster, Halifax and Mrs. Norman Holland, Westmount, Que.

Obituary

WILLIAM T. ARNOTT

The death of William Thackeray Arnott, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Arnott, occurred Sunday at his home in Otonabee.

Born in Seymour township 73 years ago, Mr. Arnott had lived in this district, including the city and North Monaghan and Otonabee more than fifty-two years. His employment here included some years in the armature department of the Canadian General Electric Company and also as a market gardener.

Mr. Arnott had been ill one year and a half. He is survvied by his wife and one son, William Robert Arnott; and by his sisters: Mrs. Frank Lawless of this city; Mrs. Harry Jeffrey of St. Catharines; Mrs. Edgar Ward in Michigan; and two brothers, A. J. (Bert) Arnott of Peterborough and James of Port Credit.

The funeral will take place Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the residence of W. R. Arnott, a son, 266 McGill street to Little Lake Cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. E. C. Moore of St. George's Anglican Church of which Mr. Arnott was a member.

He succeeds Vice-Admiral Sir W. E. C. Tait.

Brutal Murder

TEXARKANA, Tex., May 29—(AP).—A charge of murder was filed last night against George Johnson, 30-year-old negro, after the battered body of Mrs. Minney May Boatwright, 22, was discovered two miles south of here early on Sunday. Bowie County Sheriff Monroe P. Watts said the woman had been clubbed fatally and raped as she was dying.

Back on the Job

● Yes, many life insurance men who during the past few weeks have sold millions of dollars of Victory Bonds, are back at their regular job. Imperial Life men are always prominent in Government loan campaigns.

Back at his own job, the Imperial Life man's work for Canada goes on and on. The dollars he encourages policyholders to invest in personal and family protection and future financial security, also help greatly in financing the war effort.

In Victory Bond and War Savings campaigns, the Imperial Life man is an important factor in national service. And, needless to say, he himself is a regular investor in these loans. Every day he contributes vital and essential aid to the war programme.

DIES IN COBOURG.

Capt. David C. Dick, O.B.E., died at his home in Cobourg this morning after an extended illness. He was formerly wool administrator and was a textile dyers executive. He is survived by his widow, a son, and a daughter.

AMONG REPATRIATED.

A second cousin of E. G. (Ted) Pridham, manager of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Canada in Peterborough is included in a list of repatriated airmen who arrived in Liverpool aboard the Gripsolm to-day. He is FO. G. E. Pridham, of Toronto.

CORVETTE ARTICLES

A display illustrating some of the many different articles which are being provided by groups and individuals for the corvette Peterborough may be seen today in the window of R. Neill's Shoe Store. They include a handsome desk set, a silver tray, various games, jackets and windbreakers, sewing kits and essential toilet articles provided for every member of the crew in a ditty bag.

CAR IS STOLEN

Car thieves were active in Peterborough over the week-end, with one automobile stolen and another apparently used on a joy ride. The stolen machine was the property of Daniel Crough, 139 Rubidge street, and was taken from in front of that address during Sunday night. Saturday night an automobile belonging to C. Reynolds, 201 Rink street, was stolen and was later left a block away from where it had been parked. A camera valued at $50 was missing from the car.

TO MAKE RECORDINGS

Two minute recordings which their families may play on the victrola at home are going to be made of the voices of crew members of H.M.C.S. Peterborough at the Kawartha Club tonight. Sixty-five or more will be run off by CHEX, starting at 5:30 p.m., and it will give the boys, some of whom may not have been seen or talked to their parents in a long time, an opportunity to say hello to Mom and Dad, their sisters and their brothers. The recordings will be mailed to the families by the radio station.

REACHES ITALY

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson, 735 Water street, have received word that their third son, Milton Nelson, has arrived in Italy. Two other brothers are still there, having been wounded.

TWO FIRES.

Two alarms on Saturday, one for a short circuit in the wiring at 497 Patterson street, home of L. Leggott, and the other a chimney fire at 78 Park street, south, residence of N. Depellaro, were the only week end calls received by the department. Both were handled without damage. The first alarm coming at 11:29 a.m. and the later at 2:35 p.m.

COMMISSIONED.

Two Campbellford boys now serving overseas with the R.C.A.F. have received their commissions according to word from Air Force headquarters. They are WO.1 J. J. Kelly, son of Mr. P J Kelly, Campbellford, who is commissioned as navigation officer, and FS. D. Price, son of Mrs. G. Price of Campbellford, who is now a commissioned pilot.

"ANCIENT AND MODERN NECROMANCY"

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced," was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including First Church of Christ Scientist, on Sunday. The Golden Text was: "I would have you wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil. And the God of peace shall bruise Satan under your feet shortly." (Romans 16: 19, 20). Selections from the Bible included the following from Romans 13:10, 12: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbour; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law. The night is far spent, the day is at hand; let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook included the following: "Love fulfills the law of Christian Science, and nothing short of this divine Principle understood and demonstrated, can ever furnish the vision of the Apocalypse open the seven seals of error with Truth, or uncover the myriad illusions of sin, sickness, and death."

Cpl. Pat Gahagan Wounded In Italy

The Gahagan brothers Pat and Mike, sons of Mrs. G. Gahagan, 494 Sherbrooke street, have made a name for themselves as Nazi hunters since they went to Italy with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Cpl. Mike Gahagan was wounded early in the Mediterranean campaign and returned to field a few weeks later. Now word has been receieved that Cpl. Pat Gahagan has been seriously wounded by shell fragments, in the advance in the Liri Valley.

During the battle of Ortona, the brothers were part of a small patrol unit sent out against the enemy between Ortona and Pescara. They ran into a patrol of six Germans and the two Gahagans, using rugby tactics, "got their men." Cpl. Pat Gahagan captured a 26-year-old corporal who when forced to disarm, handed him an egg bomb.

In addition to the two brothers in Italy a brother, Martin, is also serving overseas.

The telegram which his mother received Sunday night gave a detailed description of his injuries. Cpl. Gahagan is suffering from shell fragment wounds resulting in the following: a compound fracture of the left ankle and right leg, and multiple shell fragment wounds in the head and legs.

In a letter to his mother some time ago, Corporal Gahagan mentioned some recent occasion of Easter communion in which he took part in a front line area. He also wrote that he was chosen to accompany a Roman Catholic chaplain making a special tour of the front in connection with Easter time communion services.

Want Coalition

Dog Controller To Be Active

The City Council has arranged again that the inspector of the Humane Society will be responsible for enforcing the by-law respecting the control of dogs. The Inspector will commence his duties at once and under the by-law it is an offense for dogs to run at large. The co-operation of dog owners in the observance of the by-law will be appreciated.

Bancroft Boy Held On Vagrancy Charge

"I was on my way down to Kingston to enlist" said Albert Woodcock, 16, Bancroft when arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on a charge of vagrancy.

Woodcock had been arrested early this morning sleeping in a parked bus.

"I thumbed my way down from Bancroft Sunday" the youth told the court "and I was going down to Kingston to join up. I didn't have enough money to pay for a room in a hotel."

Stating that there were some suspicious circumstances that the police wanted to investigate Acting Chief John Thompson asked for a remand in the case and it was enlarged until Wednesday morning.

Blind Man Is Hurt When Crossing Street

J. R. Brownlie, well-known blind operator of a news-stand on George street north of Dalhousie street, received cuts and bruises over one eye and abrasions on his ankle on Saturday evening when he was knocked down by an automobile at George and Sherbrooke streets.

Mr. Brownlie was walking across Sherbroke street when a motor car driven south on George street by C. Nattress, 253 George street, backed around the corner. Nattress told police that he did not notice any pedestrian on the crossing and B. F. Ware of Cleveland, Ohio, who was a passenger in Nattress's machine also said that he had not seen any one until they heard Brownlie's stick fall to the pavement and heard him call out.

The blinded pedestrian was knocked to the pavement but when picked up and taken to the Clinic was found to be not seriously injured.

Home-Made Potion

NEW YORK, May 29—(AP)— A 31-year-old housewife, Mrs. Sophie Krisquinas, was charged with homicide yesterday, as a sixth Brooklyn man died from drinking what police believe was poison liquor.

Police said Mrs. Krisuinas admitted selling 15 bottles of alcoholic beverage since last Tuesday.

221 Candidates Confirmed At Cathedral

The sacrament of Confirmation was administered to a large company of 221 young people and adults at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday afternoon by Bishop J. R. McDonald.

The class was composed of 115 boys, 77 girls and 29 adults receiving the sacrament from the hands of His Excellency who was assisted by Rev. John T. Finn, Rev. H. K. Malane, Rev. F. A. Marrocco and Rev. John Kelly of St. Michael's College, Toronto. The candidates were examined by Father Malane and Father Marrocco as a preliminary of the sacrament, and at its conclusion Bishop McDonald spoke to the large congregation on the necessity and power of God's love in the world of today.

Featuring the solemn festivities of Pentecost Sunday, the feast of the Holy Ghost, third person of the Holy Trinity, was the pontifical high mass celebrated by Bishop McDonald with Rev. Father Finn as assistant priest, Rev. Dr. Masterson and Rev. Charles Kay assistant deacons.

The deacons of the Mass were Father Malane and Father Marrocco, and the sermon was preached by Rev. John Kelly, who spoke on the power of the Holy Spirit.

St. Mary's convent choir assisted during the afternoon.

Two Small Boys Manufacture Gun Powder Then Start Celebration Of Their Own

There may not have been any firecrackers for Victoria Day, but young Peterborough was evidently not going to be deprived of its usual explosives without doing something about it.

Anyway police were called to King street Saturday to investigate some loud bangs that had been heard in that neighborhood and discovered two small boys, one nine, the other 11, having a big time with some home-made powder.

They had mixed sulphur and potash obtained from uptown drugstores, put some small stones over the combination and then were causing explosions by dropping heavier stones on the small ones.

The youngsters told police that they had been initiated into the manufacture of the home-made dynamite by older boys.

While the matter is being investigated the police have asked druggists to be careful about selling the ingredients of the explosive to small children.

Gnr. H. T. Bailey Suffers Wounds

Word was received this morning that Gnr. Herbert T. Bailey, son of E. W. Bailey, 3rd avenue, has been wounded in action in Italy on May 23, in the heavy fighting in which an anti-tank regiment of the R.C.A. participated in the Liri Valley.

The injured soldier has been serving overseas for two years and has been in Italy since last October. Before joining the Army, he was employed at the Peterborough Canoe Company and the Kawartha Golf Club. His father served overseas with the 93rd Battalion in the last war and a brother, Gnr. William Bailey, who was overseas, is stationed in Canada.

Theft Case Remanded When Counsel Absent

Owing to the fact that his counsel, W. J. Arthur Fair, was out of town this morning, it was impossible to proceed with the trial of Maurice Pelland, charged with the theft of an automobile owned by Robert Crowley of Otonabee from the parking lot of the Preston service station, Charlotte street, on Sunday, May 14.

One youth has already been convicted on a similar charge and sentenced to a year in the reformatory, but the 19-year-old Pelland entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned last week.

It was decided to remand the accused for a week with the understanding that as the June sittings commence next Monday there would be a further remand on that occasion.

William Madill Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, May 29 — (CP) — For 35 years in the drug business in Peterborough, William Madill, 85, died yesterday at his home at suburban Mimico. He was one-time chairman of Nicholls Hospital Board, Peterborough.

The son of the late James Madill Pickering Township, he was born near Whitby. Coming to Toronto 18 years ago, Mr. Madill was for some years dispenser at the Wellesley Hospital, retiring six years ago.

Formerly a prominent member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough, where he was superintendent of the Sunday School for 20 years, he had latterly been identified with Parkdale Presbyterian Church. He was also a member of I.O.F. and I.O.O.F.

Surviving are his widow, Hannah Hill Madill, and a son, Major W. S. Madill, C.D.C.

The body is resting at the funeral parlors of Ross J. Craig, Queen street west at Dunn avenue, until Tuesday noon; and the funeral service will be held at Parkdale Presbyterian Church, Dunn avenue, at 2 p.m. Interment in Park Lawn cemetery.

Bishop MacDonald Confirms Keene Class

Thirteen boys and girl and one adult comprised the class of candidates from the parish of St. John, Keene, who received the sacrament of confirmation through the ministry of Bishop MacDonald of Peterborough Sunday evening. His Excellency was accompanied to Keene by Rev. J. T. Finn and Rev. F. K. Malane who assisted in the rite.

Bishop MacDonald afterwards addressed the class and the congregation on the significance of the sacrament of confirmation and also of the universal feast of the Holy Ghost celebrated on Pentecost Sunday.

Before joining the Air Force, he worked with his father in Norwood.

Major R. Yelland Ortona Veteran Killed In Italy

Spared injury in the violent fighting of Ortona, in which he played a valiant part in fierce fighting for possession of that hard-won town, Major Reginald C. Yelland, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Yelland, 487 Hunter street west, was killed in action in Italy last Tuesday, May, 23. Information of his death was received by the family Sunday afternoon. The young officer, who would have been 24 next month, was a squadron leader of the Three Rivers Tank Regiment; and was more than likley one of those participating in the spectacular mechanized advance of Canadian forces in the Allies' renewed drive on Rome.

Overseas for three years, Major Yelland sailed for England on June 21, 1941, his 21st birthday. A 1st lieutenant at the time of his enlistment in that year with the Three Rivers Tank Regiment, he won his captaincy in Britain before leaving to take part in his initial action during the Sicilian campaign. It was his brave performance at the battle of Ortona which caused him to be recommended for promotion, and in January of this year he was made an acting major. His majority was confirmed in April.

Mention of Major Yelland and other tankmen who ploughed their tanks through the ruins of Ortona to engage in point-blank gun duels with the determined German defenders was contained in press dispatches early this year; and an article appearing January 22 entitled "Fire, Fury and Death" quoted the Peterborough officer's description of one such duel in which his tank slugged it out at close quarters with the Hun.

Major Yelland's military background included a period of training with the Prince of Wales Rangers, which he joined in the spring of 1940, receiving his commission as 2nd lieutenant in the fall. Early in 1941 he completed his C.O.T.C. training at Toronto University, joining the Three Rivers Regiment in February and receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree. He matriculated at Toronto University in 1937, following graduation from the Peterborough Collegiate, and studied medicine his first year, followed by three years of the general arts course. Maj. Yelland took an interest in sports in his school days, and one of his chief hobbies was postage-stamp collecting.

An adopted sister, Mary, now training in the Canadian Mothercraft in a Toronto hospital, remains besides the soldier's parents.

Aid Given Fund In Memory Of Bobby White

It might normally be considered a difficult thing for young children so free of many of the sterner responsibilities of life, to have as yet a full sensibility of what tragedy lies behind the sudden cutting of a very young life, but it has been shown on many occasions by them in recent years, just how much they can do in sympathy for people who are in real trouble.

With almost lightning like-rapidity, tragedy came recently to the family of Mr. and Mrs. W. White of Braidwood avenue, when their young son, Bobby, was fatally injured in an accident quite close to the home, and a community wide sorrow and sympathy for them in their great trouble was shared in by the children, many of whom had known and had been his playmates at the Confederation School in that district.

Wishing to show how much they sympathized with the bereaved parents and family, so many children of all ages in this school brought in money to their teachers to pay for a token of their condolence, that the principal and teachers deemed it unwise to use it all for that purpose so after a great deal of thought on their part, the balance left after paying for a lovely floral tribute was forwardede to the parents, accompanied by a letter from Mrs. H. B. Jackson in explanation, wherein it was suggested that they should use it in the manner that seemed most fit to them.

Both the letter and money were then forwarded by the parents and family to the headquarters of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, with a request that it be placed to the credit of the fund "In Loving Memory of Bobby White" from the children of the school, from when it will go on its mission of mercy to help other people also in distress, and from a knowledge of the real hearts of the boys and girls from whom it came in the first instance, the writer feels very sure that they would endorse this very much, since they, including the young boy whose life terminated so tragically, have on many occasions previously, participated in the humanitarian work of sympathy that the fund endeavours to carry on.

Thus from out of one deep sorrow comes assistance to help others who are also in trouble, and nothing could really seem to fit more appropriately into this sad picture, because relatives, including grandmother of the boy were in Coventry when it was so badly hit by an enemy air raid in the earlier stages of the war, and even as this was being written, further damage and loss of life and injury to others was being ocasioned in Britain by enemy raiders.

One other gift for the fund is also noted to-day, the penny box at the Warne Jewellery Store adding another $2.10 to what it has previously given in assistance to assist in the purposes for which the fund continues to function.

Want Study Centres

TORONTO, May 29—(CP)— The Ontario Medical Association Saturday endorsed a report urging the setting up of postgraduate study centres for physicians at Universities and at six Ontario cities without medical schools. Endorsement came at closing sessions of a two-day convention.

PROMOTED—National Defence Headquarters at Kingston announces today the promotion in the Canadian Army Overseas of Major J. A. Harstone, M.C., to the rank of Acting Lieutenant-Colonel, and Captain A. S. MacRae to the rank of Acting Major. Lt.-Col. Harstone is sheriff of Peterborough county and has been on active service since early in the war commanding the first unit to leave the city. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harstone, reside at 565 Water Street. Major MacRae is with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, his wife living at 111 Crescent Street.

Mother Senses Son Wounded

I woke up about 3 a.m. May 18 felt that something was wrong, and I got up and walked down as far as George street and then back home. A few days later, Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe brought the news that my son was injured," Mrs. John Crowe, 406½ Sheridan street, at Hunter street, told the Examiner to-day.

"Something of the same feeling came on me again this morning, and I stayed out from work at the the C. G. E. Just a little while ago, Rev. Father Finn brought us the news that my boy was shot through the hip in the fighting in Italy."

Private James Edward Crowe enlisted with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment at Picton, four years ago on June 15. He is a member of the Cathedral parish.

Two brothers and a sister are also in the services. Fred Crowe enlisted with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders on June 23rd, four years ago, and another brother Frank, with the Royal Canadian Ordanance Corps joined up three years ago.

Frank Crowe is with the Canadians in Italy and Fred is in England. Their sister, Theresa, is with the C. W. A. C. at Kingston.

To apply for $100, $200 or any amount up to $500, just give us a few facts about yourself and your job—and choose a convenient payment schedule. We require no endorsers or guarantors, no recommendations from friends or relatives. Household Finance loans are made largely on character and earning ability. If you have a job or other source of steady income, you are invited to apply to Household for the loan you need.

Loans over $300 at reduced rate

Notice the choice of plans for repaying your loan. The shorter the time you take to repay the less your loan costs. A $100 loan repaid in twelve monthly instalments of $9.46 each—a total of $113.52—costs $13.52. If repaid in six monthly instalments a $100 loan costs only $7.10. Charges on loans of more than $300 were recently reduced. Notice that a $500 loan repaid in four monthly instalments costs only $22.40. Payments shown in the table include both principal and costs. You pay nothing more. We have no hidden charges of any kind.

Solve your problem here

Household makes loans to pay old debts, taxes, doctor bills, help relatives—for emergencies of many kinds. When you need $50, $100 or up to $500, phone, write or visit Household Finance.

IN MEMORIAM

GRAHAM—In loving memory of Mrs. G. E. Graham, who passed away May 29, 1942.

We do not forget you, nor do we intend,
We think of you often, and will to the end;
Gone and forgotten by some you may be
But dear to our memory you ever will be.
—Ever remembered by Mother and Father and Brothers.

GRAHAM—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. George Graham, who passed away 2 years ago today, May 29, 1942.

Calm and peaceful she is sleeping,
Sweetest rest that follows pain;
We who loved her sadly miss her,
But trust in God to meet again.
—Always remembered by husband, and sons, Jack and Ray.

STEVENS—In loving memory of dad, Mr. G. D. Stevens who passed away, May 29, 1940.

His memory is as dear to-day
As in the hour he passed away
—Ever remembered by Wife and Family and Grandchildren.

Montreal Girls Virtually Slaves

MONTREAL, May 29 — (CP) — Prostitutes here were "virtually" slaves in the 1930's, Philippe Aube, former Provincial Police Chief, yesterday told a one-man commission inquiring on the activities of the Provincial Police in the Montreal district since 1936.

Mr. Aube told Mr. Justice L. Cannon that prostitutes when questioned at Provincial Police Headquarters said "Half of their earnings went to the madame who also collected dues for the lawyer, the doctor and the police."

He added that girls arrested during raids complained they were "virtually" slaves and that they often asked police help to obtain jobs.

"As a matter of fact, we were able to get work for a few girls," Mr. Aube said.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

WIFE NEEDS THE PLAYGIRL'S CHARMS

Must Be Able To Jolly Husband Along As Well As Be Good Mother and Housekeeper.

DEAR MISS DIX—(1) Do you think a woman who is an excellent housekeeper, a wonderful mother and highly intelligent can hold her husband when he is attracted to gay, loving and sirenish women?

(2) Do you think it is wrong for a young girl to go out on dates with a married man who does not get along with his wife, but who has not secured a divorce from her because of his two little children whom he adores? (3) Do you see anything wrong in young people from 18 to 25 years old discussing such problems as sex, birth control and things of that nature?

(4) Do you believe the old proverb that "a woman should think with her heart and a man should think with his head?" (5) When a fellow tries to proposition a girl, what method ought she to take in addition to slapping his face? I think that slapping of faces is rather old-fashioned and there must be some simpler, more civilized way to make a man realize that you aren't that kind of a girl, and still remain friends with him.

ANSWER—(1) Every man wants a wife who is an excellent housekeeper and good mother and who has plenty of sense, but she doesn't stand much chance of holding him unless she adds the charms of the playgirl to them and is gay and loving and is willing to take the trouble of jollying him along.

(2) It is not only wrong, it is silly for a young girl to fall in love with a married man who makes his children an excuse for not divorcing his wife, because she is bound to lose out in the end. There is no percentage in dates that do not lead to the altar. (3) There is nothing wrong in young people discussing the intimate problems of life, provided they do it with their doctors, or their clergymen or priests or rabbis. Otherwise it is vulgar curiosity.

(4) Both a girl and a man should use their hearts and their heads when picking out their mates. If they did, there would not be so many unhappy marriages. (5) Slapping a man's face when he propositions you is certainly an emphatic way of saying "no," but a better way is to keep him from insulting you by conducting yourself so discreetly and modestly that he will know that you are the kind of a girl that even a cad treats with respect.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—We have been married eleven years and my husband and I are very fond of each other and get along very well together except when we play bridge. If I make a mistake, it precipitates a scene. He berates me for playing a terrible game; that I don't pay attention; that I play like a fool, and so on. He gets so furious and says so much that it is embarrassing not only to me, but to everyone around, and I get so hurt and rattled that I can't even see the cards. What shall I do?

PERPLEXED WIFE.

ANSWER—The only thing you can do is just to refuse to play in a game in which your husband is taking part. If you love cards, that is a sacrifice, but it is better than being insulted by him and made to look ridiculous before other people.

It is commonly said that there are two things that no sensible woman should do. One is let her husband try to teach her to run a car. The other is to play cards with him.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, May 30

WHILE THE affairs of this day may be speeded up to high tempo, and the energies keyed to extreme nervous tension, yet there is little promise of any great or lasting progress, especially as to business, financial or professional pursuits. Decisions and agreements should be made swiftly and with shrewd and sagacious grasp of strange factors or irregularities, both baffling and bewildering. The affairs of the young and romantic, are likely to reach high levels of dramatic adventure. Cultivate the good will of elders and superiors.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the descent of a whirlwind. A set of circumstances, radical, uprooting and devastating, in which business affairs may speed to high tempo, challenging to nerves, emotions and sound acumen is foreseen. However, the forces and facilities should be under excellent stimuli for a quick grasp of surprising situations, and those demand sound and clever decisions and agreements, in which there may be little cooperation from influential sources. There should be pleasant compensations for the young.

A child born on this day may be exceptionally versatile and talented, although erratic, temperamental and unorthodox in its skills, ideas and desires, having little tolerance from its superiors.

Cpl. F. H. Britnell Weds Overseas

A wedding of interest took place recently in Wymering Church, England, whe Cpl. Frank Edward Britnell, Jr., R.C.A.F., took Brenda Miriam Watson, of Wymering, as his bride. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Britnell, 335 Rogers street, Peterborough. Rev. Donald Pickering officiated, and Norman White was at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown, an embroidered veil falling from a coronet of orange blossoms, and carried a sheaf of lilies. She was attended by her sisters, Misses Violet and Phyllis Watson, who were gowned alike in blue taffeta, and carried ruched muffs. Miss S. Peters and Master C. Peters, niece and nephew of the bride, dressed in white satin, were train bearers. LAC. A. Dickson, R.C.A.F., was best man.

Cpl. Britnell, who enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in October, 1939, and went overseas in November, 1942, is a ground crew man. While in Canada, he was stationed at St. Thomas, Prince Edward Island, and Ottawa. The bride was a former member of the Crosham Division St. John Ambulance Association.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LEARN BRIDGE FAST
7—Be a Sound Bidder

IF YOU WANT to make a partner happy, just say he is "a sound bidder." That is one of the greatest compliments you can pay to a bridge player.

Do you know what it means? It does not imply that he is brilliant, fancy or tricky, but that he is dependable. It means that you can generally count on him to have about the kind of hand he has indicated by his action during the bidding—the "auction," as that preliminary stage of the game is called in the official laws.

If there is some one factor more important than any other in what you do in the auction, it is your soundness. By being dependable and sound most of the time, your partner will be able to get a pretty good idea of what you hold in your hand. Combining that with what he holds in his hand will aid him to know what the pair should be able to do in the play which follows the bidding.

In bridge, the number of tricks you can take with your own hand is of only secondary importance. What you and your partner combined can do is what really counts, for a trick taken by you is just as valuable to him as one taken by himself, and a trick taken by him is just as valuable to you as one taken by yourself. For bridge is a partnership affair, in which each side has 26 cards, 13 of them held by each member of the partnership.

If one of you makes a bid, the other will count on him to have at least a certain amount of strength of one kind or another, depending on what bid he made. The partner then has some idea of what the pair should accomplish, and can govern his action accordingly. Sometimes the partner will pass, and the first bid will constitute the "contract" at which the deal gets played. More often the partner will make a "response"—a bid of his own. That then gives the first member of the pair some information on what his partner holds, and he may bid again if advisable.

Frequently the bidding goes back and forth between partners a number of times, each bid making clearer what the pair's combined hands can accomplish, until finally the best contract is reached.

A good deal of the time, both sides make bids. You and your partner may be doing quite a lot of bidding back and forth, but the opponents also may be taking positive action instead of passing all of the time. That is especially so if one pair has most of the cards in a certain suit or couple of suits, and the opponents have most of the cards in some other suit or suits. In those cases, you may see quite a real battle to decide who will "buy the contract." It is then just like an auction sale in which there are opposing bidders, the highest bidder getting the goods. That is why it is called the "auction."

Sometimes one pair bids a good deal and its opponents make perhaps only one bid or two, and the stronger side then keeps on bidding back and forth while the opponents retire into their shell and only pass. If the strong side finally reaches too high a point, the opponents may then come to life again by doubling, in order to increase the score they will get if they defeat the contract, which they expect to defeat.

But even the doubling by one player is based on the number of tricks he thinks his side can take against the other side—the number of tricks he believes will be taken by 26 cards, his 13 and his partner's 13.

The most important factor, then, in your bidding, is to think of what your pair can do, not just what your hand can do. If you and your partner are dependable bidders, and help each other in this process, you are sound bidders. Try to be one.

Special Banquet Held By W.A.

WARSAW, May 29—(ENS)—Mrs. J. Cridland, Peterborough, was guest speaker at the Mother and Daughter banquet held by the Women's Association in the church basement recently, when 70 were present.

Mrs. E. D. Snelgrove had charge of the arrangements and program. Rev. Snelgrove acted as toastmaster and was assisted by Mrs. David Miller, Mrs. Harold Ray and a group of young girls from Warsaw school.

The program consisted of community singing, with Mrs. Roland Payne at the piano. A duet by Mrs. Arthur Payne and Barbara, duet by J. O. and Pat Snelgrove, and Mrs. Snelgrove read the "Beatitudes of Mother."

Mrs. Cridland spoke on reconstruction and woman's place in the post-war period. She said it was every woman's duty to acquaint herself with facts of government and make use of the franchise, which every woman in Canada is blessed with. She said if the sons thought Canada worth fighting or dying for, every mother and daughter owed it to them to plan for the future.

Mrs. Weller expressed the appreciation of the Association to the speaker and others taking part in the program.

Reuters Denies Charges About Stories

NEW YORK, May 29—(AP)—Reuters News Agency said yesterday an assertion by a United States State Department official that it had distributed highly editorialized stories cast "a slur upon the British newspapers which own Reuters" and was "an unwarranted attack upon professional newspapermen."

Thursday, Paul H. Alling, Deputy Director of the State Department's Office of Near Eastern and African Affairs, urged the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee not to curb the operations of the Office of War Information which he said counteracted "highly editorialized stories sent out by Reuters."

Reuters' statement:

"Regarding Mr. Paul H. Alling's testimony before a House sub-committee, criticizing Reuters' news distribution, Reuters have little comment to make except that they by now are hardened to tententious criticism of this kind.

"They regret, however, that State Department officials, in seeking to justify O.W.I. appropriations, find it necessary to attack an organization owned by the British press. Mr. Alling, in referring to 'highly editorialized stories sent out by Reuters,' casts a slur upon the British newspapers which own Reuters and which are pledged by the Reuter charter to supply an unbiased news service to newspapers throughout the world and maintain the integrity of the Reuter news report.

"Reuters categorically deny Mr. Alling's statement and particularly his allegation regarding the service to India that they send out American stories, perhaps omitting part of the story or something of that sort, and naturally from the British viewpoint."

"Apart from the fact that this statement throws doubt upon the integrity of the British newspapers owing Reuters, it is an unwarranted attack upon professional newspapermen—including many Americans—who compiled and transmit the Reuter service. "Reuter's reporters and editors are trained to work to one criterion only—news value. Reuters are fully satisfied that in their service to India, and to all other countries, full, fair and truthful presentation is given of news from the United States.

All significant speeches by leaders of American life are carried textually by Reuters to India and American news executives who have had an opportunity of studying Reuters' services in various parts of the world—including India—have commented to Reuters upon the integrity, completeness and freedom from bias of the Reuter news report from the United States."

WMS Auxiliary Hears Story About China

BETHANY, May 29—(ENS)—The monthly meeting of the evening auxiliary of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Harding Mrs. Jackson read a letter of thanks from the Victor Mission in Toronto from our recent donation to that fund. It was decided to serve a dinner to a delegation of teachers meeting in the town hall today.

Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Waddell are responsible for making arrangements.

Water Towers, who responded were Mrs. Jackson, India in Canada and Mrs. Harding, China, Mrs. Jackson read a letter from the Presbyterial Temperance Convener, Mrs. Flossie Sloan, Peterborough, asking that a petition be signed and sent to the government asking "that Women's Beverage Rooms be done away with. The May program in the Missionary Monthly was carried out, the motto being, "All the world all of life for Christ." Mrs. Waddell presented the first part of last chapter of the Study Book: "All of life for Christ, this part of the chapter, dealt with Church work in China.

A reconstruction movement is carrying on work in occupied Western China. Missionaries, get new methods of overcoming difficulties which natives meet in their silk worm growing and farming. The National Christian Council advises consideration of others, as a base for success.

The Study Book period was followed by a Quiz, conducted by Mrs. Harding on the Book, "For All Of Life".

Would Retire All Men Over 60 Years Old

VANCOUVER, May 29—(CP)—A resolution asking for the retirement after the war of all male civil servants over 60 years of age and women over 55, was passed at the closing session of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada here last night.

Another resolution asked that the Government retire after the war all of its employees who have completed 35 years' service to make way for discharged servicemen and women.

The association rejected a proposal that it affiliate with any labor organization.

A. H. Helm of Kitchener, Ont., was elected president of the association for the coming year. Vice-presidents elected included Art Scott of Ottawa, E. Carse of Kitchener, and M. Huot of Quebec City. Fred Knowles of Ottawa was named secretary-treasurer.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Will Forsythe, Mrs. E. N. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Patterson, Mrs. Sam McGee and Mrs. D'Arcy McGee, Mrs. Ted McGee, Mrs. Jack Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sherwin, Mr. and Mrs. W. Chamberland, Mrs. Fred Gardner, Mrs. Olive Bannon, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stinson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stinson and family, Mrs. Martha Patterson, Mr. Fred Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Blakely and family, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Williamson, Mr. Fred Hay and Mr. Alex Clements.

The guests ate in the dining-room, decorated with pink and white streamers. The table, with its white cloth was centred with a silver basket of cut flowers, with silver candle holders and pink tapers. The hostess Mrs. Richard Bannon, assisted by Mrs. P. Beavis, Mrs. Roy Murphy and Mrs. Alex Clements served a dainty luncheon.

Costly Battle At Dunkirk Four Years Ago

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 29—(AP)—The nine-days' wonder that saved Britain—Poet Laureate John Masefield's description of Britain's escape from France — started four years ago on the battered beaches of Dunkerque.

The strangest armada of all time—including rowboats and canoes—accomplished the rescue of the British Expeditionary force.

Yet the dreadful climax to the debacle in Flanders cost Britain dearly. The official report was that 1,000 ships evacuated 335,000 men; that casualties exceeded 30,000 killed, wounded or missing, and that material losses were almost beyond reckoning.

That was Dunkerque which none here remembers without shuddering.

Then a bruised army, a Canadian division and a quickly formed home guard were all the organized manpower Britain had to resist the enemy if he invaded. Then weapons were few and, by 1944 standards, crude.

Now many times the number of men saved from the sands of Dunkerque await the command to swarm across the Channel; Allied guns, tanks and planes are superior. Flushed with false triumph four years ago, the Germans today manifestly fear a Dunkerque of their own—flight from the sea that will not be a nine-days wonder.

Named Field Man For Holstein Group

BRANTFORD, Ont., May 29 — (CP)—F. Roy Ormiston of Brooklin, Ont., has been appointed field man for Ontario, Victoria, Northumberland, Durham, Hastings, Prince Edward, Peterborough, Lennox and Addington Counties by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, it was announced last night.

He succeeds R. M. Holtby of Port Perry, who has become chief inspector of selective registration for the association.

Bomber Crash Brings 57 Claims

MONTREAL, May 29 — (CP) — Fifty-seven claims for damages resulting from the crash of the Liberator in down-town Montreal April 25 last, were filed yesterday with the Judge Advocate's office here. Seven of these were for death of victims.

Three other civilians were killed, but the fact that claims were not registered on behalf of the relatives yesterday does not bar their presentation after adjudication on the claims starts next Monday, it was pointed out. Mr. Justice O. S. Tyndale will sit as commissioner named by order-in-council.

A ruling of the commissioner forbids disclosure of amounts of the respective claims until the cases are called for adjudication.

The commissioner's report will be filed to Ottawa upon completion of the hearings and the government will decide the amounts to be awarded in the light of the merits of the respective claims.

The fatal bomber having been in the service of the Royal Air Force, liability will be assumed by the British government.

SAFEGUARDING PERSONAL INITIATIVE

● Canadians don't like the idea of regimentation. Unregimented, their vision, courage and initiative, have built for Canada a standard of living unexcelled anywhere and equalled by only one other country in the world.

To preserve and improve that standard for themselves, is the very root of existence to every red-blooded man and woman in the nation. The opportunity to do that . . . the freedom to do a better job and earn a better living . . . must be kept open at all costs.

The hope of a just reward stimulates enterprise; the expectation of worthy privilege encourages thrift. Without these incentives personal initiative would die — and all its benefits with it.

3,200 Planes Go Into Action In Devastating Attacks From British, Italian Bases

Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, France Feel Weight Of Bombs Battering Plane Factories, Rail Centres

By W. W. HERCHER—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 30—(AP).—At least 3,200 American aircraft assaulted the Germans today in co-ordinated strikes from Britain and Italy, bombing aircraft factories, air bases, and rail centres in Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, France and the Low Countries after R.A.F. night Mosquito strikes at varied targets.

From Britain for the third successive day, 2,200 heavy bombers and fighters swept through clear skies over northern Europe and smashed at least a dozen targets.

A daylight force about 1,000 strong flew from Italy and attacked Wiener Neustadt in Austria. One group of heavy bombers attacked an airdrome in the Linz area, 130 miles across the north Italian border in south Germany. Others bombed Zagreb, Croatian capital in Yugoslavia.

Berlin radio reported great air battles raging over central Germany and the Alps.

Targets Numerous.

Targets of the Britain-based fleets, made up of American heavy bombers, were aircraft plants at Dessau, Oschersleben and Halberstadt in Germany; railroad yards at Brussels, Belgium and Reims and Troyes in France; airbases at Handorf, near Munster, Diepholz near Osnabruk, Halberstadt and in the Hamburg area.

The parade of Allied planes across the Channel was led by American fighters following an attack last night by R.A.F. Mosquitoes on Hanover in central Germany.

Allied headquarters at Naples announced that the American-fighter fleets sweeping into Austria and Southern Germany from the south had hit the Wiener Neustadt area near Vienna, bombing the Neudorfl aircraft factory, the Pottendorf Shinning mills nine miles to the northwest, the Ebereichsdorf Carpet factory 11 miles to the southwest. All the Neunkirchen Spinning mills 10 miles to the southwest. All the factories that had been converted into the production of Messersch mitt fighter parts.

Other groups of unescorted flying Fortresses bombed rail yards at Zagreb, in Yugoslavia, and still others of the 250 and 500 heavy bombers participating in the day's operations hit an aircraft factory and a nearby airdrome at Wels, 10 miles southwest of Linz, in southern Germany.

Without a single loss the Mosqitoes drubbed the German base at Nantes, off the western coast of Nantes, and unspecified installations is western Germany, the Air Ministry said.

Lose 20 Heavies.

Summarizing the results of the raid on airdromes, aircraft plants and rail yards in Austria yesterday by a force of possibly 750 heavy bombers and fighter escorts a communique said 68 enemy aircraft were destroyed at a loss of 20 United States heavy bombers and 14 other aircraft.

The Germans raided southern England for the second night in a row, one wave bombing a southwest shore community while other planes cruised along the coast, evidently trying to spot invasion preparations. The Nazis, doubling their bombing score of the night before, hit two hotels. Five dead and several seriously injured persons were brought out during the night, and rescuers still dug for others to-day.

It became apparent meanwhile

Move Farmers At Timmins As Fires Rage

TORONTO, May 30 (CP).—Farmers in the Timmins area were moved to safety last night as one of the 10 forest fires ranging out of control in Ontario approached to within three miles of the city, it was reported today. Officials of the Department of Lands and Forests said that men and equipment are being rushed to the scene by train and plane.

Further south in the Kirkland Lake district a fire threatened three homes in the village of Harvey Kirkland, half a mile from Kirkland Lake, but the flames were kept away by members of the Teck township fire department, assisted by citizens.

From Kirkland Lake last evening citizens could see columns of smoke rising thousands of feet as the fire ate into heavy timber stands near Bourkes, about 25 miles northwest of Kirkland Lake.

The Department of Lands and Forests here revealed that the flames southwest of Timmins were causing some concern in the mining district. Equipment and men for fighting the fires was being rushed into the area by plane and train. Farmers in the area on which the fire was encroaching were moved to safety.

Some residents of the west end of Harvey Kirkland were forced to

Ecuador Riots Kill 40 People

QUITO, Ecuador, May 30 — (AP) — Dr. Carlos Arroyo Del Rio was a refugee in the United States Embassy here today after resigning the Ecuadorean Presidency under pressure of retvolutionists who seized power in Quayaquil and invited former President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra to return from exile in Colombia.

Ecuadorean troops, using tanks and backed by members of the Alianza Democratica (Democratic Alliance) Group, gained control of Guayaquil, main commercial city and Pacific port, after a 10-hour battle yesterday in which more than 40 persons were reported killed and 200 wounded. The main resistance was by the Guayaquil Police.

A provisional Junta was set up in Guayaquil to rule the city and quiet had been restored today.

(Leaders of both factions have declared their support of Ecuador's role in hemisphere solidarity.

(In Colombia, Velasco Ibarra disclaimed responsibility for the Guayaquil revolt, and expressed hope the Junta would respect the people's wishes in the forthcoming election.)

Stage A "Stay-In Strike"

8,000 Workers Reject Lay-Off Orders

NEW YORK, May 30.—(AP). — Some 8,000 Brewster Aeronautical Corporation workers, rejecting lay-off orders, staged a unique "stay-in" demonstration here last night and today, refusing to leave the plant in protest against termination of a navy work contract.

Spokesmen for the employees, members of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), said they had a five-day food supply in the Long Island city factory and were determined to stay at least until tomorrow.

When the 1,800 night shift workers reported for duty last night they found almost all of the 6,700 day workers had remained in the plant. The day shift whiled away the time singing, dancing and playing games. The night shift employees were to stay throughout today.

A similar situation occurred at th Brewster plant in Johnsville, Pa., where 500 workers remained over night, sleeping on tables and benches after having dinner in the factory cafeteria.

About 3,300 employees in the Pensylvania plant began the "stay-in" demonstration, but many left for their homes during the night. A dance orchestra and recreational facilities were planned for those remaining.

Pays Undertaker Then Attempts Suicide Scheme Fails, Wants Funeral Money Back

LOS ANGELES, May 29—(AP).—When an undertaker received a letter from John Beck, indicating he contemplated suicide, and containing a money order to cover funeral expenses, he gave it to police who rushed out to Beck's address, only to find no body.

Presently Beck appeared and reported:

"Oh, I was tired of it all. I turned on the gas and put a pillow case over my head. Then I fell asleep.

"I woke a couple of hours later—and I was still alive. It must have been an act of God.

"How can I get my money back?"

Police referred him to the undertaker.

Surprise 8th Army Attack Decimates Hun Paratroops

By LYNN HEINZERLING—Associated Press Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN THE LIRI VALLEY, May 30—(AP).—The British 8th Army caught units of the first German Parachute Division with some of its guns packed early yesterday, and as a result the hills around Arce were littered with German dead and the withdrawal to the north was made on a much smaller scale.

British troops were pressing hard against the withdrawing Germans and slowly opening Highway 6 in the direction of Frosinone.

British tanks were working their way through the hills, sometimes at a height of 2,000 feet, digging relentlessly at the German flank.

The Liri Valley just below Highway 6 between Arce and Capreno was strewn with the blackened hulks of German tanks and burned-out remnants of German transport.

In the fighting south of Arce the Germans decided to pull out during the night apparently assuming the 8th was not expecting it. Instead, when the Germans started to move an artillery barrage which re-echoed through valley most of the night fell on the hapless parachutists. Burial squads were busy today putting away the rearguard specialists who stayed too long.

Despite this miscalculation, the parachutists were fighting stubbornly, blowing up every bridge culvert and mining liberally as the 8th Army punched forward toward Frosinone.

Guardsman Robert Jones of Rhye, North Wales, standing just off Highway 6 in the Arce area today, told about the fighting with the Germans.

"Don't mention rearguards to me," said Jones. "We were up the road, trying to put him away. All of a sudden all the shells in Germany seemed to be heading our way. We pulled back here a bit, let it cool a bit, but we'll get him."

Canadian and British troops were engaged in a good-natured contest to see who could get to Frosinone first.

The Canadians advancing northwest of Ceprano and southwest of Highway 6 seemed to be leading as the sun fell, but the British were making rapid strides and anything can happen overnight in this kind of war.

I. O. D. E. Spends Million Dollars In Past 12 Months

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON, May 30. — (CP).— Figures showing that the cost of work of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire amounted to more than $1,000,000 dollars during the past year were presented today at the Order's 44th National Convention by the national treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., of Toronto.

"The grand total of reported general and war service disbursements by 897 junior, primary, municipal and provincial chapters is $1,186,777," Mrs Walton said.

The treasurer's report and her report of the Finance committee highlighted the second business day of the five-day convention.

The report showed that the order had invested $21,500 in the Fifth Victory Loan. Mrs. Walton also reported that I.O.D.E. members serving in the women's forces had been extended honorary membership during the year

"While on active service these members will not be called upon to pay fees and will be elected annually as honorary metmbers of their respective chapters on the understanding they resume active membership on their discharge from the forces, and payment of current annual fees of the year in which they rejoin" she said.

"Further recognition of those serving in the forces is that a War Services badge will be awarded them," she added.

The badge will be a bar of the same size as the 1914-1939 War Badge and in suitable colors: Navy blue for members of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service, Air Force blue for those in R.C.A.F., and white bar for nursing sisters.

Princess Suggests.

Mrs. J. R. Page of Toronto reported Princess Alice, honorary president of the Order, had suggested that a special pamphlet of facts about Canada be prepared for British brides of Canadian service

Chinese Score Two New Gains

CHUNGKING, May 30 —(AP)— Chinese forces, taking advantage of the return of good weather, have scored new successes in a drive along the lofty Mamien trail leading to Tengchung, main enemy base in Yunnan province and pivotal point of a Japanese-built motor highway system, the Chinese high command announced today.

Maintaining their progress in the Salween offensive, the Chinese labored up steep mountain paths and captured 8,000-foot Lengshuikou, the highest village on the Mamien trail.

At Chaikungtang, described as the "last enemy pocket" on the Mamien trail, Chinese troops were attacking the surrounded Jap garrison, and its capture was believed imminent.

Headquarters announced American aircraft gave strong support to the advancing Chinese in the Salween area.

In other operations, heavy bombers dropped 28 tons of bombs yesterday on Japanese-held Burma Road positions. Heavy bombers sank a 1,700-ton freighter and damaged a large cargo vessel in an attack on a Japanese convoy off Hainan Island.

Prevention Job

Hun Civilians Lynch Allied Fliers

Unconfirmed Story Says Police Defied By Mob

STOCKHOLM, May 30.—(AP).— American airmen who parachuted into three unnamed places in Central Germany yesterday were "killed by agitated people" the newspaper Aftonbaldet's Berlin correspondent wrote to-day n a dispatch which was passed by German censorship.

The article gave no details but the correspondent said he received the reports from "a traveller from Leipzig" with whom he talked in Berlin.

A later report said that five American airmen had been killed.

"German police were unable to save them," Aftonbaldet's correspondent wrote.

He said "a storm of rage" broke out Sunday "among German civilians" when American fighter pilots allegedly shot women and children during sweeps over Germany.

There have been reports of lynchings from Allied sources.)

Aftonbladet's report recalled German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' article in the Saturday issue of the Nazi newspaper Volkischer Beobachter declaring Allied airmen bailing out over Germany no longer would have police and military protection against German civilians.

The Goebbels article said that "it doesn't seem possible for us any more to interpose German police and military against the German people when they are treating with child killers as they deserve. These Anglo-American war methods must be stopped. Airmen cannot contend they are acting as soldiers under orders."

It contended further that recent Allied fighter sweeps had been directed against field workers and women and children riding on trains.

Polish-Americans Plead For Justice

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 30—(AP)— The Polish American Congress, claiming to represent 5,000,000 Americans of Polish descent, today appealed to President Roosevelt "not to permit the United States to be involved in designs against Poland and its future, whether in the east or in the west."

Delegates to the Congress, now established on a permanent basis, adopted a memorial to the President of a voice vote which said Russia's rejection of the United States offer of mediation in the Russian-Polish boundary dispute, "causes serious apprehension in our minds and grave fears that peace is endangered and our mission in Europe jeopardized."

United States Government Monitors recorded the wireless dispatch.*

Surprise Move Severs Mogaung Road

KANDY, Ceylon, May 30—(AP).— American and Chinese troops have cut the main road between the Japanese bases of Kamaing and Mogaung in Northern Burma in a surprise move, by-passing Kamaing, it was announced today.

Since British air-borne troops abandoned road blocks near Mogaung, 35 miles west of the besieged Japanese at Myitkyina, Allied planes have been hammering furiously at enemy communications, positions, and rail installations between Mogaung and Katha, about 130 miles southwest of Myitkyina.

It is along this route that the Japanese have been sending reinforcements to the Mogaung Valley and Myitkyina.

The move by passing Kamaing resulted in destruction of 25 enemy trucks and seizure of six buildings full of supplies with ammunition, it was announced.

Planes supported ground troops with an attack on enemy gun positions in the vicinity of Hopin, about 75 miles southwest of Mogaung, a communique said.

The Japanese were successful in throwing the Chindits from their road block southwest of Mogaung, with which they had been able to block the Mandalay-Myitkyina railway since last March, it was announced yesterday.

The air attack damaged approaches to a railway bridge at Hopin and started fires at Sahmaw, southwest of Mogaung, the communique added.

Jury Convicts 17-Year-Old Boy

MONTREAL, May 29.— (CP). — Seventeen year old Leo Paul Boisvert was convicted on a charge of manslaughter to-day arising out of the slaying of Detective Henri Farmer, and sentence was set for June 13.

Fernand Clermont 15 year old companion of Boisvert, had previously been senteced to hang after conviction on a murder charge.

A murder charge had been laid against Boisvert also but the jury reduced it to one of manslaughter.

Chief witness at the trial of Boisvert was young Clermont who testified that Boisvert had told him not to load two revolvers before the pair started on a robbing expedition but that he had done so anyway. He added that "the revolver went off in his hand when Farmer surprised the pair at the rear of a north-end home.

Last Natural Defence Belt 16 Miles From City Badly Dented By 8th Army

Arce, Crossroads Town, Taken Over Canadians Astride Highway Storming Frosinone In Sacco Valley

By NOLAND NORGAARD—Associated Press Staff Writer

NAPLES, May 30—(AP).—Fifth Army infantry and tanks, after repulsing strong overnight counter-attacks, struck again today at German defences within 16 miles of Rome, which Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark said would fall "before many days have passed." The Germans offered savage resistance on their last natural defence line south of the capital but headquarters said progress continued "satisfactory." On the Allied right, the British 8th Army—with at least one Canadian division in action—was striding swiftly through the Sacco Valley along the Via Casilina (Highway 6), capturing Arce and pressing strongly upon Frosinone about 12 miles to the northwest from three sides.

City Not Visible.

None of the troops fighting an uphill battle on the former beachhead front nor the tank crews attacking anti-tank guns hidden in groves and ravines were yet able to see Rome. Only artillery observers flying cub planes near the sea, where British patrols found the enemy had abandoned another wrecked village, had a chance to glimpse the Eternal City and its seven hills.

German counter-attacks temporarily held off American infantry on the rolling meadows below the hill-top town of Lanuvio, a pivot of the German Rome line. Artillery shelled the town steadily.

Armored spearheads consolidated gains west of the severed Anzio-Albano road. Major German resistance was contacted in this sector, however. Hastily sown minefields, crude fortifications, heavy tanks was encountered but no big tank battle has developed.

German artillery fire was heavy on forward American elements, but the enemy was being outshelled by a high ratio.

Units of the Hermann Goering Division, once destined to become an air borne armored force, were reported counter-attacking the American salient around Artena last night, close to Highway 6, but were driven back with considerable losses.

The German counter-attacks around Artena, two miles south of Valmontone, appeared directed at saving Valmontone, which lies on the Via Casilina at the intersection of a lateral road to Lanuvio. Allied artillery was reported shelling the Via Casilina denying the Germans its full use.

At the same time New Zealanders stabbing through the Apennines were reported within a short distance of Sora, astride Highway 82, nine miles north of Arce.

Reinforced by the bulk of the Hermann Goering Parachute Panzer Division and supported by intensified artillery fire, the Germans in the Valmontone area 20 miles east and south of Rome managed to stave off a mounting threat to

Big Four Plans New Unit To Keep Peace

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)— Secretary of State Hull today extended to the ambassadors of Russia, Britain and China invitations for their governments to begin informal talks in Washington as soon as possible on creation of a world security organization.

Hull told a news conference the United States is ready to talk with the other countries whenever they want to sit down at the conference table.

The main point of his conversation with the ambassadors today, he said, related primarily to the question of a time for the meeting. Asked whether Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia and Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain might represent their countries, Hull said that was up to the governments to decide.

The secretary also declined to say whether he would be the principal American representative.

Hull talked first with Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador, and Andrei Gromyko, the Russian ambassador.

Halifax Reports

Afterward Lord Halifax reported: "He asked us both to call in order to convey an intimation to our governments from him on behalf of the United States government that he would be glad at a convenient date to open informal conversations with us on the general problem of post-war security."

Next Hull received Ambassador Wei of China for a similar "intimation of this country's announced

De Valera Wants Clear-Cut Win

DUBLIN, May 30 — (CP). — Eire voted today in a national election to settle a domestic controversy in which the country's neutrality was not an issue, and it was generally believed Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's government would be returned with a slight over-all majority.

Mr. De Valera called for the election less than a month ago when his government was defeated on a transport bill designed to nationalize the railroads. He has declared that his Fianna Fail party never would enter a coalition and has demanded of the voters: "A knockout blow for one side or the other—a draw would be bad for the country."

Fianna Fail was dominant in parliament with 67 seats, but short of the over-all majority of the others, Fine Gaels, Farmers, Labor and Independent, which together held 71 places.

Bombers Nearly Get Rommel

Marshal Rommel Misses Raid By Few Minutes

GENEVA, May 30 (CP-Reuters)— The newspaper La Suisse reported today that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, one of German's anti-invasion commanders, escaped death by a few minutes Sunday when he arrived late at a French castle which was bombed and destroyed.

'He was due at an important German headquarters located in a French castle at 9.30 in the morning," the newspaper said. "He arrived with a few minutes delay. This saved his life for the castle was bombed and completely destroyed at 9.30 precisely."

Destruction of a German military headquarters in northern France by rocket firing Typhoons on Sunday was announced by the Air Ministry yesterday.

The pilots were given the briefing order: "This building is used as a German military headquarters. Remove it." After the first wave of rocket-firing fighter-bombers had passed only the battered walls were left.

Other planes completed the destruction by sending their rockets into the basement.

Germans Spot Strong Units All Over France

LONDON, May 30.— (CP).— A neutral pre-invasion report said to-day the German High Command had spotted thousands of small military units over France to cope with the expected onslaught of Allied air-borne troops on D-day.

These units it was said, have been stationed well behind the heavily-fortified and strongly-manned front wall, and each assigned a specific area to cover.

This report fell somewhat in line with comment by Ritter Von Schramm, military correspondent of the Berliner Borsen-Zeitung, who wrote that the bulk of German armored formations in the west are held in readiness well behind the front fortifications not so much to counter-attack landing attempts from the sea as to oppose air-borne troops and parachutists.

Among other reports from the continent was a broadcast by Trans-Ocean, German propaganda agency, that the Nazis now have "flying repair squads in all corners of German occupied Europe" in an attempt to keep communications open in spite of Allied bombings. The agency said "trains which were about to be used as scrap iron have been put back into service."

Transocean also said Dr. Ganzen - Mueller, "who distinguished himself in Russia by improvising a German system of communications," now is in charge of railways in the west.

Britons who went back to work to-day after a warm and quiet Whitsun holiday looked for the fall of Rome possibly within a week and praised Gen. Sir Harold Alexander and his armies for their successes in Italy. The big Italian offensive was regarded as the first blow in a master plan to be climaxed when Gen. Eisenhower's forces strike from the west and the Red army hits from the east.

Skin elasticity is the secret of a youthful complexion

Compare face with shoulder skin. You'll find shoulders look 5 or more years younger. That's because shoulder skin retains its elasticity—while facial skin pores are clogged with make-up, unable to breathe for hours at a time. And when pores can't breathe skin starts to age prematurely. But Palmolive can help retain youthful elasticity in your skin.

Look younger in 14 days! Each time you wash, (use a face cloth) massage warm, rich, vitalizing Palmolive lather thoroughly into your skin for one full minute. Now a quick rinse and pat dry. Palmolive's 60-second Beauty Massage has been scientifically tested by 2,301 women and 36 doctors. Their reports prove conclusively that . . . in just 14 days, it brings lovelier complexions.

Fire Rangers Close 8 Areas

Four miles are raging in Eastern Ontario but all are under control and by nightfall it is expected at least two of the areas will be cleaned up.

A. P. Leslie, Chief Forester at Tweed reported today that the worst fire is on Island A in Deer Lake, Cardiff township in Haliburton, and another fire is sweeping a section of Bruton township also in Haliburton. The other fires are in Kaschell and Hershell townships in Hastings county. All are trenched, and being patrolled by Rangers.

Because of the extreme fire hazard which exists at this time travel in eight townships will be permitted only by permit from a Fire Ranger. The townships are Bruton in Haliburton, Grimsthorpe and Essingham in Hastings, and Madawachan, Brougham, Griffith and Lyndock in Renfrew county.

Fifty extra fire fighters were employed during the week, and Chief Forester stated today the entire area affected is small.

He stressed the need for care by fishermen and campers, and urged that camp-fires be built only in properly constructed fire places, and extinguished when not needed. Smokers are asked not to smoke while walking through the bush, and to be sure that cigarette and cigar butts are not thrown at random into the bush.

Fire ranger stations are located at Bancroft, Tweed, Apsley, Dacre and Plevna.

Vagrancy Charge Withdrawn In Court

"There is lots of work to be done and too few to do it," said Magistrate R. B. Baxter in police court this morning to Norman Joseph Brick, who had pleaded not guilty previously to a charge of vagrancy. The case against Brick was dismissed when Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated that he would not offer any evidence.

The accused told the court that he had secured a job with a trucker.

"You are a young man to have that kind of a charge laid against you and there must have been some reason for laying it," commented the magistrate. "You had better get to work and keep out of the hands of the police."

Eagle Lake Man Is Killed In Truck Crash

LINDSAY, May 30 (ENS) — An inquest will be held in Haliburton to inquire into the death of George Robinson of Eagle Lake, who died following injuries received in an accident on the Minden-Haliburton highway.

Robinson was riding in the back of a light truck driven by Roy Brennan, Manager of the Colonial Box Factory at Haliburton. A blow out is thought to have caused the truck to swerve off the highway and roll down a twenty foot embankment near Alsaw bridge. Brennan and Vincent Teatro, riding in the cab escaped minor injuries but Robinson was pitched from the rear of the vehicle and later died at the Red Cross Hospital at Haliburton. Brennan is stated to have told Provincial Constable Kellog that he was unaware that Robinson was riding on the truck.

Judgement Reserved

Judgment was reserved by Magistrate F. S. Ebbs, of Oshawa, in a police court case here yesterday in which Harry Goodman, a car dealer of Lindsay was charged with selling two trucks at prices higher than the maximum allowed under Canadian war orders and regulations. The charge was laid by officers of the R.C.M.P., who alleged that Goodman sold two trucks for $2275 to Norman Moberly of Toronto, whereas the ceiling price was $1573.77.

In giving evidence Moberly stated that he phoned to Lindsay in regard to an advertisement of trucks appearing in a Toronto Newspapers and when quoted a price of $2800 contacted the Wartime Prices and Trade Board office. He was referred to the Office of the R. C. M. P., and in conjuction with them procured from his bank 23 one hundred dollar bills. The serial numbers of bills were taken and Moberly came to Lindsay accompanied by Constable Holman. He identified Goodman as the salesman who accepted $2275 for a 1942 International and 1941 Ford truck and stated he had received a receipt for only $1300. After the sale was transacted Constable Holman demanded the return of the money which Goodman finally consented to leave with Chief of Police R. Lawlor of Lindsay.

K. K. Pinney of the Lindsay branch of the W. P. T. B. told the court that the ceiling price on the trucks was $1573.77.

"How long did it take you to make that computation," queried Defence Counsel C. G. Frost. "Three hours," answered the witness.

Mr. Frost contended that the accused could neither write nor read and if it took an experienced official three hours to figure out correct prices there was certainly excuse for ignorance on the part of Goodman.

It was the duty of the police officer who witnessed the transaction to warn the accused that the price was above ceiling, he stated, and if he had still persisted in demanding a high price then he would have proved his guilt.

Bee Man Acquitted.

Ross Webster of Oakwood was acquitted by Magistrate F. S. Ebbs, of Oshawa, in police court, of a contravention of the Bee Act in having bees within thirty feet of a property line, without adequate protection. The case was of unusual interest to farmers and bee owners.

The complainant, William Elford, a man of 80 years of age, gave evidence to the fact that his land adjoined that of Webster's, that Webster kept a number of bee hives within 15 feet of the property line and that he (Elford) had been stung dozens of times, that he had approached Webster regarding the bees and asked to remove the hives that he had lawyer's letters sent to Mr. Webster, all of which were ignored.

Mr. Webster gave evidence which was backed by two apiary inspectors, Allan T. Brown, of Peterborough, and Clifford Perrin, of Cambray. He stated that the act called for bee hives to be thirty feet from a property fence and if only 15 feet distant there must be a hedge between the hives and the fence, a hedge 7 feet high. He claimed that the hedge in some cases was 10 and 16 feet high and that it was fifteen inches through.

I. E. Weldon, for the defendant, said that he would have his client move all hives back the full thirty feet, but that the bees could not be moved at the present time, for fear of death to queen bee.

Messrs Brown and Perrin, said they had inspected the bees recently for disease, and had time to look at the hedge and measure it.

J. E. Anderson, for Mr. Elford, claimed the hedge was low in spots and that as one witness said "a cow could walk through it." The inspectors said that the hedge was actually an obstacle and that bees seeing the hedge would soar up and over and keep on flying at the higher elevation. It was unusual for bees to drop down on the opposite side of the hedge, although the occasional one might. John Elford, a brother of the complainant, said that some of the trees in the hedge were under seven feet high and that some had been planted within the last two weeks.

Magistrate Ebbs gave the defendant the benefit of the doubt, believing that he had complied with the law, but urged that the bees be moved further away from the Elford property.

L.-CPL. JAMES WILLSHAW.

James Willshaw Is Wounded

Mr. and Mrs James Willshaw, 178 Sophia Street, have received word that their son, L.-Cpl. James Willshaw, is suffering from shrapnel wounds in the right shoulder, which he received May 17, while fighting with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in the Liri Valley.

The parents received word from Ottawa last week, and an air mail letter from their son arrived on Monday. He said that he was in the hospital and coming along nicely. The shrapnel has been removed from between the shoulder and neck.

L.-Cpl. Wilshaw is a veteran of the Mediterranean campaign, having served in Sicily and Italy. A brother George is overseas and his father was wounded in the last war.

Omemee Soldier Killed In Italy

OMEMEE, May 30 (ENS)—Word was received on Sunday by Alexander H. Veals of Franklin, four miles south of Omemee, that his eldest son, Sgt. Clifford Frederick Veals, age 27 years, was killed in action in Italy on Monday, May 22.

The soldier enlisted in Peterborough in February, 1941, with the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, and served in the Reconnaissance Battalion. In April, 1941, he was posted to Sherbrooke, Quebec, and went overseas early in July of the same year. In England he completed his training as driver of a Bren Gun Carrier and went to Sicily the latter part of June, 1943. From there he went to Italy where he has been driving Bren Gun Carriers.

When he left Canada, Sgt. Veals held the rank of Corporal, and since going to Italy he was promoted to Sergeant. He was a graduate of Omemee High School and Lindsay Collegiate Institute, and was a member of Reaboro Baptist church.

Two sisters and three brothers survive him: Rowena (Mrs. D. Berry) of Lindsay; Fledda, who is attending London Bible Institute, and Ivan, Ralph and Merton at home.

Senator Raps History Books

OTTAWA, May 30.—(CP).—History text books in use in Canadian elementary schools came in for sharp criticism from Senator J. H. G. Lacasse (L., Ontario) in the Senate last night.

Senator Lacasse spoke in support of a motion by Senator A. David (L., Quebec) calling for the appointment at the proposed Dominion-Provincial conference of a committee to consider the preparation of a text book of Canadian history which would be acceptable to all provinces.

Senator Lacasse said the text books now used in Nova Scotia and Alberta had only a few short passages devoted to the French regime in Canada. The book in use in Manitoba and Prince Edward Island devoted 70 of its 377 pages to the French regime and the British Columbia text book had 120 of its 372 pages on French Canadian history. The Quebec text book had 88 pages of French history and 32 pages of English.

Senator Lacasse said his survey of the books indicated a necessity for "more fairness and more uniformity."

Misunderstandings in Canada today were due in no small measure to the manner in which history was taught.

Debate on Senator David's motion was adjourned by Senator Rupert Davies (L-Ontario.)

The Senate gave first reading to an interim supply bill of $46,331,283 for government purposes for a two-month period.

Millbrook Man Leads Attack In Ceprano Town

By DOUGLAS AMARON

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, May 30—(CP)—Canadian armored and infantry units Monday pushed slowly up the valley of the Sacco River toward the big town of Frosinone, 11 miles north-west of captured Ceprano. They encountered light opposition, but were delayed by mines and enemy demolitions.

The advance, in which Maritime tanks led the way, carried the troops several miles beyond Ceprano, key town of Highway No. 6—which runs through Frosinone and Valmontone to Rome. Ceprano was occupied last Saturday evening.

The infantry, moving ahead in lorries, followed close behind the armored formations.

Roads Heavily Mined

Forward tanks, cutting across country and along tracks on both sides of Pofi, five miles west of Ceprano, reported a minimum of opposition from enemy infantry and no enemy armor. But the tank crews reported the roads were strewn with mines. Every bridge across the numerous little streams along the route was blown up and consequently movement was slow.

The German shelling was heavy and ceaseless, but mortar fire—the enemy's most vicious weapon up to the time the Canadians crossed the Melfa River last week—eased up. The most trouble was from self-propelled 75-mm, and 85-mm, guns.

Sappers were busy today clearing mines for Ceprano, a neat little town of 6,000 people. Italians were already returning to their homes, which were less seriously damaged than any along the route to the Canadian Corps' advance so far. They hung out British and American flags—a welcome Canadian troops had not received since they captured Campobasso, in mountainous Central Italy during last autumn's campaign.

Entered at Dusk

Two companies of an Ontario battalion entered the Town of Ceprano about dusk Saturday after a difficult crossing of the Liri River. Bridges had not then been built and forward troops forded the fast-

13 Vacancies Exist In Senate

OTTAWA, May 30 — (CP) — When Prime Minister Mackenzie King fills the 13 vacancies existing in the Senate, he will have named 92 members to the Upper House during the 17 years he has been Prime Minister.

The 13th vacancy occurred May 20, when B. F. Smith, Progressive Conservative Senator for New Brunswick, died. There is one Senate vacancy for Prince Edward Island, one for New Brunswick, four for Quebec, four for Ontario, two for Manitoba and one for British Columbia.

When Sir John A. Macdonald became Prime Minister after Confederation he named 72 Senators to form the Upper House. Later he named 92 to fill vacancies—the exact number Mr. King will have chosen when he fills those existing now.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier appointed 81 Senators, two more than Mr. King has so far named. Sir Robert Borden, in his Conservative and Union governments, named 61, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen 15 and Lord Bennett 33 when he was Prime Minister.

The present Senate has 50 Liberal members, all appointed by Prime Minister King except for Senator William Harmer of Alberta, appointed by Sir Robert Borden when he was head of the Union government. There are 33 Conservative Senators.

evacuate belongings. One middle-aged woman was alone in her house when flames swept almost to the back door but a bucket brigade aided by shovels and sacks held the fire off long enough to permit arrival of firemen with portable pumps.

Miss Joan Lessard stood anxious in another house in case of the fire reaching it. "I'm going to be married in a few days," she said. "I'm going to save my wedding things one way or another, even though it may be hard to lug a cedar chest clear to Kirkland." Thanks to a shift in the wind and the work of firemen her house escaped.

men both in Canada and in Britain.

"Her Royal Highness' suggestion was enthusiastically adopted by the committee and such a booklet now is being prepared by Dr. Charlotte Whitton," Mrs. Page said.

When completed the booklets — giving information about Canada, which most guide books omit—will be sent to England to be given to each new Canadian with her passport.

Mrs. V. E. Henderson of Toronto, convener of the Empire Study Committee, reported:

"As a result a discussion on citizenship, I wrote to the three major Canadian political parties asking for a statement on their political philosophies, particularly as to their attitude toward Canada continuing her membership in the British Commonwealth of Nations. All three declared they were very much in favor of the Commonwealth connection."

A report of expanded work for members of the Armed Services by the National War Services Committee rounded out yesterday's reports in which educational work of the Order was stressed.

Mrs. H. S. Angas, Toronto, convener of the National War Services committee, reported that work with R. A. F. families in Canda, dispatch of 300 cigarets a month to Allied troops who did not receive them from their next-of-kin, expansion of camp libraries and adoption of ships formed the major part of the work of the committee.

"The grand total of war work accomplished by the 932 chapters across the Dominion amounts to $935,286, only $294 less than the figure reported last year by this committee," Mrs. Angas said.

During the year 152 ships of the Canadian Navy were adopted, bringing the number of ships sponsored by the Order to 260, including Royal Navy aircraft carriers manned by Canadian crews.

"Another proof of the round-the-world benefits being made possible by the I. O. D. E. to Allied fighting men is the rebuilding of the Seamen's Club, operated by the Society at Malta. This club was partially destroyed by enemy action and $1,000 was sent from the sailors and Minesweepers Fund for rebuilding," Mrs. Angus said.

Continuing its work for servicemen's children, begun after the first Great War, the National Chapter voted to set up a Second War Memorial Fund, providing bursaries and scholarships for children of servicemen killed or disabled on active duty.

Minimum figure for the fund, which will not be set up until after the war, was set at $350,000, the National President, Mrs. W. B. Horkins, of Toronto, announced.

The convention, which lasts until June 1, also heard of progress in educational work from Mrs. J. D. Detwiler London, Ont., National Educational Secretary.

"During the past year $24,936 was spent by the chapters to enable students to continue their studies at University, College, Normal School, Technical School and High School, and in the past year 422 students of whom 55 are from home of service or ex-service men have received I. O. D. E. awards," she said.

She reported that 222 libraries valued at $2,099, were sent out from the educational office to as many schools in all parts of Canada. Ontario provided 92 of these and New Brunswick 73.

"This means that in 222 schools across Canada the children are reading the same type of book and thinking along the same lines," she added.

Legion Commander To Be Appointed

George Gimblett, president of Branch 42 Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., Peterborough, visited Branch 77 of Zone 29 at Lakefield, Monday evening in his official capacity of District Commander (E) accompanied by Comrades Wallace, Burke, Torrance, Kerneghan, Hazlitt, Northey, Moscrop, Williamson, Chapman, Lowe, Wigley, Kelsey, Yelland, Little, Varty, Hotrum, Hope Lasenby, Kemp, Donnelly, O'Brien, Callaghan, McIntosh, Peters, Muir, Rumary, Ralston, Butchart and Holland.

This was the first of a series of personal visits to be made to the various branches of the district by the Commander, and he addressed the meeting, outlining the various schemes that have been projected for the benefit of returning veterans of the present war with regards to pensions and land settlement.

A meeting is to be held this Sunday, June 4 in the Legion Hall here to appoint a new Commander for Zone 29, this position being vacated by President Gimblett on his appointment as District Commander E.

All branches have been requested to send delegates and President Elliott Simpson of Lakefield branch, stated that they would be represented at the meeting.

willingness to begin conversations."

At his press conference, Hull explained that when the four powers met at Moscow last fall, Molotov offered and there was adopted a resolution providing that they should meet subsequently in Washington to discuss an organization to maintain peace.

Hull replied that the question had not yet come up for formal consideration when asked whether there would be Congressional representation on the American delegation to the conference here.

Secretary Hull's program was made known less than a week after Prime Minister Churchill in a House of Commons speech advocated a "world organization" armed with "overwhelming military power" to keep the peace.

This was Mr. Churchill's suggested post-war organization outlined last Wednesday:

1. A "world council" made up of the big victors—Britain, the United States and Russia, for example—to be actually in charge of keeping the peace by maintaining all the force necessary.

2. A world assembly of all powers "whose relations to the world executive or controlling power. . . . I am in no position to define."

"We intend," he said, "to set up a world order and organization equipped with all the necessary attributes of power in order to prevent future wars or the planning of them in advance by restless and ambitious nations."

The present state of the Secretary's program, after more than two years of tedious planning, research and consultations with American leaders in and out of politics, raised hope in some official quarters today that the nucleus of a peace organization would be set up before the war ends.

Forest Fire Situation Grows Worse

Northern Hamlets Threatened By Bush Blazes

By The Canadian Press.

Six provinces were battling forest fire hazards to-day with the seasonal outbreak continuing a serious threat in Northern Ontario. Some improvement was reported in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec, but new fires were reported in Alberta and fires were believed still spreading in northern British Columbia.

A blaze south of the Lake Shore Mine near Kirkland Lake raced into heavy timber over a two-mile front last night and threatened to assume serious proportions. Road traffic from Kirkland Lake to Timmins was stopped when the fire reached heavy timber about 25 miles north-west of Kirkland Lake.

Around Sudbury fires flared up again under strong winds and forestry officials who flew over the area reported fire burning fiercely. The advance points of this blaze last night were three miles from the mining community of Shining Tree, where about 250 fire-fighters were concentrated.

Three hundred soldiers from Petawawa military camp arrived at Pembroke yesterday to assist civilians fighting a fire raging out of control since Thursday on the north-west border of Algonquin Lake. This fire is reported to have already burned 5,000 acres of land. The fire-fighters reported some progress last night in efforts to control this blaze.

A Quebec fire which threatened rich timber limits north of Thurso was reported last night to have been practically checked. While the fire is still dangerously close to the timber limits rangers were believed heading it off, in the absence of wind.

Charges Withdrawn Against Volunteers

When the case of Pte. R. L. McIntosh, charged with missing a drill of the Prince of Wales Rangers Reserve on March 7, was called before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in police court this morning, Major V. M. Eastwood said that he wished to withdraw this particular charge. "I am not putting in any evidence," he told the court.

McIntosh faces trial on eight other charges of having failed to attend drills of the Rangers, and on these counts he will be tried by another magistrate.

In the case of Pte. W. R. Pakenham, similarly charged, Major Eastwood said that he wished to withdraw these charges pending the result of a medical examination. The medical category of the accused, he said, was still doubtful.

Montreal Men Go To Reformatory

COBOURG, May 30—(ENS)—Remanded from last week on car theft and other charges, Roger Lapalm and Romeo Mahew of Montreal were sentenced Monday in police court by Magistrate R. B. Baxter, Lapalm, who has a record, was sentenced to 18 months definite and three months indefinite in reformatory for theft of a car on May 19 from Morely Webster at Brighton. For reckless driving he was given one month to run concurrently with the other sentence. His companion, Romeo Mahew, was given 12 months definite and three months indefinite in the reformatory for car theft and was given a month's concurrent sentence for not having his registration card.

The two were arrested last week by Provincial Constable Douglas Wilson of Colborne, a half hour after the car was stolen.

Austin John McDuff, Lindsay, was fined $50 and costs or one month on a charge of altering his registration certificate. McDuff, who is 19, and has been rejected from the army, told the court that he changed the date on the certificate in order to appear old enough to enter a beer parlor.

Charles Baker of Harlowe was remanded for a week on a charge of having in his possession at Colborne on May 27, a commercial gas ration book which had not been made out to him. He was arrested during the week-end by Provincial Constable Douglas Wilson.

Picked up in Haldimand township, Leo Pope, of Toronto, was remanded for a week on a vagrancy charge. He has recently been discharged from the penitentiary and provincial police are checking on him.

Begin Movement For Teen Age Youth

LINDSAY, May 30 — (ENS). — A youth movement for the training of 'teen-age girls and boys has been organized in Lindsay under the sponsorship of the local Health League and supported by service clubs and other organizations.

In addressing a special meeting, President J. E. Anderson of the Health League, stated that parental control had been declining since the war began due mainly to the fact that in many cases both parents were engaged in war work and also many fathers are in the armed forces.

It was decided to provide a program of summer sports under the supervision of school teachers and club representatives. If the program was successful educational classes would follow.

Officers of the new organization were: President, J. E. Anderson secretary, Mrs. W J. Fitzsimmons; executive, Rev C. D. Cross, Rev. Father Kay, and representatives from Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Red Cross, Board of Education, Library Board, Town Council, Separate School Board, Daughters of the Empire, Women's Institute, and Catholic Women's League.

COBOURG, May 30 (ENS) — Death removed a nationally-known figure at Cobourg Monday morning in the passing of Captain David Campbell Dick, O.B.E., of Cobourg. He was Wool Administrator for the Dominion of Canada. Captain Dick had been in poor health for some time and since last year his decline in health had been very marked. The funeral will be held Wednesday from his late residence on Queen street at two o'clock in the afternoon and interment will be in St. Peter's Anglican cemetery.

Captain Dick is survived by his widow, who was Bessie Donnelly of Pittsburgh, a daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Snyder of Louisville, Kentucky, and a son, Lieut. David Dick, R. C. N.V.R. A sister, Mrs. Henry Fullerton of Cobourg, also survives.

Captain Dick was born in Toronto on December 31, 1886, son of the late John Dick and Ella Dick of Cobourg. He was educated in Upper Canada College, graduating with a B.A. degree in 1908. He started his career with his father, John Dick, at the Cobourg Woollen Mill when he left college. The late Capt. Dick founded the Cobourg Dyeing Company in 1913 which, in 1928, bought out the Canadian Dyers' Association of Toronto and in the following year the Holdsworth Company.

Captain Dick was president of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Mnufacturers' Association in 1928; member of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and was appointed Wool Administrator for the Dominion of Canada in September of 1939. He served in the Great War as commander of the 32nd Battery, C.F.A., and was mentioned in despatches in December of 1917.

A member of the Cobourg Rotary Club when it was founded, he was always active in Rotary work. He took a keen interest in the welfare of the Cobourg Golf Club. Other clubs were St. James' (Montreal); Royal Montreal Golf Club; University (Toronto); National, York, Rosedale and Toronto Golf clubs. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and the Royal Canadian Institute.

In his earlier days he took a keen interest in boys' work through the Rotary Club and the Boy Scouts, and any worthwhile community project received his loyal support. His last work was in connection with the arrangements for outfitting with sailors' comforts the corvette, H.M.C.S. "Cobourg," and although ill health prevented him from taking a more active part just before the corvette was given its civic reception here, he was driven down the dock to see the ship when it arrived last Wednesday. Much of the success of the corvette committee was due to his efforts.

OBITUARIES

MRS. MARY ANNE STANBURY

CAMPBELLFORD, May 30 (ENS)—Mary Anne Rowe, widow of the late William Stanbury, died Monday in the Buffalo General Hospital. She had fallen and broken her hip bone and the accident proved fatal on account of her advanced age. She is survived by one son, Dr. Ralph Stanbury, with the American Expeditionary Forces, of Akron, N. Y. with whom she resided since last fall, and four brothers Thomas H. of Town, John of Stanwood, Harold of Healey Falls, and William, Reeve of Seymour Township. The funeral will be held on Tuesday from Bennetts funeral parlors at 2 p. m.

MRS. WILLIAM HELSON.

LINDSAY, May 30 — (ENS). — Death took its third toll of a well-known family here when Bessie Arnold, wife of the late William Helson, died at the Ross Memorial Hospital, in her 69th year. She was predeceased by her husband by only two weeks, and five weeks ago the death occurred of her sister, Annie Arnold, wife of the late William Shier.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. J. Black of Cambridge Street United Church, attended by a large number of relatives and friends. Pall-bearers were Thomas Arnold, Ross Arnold, Steve Arnold, W. E. Stewart, Reginald Shier and John Wallace.

Mrs. Helson is survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. A. Thurston of Dunsford.

MRS. T. H. DAVIES.

LINDSAY, May 30 — (ENS). — The funeral was largely attended by friends and relatives of Ethel Jane Yeo, 80, daughter of the late William Yeo of Sonya, and wife of Thomas H. Davies, Sussex Street, Lindsay. Services were conducted by Rev. P. C. Reid, former pastor of Cambridge Street Baptist Church.

Born in Darlington Township, she married Thomas H. Davies in 1892. They resided for a while in Brock Township, but for many years past have lived in or near Lindsay. She is survived by her husband, four sons and two daughters, Charles, Wilfrid, George, all of Detroit, Harry of Rawlins, Wyo., Ethel of Lindsay, and Mrs. D. W. Price of Pamour. One brother, George Yeo, lives on Logan Avenue, Toronto, also one sister, Mary Hannah Yeo of Lindsay.

Pall-bearers were Charles, Wilfrid and George Davies of Detroit, Douglas Price of Pamour Mines, S. R. Pitts and Arthur Cornell of Lindsay.

DAVID WILLIAMS.

MARMORA, May 30.—(ENS).—The death occurred at St. Paul's rectory, Marmora, about 9.30 p.m. on Sunday, of David Williams, former resident of Toronto, at the age of ninety. The late Mr. Williams had resided with his niece, Mrs. A. B. Caldwell and Rev. A. B. Caldwell for about six months and showed great activity for one of his year until about three weeks ago when he commenced to fail.

The late Mr. Williams, who was of Welsh descent, had travelled extensively and was a bright conversationalist. He was connected with lumber interests up until the time of his death. The late Mr. Williams was a member of the United church and was actively connected with Sunday school and Bible class activities of the church he attended. His wife, who was his companion on his travels, passed away a few years ago. The remains left Marmora early on Monday morning for the McGill Funeral Home, Toronto, accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Caldwell.

Catfish Battle

GORE'S LANDING, May 30—(ENS).—A catfish fight churning the water in violent swirls was watched by Cecil Thackeray and Mr. Mahaffy of Toronto at Capt. Wilbert Harris's boathouse. The splashing of the water attracted their attention. One catfish had the other by the jaw and they fought with fury on the top of the water. Mr. Thackeray attempted to catch the two fish in a net, but when the net struck the water, the fish disappeared instantly.

Surplus Milk Goes For Cheese

CAMPBELLFORD May 30. — (ENS).—In peace time it was optional with the large dairies as to what disposition they made of surplus milk but at present they are required to, if at all possible, deliver surplus milk to some cheese factory. As a result S. E. Hobbs of Cedar Creek factory is receiving a truck load of approximately 8,000 lbs. daily. This milk is collected in the vicinity of Cobourg.

There were 17 lots or a total of 798 boxes of cheese graded at the local grading station last week compared with 14 lots of 638 boxes for the corresponding week one year ago.

Cheese from Pine Grove factory near Lakefield was graded at Campbellford last week and Mr. Meyers is making improvements to the grading station to facilitate the handling of increased business.

Mr. Sam Kirkey of Enterprise factory with a 12 cow herd was last week delivering in excess of 700 lbs. of milk a day.

Mr. Kirkey is plowing up his old meadows and seeding them to sweet clover and oats for supplementary pasture.

What might have been a serious accident occurred at Empire factory recently as Mr. Fred Kellegher's truck which he was unloading, started to coast down the driveway. It smashed into William Buchanan's wagon causing his team to run away. The wagon struck William Stephen's truck and he was thrown to the ground by the impact. No one was seriously hurt.

Spr. W. J. Stevenson Wounded In Italy

COBOURG, May 30—(ENS)—Word has been received by his mother that Sapper W. J. Stevenson has been wounded in action in Italy. His parents are Mrs. Victoria Smoke of Alderville and the late W. J. Stevenson. Aged 23, he was born and educated at Alderville and was a member of the 14th Field Regiment, R.F., later transferring to the R.C.E. and going overseas in July of 1942. He has two half-brothers, Pte. Reginald Smoke and Pte. Donald Smoke.

WAR HISTORIAN—Lieut.-Col. Atlol R. Gordon, nephew of the late Rev. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor), has been commissioned to write Canada's official medical history of the war. Col. Gordon is a native of Winnipeg, and prior to assuming his new duties was assistant director of medical services (chemical warfare) at Canadian military headquarters, London, Eng.

Resuscitation Saves Five-Year-Old Boy

WOODSTOCK, May 30 — (CP)—Ten minutes of artificial respiration by military medical men today revived five-year-old Howard Davis after he had been submerged in a mill pond here for nearly ten minutes.

The boy was pulled to shore by his mother, Mrs. G. F. Davis, after Mildren McCallum, the youngster's companion, ran to the Davis home to give the alarm.

Maj. W. E. Weeks and Sergt. B. W. Peto of the local military hospital staff, revived the boy.

Doctor Stresses Prevention Need

CAMPBELLFORD May 30. — (ENS).—Health insurance in which the general public is now interested and to which governments are giving so much attention was the subject of an informative adress given at the Rotary Club Monday by Dr. H. B. Longmore.

In answer to the question as to the need, the speaker noted that the medical profession had long been concerned about the situation referred to. There were two groups of people, he said. The rich and those less fortunate. Those that are able to have things done which should be done and those who cannot. The government should take the responsibility in all necessary cases. The medical profession is in direct contact and he quoted figures regarding tuberculosis, of which there are 20,000 known cases in Canada, costing the country $5,000,000 a year. The better method is prevention. Lives saved pay good dividends to the country. In the year 1900 the first organization was formed to deal with the trouble and mortality was reduced 75 per cent. Only the medical men have any idea of the magnitude of the task as 15,000 children die every year.

Referring to local conditions, there were no maternal deaths in Seymour caused by childbirth. In Canada the average yearly death rate of mothers was about nine hundred, Dr. Longmore declared. In conclusion the doctor stressed the need of prevention and noted the inability of hospitals to care for the known cases in Canada to-day.

Guests at the luncheon were George Palliser of Brantford, and J. Healey of Peterborough.

Canadian Agriculture, giving as it has such abundant evidence in these days of prodigious war needs, of its ability to furnish ever-increasing quotas, is yet going to be faced with greater production programmes in the days following the liberation of the occupied territories of war-torn Europe.

There is perhaps no other single factor that has so greatly assisted the Canadian farmer to accomplish such record achievements as that of modern machinery. United with the farmer, in the job of continuously improving and increasing the efficiency of his methods of production, is the Implement Engineer.

Massey-Harris, always a leader in the introduction of time and labor saving equipment, has made another notable advance with its self-propelled combine which has revolutionized harvesting methods.

The self-propelled principle introduced in the Massey-Harris Combine opens up a world of possibilities in the future trend of farm machines for the road ahead.

TODAY Canadians, Americans and Englishmen are working in closer and closer accord. On five different continents . . . across the seven seas . . . our joint operations extend.

But the greater our success as comrades-in-arms, the greater our need to become partners in peace. The war has taught us that our complete strength lies in the full measure of co-operation which the British Commonwealth and the United States have achieved together. And, on the continuance of this co-operation, we base our hopes for a just and lasting peace.

We Canadians know the British and the Yanks so well . . . like them both so much . . . that we are the "best friend" of each.

Truly, Canada's Peace Tower symbolizes a common meeting-ground for mutual understanding . . . for an enduring peace.

The Principal Aim

The war has been going so well for the United Nations during the past three months that there has been a noticeable tendency on the part of our critics of policy to lose sight of what is still our chief aim—to win the war. Against Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, but particularly against the latter, the charge is made of lacking faith in democracy and people's movements in Europe. The attitude of the Allied leaders is explicable on grounds of caution, and also on grounds of superior knowledge of the European situation. A great many people both on this continent and in Britain cannot get it into their heads that the idea of democracy is foreign to the majority of European peoples, and that four years of German occupation does not make the best school for democrats. Churchill and Roosevelt have got to win the war, and in order to do so they must subordinate many of their own wishes and many of the predilections of their people.

In war, foreign policy and military policy cannot be kept in mutually exclusive compartments; we must keep as our friends those who can best help us in the fight. It was this truth which was clearly apparent in Mr. Churchill's statement of policy on May 24 — that statement which has caused so much fluttering in the dovecots of the exiled governments. We can be sure that Mr. Churchill was not voicing the opinions of himself and his Cabinet only; he spoke as a man who only a week before had presided over a meeting of Dominions Premiers, and we must assume that the policy which he set forward represented not only his own views but those of Field Marshal Smuts, Mr. Curtin of Australia, Mr. Fraser of New Zealand, and Mr. King of Canada. Criticism of the policy as that of a British Tory government is nonsense; it was the opinion of the Commonwealth, some parts of which are very far from Tory in complexion.

The policy which Mr. Churchill set forward was cautious yet ruthless, and while it withheld its blessing from a people's movement in France, it most definitely blessed a people's movement—and a Communist movement, too — in Yugoslavia. The policy was, quite simply, a war policy. For although the critics of that policy seem to have forgotten the fact, the war has still to be won.

Support For Marshal Tito

Prime Minister Winston Churchill's statement of British foreign policy last week contained several bitter pills which interested parties are still trying to swallow. His announcement of friendly intentions toward Spain in return for past favours was one, and the British Left is still gagging on it. But the bitterest pill of all was his endorsement of Marshal Tito, the Yugoslav guerilla leader.

The Royal Yugoslav Government in exile operates from London and its Minister of War is General Draja Mikhailovitch; Mr. Churchill said baldly that Mikhailovitch's forces have shown themselves friendly to the Germans and that the General is not to be trusted. In effect, his speech contained an ultimatum to the Yugoslav Government: it must throw over Mikhailovitch and put Tito in his place. How different this is, only a Yugoslav can understand. Tito is a Croat and a Communist; how can they put him in command of Mikhailovitch and the Serbian army which follows him, and which is royalist in sympathy? And Tito puts no faith in the exiled governments; he wants recognition for his own government within Yugoslavia.

The woes of the Balkans are at least two thousand years old, and it is almost impossible to comprehend their depth and complexity. Mr. Churchill has obviously made no attempt to do so; he has simply issued an ultimatum. Mikhailovitch, with an army of 200,000 men and immense influence in Serbia, is a traitor to the United Nations' cause, for all his loyalty to King Peter: Tito is wholeheartedly anti-Axis, just as he is wholeheartedly anti-royalist, and anti-Mikhailovitch. Therefore Britain will back Tito in his place. How difficult this is, matters any way they can.

The Yugoslav government in London is reported tto be struggling with the problem, but so far they have found nothing which looks like a solution.

Massacre Of 47 Men

The shooting of 47 escaping Allied airmen by the guards of a Nazi prison camp has aroused a storm of feeling in England. The Daily Express, Lord Beaverbrook's paper, described it as "mass murder by prison guards who ran riot", and for this expression Lord Beaverbrook himself has been roundly abused by members of Parliament; the British Air Ministry has also said that the Beaverbrook phraseology was "without foundation". However, the British legation at Stockholm officially referred to the incident as a "massacre", which is strong language. The Foreign Office refuses to comment on the matter until it has full information from Swiss investigators.

Few details of this killing are available to the public, but we can exercise our common sense on those which we have. First of all, the escaping men were unarmed, and therefore it cannot have been necessary to fire on them all; presumably when they found that some of their number had been shot, they would either stand still or return to camp, lest they should suffer a like fate themselves. The significant thing is that all 47 of them were shot dead. Lord Vansittart says that this shows that the men were not shot while escaping, but after they had been rounded up; it is unlikely that Nazi guards are such good shots that they can hit 47 running targets without a miss; it is his belief that the men were lined up against a wall and shot in cold blood. From what we know of German behaviour in this and previous wars, stranger things have happened.

The Germans have been under great strain for several months; they have been bombed as no other people have ever been bombed, and it must be obvious to the most fatuous and deluded of them that they are losing the war. It is by no means impossible that a sudden breakaway of prisoners might provoke an hysterical killing; a taste of slaughter appears to calm German nerves. We shall not know the facts of the case until the Swiss investigators make their report, but we shall not be surprised if the Daily Express is proved right after all.

Army Of Occupation

We hear a great deal about Anglo-American friendship these days, and in much of it there is deep truth; the English-speaking peoples of the British Commonwealth and the U.S. have never been in such firm agreement on fundamentals before. But in Britain, where two million American fighting men are now stationed, there is irritation on matters which are anything but fundamental; they are superficial, but most of our everyday irritations are superficial. The Americans seem to be everywhere, and they seem to criticise everything, and they seem to think that people who have been at war for four long years should be as fresh and smart as those who have entered it since Pearl Harbour. A British wit summed up the matter thus: "There are only four things wrong with these Yanks: they're over-ranked, over-paid, over girl-conscious, and over here".

The American Christian Science Monitor has this to say on the subject:

"As Leland Stowe said on the radio the other night, think what might happen in Indiana and Illinois if two million British soldiers were suddenly poured into that area and there were 45 million Americans there instead of 11 million. Suppose, too, they were paid twice as much as American soldiers and could crowd into all the best restaurants and places of amusement, while the home lads had to stand outside. Then add an order from the War Department that every home in certain towns must take in a soldier for a few cents a week, plus a few cents more if he were an officer (and the money hardly paid you for the soap to wash his sheets).

"That's practically the situation Britain faces with all those Yanks over there in totally new surroundings. The enforced mixing of two peoples, even though they are supposed to speak the same language, is always difficult. Some friction, some trouble, has been reported. There have been questions in the House of Commons about the conduct of some American soldiers. But on the whole they have not behaved badly and their British hosts have appeared to like them. On both sides thousands of individual friendships have been formed which have broken through barriers of 'strangeness and prejudice".

Another British humourist has expressed the gloomy view that Britain will be the last of the occupied countries to gain her freedom. But in spite of many jokes and a few clashes, Britons and Americans seem to be bearing their enforced juxtaposition very well. When at last the war is over the Americans will be glad to get home and the British will be glad to have their country to themselves, but a sense of real comradeship will remain.

The Whole McGeer Theory

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MR. G. G. McGEER has been telling the Canadian Parliament a part of his plan to maintain prosperity—but only a part. He says, in brief, that the government of Canada must go on spending after the war as much as it is spending now and that if enough money is spent everything will be all right. This, however, is only the beginning of the McGeer theory and the other part of it is not often mentioned by its author these days, nor is it likely to be.

Since Mr. McGeer proposes to fight his theory step by step through the parliamentary banking committee while the Bank Act is under review, it is worth while for Canadians to understand where the complete theory leads. This will not be discovered in Mr. McGeer's platform speeches for in them the whole thing is made to appear easy and virtually automatic—mere government spending ad infinitum and, moreover, spending without any burden on the taxpayers. Mr. McGeer is not naive enough to think this is possible, for he has done his homework on money and thoroughly understands it. Therefore, when he had to defend the whole theory in detail before the banking committee back in 1934, he revealed that it involved, in fact, a complete government control of the national ecomony on the lines perfected by the Germans.

MR. McGEER knows that if the government continues to create credit at the private banks or through its own banks eventually, unless something else is done, the money will lose its value. He therefore informed the banking committee that his program called for a series of controls. First, when too much money is floated out and its value starts to drop (as prices rise) then the government must prick the inflationary balloon by heavy income taxes—a fact seldom mentioned on the hustings, for it is not popular.

Second, he proposed that the federal government absolutely control all prices and all wages, just as it is, in fact, doing now under its war emergency powers. This, of course, would involve a revision of the Canadian constitution and the surrender of provincial control over prices and labour—an unlikely surrender. It would also remove from labour the right to fix wages by its constant struggle with employers. It would end at once the free competition of our society between employer and worker. To this labour will never agree if it knows what it is doing, for it has seen the results of such a system in every country where it has been tried—the extinction of organized labour and personal freedom.

Thirdly, Mr. McGeer recognized that if the government is to create new money in vast quantities then the value of the Canadian dollar will certainly sink in the exchanges of the world. It will require more and more Canadian dollars to buy essential foreign imports. Therefore, Mr. McGeer, with perfect logic, proposed to follow precisely the method adopted by the highly logical Germans under similar circumstances. He proposed to divorce the internal Canadian dollar from the external dollar by conducting all Canada's foreign trade by barter.

THIS is set forth in detail in his evidence to the banking committee. The same barter system was successfully used by Germany before the war not merely to get the imports it needed but to conduct economic war, to dominate satellite countries, and to ruin competitors. Mr. McGeer does not propose, of course, to use it for any such purpose. He proposes, as he told the banking committee to take a bushel of Canadian wheat, for example, and barter it with the Japanese to secure a pair of silk stockings for the Canadian housewife. In the same fashion he would barter all Canada's products for any foreign products that we need. This is the system advocated also by the C.C.F. and is an essential part of any government control over the whole economy.

Mr. McGeer's system would certainly give the government this control. It differs from the C.C.F. only in that the actual farms and factories would remain in private hands, as they do, theoretically, in Germany; whereas the C.C.F. admittedly would socialize the factories and would be compelled in the end to socialize the farms also. Economically, in fact, Mr. McGeer's system is the fascist system pure and simple.

Before the war Mr. McGeer was fond of praising in extravagant language the success of the German and Japanese economic systems and his favorite phrase was that while the Germans may have used rubber money they did not build a rubber army, a catchword later imitated by his friend, Mr. Mitchell Hepburn. It is true the German economic system worked effectively, built an army, maintained full employment—and extinguished everything worth while in life.

Mr. McGeer does not praise the German system now and doubtless loathes its effects as much as any man, especially when he has a gallant son in a German prison camp. What Mr. McGeer refuses, with undoubted sincerity, to believe is that the German economic system necessarily involves the German political system and its horrid society. He believes unquestionably that in Canada, administered by Canadians under a parliamentary system, with our traditions of liberty and decency, his fascist economics would produce a democratic society of abundance and rich opportunity.

This is a matter of opinion on which honest men can differ. But it will never be honest for anyone to suggest that the new McGeer system (a very old system in all its essentials) can be painlessly instituted or maintained without government control of virtually everything. If the people want that they should and will get it, but they had better beware of getting something they don't understand, of imagining that Mr. McGeer and others of his views merely propose to inflate the currency and maintain a brief wartime boom.

H.B.C. BIRTHDAY

Last week the Hudson's Bay Company celebrated its birthday. It has had a lot of birthdays—273 to date—and now it adds another. The names of its governors and factors and traders and of the officers of the Northwest Company, which it absorbed, are among the most honoured and best known of our place names—names like Fraser, Thompson, Mackenzie, Simpson, Ogden, Douglas. They are all about us. We can not escape them. The Hudson's Bay Company, established in May, 1670, was one of the great trading companies of the seventeenth century. Most, if not all, of the other companies of the time are gone. But it remains. There was something virile about it that made it survive. The company of today is pleased to refer to that something as enterprise, and perhaps it is right. —Vancouver Province.

Queen Mary's Birthday

(MONTREAL GAZETTE, MAY 26)

THIS is the 77th birthday of Mary the Queen-Mother. Among the members of the Royal Family, she is now one of the least conspicuous, one of those least often in the news. Yet her recent years of retirement have given rise to no cloud of obscurity. She is still the Queen-Mother, a personality whom everyone pictures so clearly and remembers with an especial warmth.

Perhaps this sympathetic admiration has been formed from the recognition, whether conscious or not, that, like King George V, Queen Mary has always been at heart a simple and direct person, who would have preferred to avoid the exactions of exalted office, and to have followed the ordinary domestic life. It is true that they faced the duties of their destiny with an unfailing devotion. Yet the difference between private inclination and public duty had always to be bridged, and it could be bridged only by a conscious and deliberate effort. One perceiving English writer observed that the King and Queen could never entirely shake off an atmosphere "of conscientiously doing their duty" whenever they appeared in public.

Yet this deliberate conscientiousness never detracted from their services or their appeal. On the contrary it made their appearances far more human and more real than if they had been marked by too perfect an ease.

Perhaps the quality of Queen Mary's devotion is nowhere more deeply disclosed than in the method with which she conducted her visits to the military hospitals during the last war. She was no less determined that the words she spoke at each bedside would not be merely awkward or formal, but would have a warm and individual meaning. But trying to talk naturally when accompanied by a group of doctors, nurses and officials proved too difficult. So she would often turn to those attending her and say: "Please do not keep too close to me in the wards. You see that I can talk more easily when I am alone."

And so down through so many years, through so many ceremonies and appearances, she never faltered in her conscientiousness. On this, her 77th birthday, she knows the only reward that is possible and the only reward she would wish, the natural and affectionate remembrance of those she sought so faithfully to serve.

Tasters

TO The Club of Queer Trades founded by Chesterton, which Dickens was perhaps better entitled to found, should be added that of professional dried-egg taster. This is the foundation of an article in The Statesman and Nation of London. Or shouldn't such tasting be classified as a fine art rather than a trade? To differentiate one brand, class or state of powdered eggs from another must call for a supersensitive, almost an over-educated taste.

Our cockney guide shows us other numbers on the club catalogue. He has seen a butter-taster plunge a narrow metal scoop into a mass of butter and, withdrawing it, "put it into his mouth". Does such an artist come to hate the talent he lives by and to prefer oleomargarine? Yet thin partitions divide the walls between these twain. Years ago, in a competition at Shepherd's Bush of 600 contestants, only one gave the right answers, and he couldn't do it twice.

We knew a tea-taster to whom a life of devotion and austerity gave no satisfaction. He bought an annuity and thenceforward slighted tea for rum. The wine-tasters, the men with a nose for the fragrance, the quality and geography of wine, have a rare gift that seems to come by nature, however improved by practice. Our London friend quotes a British connoisseur as saying that he could tell the difference between one port and another port "even if I had a cigar in my mouth". Would a true expert ever think of smoking while sipping wine of a famous year?

Killers

The Papuan Infantry Battalian is composed of men who seem to have one fixed objective in life—to kill Japanese. Corporal Bengari, M.M., has 40 to his credit, and in the fight at Kwama River Cpl. Sari killed 17. One company has kept count of 500.

In the advance to link up with the Americans at Yagomi the men of the unit moved swiftly over crude, mountainous natural paths and mopped up Japanese escaping to the hills. Often they crept to within five yards of their prey and at that range they did not miss.

The Japanese are terrified of these swift-striking, elusive brown men. They have good reason to be.

Two boys set out from camp to find water. They ran into three Japs, killed two with their Owen guns and chased the third a mile along the track to Bwana village before they caught and killed him.

They heard other Japanese chattering farther along the track. They decided to "go over Bwana." There they found Japs in the garden and shot seven, they stormed a native hut and in two minutes killed 13 more. Three ran into the jungle but they also were caught and killed.

In the village they captured an officer. He behaved treacherously and had to be shot.

On the way back to camp they found five more in a garden and killed them.

Then they remembered that they had been sent out to find water, so they made a detour, found a spring and reported. But their Australian officer scolded them for having been so long on their errand. They crept away and hid behind a betel nut tree.

Later the officer heard from other boys what they had done. He sent for them, pardoned them and gave them 150 rounds of ammunition.

Then there was Papialla, the best shot in his company. He was near a village when he heard cries. These led him to a place of enemy pleasantry, an unarmed Papuan boy dodging among four Japanese who were slashing at him with knives and bayonets.

With his rifle, which is fitted with a special sight, Papialla shot all four from 100 yards in less than a minute.

On the way home a Jap sprung out of the jungle and tried to bayonet him, but Papialla took his rifle from him and ran him through with his own bayonet. — Australian Newsletter.

Mr. Pickwick in Moscow

To be sure, it did not seem particularly odd that "The Cherry Orchard" should have been running here not long ago; but it is still with a slight shock of surprise that one encounters our old friend, Mr. Samuel Pickwick, strolling across the stage of war-time Moscow. There is a certain improbability in the idea of Dingley Dell, Old Wardle, the Fat Boy and Mr. Weller re-creating Victorian England under the walls of the Kremlin and amid the thunders of the salutes for Tarnopol and Odessa. And the Russians themselves seem to have had some difficulty in the matter: "when the curtain first goes up," according to the Information Bulletin of the Soviet Embassy, "there is some constraint." The audience, mainly of Red Army officers, munition workers and office employees, seem to feel that this "quaint hero with a paunch," this idyllic atmosphere and these prosperous Victorian gentlemen are "too far removed from the grim, war-time problems that face the Moscow theatregoer of today."

But Pickwick is splendidly played by Victor Stanitsyn, and "step by step" Mr. Stanitsyn wins them over. "Pickwick will never submit to injustice," he says quietly and with great dignity. The audience, which has been reserved, bursts into applause. It understands that in his heart the old fellow cherishes a desire for knowledge and virtue, a deep faith in mankind. The founder of the Pickwick Club in the end conquers even the grave, serious and puritanical heart of modern Russia; the soldiers and workers leave, "kindly disposed" toward a man "who could not have lived in our time but who was a champion of justice." They find a moral in him and are happy. It is not exactly one's own approach to Samuel Pickwick, Esq., but it is a moving tribute to the fact that he does live in our time, paunch and all; that kindly, bumbling British belief in knowledge and virtue is universal and perdurable; he is an Immortal.—N.Y. ### GUIDANCE NEEDED

Every time we see naughty words scrawled in childish handwriting on walls and sidewalks we are reminded anew of the great need for adults with the ability and courage to guide juvenile morals aright—and also, while they're about it, to teach the little devils to spell.—Windsor Star.

SOUNDS REASONABLE

More than 150 young women in Ottawa have registered as "baby-minders" so that the mothers of the children are relieved of home worry for an evening or two each week when they can participate in war activities. But why not have the young ladies engaged in the war activities and let the mothers look after their own babies? —Chatham News.

Letter To The Editor

AGREES WITH EDITORIAL

Sir,—Your editorial "New Life for Peterborough" was to the point. I myself went with a neighbour to hear Dr. Stewart on Monday evening, as in our home we always enjoy listening to him over the radio. I may say that we both enjoyed him and learned some things we did not know before, but on leaving the church I was pained to hear an elderly man behind us holding forth as to what he thought of the whole affair; he criticized the choir and the lecture, it was all a poor affair and to have to pay 35 cents for what he could read in the newspaper and besides he could not hear half the lecturer said. Also he said that the people in the church were restless and tired of it all, (but perhaps this was due to its being hot that evening) at any rate this particular old fellow did not get any new thoughts, but speaking for myself we could do as you say, with more of that kind of thing, with lectures, with thought provoking letters to the papers, not for any self glory but with desire to give to others something that will help them in the battle of life, something constructive, not destructive. So much is being destroyed today, we must strengthen the things that remain.

Thanking you, I remain, Yours truly,

M. B.

A Bible Message

Give unto the Lord, O ye mighty, give unto the Lord glory and strength. Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness....

The Lord sitteth upon the flood; yea, the Lord sitteth King for ever. The Lord will give strength unto his people; the Lord will bless his people with peace. (Ps. 29: 1, 2, 10, 11.)

He watereth the hills from his chambers: the earth is satisfied with the fruit of thy works. He causeth the grass to grow for the cattle, and herb for the service of man: that he may bring forth food out of the earth....

O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches. (Ps. 104: 13, 14, 24.)

Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom no variableness, neither shadow of turning. (James 1: 17.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The straightforward young woman believed in telling the truth. She married a very sentimental young man.

"My darling," he said, "surely I cannot be worthy of you."

"Oh, of course not," she answered, "but when a girl's been twenty-three for six years, she would be silly to be too particular, wouldn't she?"

A woman who did not understand the language of business went into the Bank of England to consult someone about her loan holding. The clerk to whom she talked happened to be rather a grave person. He inquired:

"Is it a case of conversion or redemption, madam?"

"Conversion? Redemption?" faltered the woman. "Er-pardon me, is this the Bank of England or the Church of England?"

Piano Students Give Recital

GORE'S LANDING, May 30. — (ENS).—A spring piano recital was given by the pupils of Mrs. Ruby J. Meggs at her home recently. The living room and hall were decorated with huge bouquets of tulips, narcissi and mauve and white lilacs for this occasion. Parents and friends of the students composed the audience of about 25 people.

The program commenced with a duet by Enid King and Margaret Manley followed by 'Swaing Ferns' played by Delina Gilpin; 'Princess Patricia March' by Murray Eagleson; 'Menuet Ancien' by Doris Buttars; 'Ludody Polka' by Helen Thackeray; a demonstration in technique by Joan Harris; two solos, 'Patches' and 'The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise,' by Shirley Drope; 'American Patrol March' by Joan Harris; 'Waltz of the Toys' by Enid King; 'Airy Fairies' and 'March of the Drum' by Laura Eagleson; duet, 'Chicks at Play' by Melve Fisher and Margaret Manley; 'Minuet (Bach)' by Leighton Westington; 'Scherzino' by Margaret Manley; 'Climbing' by Melve Fisher; 'Parade of the Little Ducks' by Lorene Linton; 'Rondo Op. 47 No. 1' by Lottie Drope; three solos by Emily MacDonald; 'The Hidden Waterfall' by Joan Harris completed the program.

Mrs. W. McKee Bingham was amongst the guests and gave an interesting talk on the history of English music. Mr. C. Brisbin also spoke briefly and moved a vote of thanks to the hostess. Refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour followed the recital.

Summer Visitor Recent Bride

Mr and Mrs. Douglas MacQueen George Street, Peterborough, were guests at the recent wedding in Toronto, when Olive Kathleen Powers, daughter of Mrs. Powers, Toronto, and the late Gordon Edgar Powers, became the bride of Lieut. Glen Gilmour Smith, R.C.A.M.C. son of Rev. Oswald J. Smith and Mrs. Smith, Toronto. Rev. Mr. Smith officiated at the ceremony. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are well-known in Peterborough, since they have a summer residence in Kawartha Park, and spend their holidays there.

Given in marriage by her uncle, William H. Parry, the bride was gowned in pearl-toned satin made with a lace yoke, basque bodice and full skirt. A satin half-hat, edged in seed pearls, caught her veil of bridal illusion, and she carried a crescent bouquet of lily of the valley, stephanotis and mauve orchids.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Powers, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Lela Worling, Mrs. Janet Graham, and Miss Lois Parry, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in rosewood crepe, with matching half-hats with chin veils, and carried bouquets of mauve lilacs, peach roses, and yellow marguerites. Paul Smith, brother of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Lieut. J. S. Heron, R.C.A.M.C., Douglas MacQueen of Peterborough, Donald Billings, and Sgt. Stanley Kennedy, R.C.A.F.

At the reception at Wymilwood, the bride's mother received the guests in a gown of French beulah lace, with a corsage of fuchsia, sweet peas, forget-me-nots, and ivory roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore orchid crepe, with a corsage of violas, ivory and coral roses. For travelling, the bride chose a dressmaker suit of wild cherry wool crepe, blue tweed topcoat, matching hat, and black accessories.

R. Burfield Has 91st Birthday

Richard C. Burfield, 371 Bethune street, is observing his 91st birthday today. Born in York, England, he came to Canada 60 years ago, and has lived in Peterborough since that time. After his arrival, he married Miss Sarah Bellwood, who was born in England, but came to Peterborough at an early age.

They have five children. Mrs. G. Forsyth lives at 183 Reid street, and Mrs. Asa Downer lives with her parents. Sgt. Lillian Burfield, C.W.A.C., another daughter, is stationed in Ottawa. A son, Jack Burfield, lives on Bell avenue, and another son, Pte. Bruce Burfield, is serving overseas.

Sacred Sing Song Popular Event

An excellent attendance of soldiers was recorded at the Uptown Recreation Centre Sunday afternoon and evening, and about 35 hostesses were in attendance. Cake and coffee were served during the afternoon, and refreshments were also served in the evening. Jimmy Abraham and Mrs. E. Norman played the piano for the afternoon.

During the sacred singsong which has become a regular feature of the Sunday evening entertainment, three soloists were heard. Mrs. M. Drury sang "You Go to your Church and I'll Go to Mine," "TheHoly City," and "The Lord's Prayer." Jack Gibson sang "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked", and joined with Mrs. Drury in a duet, "America the Beautiful". LAC McGinness, R. A. F., of Picton, also sang for the group. Pte. Harold Wright conducted the singsong, with Mrs. E. Norman at the piano, and Capt. V. Graham closed the period with prayer.

Guests during the day included Navy, Army and Airforce boys from Trenton and Picton, men on leave in Peterborough, and 15 boys from Camp Borden, who had formerly trained at the local Centre.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

SWEET GIRL GRADS ON OWN

College Diploma No Longer Leads to Altar and Life of Luxurious Ease.

TENS of thousands of young girl graduates are asking in the words of the old song: "Where do we go from here?" Their destination is not so clear as it was in the good old times when the path from the school room led to the altar. The war has bombed that road until it is no longer a short cut to a vine-wreathed cottage and a meal ticket. The sweet girl graduate of today cannot count, with any certainty, on settling the problem of how she shall be fed and wherewithal she shall be clothed with a wedding ring.

Husbands are going to be scarce, and when, and if, attainable, they are just as often going to be liabilities as assets. So there is no use in the modern girl kidding herself into thinking that when she marries she can sit down on the do-nothing stool for the balance of her life and let George do it.

George may be the dearest fellow in all the world. He may have done a hero's part in the war and have his breast covered with medals but if he has been shell-shocked, or crippled, or maimed in mind and body by the experiences he has been through, he is not going to be the dependable, good provider that the drudging prewar husband was.

So to the sweet girl graduate I would say: Scrap all of your rose-colored dreams about marriage being a passport to a life of ease and luxury and face the grim fact that whether you marry or not you will be on your own. You will have to stand on your own feet. Being of the feminine persuasion is going to be no alibi for laziness and shiftlessness and incompetence. You've got to make good with your own brains and hands.

Good Things Must Be Earned

Wake up. Come out of your trance about all the good things in life being handed to you on a silver salver. It will never happen to you. What you have, you have to get for yourself. The women who get fat envelopes don't get them by wishful thinking. They are the result of putting elbow grease in their jobs.

Realize that you are going to have to work as long as you live and so prepare yourself to do the kind of work that commands good pay. Study your aptitudes and see what you are best fitted for, and then make good at it. But it doesn't matter what you do, it is the way you do it that counts.

And, above all. I would like to impress upon your 16 and 17-year-old minds the fact that you can make, or mar, your whole lives by the attitude you take towards love and marriage. If you take them in your stride as something that adds to your happiness, if they come your way, well and good. But if you make them the sole objective of your existence and feel that everything else is cinders, ashes and dust if you do not get them, then you are laying yourself open to the cruelest blows of Fate. For many women cannot marry and many more marry the husbands who break their hearts.

So watch your hearts, little girls, and keep them geared down to low speed. For while love and marriage may be the meringue on the lemon pie of life there is lots of good, rich, tasty filling below it. And as long as you can make your own happiness nobody can make you miserable.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

There is no one that does not enjoy supper when they see muffins on the table. These take the place of bread, also cake, and in these days when it is so hard to get sugar and shortening to make a nice home-made cake, many cooks and housewives are turning to a fancy muffin. That is why I am giving you some recipes today, that I hope you will try, enjoy and try again. The most humdrum meal will sit up and take a bow when these tasty muffins are served.

Apple Muffins

Two cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon allspice, 2 eggs well beaten, 1 cup of milk, 2 tablespoons melted shortening, 2 tablespoons shredded apple. Sift together dry ingredients, add eggs, milk, melted shortening and apple, mix all together quickly. Bake in well greased muffin tins in hot oven (400 degrees) for about 20 minutes. This recipes will make 12 muffins.

Bran Muffins

Two tablespoons butter, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, ¾ cup of milk, 1 cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup of bran. Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly, add egg and beat well. Stir in bran and milk, let soak until most of the moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt, and baking powder add to the first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans about 2-3 full. Bake in medium oven 400 degrees for about 30 minutes. This will make eight large muffins.

Graham Nut Muffins

One cup graham flour, ¾ cup white flour, ½ cup sugar, 5 teaspons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ cup chopped pecans. Mix and sift dry ingredients, add nuts, add milk gradually, egg well beaten, and butter. Bake in a hot oven 400 degrees in muffin tins for 25 minutes. This recipe will make 16 muffins.

Boston Brown Bread

One cup whole wheat flour, 1 cup rye flour, 1 cup cornmeal, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¾ cup molasses, 2 cups sour milk.

Sift together dry ingredients. Stir in the molasses and sour milk. Fill greased molds 2-3 full, cover closely and steam 3½ hours. One cup of floured raisins may be added if desired, or 1 cup of dates chopped fine.

Ina Robinson Given Showers

Miss Ina Robinson, whose marriage to Walter John Dyer takes place June 10, has been entertained at several showers by her friends. She was guest of honor on two occasions recently, one at her home in Bridgenorth, where her sister, Miss Opal Robinson, was hostess, and the other in Peterborough, when Mrs. Robert Young, Crawford's Grove, was hostess.

Miss Opal Robinson entertained at a pantry and personal shower, and the bride-elect received a great many lovely and useful gifts from her friends. The evening was spent in playing progressive euchre, and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Misses Earla Quick, June Robinson, Jean Moore, and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts.

Guests were present from Peterborough and Bridgenorth and included: Misses Hazel Forsythe, Jean Ball, Joyce Ray, Olive Sidey, Thelma Wheeler, Irene Forsythe, Shirley Conners, Dorothy Nicholls, Earla Quick, Opal Robinson, May McManus, Barbara Moore, Wilma Telford, Eleanor McManus Jean Moore, Dorothy White, Loretta McManus, Eleanor Gravelle, and Clarissa White; Mesdames J. Hardill, A. Pickles, E. Doughty, K. Roberts, C. Jopling W. J. Robinson, B. Jopling, J. Smith K. Blewett, L. Fry, R. Jopling, E. Ball, E. Blewett, F. Sullivan, W. T. Dyer, L. Dyer, K. Hopcroft, H. Guppy, D. Corten, W. Flint, and E. Nicholls.

Mrs. Robert Young was hostess at a miscellaneous shower, when several girls from the Brinton Carpet Office, where Mr. Dyer is employed, were present. The party was a surprise, and some of the guests spent the evening making a bride's scrapbook, to present to Miss Robinson, while others played games. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Misses Mary Alexander June Robinson and Earla Quick.

Those present were: Misses Freda McMahon, Gladys Brock, Eva Johnston, Opal Robinson, Elsie Johnston, Mary Alexander June Robinson, Hazel Betterson Loretta McDougal, Agnes Weir, Mary Richardson, Earla Quick, Frances Pollard, Davida Elmhirst, Crystal Hendry, Ruth Gaskill E. Miller, and Mesdames R. Brock, B. Morden, E. Denesen, L. Dyer, H. Martin, W. Agnew W. T. Dyer, H. Pomeroy, and G. Johnston.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question—Am a constant reader of your column and want some information.

I am 5 ft. 1 in. and weigh 160 lbs. and am 53 years old, and would love to lose some of my 36 in. waistline. Legs and arms are just right. I was wondering if you could give me a long slimming diet or what you would suggest.

I am also giving a bridge party, three tables, in aid of cigarettes for the boys and am asking you for a suggestion for the lunch—if it isn't asking too much.

MRS. A. R. MH.

Answer: It would be a blessing for you if you had a garden in which you could work for one hour a day. The bending makes the waistline supple. If you haven't a garden you must do some bending exercises.

For a woman who is moderately active to reduce successfully—that is without any ill effects, she must have 1200 calories per day BUT these are a special kind of calories:

1. You must have some protein every meal such as an egg, or at least 2 oz. cheese, or 4 oz. meat, lean meat.

2. You must drink 3 8-oz. glasses skim milk per day.

3. You should eliminate all fat and sugar from your diet. That includes butter from your bread and vegetables and sauces; cream from your coffee and tea and cereals; sugar from your beverages and fruits and desserts.

4. Do not eat potatoes, cake, pie, puddings or cookies.

5. Eat plenty of vegetables with salt, both cooked and raw, half-and-half; eat plenty of raw fruit unsweetened; eat 2 slices (½-inch) not cracked wheat, bread, per day, unbuttered.

Sample Meals

Breakfast: 1 orange (sections not juice), 50 calories; 1 poached egg (75) on ½ slice unbuttered whole wheat toast (25), 1 glass skim milk (100), 1 cup black coffee (0).

Lunch: Clear Tomato Soup (25), large green salad with at least 2 oz. cottage cheese, and served with reducers' mayonnaise, (50) 1 slice whole wheat bread (50), half large grapefruit (50), glass skim milk (100).

Dinner: Four oz. fat-free roast beef, or beefsteak or ground steak broiled (all fat-free), flavored with Worcestershire horseradish, asparagus with salt, canned kernel corn, sliced tomatoes, reducers' mayonnaise, fruit cup of orange, grape apple, sweetened with saccharin; graham cracker, glass skim milk, black coffee. (675 calories in all in this meal).

You will see how careful you must be to keep the calories down and the protein and vitamins up.

Change your habits to conform to such a diet and then let me know how you are getting along and I will suggest changes that can be made.

Menu for Bridge Party For Cigarette Fund

(For a charitable affair the food should not be elaborate.)

Egg, green pepper and onion sandwiches on whole wheat Bread.
Triple decker white and brown sandwiches of ground veal for 1 layer, cheese and pimiento for second
Gherkins, Radishes, Pickled Carrots
Fruit Cake Chocolate Cup Cakes
Salted Peanuts
Tea Coffee

This will make a delicious lunch, popular with everyone; you could add ice cream and another variety of sandwiches such as sardine paste canapes, but it is not necessary.

Corvette Crew Is Entertained

Officers and men of the corvette "Peterborough" were entertained Monday evening at a banquet at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. Present, in addition to the "Peterborough's" crew, were officers of the Sea Cadet ship "Howe," Major Jame Turnbull and Capt. D. Loomis of the local Training Centre, and Aldermen James Dutton, G. F. Curtis, J. E. Sullivan, R. M. Glover, T. Mark, W. G. Ovens and Mayor James Hamilton. Alderman Adam Sands was chairman.

Ian McRae, works manager of the C.G.E., announced that the company would sponsor recordings of the voices of all the crew, which would be sent to their homes or to anyone they wished. All fifty-five members of the crew availed themselves of this unique opportunity. Alderman Dutton proposed the toast to the Peterborough crew, and Telegraphist Moffat expressed the thanks of his shipmates, for the wonderful reception given them.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing to music supplied by Jimmy Cooke's orchestra, with several prizes being given out for speciality dances.

Umpires—Don Crawford and William Prest.

Synagogue Burns

TORONTO May 30.—(CP).—Fire of mysterious origin yesterday destroyed the interior of a Jewish synagoguge in west-central Toronto with damage of less than $3,000, a few minutes after the congregation had left the two-storey building after festival service. District Fire Chief Percy Taylor later asked the Ontario Fire Marshal's office to investigate the blaze.

St. Peter's Win 2nd Place Tie Defeat Soldiers

Playing steady ball behind effective seven-hit pitching by Gene Reynolds St. Peter's climbed up a second-place tie with Plazas in the City League race Monday night by defeating the Military Training Centre ten runs to two.

The Saints scored three runs in the first inning and were never headed after that. The Soldiers made it close by getting two in the second but when St. Peter's chased in three more in the fifth and a quartette of counters in the sixth the argument was all over.

Reynolds' steady pitching held the losers in check most of the way and he would have had a shutout had it not been for an error with two out. The Saints' pitcher only allowed seven scattered blows and walked but two men. Morgan with three hits and Herrick with a double and a triple were the only Soldiers who did much against his delivery.

Thiessen who went the distance for the Soldiers yielded sixteen hits and in addition was the victim of some costly defensive slips.

Al Courneya was one of the stars of the engagement. The Saints' third baseman not only got four hits, including two doubles but he played brilliantly in the field with a sensational catch of a line drive for an unassisted double play and an equally thrilling grab of a drive from Anderson's bat that robbed the Centre's shortstop of a hit. Len Hollingsworth also shone with a fine running catch of a line drive foul by Huck Herrick while Ossie Anderson cut Reynolds out of a safe blow by a jumping grab of his sizzling liner in the ninth.

The Saints got away fast from the barrier. Conroy singled to right and went to second on Herrick's high throw. Courneya doubled to right and Carlson walked filling the bases. Reynolds blazed a singled through Junkin, scoring Condin. Hollingsworth walked, forcing in Courneya and Carlson scored when Herrick muffed Masterson's high fly to right. The next three went out in order.

The Soldiers got two back in the second. Herrick doubled to left and went to third on Hollingsworth's bad throw to the middle station. Beatty bunted and Herrick was caught between third and home and tagged out by Conroy. Nicholls walked and Morgan got an infield single. Junkin hit to Caccavella who tagged Morgan on the line but his throw to first for a double got away from Condon and Beatty and Nicholls scored. Thiessen popped to Condon.

St. Peter's got three more in the fifth, after two were out. Mortimer started the trouble by dropping Pearson's fly to centre and the batter reached second. Caccavella doubled to left to send him in. Condon drew a pass. Conroy's single and an error by Mortimer on Courneya's fly sent two more runs in.

The winners wound up the scoring in the sixth when they drove in four runs by solid hitting. With one away Hollingsworth singled to centre. Masterson singled to right. Hollingsworth going to third and the runner to second on the throw-in. Pearson's single to right scored Hollingsworth. Caccavella flied to Mortimer and Masterson scored after the catch. Condon doubled to left sending Pearson in and Conroy singled to right, Condon registering. Courneya's fly to Anderson ended the big inning.

A Slim Chance

NEW YORK, May 30 (AP).—The United States Navy, in a booklet titled "Shark Sense," tells its aviators who are downed in the ocean how to protect themselves from sharks. "Swim out of the line of his charge, grab a pectoral fin as he goes by and ride with him as long as you can hold your breath," the booklet advises. By the time the person so doing is out of breath "the shark may lose his viciousness," the booklet adds hopefully.

SPORTS - Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

A strengthened U.E.W. team will clash with Switchgear tonight at Riverside Park in a City League fixture called for 6.45 o'clock. The Union team after being nosed out by St. Peter's 7 to 6 in their opening game by an error in the last inning got a bad game out of their system in their second start when they met the hard-hitting Plazas in one of their hittinest moods. The U.E.W. claim that nothing like that is going to happen again and that they will prove it against the league-leading Switchgear team tonight. The latter have won their first two starts and hope to make it three in a row. They will likely start Ron Akers against the Unionists, while the latter will call on Don Isaac or Andy Anderson. Tomorrow night the Plazas who have won two games since they dropped the opener with Switchgear will clash with St. Peter's and that should be a merry tilt. Second place will be at stake in that encounter as the teams are now tied with two wins and one loss. Terry Wood will be the likely pitching choice for Plazas with Eddie Starr doing the catching while Gene Reynolds will do the hurling for the Saints with Bob Carlson working behind the bat. The game will be called at 6.45 o'cock.

In the Girls' loop at the Ashburnham Bowl the Westclox team, last season's champions will be seen in action for the second time in the current campaign tonight when they meet Brintons, last season's intermediate champions. This will be the first appearance of Brintons and there is natural interest as to how the carpet-makers will shape up in their 1944 effort. They won the intermediate honors two years in succession and they start this year with a good team, according to all reports. Manager Ab Delahaye of Westclox has intimated that he does not propose to start Isobel Bullock against Brintons in this contest which means that the versatile Tommy will go back to her old job behind the bat. The game is called for 6.45 o'clock. Tomorrow night the Westclox second team composed entirely of new comers to the league will make their debut in a game with another baby member of the league, the Quakers. Both these outfits will be made up of young, promising and inexperienced players so that they should start on even terms and make the game a most interesitng affair. The Westclockers have had a flock of younger players out at their workouts and expect to come up with a lively squad and the same is true of Quakers.

Anything May Happen

Every little movement will have a meaning all its own tonight when Peterborough gets its first look at tag team wrestling at Brock Street Arena. We have an idea that the main bout may start out as wrestling but before it has been going long the air will be so full of flying forms that the affair will look like a crack troupe of circus aerialists doing their stuff under the big top. With four wrestlers all champing on the bit it would take more than one referee to keep the gang in order and whoever gets the call to handle this furious foursome tonight is going to be so busy keeping out of the way that he will have little time to be technical about the rules. And if we know anything about John Katan and Bunny Dunlop who comprise one team and Frankie Sexton and Nick Elitch who make up the second they are not going to be very technical either. All those bozoes want is a chance to get swinging and if they turn the affair into a glorified battle royal every member of the quartette of grapplers—and incidentally every member of the audience too—will be happy about the whole affair. The rules are that there is to be no time limit and the winning team must take two falls. Outside of these and the further condition that there cannot be a change of partners until the relieving mat artist has been tagged there are few restrictions.

* * * * * *

Promoter Tunney has made no mistake in naming the preliminary bout that will usher in the tag team affair. In bringing Strangler Bob Wagner back to Peterborough he is giving local fans a chance to see again the outstanding bad man of the 1944 season. Wagner who has made a striking comeback on this circuit has wrestling fans all over the northern states and Canada up in arms over the ruthlessness of his methods and the keen delight he apparently takes in putting his opponents over the hurdles. The Strangler doesn't believe in waste motion. He attacks all the time and he doesn't care how, just so long as he can get there fustest with the mostest and he usually does with disastrous results for his unfortunate adversary. This happens, on this occasion, to be Verne Baxter, a tough hombre himself and the sort of a battler who is likely to take Wagner on at his own game and give him a run for his money. Baxter has been around a lot and the battering Strangler won't find him anything that will remotely suggest soft opposition.

One Threat Removed

Scribe George Campbell of the Oshawa Times-Gazette comes to bat with an announcement that should cause a sigh of relief in local softball circles. Quoting our tribute to the strength of last year's intermediate champions and especially to the two-man pitching staff that carried Oshawa through to a title last year the Oshawa sports commentator adds: "We are much obliged to Fred Craig, Peterborough sports scribe for the above paragraph but Friend Fred seems to have overlooked the fact that this season the GM-Colts are going to compete in the O.A.S.A. senior "B" playoffs and leave the intermediate "A" championship to some other team, after having held it themselves for two years. Unless Peterborough champs elect to go senior "B" too, the GM-Colts will not be visiting the Liftlock City this season—unless perhaps for an exhibition game which might not be a bad idea, either, for the Plazas or Switchgear." So the Oshawa menace, so far as the Colts are concerned, is removed for this season for the Peterborough City League has no intention of deserting the intermediate "A" ranks for this campaign at least.

One feature of yesterday's baseball was the fact that Bob Muncrief of the St. Louis Browns who has been trying to win a ball game from the New York Yanks finally succeeded. The Brownies had rather an easy time at that, winning the argument 11 to 3. Muncrief kept ten New York hits well scattered. Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox picked up his fifth win of the season last night as the Sox beat Chicago 3 to 1 to make it seven straight games over the Pale Hose this season. Hughson allowed only eight well-spaced-out hits. Rookie Jonas Berry of the Philadelphia A's who has been having great success as a relief hurler added another fireman win to his list last night when he relieved the veteran Hamlin and received credit for the victory as the A's took a 9 to 4 win over the Cleveland Indians. In the National League Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati Reds, in for one of his greatest years won his eighth game of the season as the Reds triumphed over the Dodgers 13 to 4. Meanwhile the New York Giants turned on the St. Louis Cards and defeated the leaders 6 to 4 with Mel Ott helping a lot with his seventh homer of the season.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Switchgear will be without the services of Holly Mowry, their hard-hitting catcher, for some time. He broke a finger in a week-end exhibition game....Earl McNabb will move in behind the plate while Mowry is on the sidelines....Soldiers turned up with two new infielders and a new catcher last night....However the camp team looks to be weakest on the firing line....Ace Adams returned to his old relief role in a game against the St. Louis Cards last night and did such a good job of it that the Giants won the game and he got credit for his fifth game of the year....Pitcher Thiessen of the Soldiers pulled an odd one. With St. Peter's runners on first and second the camp twirler fielded a roller and then threw the ball to the plate where of course there was no play....Apperently he thought the bases had been loaded....The mental error cost three runs as the side should have been retired on the play.

Cardinals: Teresa Quigly, p; Joan Wade, c; Jean Russel, 1b; Isobel Hunt, 2b; Marie Cauley, 3b; Lois Nolan, rf; Mary McTague, cf; Anna Marie Caccavella, lf.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, May 31

THE PLANETARY aspects for this day are fairly fortunate for the attainment of high objectives, with opportunities for increased finances and credit, growing business, with enhanced personal popularity and influence. But be prepared to break through certain stubborn obstacles or impediments, or long-standing static situations. With cleverness, confidence and persistency there may be much moderate promise of success and happiness. The latter may be in social or romantic affiliations.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of fair progress, with increased position, finances, credit and popularity, as well as the attainment of cherished hopes and wishes. But this success and gratification may have to be won against obstacles or opposition, delays and small disappointments, by dint of sheer determination, application, assurance and attention to details and practical methods. The rewards may materialize in domestic, social or emotional compensations.

A child born on this day may attain ultimate satisfaction and happiness in life, but it must work against obstacles, limitations and other handicaps. Its health should be considered carefully.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, May 30—(AP)—What seems to be bothering the college football coaches, who have been indulging in "remarkably frank" talk the last couple of days, is not so much that the rules committee won't rule as the fact that the men most vitally interested in football—the coaches—are being consistently ignored...As one of them pointed out yesterday, they have only a minority representation on the rules committee and they aren't even permitted to choose the men who represent them.

Rookie Blog

Eddie Basinski, Dodgers' second baseman: Before Leo Durocher tossed Basinski, a shortstop fresh out of Buffalo University, into the Dodgers' second base gap, Brooklyn had made 14 double plays; in 10 days Eddie has figured in 11 twin killings and has hit around .400.

One-Minute Sports Page

One reason why Henry Franka came here from Tulsa for the football meeting was to try to find shoulder pads big enough for one of his linemen, whose name he won't breathe..The Appalachian League's all-star game this year will match the Class D circuit's best players against the Army air base team from Greenville, S.C....Some of the other minors might do worse than copy the idea—American Association All Stars vs. Great Lakes, for example.

Party-line users are helping to make scarce telephone equipment go further

Many people have accepted party-line service as a wartime substitute for the individual service they'd like to have, and they are cooperating with their party-line "partners" so that both will get the best possible service. Here are some of the ways every party-line user can help:

1. Before calling, listen first; if the line is in use, hang up promptly and gently.
2. Avoid making unnecessary calls—and keep even essential calls short.
3. Answer promptly; and when your talk is completed, make sure the receiver is properly replaced.
4. Practice the wartime good-neighbour policy of "share and share alike".

Tip TO PARTY-LINE USERS
If you hear successive clicks when you remove the receiver, it means the other party is dialing. When it stops, tell the other party that you may have interfered with his dialing, then replace your receiver and wait a reasonable time before making your call.

Buffalo Bisons Blank Red Wings 5-0

By The Associated Press

The International League today moved into a day of Memorial Day double-headers with only three games separating the first-place team from the seventh in one of the tightest races in its history.

Buffalo climbed within four percentage points of the leading Toronto Maple Leafs last night when Hank Oana blanked Rochester 5-0 on four singles. It was the sixth straight for the Bisons over their arch-rivals from Rochester.

The Red Wings finished the game under protest. When left-fielder Tom Astbury dropped a fly in short left field they claimed Umpire Art Gore had ruled the ball an infield fly and should not permit a run to be scored. Before the inning was over, the Bisons picked up four runs.

Jersey City pushed Syracuse down below the .500 mark by grabbing a 5-4 decision in 13 innings. Whitey Lockman slid safely under Syracuse Catcher Valivia in the 13th on Lajeskie's fielder's choice to third base.

TORONTO, May 30 — (CP). — Citizens of Drumheller, Alta., are planning a complete, modern sport and recreation centre for the community in honor of the Drumheller boys who served overseas in this war. The centre will include a memorial, indoor swimming pool, museum, library, gymnasium and auditorium with outside lawn bowling and tennis courts.

The community, as well as remembering its sons in uniform, is taking an important part in building its future citizenry, and has stolen a march on many much larger centres.

Pirates Squeeze Into Second Win, 9 Out Of 11

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer.

Frankie Frisch and his seven-man Pittsburg pitching staff may not win the National League pennant, but they rate bouquets at this stage of the season.

By winning nine of their last 11 starts, the under-manned Pirate crew has moved to within three games of the leading St. Louis Cardinals, taking second place away from Cincinnati.

The Pirates' latest was a good example of the way the staff has been operating. Frisch had to toss three hurlers into the game before they pulled out a 3-2 triumph in 11 innings last night at Philadelphia.

Whit Wyatt's failure to round into winning form continued to prove disastrous to Brooklyn when the ace righthander was belted off the hill before the second inning was over in Cincinnati's 13-4 slaughter of the Flatbush Flock.

Mel Ott and Danny Gardella smashed homers to help the New York Giants square their series with St. Louis on a 6-4 verdict, with the help of some neat relief hurling by Ace Adams. Boston and Chicago were not scheduled in the National.

Boston's Red Sox flattened Chicago to sweep all three games as Tex Hughson handcuffed the White Sox with eight singles for a 3-1 edge.

Bob Mnucrief finally overcame his New York Yankee jinx after three years and six failures as he beat the world champs for St. Louis 11-3.

Even five Detroit errors weren't enough to overcome the five-hit pitching of Johnny Gorsica as Detroit shoved Washington into third on a 2-1 triumph.

Dick Siebert's homer sparked Philadelphia to a 9-4 edge over Cleveland with two four-run innings.

Remember When—

Seven years ago today the American Davis Cup team won its cup round from Australia as Don Budge and Gene Mako walloped Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath 7-5, 6-1, 8-6 in the doubles, following up singles victories. The U.S. team won the challenge round from England.

PERFECT BLISS — The ambition of every boy—to be able to get dirty and not be scolded for it—is realized by little Johnny King, three-year-old English lad who is his father's helper in delivering coal.

Dixie Walker Hitting .438

NEW YORK, May 30 (AP)—Dixie Walker's batting surge continued to be the talk of baseball today as the Major League's completed the first six weeks of the 1944 season with the Dodger outfielder strumming a .438 tune on the base-hit scale to drown out Thurman Tucker's .395 effort for the Chicago American League entry.

While Walker boosted his average 17 points, Tucker's mark failed to change as the White Sox sensation was sidelined for the entire week by illness. Figures were for all games including those of May 29.

Stan Musial, the defending National champ, held tight to second place with .368, while Frenchy Bordagaray of the Dodgers hopped from sixth to third, at .351, one point ahead of Boston's Damon Philips, a newcomer in the top 10.

Tommy Holmes of Boston and Jimmy Wasdell of the Phils tied for fifth spot at .340.

Behind Tucker in the American came Chuck Hostetler of Detroit at .352 followed by Boston's Bob Johnson at .340. Oris Hockett's .333 gave the Cleveland outfielder fourth money ahead of Buddy Hall of Philadelphia at .328.

Lots Of Money

STANTON, Del. — (AP). — A crowd of 10,000, with wagering money totalling $639,914, welcomed the resumption of racing at Delaware Park yesterday. The five-furlong Dover Stakes resulted in a neck victory for Sole Parate, with Jockey Johnny Gilbert up.

Change Rules

NEW YORK — (AP). — College grid coaches yesterday recommended the elimination of the intentional out-of-bounds kickoff; the use of a one-inch tee for the kick-off, and the adoption of a rule permitting forward passing anywhere behind the line of scrimmage instead of five yards back of the line.

British Forget Invasion; Attend Sports

LONDON, May 30 — (CP). — The people of Great Britain worked off invasion tenseness over the three-day Whitsuntide holiday by attending sports events in record-breaking numbers.

For a few hours they forgot the impending assault on Europe, and from the northern tip of Scotland to England's south coast they jammed transportation systems to watch a mixed program ranging from pony and dog derbies to the cricket and track meets.

A wartime attendance mark was set on Saturday at Lords, home of cricket, where 30,000 saw Australia beat "The Rest" by one wicket. Another 25,000 turned out yesterday to watch England down Australia by six wickets. Thousands were unable to get into the grounds.

At Ascot race track, south-west of London, 25,000, including the Duchess of Norfolk as well as service girls and factory workers, wagered some $500,000 on nine races. Stocks of champagne at $16 a bottle were snapped up fast.

At Stockton, in Northern England, another big crowd saw Sir Eric Ohlson's unbeaten Dante set a course record in winning the five-furlong Tanton Stakes by six lengths in 57 2-5 seconds.

15,000 See Games.

Greyhound followers poured into the big tracks in the London area Saturday and Monday. More than 15,000 spectators watched the games at London's White City stadium, where CSM. Cyril Holmes, British Empire champion, won the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds flat.

The King, dressed in civilian clothes in public for the first time since the war started, went to the Royal Windsor horse show Saturday with the Queen, and Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose each won a cup at the show, which attracted 5,000.

Other leading sports events were at Glasgow, where a crowd of 30,000 cheered Glasgow Rangers to a 2-1 victory over Clyde in a Charity Cup soccer final; at Swansea, Wales, where Sgt. Arthur Danahar outpointed Ronnie James, British lightweight boxer in a 10-rounder before 12,000 people; and at Epsom near London where 150,000 congregated to see some of Britain's best jockeys race on borrowed ponies.

One pony ridden by Steve Donoghue famed jockey of other days, finished last in the pony derby, which was won by jockey Ed Gardener. Gordon Richards, the country's champion jockey, was second.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The 58th running of the $50,000 Suburban Handicap as the Memorial Day feature at Belmont Park today promised to develop into a duel between Mrs. Payne Whitney's Devil Diver and Warren Wright's Sun Again, with war charity organizations slated to reap the most benefit through the turning over of the day's track receipts to their treasuries. The crowd was expected to reach 50,000.

Outfielder Vince DiMaggio of the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday was fined $50 and suspended three days by President Ford Frick of the National League, while Catcher Al Lopez was nicked $25. The penalties were imposed because they argued with the umpire at Philadelphia last Sunday.

Racing cards on Saturdays and holidays at tracks of the Quebec Racing Association will start at 3 p.m. and on other days at 4 p.m. to ease traffic conditions, it was announced at Montreal yesterday.

The Hamilton, Ont., Leander Boat Club will be represented by a high school "four" at the Philadelphia regatta next week-end. The crew will be the only Canadian entry, it was stated last night at Hamilton.

Unbeaten in 50 straight sprinting races in three years, Charlie Parker, San Antonio, Tex., schoolboy, is headed for the National A.A.U. games at New York June 17 and 18. His times includes 9.5 seconds for the century dash and 20.6 seconds for the 220-yard distance.

Pouliot Angers Members With Remarks

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, May 30 — (CP). — Jean Francois Pouliot, Liberal member of the Commons for Temiscouata, Que., was the centre of attention yesterday in a stormy scene which many expected to end with the member being escorted from the House.

It was only after repeated requests of Deputy Speaker J. A. Bradette that Mr. Pouliot finally answered "yes" to the question of whether he made an unqualified withdrawal of statements made earlier about the Senate.

But before the answer was given, Mr. Bradette said he would have to have an unqualified withdrawal of the remarks or he would be obliged "to name the honorable member." When a member is "named" by the Speaker he is escorted from the Chamber.

The scene for the storm was set when Defence Minister Ralston—Acting Government Leader with Prime Minister Mackenzie King not in the House—protested Mr. Pouliot's having said that the Senate had lost any sense of shame; that Senators could help if they were willing to work; that the Senate was a "nonentity" in Parliament at present; and that a Senator recently appointed "had fat contracts from the Munitions Department for being the agent of Mr. MacMillan in the Proivnce of Quebec.

Col. Ralston said the latter reference made it appear that a man was being accused of using his position as an agent for H. R. MacMillan, West Coast lumberman, to obtain a position for himself. This was offensive, Col. Ralston said.

Not a Nonentity.

Mr. Pouliot agreed at the afternoon session to withdraw his reference to the Senate being a nonentity, but he declined to withdraw the others. The Speaker reserved his decision until the evening sitting and then said he would have to ask for an unqualified withdrawal.

Mr. Pouliot said he was willing to withdraw any reference to the Senates willingness to work and repeated that he had already withdrawn the reference to the Senate being a "nonentity."

He said he had perhaps not made himself clear in his reference to a Senator who had received "fat contracts." He intended no reflection on the character of the new Senator.

Col. Ralston and other Cabinet members refused to accept Mr. Pouliot's suggested alterations of his earlier remarks and asked for a complete withdrawal.

Mr. Pouliot said he had withdrawn his remarks one by one and was not prepared to withdraw them a second time. It was then that Mr. Bradette began to request the member to make the withdrawal and close the incident. Mr. Pouliot agreed shortly after the Speaker said he would have to "name" him.

The scene was a sidelight to the business of the House—the examination of estimates for the department of trade and commerce.

In the Senate, meantime, history text books in use in Canadian elementary schools were criticized by Senator J. H. G. Lacasse (L-Ontario).

Senator Lacasse spoke in support of a motion by Senator L. A. David (L-Quebec) calling for the appointment at the proposed Dominion-provincial conference of a committee to consider the preparation of a text book of Canadian history which would be acceptable to all provinces.

Fruit Ceilings

Earlier Senate members paid tribute to two of their number who died since the Upper House met last May 4—Senator H. H. Pope, Progressive Conservative member from Quebec, and Senator B. G. Smith, Progressive Conservative member from New Brunswick.

G. A. Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley) set off a lengthy discussion on price controls when he moved that the House adjourn debate to discuss the British Columbia marketing problems.

Mr. Cruickshank, who withdrew his motion after Finance Minister Ilsley spoke on the difficulties of price controls, said British Columbia farmers could not pick their berry crop this year at the prices fixed by the prices board.

Mr. Ilsley said ceilings for fruit and vegetables were set this year because thousands of complaints were received last year when the prices of fruit and vegetables went uncontrolled. The ceilings were set after due consideration and were not devised to favor one province or another.

Practically all British Columbia members in the House and several opposition members urged that the price controls system and the ceilings be amended.

CHANGELESS TEMPERATURE

The temperature of Carlsbad caverns of New Mexico never varies more than a degree, winter or summer.

ALWAYS TIRED —Yet Sleep Didn't Help!

Doesn't it feel swell to wake up in the morning clear-eyed, refreshed, full of pep? Yet so many, especially over 40, get up tired all over, with aching joints, never really feel their best.

The reason is often a common complaint—a system clogged with poisonous food waste. Like many people, you need help to clean out a sluggish system, get back pep and sparkle rightfully yours. The mild action of BILE BEANS is an effective aid thousands rely on.

Made from 10 pure vegetable extracts. Bile Beans are so gentle, yet effective, they are called "The Medicine That Wakes Up Nature". These small laxative liver pills tone up the system by stimulating flow of liver bile, so essential to good digestion and daily regularity.

Why not enjoy that "glad-to-be-alive" feeling every day? Try Bile Beans tonight—they work while you sleep. Over 7 million boxes used last year, convincing evidence of how greatly they are helping others.

THIS TANK GOES OFF IN PURSUIT OF NAZIS—An Allied tank rumbles through battered debris which was once the town of Santa Angelo as the Allied 5th and 8th Armies press forward in pursuit of the fleeing Nazis.

the Via Casilina in that sector. This threat, however, diminished the enemy's use of the highway—last main escape route for the embattled Nazi divisions in the south.

Enemy Digs In.

Near the west coast the British occupied a lateral road west of Carroceto and advanced toward the western anchor of the Germans' "last-ditch" defences at Campo Iemini, 18 miles due south of the Eternal City.

From Campo Iemini north-eastward through Velletri and Lanuvio to Valmontone the enemy dug into his defences and stabbed out with violent tank counter-attacks in an effort to break the weight of the Allied onslaught.

Although the Allied Command announced "satisfactory gains" toward strongly-held Velletri and Lanuvio, it did not specify the extent of those gains.

The enemy's last hopes of holding the Sacco Valley south-east of Frosinone were wiped out as the 8th Army crashed into the vital highway junction town of Arce after two days of strenuous fighting with veteran Nazi parachute troops.

Flee Northward.

Behind barriers of demolished bridges, culverts and extensive mine fields, the Germans fled both northward along Highway 82 toward Avezzano and north-westard on Highway 6 in the direction of Frosinone

In a front dispatch yesterday, Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, referred to Canadians of the 8th Amy fighting on a "one-division" front, apparently indicating that the armored division commanded by Maj.-Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister was the only Canadian formation in action at the moment.

Last cabled reference to the 1st Division under Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes was in a dispatch Saturday from Doug How, another CP correspondent at the front.

His story told of both divisions in the Canadian Corps, commanded by Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, driving towards Ceprano, a town which since has fallen, apparently to the armored division.

Both the French troops on the right wing of the 5th Army and 8th Army forces closed in steadily on Frosinone.

Heavy Gunfire

The French yesterday were within sight of Ceccano, important town five miles south of Frosinone, and Gen. Sir Oliver Leese's vanguard of 8th Army troops forged rapidly on from Pofi, which was entered after the white flag was raised.

Another French unit drove through Proseedi and occupied Hill 550, 7½ miles southwest of Frosinone.

Allied artillery, most effective throughout the offensive, scored again when it set afire a huge enemy supply dump in the vicinity of Ceccano. Flames over an area nearly a kilometre square roared to a height of 2,000 feet.

The enemy, who has committed all or a greater part of at least 20 divisions to the fighting south of Rome, continued to suffer heavy manpower losses. The 5th Army alone has taken nearly 12,000 prisoners, including 5,300 seized in the drive from the Anzio beachhead.

Headquarters of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander disclosed that the 5th Army's 6th Corps, which successfully defended the beachhead and then launched attacks which threw the Nazis off balance, was commanded by Maj.-Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, 49, native of Texas, who was credited with training the famed American Ranger units.

Fear Indian Tactics

Prisoners taken by the 5th Army complained German casualties in recent days were extremely heavy because of the concentrated fire of infantry units who they said employed "Indian tactics."

To retard the British advance up the Sacco valley, the Nazis were employing Italian wooden box mines which magnetic mine detectors cannot locate.

British guards units captured two hills, Monte Grande and Monte Piccolo, immediately south of Arce, to pave the way for the occupation of the town and to provide valuable observation for British artillery supporting the advance on Frosinone. Eighth Army gunners included the Ayershire yeomanry making particulary effective use of "murder concentrations" of shells on small areas to break up impending counter-attacks.

Small pockets of the enemy well behind the 8th Army's vanguards continued to try to hold out. An Allied officer declared that when some of them were taken prisoner they asked, "When are we to be shot?" having been told to expect immediate death if they are captured.

A cruiser of the French Navy again slipped close inshore yesterday and bombarded enemy troops, dumps and roads north of the Anzio area. The Allied communique reported successful results.

flowing stream which was deep enough in some places to force them to swim. Following troops used rafts and rubber boat. Mortars, machine guns and some anti-tank guns also were taken across by raft.

Major H. Snelgrove, St. Marys, and Capt. W. J. (Sammy) Ridge, Millbrook, Ont., led the first companies into Ceprano and found the Germans already withdrawing. But about 30 Germans still in the town decided to fight. Five of them were taken prisoner and most of the others killed.

The enemy again resorted to a white-flag trick in an attempt to trap the Canadians. The trick was used previously in Pontecorvo. But in Ceprano when a stretcher-bearer who went forward to investigate was fired upon, the Ontario soldiers continued to fight until the Germans were driven out. This battalion consolidated its position in the town during the night while Maritime troops moved up on the left flank.

An earlier despatch from Doug How, another Canadian Press war correspondent, reported Ontario and Maritime infantry of the division commanded by Maj.-Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister were advancing toward Pofi after the fall of Ceprano.

Presumably Ceprano was captured by men of Gen. Hoffmeister's division. Toronto's Irish Regiment of Canada, the Perth Regiment from Stratford, Ont., and the Cape Breton Highlanders of Sydney, N.S., are infantry regiments of the division.

Found 50 Bodies

Two companies of Germans were reported west of Ceprano during Saturday night, and considerable movement was heard, so an artillery concentration was brought down. Two half-track vehicles were destroyed and nine prisoners taken. Next morning the bodies of 50 Germans were found.

The country through which the Canadians are advancing on a one-divisional front is rolling farmland, waist-deep in wheat. It is considerably less rugged than the Liri aVlley with low hills on either side.

The Liri flows south through the mountains, widening into a broad valley southeast of Ceprano. The Sacco rises near Valmontone and flows southwest to meet the Liri four miles southeast of Ceprano.

Fraserville News

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. McClenaghan, Fraserville, included Rev. Edgar Russel of Millbrook and Mr. Harold and Miss Lula Nurse. Rev. Russel also visited Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McIlmoyle of Fraserville.

Sgt. Haig Bothwell, who has been home with his mother, Mrs. J. Bothwell and brothers of Fraserville, on two weeks' furlough returned to his post on Saturday.

Troop Jumble Bewilders Huns In Italy

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, May 30—(CP Cable)—In the weeks of silence about movements of Canadian troops from the Adriatic to the Liri Valley front, a number of regiments held down a difficult static sector of the line in the bulge north of Cassino from which Polish troops later made a triumphant lunge from Monastery Hill and others around it.

Ontario Battalions, Maritimers and the Westminster Regiment of New Westminster B.C., inherited the fierce terrain won by the American and French troops and fought it out in more than three weeks of patrolling warfare, similar to that of the Adriatic front they had left. Security had banned previous mention of their role.

It was three weeks of monotony and danger amid mountains so rocky it often was impossible to dig slit trenches and the men had to protect themselves behind rock piles called sangars. The enemy held heights that enabled him to see practically every movement made by day.

Silent All Day.

The men had to lie silent all day long move from houses dugouts and sangars at night to hold down their defensive positions. They were supplied by jeep train over the five-mile inferno track.

On the inferno track wire mats in places aid vehicles that climb or descend 12 inches in every 66. In places the cliffs have yielded a truck's width and inches more. In places camouflage nets hide spots in the road because parts of the inferno track were built against harsh German objections.

It was over this treacherous road that supplies were carried to the Canadian front, a front of forbidding features, amazing occurrences. One flank of the Maritimers was within less than 100 yards of the enemy in some places, on other the Westminsters sent out more than one patrol, some for days at a time, without contacting any Germans.

The Canadian role was just part of a screen behind which Lt.-Gen. Sir Oliver Leese regrouped his 8th Army for the successful assault against the Gustav and Hitler lines.

In those weeks of preparation the forces were constantly jumbled and switched. The Canadians, for instance, were placed directly under the command of Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard Freyberg's New Zealand division and a commander of one of their regiments, the Westminsters, was biven a battalion of Italian marines to add to his own.

Meanwhile, other Canadians in rear positions trained for new battles, an infantry division with British armor, a veteran armored brigade with an Indian division of infantry. For a time all identification patches were removed.

Bomb Victim

SUSSEX, N.B., May 30—(CP).—W. E. Ross, a provisional lieutenant in the Canadian Officers' Training Corps at the University of New Brunswick, died in hospital yesterday from injuries suffered Saturday when a bomb exploded prematurely on the mortar range at Camp Sussex. Another cadet was seriously injured.

that yesterday's large-scale attention to the German aircraft industry indicated the Allied board of strategy was looking ahead to August and September. In the normal course of events enemy fighters now coming off production lines would just then be reaching the front.

Great land battles may then be in progress. If so, the Germans would be in dire need of the fighters presumably knocked out in yesterday's attacks.

Intelligence reports indicated the Germans had been given just enough time to repair the seven aircraft plants in Poland and Germany on which heavy bombers and fighters—possibly 2,200 strong—concentrated their major weight in flights from Britain.

The Monday operations cost the United States strategic air force 35 bombers and 11 fighters, a communique announced last night. One hundred enemy planes were shot from the sky.

Book Obscene

NEW YORK, May 30 — (AP). — Magistrate Charles G. Keuigen ruled yesterday that D. H. Lawrence's novel, "The First Lady Chatterley" was "clearly obscene," and ordered that the publishers, the Dial Press, Inc., be held for trial in Manhattan court of special sessions. Date of the trial will be set later.

Packing Plant Increases Canning Acreage

Taking a chance on the labor supply a month hence, and with some confidence in the Selective Service Department's ability to meet the passing needs, the canning industry throughout Ontario, and in the Peterborough district, has largely increased its contract acreage.

Canada Packers, for instance, have arranged for the planting of 425 acres of peas that are growing lushly in weather that has been ideal up to this week.

'We are beginning to need some moisture," said Ernie Ford of the Packers to-day. The companys acreage last year was down 70 to 100 acres as a result of rather extreme conditions of that spring. The pea crop is expected to begin moving to the packing plants by the end of this month.

"In this district from June 25 to the 30 should find our canning department beginning operations," Mr. Ford said.

And then, what about the labor supply, a question that causes worry just to conjure the prospects and the need that will have to be faced if a valuable food supply is to be accepted in its full volume.

The total acreage of canning peas estimated throughout the province this season is 9,885 as compared with 6,173 last year and 7,930 acres in 1942.

Transplanting of tomato plants in the lakeshore district is about completed. Canada Packers have 80 per cent of their contract acreage of tomatoes set out.

KILLED IN ITALY—Pte. Lawrence Bowman, R.R. 6, Cobourg, who was fighting with the 48th Highlanders in Italy, has been killed in action. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Bowman. His wife and 2½-year-old son also survive.

Sgt. J. Sturgeon Killed In Italy

A former Peterborough boy, Sgt. Jack Sturgeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Sturgeon of Port Elgin, has been killed in action in Italy, word received by his sister, Mrs. Bert Jeffries, 480 George street south. Fighting with an anti-tank unit, his death occurred on May 23, the same day Maj. Reginald Yelland lost his life.

The Sturgeon family left Peterborough 12 years ago. Sgt. Sturgeon was born in the city, attended Queen Alexandra School and the Collegiate and was particularly interested in athletics, in which he later became prominent in Port Elgin, being well-known there as a baseball and badminton player. His prowess in sports led to his being made a physical instructor in the Army.

For many years his father operated a plumbing and steamfitting shop on Charlotte street, and the family resided at the north end of Bethune street.

Thirty-two years of age anl unmarried, Sgt. Sturgeon enlisted nearly four years ago in an Anti-Tank Battery. He was stationed overseas in Britain for more than two years, and though not participating in the Sicilian campaign last summer, he has been in Italy since September, 1943.

He leaves besides his parents and his sister in Peterborough, three brothers, one of whom resides in Shumash and the others in Port Elgin.

Major R.E. Drope Candidate For Conservatives

WARKWORTH, May 30—(ENS)—The Progressive-Conservative party in Northumberland county will be represented in the next federal elections by Major R. E. Drope of Harwood who received the riding nomination at Warkworth Monday night.

Among those who attended the convention were Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., Peterborough; Harold R. Scott, M.P.P., Peterborough, and William Goodfellow, M.P.P. for Northumberland.

Major Drope was the unanimous choice almost from the outset. He was chosen in a contest that brought out six nominees, but the Harwood dairy man drew 274 votes to the 69 votes distributed between the other hopefuls, including Fred Denyes, Herman Morrow and Percy Gooding, former wardens of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham; Dan Bolster, of Cobourg, and Dr. Dure, of Brighton.

The riding officers elected last night were:

President—Kenneth Crews, Trenton.

Vice - president — Elgin Edgar, Warkworth.

2nd vice-president—Mrs. E. McCurdy, Cobourg.

3rd vice - president — Mrs. W. Togas, Brighton.

Secretary-treasurer — Mrs. Ruby Meggs, Gore's Landing.

The town hall here was crowded, and more than a hundred others followed the meeting's progress as reported to them by a public address system. The guest speaker was Earl Desmond, M.P., Kent County, who was introduced by Mr. Goodfellow.

Major Drope is a native of Harwood and a veteran of the Great War in which he served four years. He enlisted at seventeen with the 44th Battalion of Cobourg. He is widely known as the manager of Harwood Co-operative Creamery, and has popularly been credited with most of the success of that company. He is a member of the Cobourg High School Board, and is vice-president of the Federation of Agriculture in Northumberland.

The Drope family has long been associated with the municipal and other public affairs of Northumberland, and especially in the northern section centering at Harwood.

AIR-SUPPORTED ROOFS

Architects are experimenting with air-supported roofs—domed coverings of thin steel held up by pressure from air blown under them by ventilating fans around the sides.

RETURNS FROM OVERSEAS—Gunner Edward Haynes of Cobourg has returned from overseas because of a back ailment. He enlisted with the R.C.O.C. but later transferred to go overseas.

Civic Welcome Given Crew Of Corvette Peterborough

"A sailor's life is one of great hazard and, wherever the fortunes of war may carry you, our thoughts and supplications will be with you. We hope that when the war ends you will come back to visit us, and meantime we will do all we can to help you," said Mayor Hamlton, addressing the ship's company of H.M.C.S. Peterborough at the welcoming ceremonies held in Riverside Bowl Monday evening.

There were six officers and 54 ratings of a crew that will eventually comprise upwards of 95 men present at the ceremony. They arrived from Port Hope by train at 5.30 and marched over to Ashburnham behind the band of the Sea Cadet Corps, which, with its officers, attended the ceremony too. Though Lieut. Jack Raine, commanding officer of the ship that now officially bears the city's name following its christening at Kingston Saturday, was the only one to hail from Peterborough, many of the young lads are from Ontario and not a few have sailed in other ships with Peterborough tars. For some of the boys in blue this constitutes a first assignment to a ship.

It was a warm afternoon and following the march over to the Bowl a relaxation period was given the hot and perhaps travel-tired sailors and their accompanying escort of Sea Cadets before they reformed ranks and stood at ease to hear the the welcoming address. Ald. Adam Sands, acting as chairman, introduced the mayor, the gist of whose speech was to the effect that the whole city of Peterborough would watch with interest and a feeling of responsibility the careers of these young men shorty bound to man its seafaring namesake.

Friendly Greetings

"On your first visit," Mayor Hamilton remarked, "we wish to extend to you greetings and our sincere welcome. We want to know you. And to Lieut. Raine we desire to extend especially our congratulations Under his direction, the Peterborough is assured of as perfect handling as is possible. You may have absolute confidence," Mayor Hamilton told the crew members, "in your commander; and I venture to say it won't be long before you are affectionately calling him 'The Old Man.'"

After the conclusion of His Worship's address, Ald. Sands called upon two of the men who have been largely responsible in directing the efforts of the Corvette Committee in obtaining a wealth of comforts and equipment to be supplied the city's ship. They were George McDonald, chairman of the Corvette committee, and Gordon Miller, chairman of the Citizens Coordinating committee.

Disclaiming credit for any large contribution to the committee's successful efforts, Mr. MacDonald thanked the citizens for their donations and their work. "My work," he said, "has been extremely light; we have had a splendid committee and noble support from the people."

Presentation Made

He then presented a box, of the same kind that every member of the ship's company will receive, to one of the ratings called to the platform for the occasion, a sort of symbolic transfer of the equipment garnered by the committee to the men for whom it is intended. While many youngsters milled around the makeshift stand determined to be in on the unwrapping of the package, the sailor, a leading telegraphist from Verdun, Que., proceeded to undo a large box of comforts which included face cloths, handkerchiefs, shaving soap, razor blades, toothpaste and toothbrush, comb, nail file, chewing gum, chocolate bars, tins of soup and still other gifts even unto woollen articles. While the sailor tried on a leather jacket, Mr. MacDonald commented humorously, "If it's too large, he'll wear it." In a moment, however, he was able to announce with satisfaction, that the jacket did fit.

Faith In Ship

Speaking very briefly, Mr. Miller assured the gathering that it had been a real pleasure and a privilege to help in any little way possible to the equipping of the ship; and he added that all knew the corvette would do the city great honor whenever it might tangle with the enemy. "We hope and pray," he said, "that you will get back soon, and we wish you Godspeed in the pursuit of your duty."

On behalf of the ship and the men he will command, Lieut. Raine replied to the addresses of welcome and the wishes of all that the corvette may come with safety and great honor through whatever adventures on the high seas lie in store for it. "It is always a pleasure," he commented, "to sail on one of His Majesty's ships; but it is a double pleasure to get a ship which is as fully equipped as this will be.

"In the past three or four weeks I have had various opportunities to see the work that is being done here, and I am particularly amazed at the unselfishness that has been exhibited by everyone who has in any way been connected with this endeavor." Mentioning by name the

NORMAL SCHOOL EXAMS

Twenty-one of the 81 students on the roll of the Normal School have been exempted from examinations this year, it was stated today by E. H. McKone, principal. This is approximately 25 per cent or the maximum allowed by the Department of Education. Examinations started Monday morning with mathematics and continued in the afternoon with tests in speech, reading and literature. The tests, covering a wide field of courses, will go until the end of the week.

Personal Gifts Of One Donor Now Total $400

All along the line, no matter what form it may take, individual personality must play a big part in any movement that is to ensure its success, and the work that the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund has been carrying on for almost three and a half years now is no exception to this basic rule.

Were this not so, it would have been impossible to have achieved the great success it has been in raising close to $76,400 in that time, and long before now would have died a natural death for lack of sustenance to keep it alive.

The cause that it espouses however is worthy of the utmost in support that citizens can give to it, and at the moment the need is again more urgent, due to the desperate attempts the enemy is making to ferret out from whence and when the attack on the west wall of Europe is to be made, besides cherishing the hope that they can retard or delay what they must know will turn the scales finally towards a day of reckoning, for all of the crimes they have committed against their neighbors, and all who stand in the way of their rule by force.

40 Donations of $10.00 each

A very fine example of what one citizens has considered it appropriate to sacrifice to amediorate the horrors of war from the air among the civilian population of Britain is again brought to notice in this day's receipts for the fund, when for the fortieth time a gift of $10.00 appears to the credit of the lady who has been giving on a monthly basis under the name of "In As Much".

By this means one of the most outstanding contributions in a personal way has been given amounting to a total of $400.00, one of the highlights of this nature which is all the more enhanced by the name chosen for it to appear under, signifying that the gifts have been made as unto Him, who laid down his own life for the redemption of all the peoples of the earth.

Then as if to add a little more to the personal element, another personal gift is listed from "A Friend" today, and comes from a father whose eldest son is on active service in the air force in the zone of hostilities, thus adding a bit more of service to the Empire in a family sense.

Cyclists Lacking Wheel Lights Fined

A number of bicyclists who failed to have their wheels equipped with the required lights at night were fined by Magistrate R. B. Baxter in police court this morning on written pleas of guilty. They were Joseph Blodgett, London street, Claude Bronson, E. Simmonds, Betty Simmonds and Jean McDonald, Victoria avenue, who paid fines of $2 and $1. John Smith, 146 Simcoe street, paid a similar fine for not having proper lights on a motor vehicle and Roy Mullen, R.R. 4, was fined $2 and $1 costs for failing to bring his car to a full stop before entering a through street.

Sailors Sorry To Leave City

Sailors of H.M.C.S. Peterborough, guests of the city for a day, departed this morning on the Ottawa noon train, bound for Kingston and the ship they will bring to Cobourg for the dedication ceremonies Sunday.

Kept busy with a round of activities from the time they stepped off the Port Hope train Monday afternoon and marched over to Riverside Bowl to receive the city's official welcome until late Monday night when a banquet and dance held at the Kawartha Club was over the corvette's crew spent the morning seeing and doing as they pleased.

Many of them, eager to see as much of the town as possible in the short time allotted, toured around the city in Army trucks and jeeps; while others got out at the business district, visited stores and oherwise amused themselves, in wandering about. The Examiner office and the radio station, were particularly "ports of call". Everywhere hospitable glances and the questions of interested citizens met them as they strolled about, mostly walking in groups of two or three.

Evidently the high point of the trip to the boys in the blue who have been assigned to man the city's corvette was the dance at the Kawartha. The reactions probably of many were covered succinctly by the honest comment of one young lad who said: "I wish we could stay here longer—and get to know those girls better."

Rev. Dr. Smart Is Asked To Go To United States

It was announced Monday night after a meeting of the Kirk Session of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church that the minister, Rev. James D. Smart, PH.D., had been invited to occupy an important post in the Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. The Board of Christian Education of that church is at present planning a complete revision of the publication materials used in their educational program and they wish Dr. Smart to take charge as editor-in-chief of this new curriculum. The program extends over nearly eight thousand Sunday Schools and reaches close to two million children, young people and adults.

It will not be necessary for Dr. Smart to give up his work here for another three months, but about September 1 he will take up his residence in Philadelphia. Dr. Smart expressed to the Session deep regret at having to contemplate leaving work here in which he and his coworkers have been so happy together the past two years and a half.

This morning word was received that the appointment of Dr. Smart as editor-in-chief of publications had on Monday been unanimously approved by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. which is at present in session in Chicago.

A congregational meeting has been called for next Monday night to discuss what course St. Paul's will take.

Civic Welcome

different committee members and then addressing the gathering as a whole, he concluded by saying, "We thank you for all that you have done."

Crew Cheers

Three rousing cheers called for from the crowd by Ald. Sands were answered by three even lustier cheers from the smaller band of the Peterborough's crew, and the ceremony was over. For a while afterwards, citizens mingled in throngs around the bowl with the blue-clad sailors, asking questions and making the acquaintance of officers and men alike, inquiring after friends and relatives who may have seen some service with these very men in former days and other ships. Some youngsters, quite aware of the significance of the occasion as a chapter in their city's history, were even circulating with extended notebooks, seeking autographs.

After leaving the Riverside Bowl, the best part of the evening for the sailors themselves yet lay ahead. Taken out to the Kawartha Club, they were the guests of honor at a dinner and dancing party, and the training camp then put them up for the night. This morning their time was their own until the train pulled in to take them back to the lakefront and their new berths in their new ship, H.C.M.S. Peterborough.

OBITUARIES

MRS. JOHN WILLISTON

In ill-health during the past two years, Mrs. Ellen Unice (Nellie) Williston, for many years a citizen of Peterborough, passed away at her home, 83 Morris street, Toronto, on Sunday. She was in her 62nd year.

Born in Warsaw, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Foster, she came to live in the city when a young girl and resided here until 15 years ago when she and her husband, John Williston, moved to Toronto. Mr. Williston predeceased her in 1930. In this city she had been a member of All Saints' Church.

Surviving are one brother, Richard, of Flossmor, Illinois; and four sisters, Mrs. C. B. Chapman and Mrs. Thomas Miller, of Peterborough; Mrs. A. T. Lumley, of Toronto, and Mrs. S. Burkhart, of Oshawa. Two other sisters, Mrs. George Mein and Mrs. F. E. Du Rieu, predeceased Mrs. Williston some years ago.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. from the funeral parlors of A. Comstock & Sons, 305 Water street, with service conducted by Rev. E. C. Moore of St. George's Anglican Church. Interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. FRANK PETERS

The funeral of Mrs. Frank Peters, 112 Hurley street, North Monaghan, was held on Monday from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home to the Church of the Sacred Heart, where Rev. James F. Houlihan said requiem mass.

An exceptionally large crowd, representing practically the entire neighborhood where the Peters family has lived for a quarter century attended the funeral to pay their last respects to the mother of Victor Thomas Peters, young soldier who lost his life in the battle of Ortona last December 16. Prior to the funeral the remains rested in the parlours for three nights, and it was estimated that nearly 500 people visited the funeral home.

Many lovel floral and spiritual tributes were contributed and services at the graveside were conducted by H./Capt. Rev. Dr. Grant.

Pte. Frank Peters, a son, wounded seriously in Sicily and up from Kingston where he has been in the military hospital, was one of the pallbearers. Other pallbearers were Fred Alley, Arthur Crossman, Raymond Peters, Alfred Lafave and Ray Clancy.

Glory Of Tulip Beds Gone With Summer

Men of the city's park department were this morning clearing out recent beds of tulips, gathering the bulbs and tossing the stalks into a discard pile, a reminder of the passing of the first floral color of the season. A light breeze this morning was blowing petals from the rowan trees, and the ground within its shade seemed to have been littered with confetti.

Bloom has been heavy, promising an abundant harvest of the red berries of September, an indication, some folks say, of a long winter. At any rate, the fruit on the rowan was light last fall, and winter was pleasant and almost mild..... Some of the lilacs on St. John's Church lawn were drooping this morning, lacking the freshness and the lustre of a week ago. Flowers on the old fashioned family of the lilacs looked weary of living, after such a brief fight of beauty and fragrance ....But, the spirea bushes are coming into their chalky white bloom, and by the time they have passed out of sight the syringas are here, or as they are popularly known, the orange blossoms, glorifying June.

Bancroft Man Nabbed As Deserter

BANCROFT, May 30 — (ENS) — Two members of the Army Provost Corps of Peterborough assisted by Provincial Officer S. W. Palmateer of Bancroft, arrested Private Emerson Doubblestein for desertion from the armed forces at the home of his blind uncle Frank Doubblestein of Bangor township three o'clock Saturday morning.

The police were tipped off as to where Doubblestein was making his hide-out and officers made their trip to the uncle's farm. On arriving at the barn, Provincial Officer Palmateer started up a ladder which led to a hay mow but had only gained a few steps when Emerson Doubblestein rolled a timber out of the hay which he held in readiness to ward off any intruders. The large pole struck the officer a glancing blow on the back of the head and fell to the barn floor.

He climbed up to the mow immediately after only to see Doubblestein making his escape out of the barn through an aperture he had prepared previous for such an escape. Other officers apprehended him before he made his escape to the nearby woods. Doubblestein has been in the Armed Forces for over three years and has been on the loose over half that period. His last stay up until the time of his arrest was over three months duration. He was taken Saturday to Peterborough by the Provost.

Rotarians Plan Draw For Car At Big Carnival

The first prize for the 1944 Rotary Carnival draw will be an automobile, Rotarian Roy E. Girven, manager of this year's carnival announced at the weekly luncheon of the club at the Empress Monday.

Tickets are now on sale and it was announced that the holder of the lucky ticket will not be required to be on the grounds at the time of the draw. In addition to the main prize a $50 Victory Bond will be drawn for on both nights of the carnival and in connection with them the prizes must be claimed within ten minutes of the draw. The carnival will be held this year on Friday and Saturday, June 23 and 24 at Riverside Park.

It was announced that Rotarian J. M. R. Fairbain was leaving the club because of his intention to move to Montreal to reside in future. However he will spend the summer at his Stoney Lake cottage and will attend a number of luncheons during the holiday season.

Pictures Shown

Rotarian Fred L. Roy delighted his fellow club members with a half hour's showing of colored motion pictures, made up of some of the best shots among many thousand feet of film he has taken in this district. They had been chosen for their photographic excellence and their general interest and the result was thirty minutes packed with charm and beauty. There were winter scenes at the Nassau ski jump and at Charlie Kingan's wolfless wolf hunt, there were spring scenes of wild flowers and early foliage, there were summer scenes of a fishing expedition to beautiful Eagle Lake, episodes snapped at the Wallace Point swim meet and the Buckhorn regatta, beautiful pictures of those famous old sail boats of Kawartha waters, the Cygnet, the Bootlegger and the Skidley, shots packed full of action of dinghy sailing events and a host of other interesting pictures of the great summer playground to the north of us.

Rotarian Al. Gibbs expressed the thanks of the club to Rotarian Roy for his enjoyable contribution to the program.

Change System On Gas Rationing

OTTAWA, May 30 — (CP) — Regional offices of the Oil Controller throughout Canada will take over the handling of applications and the isuing of gasoline ration books after June 1, the Munitions Department announced last night.

Up to now, Provincial motor vehicle licence officers have issued all "AA" gasoline ration books, while regional offices of the Oil Controller have issued the special category books. Under the new arrangement the regional offices will handle all applications and issue all ration books.

BAMBOO PIPELINE—Winding across the hills in Tse Liu Ching, China (Top) are a number of the pipelines that carry brine from salt wells to refineries. Unlike pipelines in this and other countries, which are made of metal, these conveyors are made of bamboo. Chinese workmen (Bottom) repair them by wrapping fresh strips of bamboo about them. The mines and wells, 2,600 years old, turn out one-fourth of all the salt produced in China.

JUBILANT BRITISH TROOPS CELEBRATE IN CASSINO—British Eighth Army troops who captured the long-besieged town of Cassino at the start of the current Allied offensive in Italy on May 18, pause in the midst of the rubble and destruction to celebrate their victory with songs and dancing.

8th Army Attack Completely Surprised Germans

OTTAWA, May 30 — (CP). — The big push in Italy was no surprise to Flt. Lt. H. J. Everard, D.F.C., of Timmins, Ont., back in Canada with one of the largest groups of R.C.A.F repatriates ever to return from overseas. Nearly 200 men were in the party.

Everard served with the crack City of Windsor Spitfire Fighter Squadron in Italy and he saw the British 8th Army and its Canadian Corps move from the Adriatic to the other Italian front in preparation for the surprise attack.

"We watched the British and Canadians move and saw the equipment piling up and we knew the Germans were in for a heck of a pasting," he said. His squadron and other Allied air units provided a screen through which German reconnaissance planes failed to penetrate.

Everard said he believed the Germans were taken completely by surprise by Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's strategy, and when push started aerial reconnaissance showed them making desperate attempts to reshuffle the strength of their forces behind the Hitler line so as to stiffen the troops bearing the brunt of the attack from the wraithlike 8th.

"I guess they were going round in circles for a while there," Everard grinned. "You got to get up early to beat the 8th."

Everard won his "gong" (medal) for fighting in Sicily and Italy, where he knocked down at least three enemy planes.

Forecasts Action

MOSCOW, May 30 — (AP) — An observer writing in the authoritative newspaper Pravda, noting that "the position of the Bulgarian puppets is becoming more insolent in answering the warnings of Allied powers by carrying on military activities," said yesterday the time had arrived for the Bulgarian people to take their fate in their own hands because "the future of their country depends on their doing it."

Her Aching Joints and Depression are things of the past

How are Britain's middle-aged women standing up under the strain of four years of "front-line" war? Here is a letter that supplies one typical answer:—

"Although I am nearly 60 years of age, I work very hard. But for months recently, I have been getting rheumatic pains, combined with a feeling that life was not worth living. So I obtained a bottle of Kruschen, and in a short time the effect was remarkable. The aching joints, the depressed feeling, the sleeplessness and constipation were all relieved. I felt rejuvenated and so bright... just as if the war was over!"—(Mrs.) E. B.

There is no law that compels people to look after themselves. That's up to them. A most important step is to keep the bowels regular and the kidneys active. Kruschen helps do that in a simple dependable way, because it has a two-fold action — laxative and diuretic as well.

Harmful acids and poisons that can give rise to rheumatic pains and other complaints are cleared away through the kidneys. The bowels are also gently encouraged to work naturally and regularly. The result is definite relief from constipation and depression.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable of all Drug Stores. 25c and 75c.

now — VITAMIC RUBBER

FIRESTONE'S GREATEST CONTRIBUTION TO LONG TIRE LIFE AND MILEAGE

Firestone, pioneers of the balloon and high-speed tires, now make another contribution to advanced motoring ... VITAMIC RUBBER ... for longer tire life and mileage.

It is a well-known fact that adding small amounts of metals, such as chromium and tungsten, to steel greatly increases the strength and durability of the alloy produced.

In a similar manner, it has been found by Firestone research that the intimate mixing with rubber of small amounts of a new scientific discovery, "Vitalin," imparts long-sought properties to the rubber. As in the alloy steel, the new rubber compound ... VITAMIC RUBBER ... is greatly improved in strength, wear-ability, and resistance to heat and ageing.

All Firestone tires are now made with Vitamic Rubber. This added extra value, together with Gum-Dipping and Safety Locked Cords, is all the more reason why you should insist on Firestone tires when you obtain a Tire Ration Permit.

VITAMIC RUBBER is produced by adding Vitalin when the rubber is compounded. It gives extra protection against weather checking and wear, thus keeping the rubber tough and lively.

WARNING

In these days of tire shortages, it may be suggested to you that "all tires are alike now that they are built of synthetic rubber." Tires are not now and never were alike—even when they were all made of natural rubber. However, now there is no need to be confused ... demand Firestone tires made of VITAMIC rubber and know you are getting the most for your money.

Bitter Hatred Of Yugoslavs Brings Total War On Nazis

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN ITALY, May 31—(CP).—Across the Adriatic, a few hours boat ride from this bustling, overcrowded port, a nation which has foresworn the amenities of civilized life for the duration is fighting a grim, total war against the Germans. As fabulous as its fighting leader Tito, Yugoslavia stands like a locked cupboard before an inquisitive child. War correspondents by the dozen have sought entry to the mountainous country which is the lair of an intensely Partisan movement but few have gained the right and then only to sketch incompletely a general picture.

Some day the full story of what is happening across the Adriatic may be told, but for the present tales of the fighting must come second-hand.

Picture a rough camp somewhere in those forbidding mountains. Men and women, on equal terms, live side by side, sharing the same billets, washing in the same basins, wearing similar clothes, eating at the same tables, using the same latrines.

Impossible, you might say, for sex to be utterly obliterated, yet that is what has been done by the Partisans. Every Partisan, you are told, swears a solemn vow to forego all sexual relations until the Germans have been defeated. The penalty for breaking this vow is death. Two Partisans became pregnant and within a matter of hours of this becoming known stood facing a firing squad of women.

The grim ruthlessness of a nation such as this is better understood when you hear the stories behind the Yugoslavs' hatred of the Germans. Then you realize why these people are fighting war in its intense totality, relegating every semblance of normality to the future.

A German patrol entered a Yugoslav town where there were known

Chindit Bands Harry Japanese

KANDY, Ceylon, May 31.—(CP).—Chindit forces again have attacked Japanese communications to the beleaguered North Burma base of Myitkyina, it was announced today.

Earlier in the week, a Chindit railroad block on the line from Mandalay was cleared by the Japanese who were trying frantically to relieve the base into which Allied troops have penetrated. In authoritative circles, it was considered inconceivable that the enemy could move anything up the railway from Mandalay under intensified aerial attacks.

Reports to Headquarters said the Japanese were dispersed and many were slain at Namkwi northwest of Myitkyina.

Chinese troops driving down the Mogaung Valley on Kamaing, were reported to have captured a 150-millimetre gun, three 75-mm. cannon, 100 horses, a transport park and workshop near Seton, in a drive which cut the Kamaing-Mogaung highway six miles southeast of Kamaing, which now is isolated.

Monsoon Hits Imphal.

The monsoon has struck Imphal and thunder is now mingling with the gunfire while rain is drenching the battle ring round the plain.

Reds Boast New Air Route

Predict Century Of Polar Aviation

MOSCOW, May 31 (AP)—A writer in Red Star, Soviet army journal, predicting a "century of polar aviation" with communications "across the top of the world," left the impression today that collaboration between the United Nations will lead to post-war co-operation in international aerial transportation.

The writer stressed Canada's importance in polar aviation.

"Great progress is going to be made in the exploitation of northern routes," the writer said.

"The century of polar aviation will arrive with communication across the top of the world. In this connection Canada, Norway and Iceland will be of great importance, not to mention the exclusive significance of the northern districts of our own country.

"A great role will be played by the Siberian line that connects Europe with the Far East and Pacific coasts. The presence of good will, the increasing military alliance of the United Nations and a stable postwar peace will permit successful solution of the new and complicated problems of organizing postwar economic life."

3,500 Planes Hit Ploesti; French Coast

Thunderous Blows Shatter Hun Communications

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 31 (AP)—Up to 3,500 American planes striking from Britain and Italy for the third consecutive day, bombed a Romanian Oil Refinery at Ploesti today, four German railyards funnelling traffic to the incessantly attacked French invasion coast and an enemy air-base in the old French Maginot Line.

The air base was near Mulhouse, just north of Switzerland.

The rail yards were at Hamm; Osnabruck; Schwerte, 10 miles southeast of Dortmund; and Soest, 15 miles southeast of Hamm. The force from Britain numbered between 250 and 500 heavy bombers and 1,200 fighters.

These raids followed R.A.F. attacks last night on the French invasion coast and Leverkusen, Germany.

Refinery Fired

From 500 to 750 U.S. heavy bombers, escorted by swarms of fighters struck from Italy at Ploesti, 35 miles north of Bucharest, and enveloped at least one major refinery with flames and smoke visible for many miles. Clouds obscured full results of this first attack on Ploesti, 180 miles from the Russian battle lines, since May 18. A number of German interceptors and intense flak were encountered.

Wave after wave of U.S. medium bombers struck again and again at the French invasion coast.

The 8th Airforce's attack from Britain was it's 25th this month against European targets and the 15th in May against Germany — equalling March records. It was the fourth successive day in which 1,200 fighters from Britain had sought out the Luftwaffe for sky battles of attrition. It was also the fifth successive day of heavy bomber action from Britain.

The air minisrty announced R.A.F. bombers last night attacked targets on the French invasion coast while Mosquitos bombed the German chemical centre of Leverkusen. Mines also were laid in enemy waters during the night operations, which were carried out without loss.

So heavy was last night's assault on the French coast — apparently concentrated on the area between Boulogne and Dunkerque — that buildings on the English side of the Channel trembled from the blasts.

The overnight activity followed American blows yesterday, when 3,200 bombers and fighters from bases in both Britain and Italy blasted military targets in Germany, Austria, France, Belgium and Yugoslavia.

Other Britain-based planes—including Canadian units of the 2nd Tactical Air Force—hammered railway yards in Belgium and France, and fortifications in the Pas de Calais area along the French coast. A communique said the raiders knocked down 66 Nazi planes for

C.C.F. Inviting Bank Failures?

SEMANS, Sask., May 31—(CP).—R. J. Deachman, Canadian economist, said in a Saskatchewan general election campaign address last night that "wild extension" of credit advocated by the C.C.F. through socialization of the banking system would result in bank crashes. Such bank failure would be far worse than anything experienced in the United States in past years, he said.

Mr. Deachman spoke in support of Henry Lang, Liberal candidate for Last Mountain constituency in the Saskatchewan general election June 15.

The C.C.F. would not send agricultural men to visit the rural Saskatchewan areas but instead men from the Pacific coast and the mining areas of the Maritimes, all champions of labor, because in Ontario C.C.F. members elected were elected in industrial or mining areas, he said. In Ontario the C.C.F. got no support from agricultural communities, he claimed.

"The C.C.F. could make many promises but the fact of the matter was the State could give you no more than the State takes out of you because the things we get must be paid for out of taxes.

Plea Got Results

LONDON, May 31—(CP).—British laundries can be annoying when buttons come off shirts or sheets tear, but laundry workers apparently have their sentimental side, too. Employees found a complete outfit for a doll's house, with this note appended in childish handwriting: "Dear Mr. Laundryman—we have been blasted out of our home by Hitler. Please be very careful with the doll's cot hangings." The hangings were returned as good as new.

Whiskey Quota Cut In Half Starting June 1

TORONTO, May 31 — (CP) — Victor T. Goggin, Chief Commissioner of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, today announced that that present 26-ounces-a-month liquor ration in Ontario will be reduced to one 25-ounce or one 26-ounce bottle every two months, or two half-bottles when available. The reduction is effective tomorrow.

The announcement said that the new ration will be effective until the end of the Board's operating year — next Mar. 31. Mr. Goggin said the board has no discretionary power in the matter because of Federal government liquor restrictions.

"It is a matter of simple arithmetic," Mr. Goggin was quoted in a statement issued from his office. "Under P.C. 11374, the Dominion government limited the amount of spirits which could be obtained for sale in Ontario to 70 per cent. of the amount obtained from Nov. 1, 1941, to Oct. 31, 1942.

Federal Order

"That means that by the order of the Dominion government there became available in Ontario for annual sale 1,153,594 gallons of proof spirits. This gallonage must meet the requirements of an increasing number of permit holders—a number to date in excess of last year. If we allowed the present rate of rationing and sales to continue there would be literally no spirits available for the last few months of the year. Therefore, we must regretfully and as a matter of sheer forced necessity, reduce the monthly liquor ration as of June 1."

There was no reference in the statement to beer, which now is rationed at 24 pints or 12 quarts monthly for home consumption.

As to possible further reductions in the liquor ration, Mr. Goggin said the Board's policy was conditioned by the Federal Government's restrictive order, but he felt sure that of everyone adhered to the spirit of the regulations the present reduction would suffice at least until the end of the operating year.

The statement cited figures on the number of permits, the monthly ration and the number of proof gallons required to fill the monthly rations for three sample months. In January, 1943, there were 155,295 permits outstanding at the end of the month, the ration was 160 ounces and it required 108,702 proof gallons to fill the ration.

In January, 1944, number of permits outstanding at the end of the month was 1,227,459, the ration was 26 ounces and 139,723 proof gallons were required to fill the ration. In March, 1944, permits totalled 1,282,238, the ration was

Huns Attack Russians In Romania

Large Tank Force Opens Attack Red Lines Dented

LONDON, May 31—(CP)—German forces have broken the six-week lull in land fighting on the eastern front by making a small dent in Russian lines north of Iasi in Romania, a Moscow communique said today.

The Nazis opened the attack with "large forces of tanks and infantry" but succeeded in making only "an insignificant wedge into our defence" at a cost of "heavy losses in men and material," the broadcast communique declared.

Although the German attacks were described as sharp, a dispatch from Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press staff writer in Moscow, said they appeared to be an attempt to upset Russian troop concentrations rather than the beginning of a real enemy offensive. It still was too early, however, Gilmore said, to estimate their full significance.

Iasi is about 180 miles northeast of the Ploesti oil fields. The Germans have claimed the Red Army was massing its forces for a drive on that source of fuel supply.

Moscow also reported fighting, northwest of Vitebsk in White Russia in the north, declaring Red Army troops beat back a German drive, killing 400 of the enemy.

Huns Expecting Battle Climax

LONDON, May 31 —(CP) — Berlin said today the Battle of Rome was approaching its climax.

"German military quarters believe that decisive battle is about to take place," German military spokesman was quoted by German Transocean Agency as saying.

He reported German withdrawals at two points— in the Upper Sangro Valley and on the Central and Eastern sector of the Valmontone Line.

The German DNB Agency said the Germans have taken up positions North of Frosinone," a key railway and road junction on Highway 6 toward which the British 8th Army is moving.

The German radio reported "dramatic street fighting" in Velletri, strongpoint 18 miles southeast of Rome, and claimed the stubborn fighting there was pinning down heavy Allied forces and "enables us gradually to move back the German front on the central and eastern sector."

"German troops are also retreating at Alfedena in the Upper Sangro Valley in the course of a general movement backwards," the report said. A big tank battle was reported around Lanuvio, midway point of the German line from Valmontone to the Tyrrhenian Sea. The Nazis said 78 of the 200 5th army tanks were smashed.

8th Army Advancing Swiftly Captures Half a Dozen Towns

By SID FEDER—Associated Press War Correspondent.

NAPLES, May 31 — (AP) — British troops advanced to a point just south of coastal Pescarella Nuova, 14 miles south of Rome, and the German radio said today that dramatic street fighting was in progress inside Velletri, Alban Hills road junction 18 miles from the capital. Along the meandering 75-mile front from Valmontone to the Atina Region north of Cassino, the British 8th Army, including Canadian Infantry and armor, advanced swiftly against withdrawing German rear guards, taking half a dozen or more towns.

The Canadians pressed on toward Frosinone, junction of two highways along which the Germans can retreat from the Liri Valley, through country covered with thick foliage and high grain which aided the Germans in fighting a harsh rearguard action, Doug. How, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported.

Advance 12 Miles.

How said heavy shell and mortar fire harassed Ontario and Maritime infantry units which have had little sleep in the last six days since the exploitation of the Hitler line bridgehead began. As the crow flies the Canadians have advanced more than 12 miles from the Hitler line, but over the winding roads it was more like 30, How added.

Frosinone, provincial capital on the Via Casilina 43 miles southeast of Rome, tottered as the 8th Army moved within four miles.

(Berlin said German troops had taken positions north of the city of 20,000 population.)

Increased enemy fire showed the Germans were intent on holding off the Allies until the bulk of the enemy troops could be extricated from difficult positions in the mountains between Frosinone and Valmontone. Allied artillery pounded the Via Casilina in the Valmonte area, 20 miles from Rome, forcing the enemy to depend partly on secondary routes.

Defence Stubborn

In the critical area of the Rome line generally 16 to 20 miles south of the eternal city, enemy defences were stubborn and skilled along 25 miles of battle zone stretching from Valmontone around the southern slopes of the Alban hills to Campo Iemini at the sea. While British troops advanced, no gains were reported from the sector of the 5th Army front held by Americans.

At some points west of Velettri, the Allies were within six miles of the Pope's summer home at Castel Gandolfo.

The Germans massed infantry, guns, tanks and flame throwers and scattered mines in profusion in a do-or-die attempt to check an Allied breakthrough of their long established steel and stone fortifications. The din of approaching battle grew louder in Rome as the 5th Army attacked without pause.

The loss of Velletri would cripple seriously the Nazi efforts to maintain the present front guarding Rome, despite their obvious willingness to gamble all their available reserves and material.

This artillery block does not trap the German 10th army withdrawing

Jap Steam-Roller Gaining In New Push On Changsha

CHUNGKING, May 31—(AP).—Throwing in fresh reinforcements in their drive on Changsha, the Japanese have made headway against Chinese troops battling to hold off the invaders from the thrice-ravaged provincial capital, field dispatches reported tonight. A column protecting the left flank of the main body, which was moving down the trackless stretch of the Canton-Hankow railway, was reported to have advanced 11 miles south of Tungcheng.

In Hupeh province, the Japanese yesterday captured Kuingan which served as one of the bases of the drive on Changteh last year. The invaders failed in new attempts to push westward across the Sungtze River, a tributary of the Yangtze.

In Honan Province, the Chinese said their troops had fought into the outskirts of Paofeng, about 70 miles south-southwest of Chenghsien and were making a fresh attempt to recapture nearby Lushan, the occupied provisional capital which has changed hands several times in the past fortnight.

Bushland Fire Gaining Ground

By C. M. FELLMAN

ELK LAKE, Ont., May 31—(CP)—I stood yesterday within 50 feet of one of the fiercest sectors of the fire raging in the Gowganda-Elk Lake country and in less time than it takes to tell I saw the rampaging flames leap over a road, race up and explode trees like bombshells and knock over dead timbers as if they were nothing more than matchsticks.

All this took place on one of the 10 fronts which have made the fire in this area one of the largest now burning in the Dominion. The blaze has spread into 10 townships since it began 110 days ago and weary firefighters have had as little as four hours' sleep since last Friday as they continue a round-the-clock battle with the flames.

Forty soldiers from the Forestry Corps unit stationed at Marten River arrived to-day to join the fight, bringing to about 250 the number of men trying desperately to check the fire, cause of which has not been determined, although it has been learned that two Indian trappers were in the North Williams Township region where it started 10 days ago near a portage trail.

De Valera Party Takes Early Lead

DUBLIN, May 31 — (CP). — Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's Fianna Fail Party, seeking a fresh mandate from the Eire electorate, took an early lead to-day as the counting of ballots in yesterday's general election proceeded.

Twelve Fianna Fail members have been elected while two members of Gen. Richard Mulcahy's Fine-Gael Party, the principal Opposition group, have been returned along with two Independents.

While counting of ballots began to-day, the outcome of the election—second within a year in neutral Eire—will not be known until Friday or Saturday as Eire follows the proportional representation system of voting.

Major Battle Looms In Bosnia

LONDON, May 31 — (CP) — Violent fighting is taking place in western Bosnia, where the Germans are attempting to drive into territory held by Yugoslav Partisans, Marshal Tito's headquarters said today.

In Hercegovina, adjoining Bosnia to the south, the artisans defeated a strong enemy column at Gacko leaving more than 100 killed and wounded and capturing war material, the broadcast communique said.

It added that several German and Chetnik units attempting to occupy Partisan positions at Lujbis were smashed, while in Srem other patriots succeeded in derailing an enemy military train on the Belgrade-Zagreb Line.

Call Troops From Denmark

Suicides Follow Transfer Order

NEW YORK, May 31.—(CP).—A total of 48,000 Nazi soldiers have been sent to the Italian front from their posts in Denmark, the Swedish newspaper Goetsborgs Handels-Och Sjoefartstidning said in an article report to-day to the United States Office of War Information.

According to the Swedish newspaper only "seven (Nazi) divisions now remain in Denmark, five of which are stationed in Jutland, one in Sjaelland and one in Fyn."

When the news spread that the troops were being sent to Italy, "many attempts at desertion occurred" and "suicides were committed," the newspaper said.

The fact that the "German commander at Saeby was among those who committed suicide caused a great stir among the troops," the newspaper added.

Germans Slow Canadians With Artillery

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, May 31 —(CP Cable)— Through country covered with thick foliage and high grain which aided an enemy fighting a long-range, harsh rear-guard action, Canadian infantry and armor pressed on towards Frosinone, junction of two highways along which the Germans can retreat from the Liri valley.

The Germans continued to use severe artillery and mortar fire and mines, and occasionally machine-guns to delay the advance that was further stemmed by a number of small streams, each of which has to be bridged by the engineers.

Last night the Canadians were moving ahead slowly and steadily against an enemy who was obstructing them in every way possible short of man-to-man combat.

The Canadians reported prisoners of low physical calibre were being sacrificed by the enemy to cover his retreat.

Heavy shells and mortar fire harassed Ontario and Martime infantry units which have had little sleep in the past six days, since the exploitation of the Hitler Line bridgehead began.

Use Dive Bombers

A number of heavy guns located behind Frosinone were attacked by dive-bombers, which were again used to advantage on roads employed by the Germans for withdrawal. At least two guns were reported knocked out and a heavy toll was taken of vehicles.

Senator Wants Fair Text Book

OTTAWA, May 31 — (CP). — Preparation of a "fair, broad-minded, authorized textbook" of Canadian history was advocated by Senator Rupert Davies (L-Ontario) in the Senate yesterday.

Senator Davies spoke in support of a motion by Senator L. A. David (L-Quebec) proposing that the coming Dominion-Provincial conference appoint a committee to prepare a textbook of Canaditan history acceptable to all Provinces.

"I do feel we need a change," said Senator Davies "In Canada to-day including French schools in Quebec, we are using in our Public and High Schools more than 20 different histories of this country."

Senator Davies said he had sought information and opinions on the teaching of Canadian history from various parts of the Dominion. While the response he received was in most cases in favor of a new uniform textbook, some were opposed to the idea."

He said he believed there was room for improvement in the teaching of Canadian history in his own Province of Ontario where one fault was that both Public and High School histories were by the same author. He said he thought more than one man should mould children's views on history.

"If we are going to build up pride in our country—and we have a country of which we should all be very proud—we have got to teach our children the history of this country and, in my opinion, a fair, broad-minded, authorized textbook for the whole of Canada would be of inestimable value in doing so, particularly in our High Schools," he said.

Premier Curtin Reaches Ottawa

OTTAWA, May 31 (CP)—Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia, visiting Ottawa at the invitation of Prime Minister Mackenzie King; who had extended it while both were attending the recent conference of Empire Prime Ministers in London, is scheduled to fill five engagements today, including a conference with Mr. King and attendance at a meeting of the war committee of the cabinet.

It is considered possible that in his talk with Mr. King Mr. Curtin will discuss Pacific affairs of mutual interest to Canada and Australia, and that at the meeting of the cabinet's war committee the Pacific will be one of the subjects discussed, with Canadian Defence Ministers possibly outlining Canada's plan of action in that theatre.

Mr. Curtin reached Ottawa last night, accompanied by Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, chief of the Australian general staff, and was greeted by Mr. King, members of the federal cabinet, and important officials of the state and services.

Mrs. Curtin Here

Mrs. Curtin arrived in Ottawa earlier yesterday and was on hand at the Union Station to welcome her husband to Canada.

In a brief chat with newsmen, Mr. Curtin said "events to come will be the best criterion of the accomplishments" of the recent London conference of Prime Ministers. He described the gathering as the most successful one of its kind ever held.

Canadians' hospitality, he said, was well known in Australia through hundreds of letters written by Australian boys who had undergone air training in Canada.

Japs Fighting To Last Man On Biak Island

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, May 31—(AP)—Defeated in a swaying tank battle, shelled from the sea and bombed from the air, unyielding Japanese were reported today—fifth day of the Schouten Islands invasion—still grimly holding off American soldiers two miles from a prized airfield.

The battle of Biak fast was becoming the stoutest of the Netherlands New Guinea campaign. The Japanese on that biggest island of the Schoutens were flinging men and armor in furious counter-attacks in defence of three airfields within bombing range of the Philippines, 880 miles to the northwest.

The present fight is for Mokmer airfield, approached along Biak's south coast by a coastal road dominated by a plateau on which the Japanese have long-prepared defensive positions.

Near Mokmer the Japanese called on medium tanks, firing 75 amm. cannons, Monday after their 36th division soldiers suffered heavy losses trying to push the invaders back along the road toward Bosnek where the invaders landed Saturday. American army tanks accepted the challenge, destroying eight enemy armored units.

Associated Press War Correspondent Spencer Davis reported the Japanese lost 11 of their estimated 30 tanks.

Some 200 miles southeastward along the New Guinea coas, other counter-attacking Japanese were repulsed but still clung to Maffin Bay airfield which a comparatively small American force has been trying to capture since landing in that area May 17.

There and at Hollandia, 100 miles to the southeast, the enemy death toll mounted. It was pushed above 5,000 by fresh reports from those sectors today.

IODE Provides 120 Scholarships

HAMILTON, May 31 — (CP) — Mrs. J. D. Detwiler of London, Ont., convener of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire War Memorial Committee, yesterday reported to the 44th Annual National Convention here that "the leading features of the committee's work have been bursaries in Canadian universities, post-graduate scholarships (Overseas) and the placing of historical pictures in the schools."

"To date the fund has provided 120 scholarships for brilliant students and 251 bursaries for those for whom advanced education would have been out of the question due to the death or disability of a father through war service," Mrs. Detwiler reported.

She said the war had increased the demand for I. O. D. E. Memorial pictures of the last war.

"Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Quebec are continuing to place these pictures in mess rooms, air training schools and naval establishments. The Provincial Chapter of Quebec has placed 68 pictures since our meeting a year ago," she said.

Better Films.

Continuing reports of the year's activity, Mrs. B. B. Osler of Toronto, convener of the National Film Committee, told the delegates that there has been a decided improvement in the number of British and Canadian News items shown in the theatres since the desire for this was expressed by resolution last year by the Order."

She urged films especially for children as one way to combat juvenile deliquency.

Children are a product of environment and they should not be overlooked in the turmoil of a country at war. Our members are continually being urged to supervise the films their children see, but we must also awaken public conscience to the psychological effect certain moving pictures have on young minds," she said.

Mrs. Fred W. Bates of Regina, convener of the Committee for Empire Work in India said that work in St. Helena's School at Poona and the Canadian Hospital at Nasik was worth continued support from all Chapters.

The school now has 240 students ranging in age from six to 16 and enrolled in classes from kindergarten to university matriculation, she said.

ANKARA, May 31—(AP)—A British official source said yesterday Erich Pfeiffer, a member of the Berlin Secret Service, had arrived in Istanbul to take charge of all German subversive activities in Turkey.

Pfeiffer was reported to have been given wide powers by Nazi Interior Minister Heinrich Himmler in an effort to retrieve a situation created when Nele Kapp, confidential secretary of Ludwig Moyzisch, who had headed Nazi secret agents in Turkey, deserted to the Allies. Moyzisch still is in Turkey but now he will serve under Pfeiffer.

26 ounces and 145,934 proof gallons were required to fill the ration.

The 26-ounce ration has been effective since the first of the year.

Liquor was first rationed in the province on January 44, 1943, when the quota was set at 160 ounces a month. May 1, 1943, it was reduced to 80 ounces, last June 1 to 53 ounces, and last September 1 to 40 ounces.

U.S.A. Has Plan To Guard World

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 31 —(AP)— The United States is prepared to put forth at the forthcoming big-four meeting here a plan for an international security organization patterned on the League of Nations and providing a consultative formula for the use of force to suppress war.

By this formula each nation would retain final authority over its own troops, planes and ships and would assign to direct power over them to the international agency. The agency after consultations among its members, could recommend but not order that a member nation use its troops for international police duty.

The only binding commitment on this vital point would be one which in effect has already been made in the Moscow four-power declaration —that no participating country would use its forces in foreign territory except in accordance with the decisions of the international agency to maintain peace.

The program, covering five main points, will go before the representatives of Britain, Russia and China here this summer at the start of the informal discussions to which those governments were invited yesterday by State Secretary Cordell Hull. The conferees probably will be either the foreign secretaries of the four powers—Mr. Eden, Molotov, Mr. Soong and Mr. Hull—or their under-secretaries.

LONDON, May 31 — (AP) — Poland's government in London will make a new president-designate within a few days to succeed Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski. It was reported he would be chosen from outside immediate Polish government circles here, and probably would be a middle-of-the-roader.

Second Suicide Attempt Fatal

LOS ANGELES, May 31 —(AP)— John Beck, 57, sent a money order to an undertaker to pay his funeral expenses. To police who went to his home, Beck explained Monday he had turned on the gas and fallen asleep, but awakened two hours later.

"It must have been an act of God," he added. "How can I get my money back?"

Yesterday Beck's body was found at the home of a friend in Santa Monica with a pistol beside it. Detective E. L. Hicks reported a note nearby read:—

"I want to finish what I started. This is my birthday. I've had enough of this life."

Follow Railway.

Tonight's Chinese high command communique acknowledged that the Japanese forces pushing southward down the trackless railway had reached the northern bank of the Milo River, second line of defence for the Chinese only 45 miles from Changsha.

The Milo River defences already had been breached west of the railway and the Japanese now were poised for an attempt at a crossing east of the trackless line.

Meanwhile, P. H. Chang, counsellor for the executive Yuan (council) said at a press conference that Japanese offensives in Honan and Hunan provinces and others which may develop soon elsewhere have as their aim the dividing of China into eastern and western halves.

Emphasizing that the situation is "indeed grave," Chang said the Japanese seek to control completely the trunk line from Hankow to Canton, occupy or destroy newly-built air bases and forestall any future incursion along China's southern coast.

Meanwhile Chinese dispatches reported that authorities at Changsha capital of Hunan province being threatened by the new Japanese offensive, have ordered evacuation of all non-essential residents. Food and other necessities were being stored in the city for its garrison.

Heavy fighting developed as the Chinese tried to halt Japanese forces which have crossed the Milo river, second line of defence 40 miles north of the thrice-ravaged provincial capital.

A communique from Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell's Headquarters said 14th Air Force fighters attacked enemy concentrations yesterday in all China's battle areas.

Who Is Stupid?

LONDON, May 31 — (CP) — Ethel Mannin, English writer of sentimental novels, speaking on a panel arranged by the Society for Sex Education and Guidance, declaring herself in favor of "many more illegitimate children," said that, "a taboo against single women having babies is stupid and cruel." Regarding marriage, she stated that the greatest cause of unhappiness was money.

Beer Bottle Shortage Provokes Debate

By D'Arcy O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTAWA, May 31.—(CP).— The empty beer bottle as precious to the brewer to-day as a full one is to the consumer, provoked practically the only lively discussion during yesterday's quiet sitting of the Commons. Discussion came during examination of the war appropriation estimates of the finance department.

From Opposition members came the charge that the government had set up a "monopoly" in the handling of empty beer bottles in Nova Scotia. To this government officials replied that no monopoly existed, and that the Prices Board was justified in prohibiting the export of empty beer bottles from Nova Scotia.

Examination of the estimates was preceded by Labor Minister Michell's announcement that a committee has been appointed to survey all men in the civil service. The survey will be similar to one made in industrial establishments to find what men could be released for military service.

The survey may also be extended to cover civil servants outside of Ottawa.

Oil Scarce.

Navy Minister Macdonald introduced a naval service bill designed to consolidate present naval rules and regulations in one volume and adopt them to Canadian present-day legal terminology. The bill was given first reading.

Munitions Minister Howe said that householders and apartment block owners who converted from light fuel oil—the type ordinarily used for domestic heating—to coal may not convert back, because of a continued shortage of light oil. There had been an easing in the supply of heavy fuel oil, but this only affected the operators of large heating plants.

In the beer bottle debate, Douglas Abbott, Parliamentary Assistant to Finance Minister Ilsley, said the Prices Board order was passed to do away with duplicate transportation of bottles.

Nova Scotia dealers were exporting the empty bottles to Central Canada while brewers in that province had to import new bottles from the central provinces. The two-way traffic was unjustifiable. The Board's order prohibited export, but it did not prevent anyone from selling the empties to the two breweries in Nova Scotia.

P. C. Black (PC-Cumberland) said the Government has created the monopoly by appointing W. B. Moriarty to control the shipment of empty bottles in Nova Scotia.

In New Brunswick, nine dealers had been recognized as handler of empty bottles, but in Nova Scotia there was only Mr. Moriarty who controlled the whole business and put another dealer out of business.

A Nice Contract.

Mr. Moriarty could make a profit of from $50 to $100 on ever car of empty bottles shipped although he had hardly to raise a finger in arranging shipments. In a year the value of containers used in Nova Scotia was about $1,000,000 and profits from the handling of empties was about $100,000.

"Mr. Moriarty should be dismissed from this position," said Mr. Black. "Any decent man can be appointed in his place. W. F. Lee, the Prices Board Prices and Supply representative, could be appointed."

Mr. Black said the appointment of Mr. Moriarty had undermined the confidence of people vigorously supporting the war effort. The responsibility ran back to the Government and Donald Gordon, chairman of the Prices Board, through A. S. Mahon, chairman of the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission, through whom the appointment was made.

G. B. Isnor (L-Halifax) said "a narrow, partisan attack" had been made by Mr. Black on "two fine citizens of Halifax," Mr. Mahon and Mr. Moriarty. He said he did not think that $100,000 could be made in a year handling empty bottles.

Hon. R. B. Hanson (PC-York Sunbury) and Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, urged that the whole situation be reviewed. They believed the Government would find the Prices Board order was no longer necessary.

Chuck Roasts Reduced 4 Cents

OTTAWA, May 31 —(CP)—The Prices Board announced last night that housewives will be able to buy chuck roasts and other front quarter beef cuts about four cents a pound cheaper under new beef ceilings effective June 5.

The board said the retail cost of hind quarter cuts will be increased about four cents by an adjustment in price levels aimed at a better balance in meat consumption. The changes apply to all parts of Canada.

"Since the suspension of meat rationing, the existing ceiling prices resulted in uneven marketings of hind and front quarter meat," a board official said.

"Prices for hind quarter meat have been pressing the ceiling, while front quarter meat has been in poor demand. Continuation of this situaiton contained a potential threat to producer prices. In normal times, packers and retailers met such conditions by adjusting hind quarter prices upward and front quarter prices downward until demand and supply came into balance.

"The Prices Board has followed this practice in new price levels." The new prices, unspecified in the board's announcement, will be displayed in all meat stores.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 31. — (ENS).—At the regular meeting of the Board of Education with A. J Armour chairman presiding the request of Mrs. A. G. Watson for the use of the auditorium of High school for a musical contest was granted. The contest is on behalf of the Bemerside Chapter of the I.O.D.E.

Permission was also granted the Home and School Association to use the Public school grounds for a garden party in June.

The resignation of Miss Parker from the High school staff was accepted and it was proposed to engage Miss E. Strothers of Kapuskasing.

Mrs. A. Gunter was re-engaged as member of the Public school staff. The salary of Mrs. E. Bates was increased $100 on motion. following a recommendation by the internal committee.

An amendment by Mr. McKeel that no increase in salaries be made was lost on division.

Will Allow Pensioners To Earn $125

OTTAWA, May 31 — (CP) — Negotiations with the Provinces have brought about several changes in the regulations governing pensions to the aged and blind, Finance Minister Ilsley announced on Monday in the Commons.

The Minister said the most important of the changes was one which would allow the pensioners an increased amount of outside income without a reduction in pension being made.

Under the amendments, made by Orders-in-Council, a pensioner now would be allowed outside income of $125 a year, instead of $65 a year. This, with the maximum pension of $300 annually, would give a pensioner an income of $425 annually.

"While the amendment will not increase the maximum pension of $300 a year, it will benefit pensioners with small incomes who could not previously qualify for the increase in pension granted in 1943," said Mr. Ilsley. "Those who now are receiving an old-age pension at the maximum rate of $25 a month would not be entitled to receive an increase in the amount of their pensions, unless the way of supplemental allowances which now are being paid in certain Provinces."

33 Years' Service Recognized By Staff

COBOURG, May 31—(ENS)—Dr. George C. Kidd, who retires shortly after 33 years as Ontario Hospital superintendent, was presented with an easy chair and ottoman by members of the nursing, office and general staff Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Kidd has been medical superintendent of the Ontario Hospital here for the past twelve years.

Charles Waller, steward at the hospital, said that it was with profound regret that the staff had to say goodbye to Dr. Kidd. While insisting on efficient administration, the superintendent had always been understanding and cooperative and it had been a plesure for the staff to work with him, Mr. Waller declared. Charles Kennaugh of the maintenance staff echoed Mr. Waller's remarks.

Miss Beryl Kelly of the nursing staff read the address to Dr. Kidd and Miss Eleanor Ralls of the office staff made the presentation. Miss Margaret Polson, member of the staff, presented Mrs. Kidd with a bouquet of roses.

Dr. Kidd said that he was leaving the hospital with keen regret. It had always been pleasant working with the staff and he appreciated their cooperation. He would always cherish the memory of his association with the hospital here, Dr. Kidd said.

Navy League Tag Day To Be Held June 3

CAMPBELLFORD, May 31 (ENS) —Plans to hold the annual tag day for the Navy League were made at the regular meeting of the Bemerside Chapter of the I.O.D.E. They set June 3 as the date for the drive. Tagging will be done by fifteen members of the Junior Chapter as well as High School girls and members of the order.

Mrs. A. D. Bennett, convener of the committee, reported on the success of their recent drive and read a circular letter dealing with the collection of salvage paper. The regular planting of flowers at the local cenotaph was left in charge of a committee headed by Miss Jean Wallace and Mrs. J. O. Benor.

The Secretary read a letter from the Marmora Chapter extending an invitation to any members of the local chapter to attend weekly dances sponsored by them each Wednesday evening. It was announced that Group 4 would this year sponsor the Junior Music Recital to be held in the High School auditorium by the pupils of Mrs. A. G. Watson on June 9.

The Regent, Miss Eleanor Ferris, reported that ten boxes of magazines and two cartons of books had been packed this week for shipment to the armed forces.

The War In Asia

To those who follow the progress of the fighting on all fronts with assiduity, the situation in Asia is doubtless perfectly clear; but there must be many people who would welcome a few words in explanation of the fighting in Burma and China, and what follows is intended for them. During recent months our concentration on the invasion of Europe has become so acute that we have given the Asiatic war second place in our minds; but as we shall not be through fighting until we have defeated Japan we must realize that the fighting in Burma and China is of the greatest importance.

Most of us are unfamiliar with the geography of Burma and China, and such names as Myitkyina, Ledo, Lashio and Loyang mean little to us; often we cannot find them on the maps which are available to us. We know that the Chinese are pursuing the Japs west of the Salween River; we know that Lieutenant-General Joseph Stilwell's Chinese and American forces are tightening a trap around the Japanese defenders of Myitkyina; we know that the Chinese appear to have lost Loyang. But what do all these things mean, and what bearing have they upon one another?

The purpose of the fighting in Burma may briefly be explained as necessary action to make possible the establishment of a supply route to China. The Chinese cannot hope to meet the Japs on equal terms until they have vast quantities of supplies of all kinds to equip their fighters and to keep in reserve. They used to get a trickle of supplies by a dangerous and unsatisfactory route called the Burma Road. The Allies used to ship supplies to the Chinese through the Bay of Rangoon in Southern Burma; from Rangoon Burma's only main railroad line carried the supplies to a point north of Mandalay and thence east to Lashio, a point in West Central Burma; there the Burma Road began, winding for a thousand miles over appallingly difficult ground to Chungking, in Central China. When the Japanese conquered the greater part of Burma they took care to cut the approach to the Burma Road, thus hoping to strangle China.

The object of the Allied offensive in Eastern India and Northern Burma is to open a new supply line to China; to regain possession of the old Burma Road would mean the recapture of all Burma, and China cannot wait for that to be done; therefore our forces are attempting to cut a path across Northern Burma into China. One of the starting-points in this campaign is Ledo, the railroad terminus in India which is nearest to China. As Stilwell's men advance, engineers build a road which follows them and this is the Ledo Road which figures so often in the news; the object of the present drive is to join the Ledo Road with the old Burma Road somewhere in Chinese territory. The ultimate aim of the drive is to cut across China to the China Sea, there to join naval and amphibious forces which are under the command of Admiral Chester Nimitz.

On the drive through Northern Burma, Kaimang and Myitkyina are important points because they are strong Jap bases, and points of supply for Japanese troops fighting in Burma and along the Indian border. If the Allies can take these two points, their job will be made much easier. If they can get Myitkyina they can push southward to Bhamo, which is 75 miles away, and connect with the old Burma Road there, or they can continue their eastward drive and link the two roads.

In China, the Salween river runs from north to south, less than 100 miles east of Myitkyina, and the Chinese offensive west of the Salween is intended to support Stilwell. For if the Chinese can hold their hundred-mile front, Stilwell's forces will be able to push the Ledo Road eastward anywhere between Myitkyina and Bhamo.

The Japanese are doing what lies in their power to check this move, but they are meeting with great difficulties. They may choose to fight to retain what they now hold in China, extending their area of conquest only along the coast. At present the Japs are concentrating their offensive around Loyang and along the railroad south of Hankow. Perhaps they are trying to reach Chungking, but it is doubtful, for their most direct road to the capital lies through difficult mountain passes. There is another way to Chungking from Loyang, but it is seven hundred miles away; they do not want to retrace their steps in order to set out on another long and desperate campaign. They have great advantages on their side, for they hold all the rail lines of North China, and so no longer depend on their shipping for supplies.

The Allied alternative to re-opening the Burma Road is a landing in force on the Chinese coast, and this could probably be done. Indeed, it might be done, if the Jap navy would join battle and make a showdown of it. But the Japanese Navy has had experience with the U.S. Navy which it does not care to repeat, and probably would not fight. It would be much more likely to keep out of the way until a landing was made and then devote itself to raids on Allied shipping. These could prove very costly. The route through India has been chosen as the most useful to the Chinese cause, and the campaign there is moving briskly.

An Invitation

We have a very high opinion of the power of the press, and we think that that power, judiciously exercised, can have the most profound influence on the opinion and policy of a nation. But there is a limit even to the power of the press, and we always feel a little sad on the occasions when a newspaper goes off its head and begins to suffer from delusions of grandeur.

The Chicago Tribune has had such delusions for years. Consider this melancholy example from its editorial page:

"If Australia and New Zealand want to feel sure of the support of the United States against some future aggressor in the Pacific the record suggests that they place no great reliance on the nine power treaty or any similar document. Their best bet is to get into the American Union and under the American flag. Then if Australian or New Zealand territory is attacked the response of the people of this country will be as prompt and as impressive as was the reaction to Pearl Harbor.

"It isn't likely that America will invite the dominions across the Pacific to join us, but if the idea attracts these nations there's nothing to hinder them from applying for admission. If they do, the chances of their being accepted are good".

Here we see a newspaper inviting two British Dominions to make a bid for American citizenship, and offering them American military protection if they do so. These matters, we suggest, are not settled by newspapers. Somewhere in the Tribune offices there must lurk a wild-eyed little man with Napoleon's hat perched on his addled pate, who dreams these flatulent dreams and puts them down on paper. The mystery is how his writings ever get past compositors, proof-readers and pressmen and eventually appear in print. There must be somebody in the Tribune office who has a sense of fitness.

The Case Of Dorothy Parker

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THE arrival on my desk of the complete works of Dorothy Parker, published in the Viking Portable Library, gives me an excuse to say a number of things which have been weighing heavily on my chest for a long time. These matters concern the province and duty of the literary critic. Now a literary critic is like an insurance broker; an insurance broker may either work for his clients, getting them as much service out of the insurance company as possible, or he may work for the company, collecting his premiums regularly, and discouraging the client whenever the latter wants something in return for his money: so likewise the literary critic may either work for the publishers, exercising all his talents in order to make people buy books, or he may work for his readers, giving them the best advice he can as to which books they should buy. Now you, as readers, will insist that the second course is the better one, and I fully agree with you; but a vast number of critics belong to the former class, and their influence is great.

TAKE the case of Dorothy Parker; when I pick up the collected edition of her verses and short stories and look at the jacket I find this, by Ogden Nash, "To say that Mrs. Parker writes well is as fatuous, I am afraid, as proclaiming that Cellini was clever with his hands"; Marion Sturges-Jones, well-known as a Philadelphia critic says, "I can imagine no more intoxicating experience than to be reading Dorothy Parker for the first time"; and the late Alexander Woollcott calls her work "So potent a distillation of nectar and wormwood, or ambrosia and deadly nightshade, as might suggest to the rest of us that we write far too much." In the face of these critical hosannas am I to tell you that, in my opinion, Mrs. Parker writes excellent sentimental short stories, and pleasant trival verse about herself? In Canada this book costs $2.75, a sum which in these hard days is not lightly to be tossed away. Is it worth it? If you happen to be one of Mrs. Parker's fans, it is. If you seek amusement, it is roughly as amusing as four movies. But if you lay out money on books carefully you may think that Mrs. Parker's fancies are too dear at $2.75.

MANY authors are ready to scratch one another's backs in order to increase book sales. Somerset Maugham has written a laudatory preface to Mrs. Parker's book in which he tells us what a delightful companion Mrs. Parker is at a party; this delightfulness apparently consists in an ability to say very nasty things — things which, if Mrs. Parker were a man, would doubtless earn her a punch on the nose. Mr. Maugham is also hysterical about Mrs. Parker's ability to write verse and he gives us a sample of one of her improvisations:

Higgledy Piggledy, my white hen
She lays eggs for gentlemen.
You cannot persuade her with gun or lariat
To come across for the proletariat.

Ha ha. Very clever. Very witty. Not only Mrs. Parker's jocosity, but also her savage indignation against the injustice of our social system is reflected in this gem. Mr. Maugham, thinks highly of Mrs. Parker as a versifier. "Her rhymes are as inevitable as they are often unexpected," he tells: as when she rhymes "suave" and "have," for instance? The reader with $2.75 to spend on a book, and who has never met Mrs. Parker at a party, may be able to resist her charms better than Mr. Maugham.

THE point which I wish to make is this: Mrs. Parker's friends and fellow writers have inflated her reputation until it bears no sensible relation to her abilities. She writes good short stories, of the kind which depend on the evocation of atmosphere rather than on plot; she has a gift of pathos, and a pleasant strain of sentimentality which she covers up with an assumed toughness and cynicism. Her verse is agreeable, but monotonous; she is a sensitive person, and she exploits her sensitivity in rhyme. But whether her sensitivity is the outcome of a real fineness of perception, or simply the result of staying up too late and mingling with too many silly people, it would be hard to say. As with so many things today, Mrs. Parker's publicity is much better than her performance.

AS I have shown, several eminent critics and literary figures have done their best to shove Mrs. Parker up Olympus by main strength, instead of allowing her to gambol prettily in the foothills, where she belongs. Edmund Wilson, the critic of the New Yorker, has declined to join in this philanthropic project; to him, Mrs. Parker's work is old stuff; he does not compare her to Cellini or a glass of poison; he even says that "she is not Emily Bronte of Jane Austen": he punches her on the nose—in prose, as a gentleman should—for her shenanigans in the Communist camp which he says "had no other purpose than to promote the foreign policy of Stalin"; but he also says "she has been at some pains to write well and she has put into what she has written a voice, a state of mind, an era, a few moments of human experience that nobody else has conveyed." Obviously Mr. Wilson works for his readers, and not for the publishers; what he says about Dorothy Parker is real criticism, and not foolish and hysterical blubbering over a minor talent.

A CRITIC need not be cold-blooded, but it is as well for him to keep a certain chill on his mind. Too much is written these days, and little enough rises even to the dignity of the second-rate. If critics throw themselves into ecstasies and froth at the mouth like dervishes over any writer who is reasonably literate, they merely assist in debauching public taste.

He Was Tried for Heresy

Students of the Old Testament recall that it is just 50 years since Professor Robertson Smith came to an early grave after a brilliant career in college and many worries while in the Chair of O. T. Literature in Aberdeen, Scotland. An article on the Bible in the Encyclopaedia Britannica disturbed the peace of the Free Church of Scotland, the "fathers" hailing him before the ecclesiastical courts for heresy. Modern views were just appearing in the class rooms of that day and Professor Smith of Wesley College, Headingley now writes: "Modern Biblical Scholarship in this country owes more to him than to any other one man." He was small and slight of stature, a sister and brother in youth being victims to tuberculosis, the disease reaching him at 45. His favourite text was "He that believeth shall not make haste," Isaiah 28:16.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THE FISHERMAN OF BERCHTESGADEN

"Road-Show" Movies

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

A FEW days ago we ran across a friend berating the movie theatres of Canada for holding back the good movies. "For Whom the Bell Tolls," the big colour job done on Hemingway's novel at a cost of we don't know how many millions, has been shown in the States for about a year now, he said. "Our Canadian theatres are not bothering to bring it here because they know they can get good money out of cheaper pictures right now with all the war business going on."

This seemed a curious attitude for a theatre man to take so we looked into it. On examination it appears that the movies, like newspapers, get blamed for a lot of things they cannot help.

The fact is that the Hemingway picture has not yet been released on the usual commercial theatre circuits in the States but is being paraded around the country as a "road show" at about a dollar a seat. The producers tried to bring it into Canada on the same basis but ran smack up against our Wartime Prices Board. To sell a movie seat for a dollar would be raising prices and against the law. "But this is a super movie", said the producers. To which the Government could only reply that it presumed a lot of producers would feel the same way about a lot of productions. Let one movie sell for a dollar and who's to say "no" to the next man.

Before the price ceiling Canada used occasionally to get those "road show" movies—for instance "Gone With the Wind". But today they are out, and will probably remain out. "The Song of Bernadette" is another road show picture now selling in the States at high prices that won't likely appear here for a good while.

It is highly improbable that the producers will release their road show pictures in Canada at regular prices while they are still available in the States at those prices. Indeed one authority thinks it possible that even when the Hemingway picture goes on regular circuit in the States the producer will not so release it in Canada but will hold it back until the end of the price ceiling regime and then let it go on the road at the best prices it will bring. But such a decision seems a bit risky. By the time our price ceiling legislation is removed the bell may be tolling for a lot of people, including Mr. Hemingway and the producers.

However, we're getting deeper into this than we had intended. It started merely as a piece to set straight a few idle rumours. Canadian theatre people aren't holding back movies. And before our friend starts blaming the Wartime Prices Board he had better consider, too, whether he is prepared to face the increased cost of movies that would come if the price ceiling was lifted. Prices in the United States have gone away up whereas our own, except for taxes placed upon them, have clung to their own level.

The fact is that Canadian movie theatres are doing a fine job in the effort with very little fanfare. Theatres are given free for victory loan pictures or speeches, and every week brings something new in the line of war campaigns—for recruits, metal scrap, paper, victory gardens. Canada's movies have got behind these with a will and for the most part without charge. In the light of this it is surely a little rough that they should be blamed for carrying out the Wartime Prices Board's regulations.

Identified

As a youngster, Charles M. Schwab attended the village school at Loretto, Pennsylvania. Now the schoolmaster was an ardent geologist, and one day asked that each child bring a specimen of some kind. These he agreed to identify and describe, one by one.

Accordingly, on the appointed day a great pile of stones was stacked up in the little building. Young Schwab's contribution was a broken brick.

In due course the teacher took up the specimens.

"This," he said, "is a piece of feldspar from the crossroads." He took up another stone. "This," he continued, "is a piece of the argillaceous sandstone from the quarry."

Then, picking up the brick, and turning with a quick and certain instinct to the boy who brought it, he remarked severely, "And this is a piece of impudence from Charlie Schwab."—Wall Street Journal.

Excess Profits Tax

Whatever else Mr. Ilsley achieves in his forthcoming budget, it is devoutly to be hoped that he makes some broader and wiser provision for "averaging" business profits and losses than is now the case.

In 1942, the Government did allow a very limited averaging of loses by corporations for income tax purposes. Thus a loss of $100,000 by a business firm in 1942 can now be deducted from profit before computing income tax on 1943 account.

But both Britain and the United States have wisely gone further than that. In both countries there is provision in their EPT legislation to deal with profit deficiencies below the prescribed "standard" level of profits.

For example, if a firm in either of these countries had a $500,000 profit in the EPT "base" period, and was able to earn, say in 1943, only $300,000, then this "deficiency" of $200,000 can be taken into consideration in the computation of EPT.—Financial Post.

Within Reason

In an excellent address on "Canadians and Canadianism," a speaker at a Vancouver service club forecast a possible population of 150,000,000. It is a wild guess, very wild in fact. Competent judges a few years ago estimated the possible growth of this country to a total of 25 to 30 millions within the foreseeable future. Only a few weeks ago, able speakers at the Herald Tribune Forum in New York presented expert testimony confirming the estimate of 25 millions. We have vast resources and great possibilities of development. But the area of possible concentrated population in Canada must continue for a long time to be along a comparatively narrow strip, running east and west. If trends of population in other parts of the world mean anything, then the figure of 150 millions is fantastic. — Vancouver Sun.

On Speaking Clearly

If logic is the science of correct thinking, then grammatical expression is logic made audible and visible. Incorrect and inaccurate speech and writing reflect loose and irrational processes of thought.... Muddled and erratic thinking, with its assured concomitant, muddled and erratic expression, has defeated many an ambitious and otherwise worthy person. Precise and tasteful expression has nine times out of ten been the greatest contributory factor in personal success. He who has little to say, but is able to say that little well, is of infinitely greater value to himself and to society than he who has little or much to say and says it vaguely and bunglingly and otherwise badly. To know really is to be able to express correctly. Expression is at once a part and a manifestation of knowledge.—From "Get It Right," by John B. Opdycke.

Cheap Politics

A pretty cheap display of politics was staged by certain members of the opposition in the House of Commons last week in regard to the Winchell incident. Walter Winchell, well-known American writer and broadcaster, recently paid generous tribute to Canada's war effort. Presumably, he got most of his material from the official monthly booklet "Canada At War," an excellent and timely publication which has wide circulation both in Canada and the United States.

This publicity, given gratis and voluntarily by Winchell, could not have been purchased at any price. It is of the very kind that we have long sought in the States to promote United Nation goodwill and off-set isolationist and Axis inspired propaganda.

But Messrs. Bruce, Hanson and Graydon, and some of their newspaper supporters outside the House, instead of approving this bit of good fortune, "damned if you do and damned if you don't." They have insulted a good American friend of Canada. Other famous U.S. broadcasters have, The Financial Post is informed, reversed plans to devote special attention to Canada. The implication of some of the critics that Winchell's attention to Canada was purchased is the most serious charge that anyone can possibly make about a newswriter or commentator. No wonder other outstanding U.S. commentators will be wary of exposing themselves to this sinister imputation.—Financial Post.

WEATHER FORECASTS

The war and the tremendous increase in air transport have caused a great expansion of weather reporting and forecasting in Canada. This is one service that should not be cut down when peace comes. Whatever millions annually such a service costs the country it could and often does save many times the figures by saving lives, cattle and other stock on the prairie, forests and fishing craft and by enabling transportation services to make preparations.—Edmonton Journal.

FRENCH IN MONTREAL

The extent to which the English-speaking population of Quebec province is concentrated largely in Montreal is reflected in the recent census bulletin showing the breakdown of the province's population by racial origins and language, as of 1941. In the province as a whole, those speaking French as their mother tongue account for 82 per cent of the total population and English-speaking 14 per cent. In Montreal proper, the percentages are 66 and 21 respectively.—Montreal Gazette.

Letter To The Editor

BAND SHELL FOR PETERBOROUGH

Sir,—We have read a lot lately about plans to improve our fine city. All have been excellent. But to date there has been no mention of what to my mind is a necessity in any city or town, a band shell. We have a lot of people who like music, and there is no better amusement than a good band concert on a summer night, both for our young folk and for the old as well. Victoria Park has an excellent site for a shell with a natural hill, and it would pay well to keep the young folk off the main street, at least a couple of nights a week. We have a good military band with an excellent leader, and after the war Peterborough could build up a musical organization to be a credit to the city as it has been in the past. How about having a real up-to-date shell to attract both citizens and tourists?

A lover of good music.

A Bible Message

But now thus saith the Lord that created thee, O Jacob, and he that formed thee, O Israel, Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine.... I will say to the north, Give up; and to the south, Keep not back: bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth; even every one that is called by my name: for I have created him for my glory, I have formed him; yea, I have made him....

I, even I, am the Lord; and beside me there is no saviour. I have declared, and have saved, and I have shewed, when there was no strange god among you: therefore ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, that I am God. Yea, before the day was, I am he; and there is none that can deliver out of my hand: I will work, and who shall let it? (Isa. 43: 1, 6, 7, 11-13.)

Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last, and beside me there is no God. And who, as I, shall call, and shall declare it, and set it in order for me, since I appointed the ancient people? and the things that are coming, and shall come, let them shew unto them.

Fear ye not, neither be afraid: have not I told thee from that time, and have declared it? ye are even my witnesses. Is there a God beside me? yea, there is no God; I know not any. (Isa. 44: 6-8.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The major was inspecting a cavalry squadron somewhere in Yorkshire. Riding down the ranks, he stopped in front of one recruit, and said:

"Now, my lad, have that saddle and harness brighter in the morning." Turning to the sergeant-major, he said, "See to it, sergeant-major."

The next morning the saddle and harness were still dull, so the major said: "I thought I told you to clean them for today."

The recruit answered: "No, sir, you told the sergeant-major to see to it."

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Members are asked to reserve Wednesday, June 14 to attend the Scouters Club meeting out at the Scout ground. If you have a car that will help one or two more to get out there, phone President Earl McNabb. If the executive committee of the local Scouts Association is not known, this will be your opportunity to meet them as they are joining the Scouter's club for this occasion. This is for every Cub and Scout officer and every assistant, and arrangements are being made now.

At St. Luke's Cubs

The opening grand howl was led by Billy Minnie, Baloo Tennan, one of the new assistants taking the Pack in its opening prayers. The Blue Six took top points in the game of Leapfrog and Somersault. 1st and 2nd Star work being the main items of instruction. Jack Bertrand was successful in his test for National Anthem. A letter of thanks was received from Baloo Pearse for the Scout fountain pen and also a message to the Pack on the keeping to the fore the name of the 2nd Armour. Plans for a Cub Camp are being made to be held sometime in June, each boy being requested to ask his parents permission to attend. Two new assistants were welcomed to the Jungle. Mr. Trennan was appointed as Baloo and Miss Wyatt as Raksha. Douglas Baptie led in the closing grand howl.

All Saints Pack

Following the opening grand howl which was led by Bryon Young, games and instruction work were carried out. Each Sixer was detailed to give a full list on the names and particulars of every boy in his Six. At the Red Flower the story of how Mowgli entered the Pack was told by Akela.

Sacred Heart Pack

During the past two weeks, some progress has been noted in the Cubs on inspection. Jim Clarke and David Theobald both had the opportunity of leading the opening grand howls, games of "King of the Jungle" and "Strike and Pin" were played with enthusiasm with Gerald McMurray making some of the leading passes in the latter. We were glad to welcome to the Pack two new Chums, Jerry McCormick and Ronald Chambers. Various tests were passed. Knots: Gerald McMurray, Tommy McLean, National Anthem, Terry O'Leary; Ball throwing, Tommy McLean and Jim Clarke; Leap frog and somersault: G. McMurray, Murray Byrne and T. McLean. Assistant Commissioner A. Hope visited the Pack and led in a relay game. The Red Six were duty Six last week. Jack Kennaley lead in the closing Grand Howl.

St. John's

The Pack: The meeting was held indoors this week as Donald Dawson and John Nesbitt make their entry into Cub Life through the investiture ceremony. This ceremony was carried out immediately following the opening exercises, Don and John being introduced by their respective Sixers.

Instruction period was followed by Flag relay. Instruction on Signalling and Cleanliness was also carried out. At Red Flower, Baloo announced that Raksha Baxter was now in charge of a Pack in Ottawa and also the news that Mr. Baxter had been wounded in Italy. Akela announced that one of the Pack was leaving on transfer to St. James' and asked Albert Cunningham to renew his Cub promise before taking the trip. Trevor Mitchell and Bobby Burgess passed Knots, David Bacon, Ball Throwing. The White Six won the Jim Wallace trophy for the last competition.

The Troop: Immediately after opening, Scouter gave a report on the results of the wide game last week. The Troop was divided into two groups, all instructions given under map reading regulations. The game took the boys into various districts over the city, the only draw back being the swarms of mosquitoes reported from all fronts.

Some talk on a week-end game started and it is thought that such an affair can be held over the next week-end. Those Scouts interested should make sure to attend the Troop meeting Friday for full instructions.

Chins Up Tea

St. John's Mother's Auxiliary are holding their semi-monthly chins up tea in the home of Mrs. George Groombridge, 296 Rogers street on Wednesday May 31. All Scouts and Cub mothers are cordially invited to attend.

Honorary District Commissioner in town, an old friend and district commissioner, John T. Hornsby, was in town over the week-end. He dropped in on your scribe just to say hello. Now that he is back from the west we may be able to see a little more of him, but he left for Ottawa this morning.

Features Seasonable Requirements

"Good Health" is undoubtedly the most precious of all our possessions. Without "Health" we are handicapped beyond measure—both as to our ability to carry out our allotted daily tasks, and in our leisure time to make the most of our pleasures. It is therefore incumbent upon us all to conserve and promote for ourselves the greatest possible degree of "Well-being." Exercise and plenty of sunshine are of course most essential in the furtherance of this idea. Unfortunately most of us are prone to "overdo" and many times cause ourselves considerable harm and bodily discomfort by a too strenuous application of the "Outdoors" at the beginning of the season. With this thought in mind your Tamblyn Drug Store this week is featuring "Seasonal Requirements"—Liniments for muscular soreness—Deodorants for daintiness—Creams and Lotions for sunburn and "Victory Garden" hands—Goggles for eye protection—Aids for Foot comfort and any number of other requisites for Health and Comfort, many of which are included in this list of

The twins' winning time was marked at 4.25.4. The Wolverines piling up 70 points won the big 10 classic for its second straight time.

Westclox Trims Brintons 8 to 5

Westclox's ability to come through with a late rally stood the champions in good stead in their game with the Brinton's in the Girls' Softball League at the Bowl Tuesday night. The score was tied 5-5 when the Big Bens went to bat in the final frame and they succeeded in pushing over three runs to take the verdict 8 to 5.

It was the best-played game of the season so far and was run off in quick order with both teams doing some nice defensive work.

Westclox came up with a new pitcher who will probably be of much service to them this season in the person of Joyce Withers, last season with Johnson Motors and one of the youngest players in the loop. She showed a lot of speed last night and the Brinton's couldn't do much against her delivery. Jean Castle did the catching with Isobel Bullock in the outfield.

Brintons, who won the Intermediate title for the past two seasons, came up with a smart team and showed that they will be tough opposition for all and sundry. B. Stinson pitched steady ball for the Carpet-makers and the whole team played good ball. In fact it was anybody's game until the final frame.

Brintons scored twice in the second inning to lead 2 to 0 and Westclox wiped out that margin with three runs in the third only to have the intermediate title-holders come back with a trio of counters in their half to move in front 5 to 3.

Brintons were blanked for the rest of the game while the Big Bens picked up a run in the fourth to make it 5 to 4, tied the count with another marker in the sixth and finally pushed three runs across in the ninth to win. It was an exciting finish to a fine game.

Tag Wrestling Delights Peterboro Crowd

Peterborough wrestling fans got their first look at tag team wrestling at the Tunney show at the Brock Street Arena last night and they liked it, even though the popular heroes Frankie Sexton and Nick Elitch took a beating at the hands of that pair of arch villains, John Katan and Bunny Dunlop.

The bad men won the battle by taking two falls in a row after the popular choices had won the opening fall.

The deciding fall did not make a hit with the customers in the pews however for there was skulduggery of the deepest dye and Referee Bert Maxwell missed it. John Katan had been giving the rotund Elitch the well-known works in the ring and finally clamped a headlock on the hapless New Yorker and steered him over to the corner where partner Dunlop laid a right swing on Elitch's jaw. He went down in a heap and Katan promptly dropped on him for the fall.

The rules of tag team wrestling are of course that there cannot be a change of partners until the man outside the ring is tagged by his teammate. In this case it was Elitch who was tagged—and plenty hard.

Angry fans swarmed around Katan and Dunlop as thy made their way to the dressing-room but the doughty pair got away without difficulty.

The team battle provided plenty of lively action and excitement and the comedy element was not neglected either. For the most part the teams adhered to the rules so far as keeping out of the ring was concerned, although all four were mixed up inside the ropes on several occasions. But the partners outside the ring sneaked in a lot of useful moves. Everytime Sexton would work an opponent over into the corner where Elitch was standing the human pile-driver would butt the enemy with his head and similarly Katan would drag his opposite number over to where Dunlop was waiting to be tagged and the Toronto strong man would usually land a couple of punches where they would do the cause the most good.

The teams started off like a couple of cagey hockey coaches with Dunlop and Elitch as the opening contenders. But with the bell Elitch rushed back to his corner and tagged Sexton who took over the battle and Dunlop immediately ran to his corner and substituted Katan for himself. Then it was fast and furious. Katan would start a gouging attack on Sexton or Elitch and get him groggy and then send in Dunlop for the kill but the heroes weathered the storm with Elitch in the limelight because of the effective way he used his head as a battering ram to jar his opponent. On one occasion he shook up Dunlop with a series of head bumps and Katan went in to take over the battle. He got a couple of jolts from the concrete dome of the New Yorker and decided that was plenty so he rushed back to his corner and tagged Dunlop to go back in. Later Elitch sailed into the ring when trouble threatened and butted both opponents through the ropes.

Dunlop Is Thrown

Finally however at 25 minutes of rapid-fire battling Sexton got Bunny Dunlop groggy with a series of neck twisters, worked him over to the Elitch corner, the rotund Nick hammered him with his head and Dunlop was out cold. All Sexton had to do was spread him for the fall. When Bunny finally came to he started fighting with Katan who had rushed in to pick him up.

From then on however the bad men team had the advantage. Elitch tried hard but he lacked the height and poundage of his opponents and Sexton was at a disadvantage as a result. With a partner something after the style of Toar Morgan he probably would have taken the argument but as it was the handicap was a bit too much for him. He did the bulk of the wrestling against both Katan and Dunlop and easily held his own but when Elitch had to take over the fighting the New Yorker weakened and he proved to be on the losing end of the next two falls.

The Katan-Dunlop combination took the second fall, after giving Elitch the works, by the simple expedient of having Katan toss the smaller portion of the Sexton team through the ropes a couple of times. Elitch was badly shaken up the second time and was counted out. He had to be helped to a bench by his partner and spent the rest period stretched out on a seat, instead of going to the dressing-room. It was Elitch who was victim in the last fall too, taking a lot of punishment from Katan chinlocks and then winding up by taking a Dunlop punch to the jaw that ended the battle then and there.

A Grim Bout

The preliminary bout between the tough Strangler Bob Wagner and the equally durable Vern Baxter proved just as stubborn an argument as had been expected and went thirty minutes to a draw, after the two powerful men had given each other a thorough gruelling. Wagner, tougher than ever was the aggressor oftener than the fast-moving Baxter, but the latter caused the Strangler plenty of grief when he went on the attack. Once he drove Wagner all over the ring with a barrage of punches to the jaw, and then followed up with a couple of dropkicks. The Strangler weathered that blow however and then he resumed his punishing holds on Baxter's neck, varied with a few stepover toe holds that had the classy coast performer in difficulties. It was tough, hard going, with both men giving all they had.

Wagner was so stirred up that when a spectator rattled the ropes as the Strangler tried to use them to get some extra leverage he climbed down out of the ring and threatened to attack the fan.

The end of the thirty minutes found both battlers still full of fight.

Bert Maxwell was the referee and the timer and announcer was Fred Scates who managed to keep his official chair out of the battle on this occasion.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

One of the best battles of the Men's City League season should develop tonight when St. Peter's and Plazas tangle in a game with second place at stake. Right now the two teams are tied with two wins and a loss, a game behind the leading Switchgear. The winner tonight will have undisputed possession of the second slot and will cut the margin of the leaders to half a game so this is one of the most important clashes of the campaign to date. St. Peter's played nice ball to win easily over the Soldiers Monday and if they come back with the same sort of a game tonight Plazas will have their hands full. Gene Reynolds who stopped the Military Training Centre very effectively will be sent in against the Starr-Ellis combination with Bob Carlson doing the backstopping. It is Terry Wood's turn to work for Plazas and he may get the call while Eddie Starr will work behind the bat. Both teams will be at full strength and with so much at stake tonight's game should be one of the pepperiest of the season. It will be called at 6.45 o'clock sharp. Tomorrow night's City League menu calls for the Soldiers to meet Switchgear, the first time those teams have met in a league game this season.

* * * * * *

The Girls' Softball League will swing back into action tonight and the fans will get a chance to look at a whole lot of new faces for two of the baby teams of the current season will make their debut. Westclox seconds made up of young players who will be making their first appearance in the loop will be stacked up against the Quakers who are also getting their first experience under fire tonight. The Baby Bens have had a lot of candidates for their team and should line up a good outfit while reports from the Quaker camp say that the Quaker team is also promising. Tomorrow night Johnson Motors who started off their season with a win will clash with Aircraft in a game that should be an interesting engagement.

The Mighty Atom

It has been frequently said that Mel Ott, peppery playing-manager of the New York Giants is, pound for pound, the hardest hitter in baseball and the New York pilot showed why yesterday when his potent bat was the biggest factor in a double win scored by the Giants over the Chicago Cubs. All the powerful atom did was to drive out three homers during the twin bill, two in the first and another in the nightcap and as the Giants only won by 6 to 5 and 5 to 4 the importance of the Ott circuit clouts stands out like a broken thumb. Those were his 8th, 9th and 10th homers of the season and put the Giant manager at the top of the home run ladder in the majors. Another Memrial Day feature in the National loop was the fine spot of pitching done by Nate Andrews of the Boston Braves in holding the St. Louis Cards to four hits and shutting them out 1 to 0. Incidentally the only run of that game was a homer from the bat of Tommy Holmes. The Cards took the second game in hollow fashion with Harry Brecheen picking up his fifth win of the year. Whitey Kurowski had two homers in that ball game to help make things easier.

* * * * * *

In the American League we would be inclined to give orchids so far as yesterday's doings were concerned to Dizzy Trout, pitcher of the Detroit Tigers. Trout not only held the Yanks to seven hits and a run but he made the triumph a one-man affair by coming up in the ninth with the score tied and crashing a homer out of the park. The Yanks were so unnerved by that mighty blow that they proceeded to lose the second game too. Detroit on seven-hit pitching by Hal Newhouser won the nightcap 4 to 1. Mel Harder, the Cleveland Indian curve-baller won his fifth triumph of the season in beating the Boston Red Sox 9 to 3 with O'Neill credited with the loss. Potter of the St. Louis Browns who is pitching steady ball garnered in his fifth win of the season, although he did not finish, in a game against the Washington Senators which was grabbed off by the Brownies 6 to 4. Chet Laabs who hit a lot of home runs last year got his first four-master of the campaign in that battle.

Oshawa Softball

Says George Campbell in the Oshawa Times-Gazette: "The Oshawa City and District Softball Association will have a "Big Four" softball loop this summer, with four teams making definite entry last night at the final organization meeting. O.K. Billiards, Robson Leather, G.M. Main Office and GM-Colts are the four entries and the "Big Four" schedule will open on Friday evening, June 9th, at Alexandra Park. All games will be played at Alexandra Park this season, with a game scheduled for Monday, Wednesday and Friday night of each week. In this move it was felt there will be no confusion as to when or where the "Big Four" softball games are to be played and Oshawa sport fans, especially softball supporters, will know that they can see the local "big league" teams in action, at the same place, every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening. O.K. Billiards and GM-Colts are drawn for the opening game on June 9th. This will bring together the same two groups of players who met in the hectic 7-game series for the local championship last summer and should get the 1944 season off to a flying start, what with official opening ceremonies and everything. The league executives will supply all diamond equipment, bases, flags, umpires, etc., and will take up the collections at every game. This year's "Big Four" softball league should be the most business-like softball group operated in this city since the days of the famous old "Big Four" league that operated at the Motor City Stadium."

* * * * * *

Bill Klem, now umpire-in-chief for the National League, was reminiscing about baseball the other day, says Jack Koffman in the Ottawa Citizen. It did not take him long to get around to the famous playoff between the Cubs and the Giants at the Polo Grounds in 1908 following the boner Fred Merkle pulled by failing to touch second base and which the poor fellow never lived down. Klem gets more kick out of recalling the crowd on that occasion rather than the game itself. The Old Arbiter claims he has never seen a mob like it since. There were more people outside than in. Many of those who had tickets couldn't get into the park. John Heydler, then secretary of the National League, couldn't make it. The jam was so terrific the game started 20 minutes before scheduled time. There was no sense in waiting, nobody else could have squeezed into the place. Police and firemen played a hose on wild-eyed fans attempting to break down the center-field fence. It was the only way they could be kept in check.

Switchgear Pitcher Shuts Out Union Crew 14-0

Pitcher Bert Harrison of Switchgear came through with the first shutout of the season in the City Softball League last night when he held the U.E.W. team to five scattered singles and the league leaders took their third straight game 14 runs to 0, with the fixture called at the end of the Union's half of the eighth.

Harrison did not give up a single base on balls and was never in any serious danger of being scored on except in the fifth frame when Jackson and Doughty first up for U.E.W. both singled. The Switchgear hurler got out of that spot of trouble without difficulty. Not a U.E. runner reached third base during the game.

Switchgear hammered two Union pitchers for 18 hits and in addition Isaac and Anderson who pitched for the losers issued nine bases on balls and were the victims of some loose support and slow fielding. The winners played snappy ball in the field.

McCormick who batted in five runs had three hits out of five times up, Barney Ashmore had four for six and Don Holmes three for four.

The only loser to do any hitting was Starr Detlor who came through with two blows in three trips to the plate.

Switchgear put the game away in the first innings when they scored three runs, largely due to slow fielding. Padgett struck out. Carpenter singled to right, Ashmore flied to the same field. Playford singled to centre and both came home when Doughty loafed on McCormick's easy fly to right field that went for a

Mel Ott Bangs 3 Homers Wins 2 Games

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer.

Baseball pased the quarter pole to-day in stable condition with 160,020 holiday admissions in the cash box and the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals still the teams to beat. Cincinnati and St. Louis Browns loomed as the leading contenders following yesterday's flood of double-headers featured by 23 home runs.

Master Melvin Ott of the New York Giants led the home run parade with three, upping his total to 10, as New York trimmed Chicago twice, 6-5 and 5-4. Two in the opener did the trick for Pitcher Harry Feldman and one in the finale helped Ewald Pyle to his fourth victory.

Whitey Kurowski belted his seventh and eighth round trippers as the Cards rallied to whip Boston in the second game 13-3 after bowing to Nate Andrews in the first, 1-0 on Tommy Holmes' homer.

Dodgers Take 2.

Wes Flowers and Hal Gregg got credit for Brooklyn's double victory over Pittsburg, 9-3 and 4-3, but Leo Durocher had to call on the bull pen for help in both games.

Cincinnati regained second place ahead of the Pirates by dumping the Phils in both games, 4-3 and 7-4. Ed Heusser whiffed Ron Northey with the bases full to save the opener for Arnold Carter and Frank McCormick unloaded four hits, including a homer and double, to drive in four runs in the second.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout added insult to injury by hitting a home run in the ninth inning on top of a seven-hit pitching job for a 2-1 edge over New York and Hal Newhouser completed Detroit's banner home day of the season before the day's largest crowd, 37,685, by matching the seven-hitter for a 4-1 nod.

Luke Sewell's Browns were outhit in both numbers by Washington, but made them count for 6-4 and 4-2 triumphs behind Nels Potter and Tex Shirley.

Chicago stopped Philadelphia's ambitious rise with a double decker loss 5-1 and 2-1, but the Sox failed to quit the cellar.

Cleveland topped Boston 9-3 and 4-3 behind Mel Harder and Chief Reynolds with Roy Cullenbine showing the way on four hits including a homer and two doubles.

BLOSSOM QUEEN — Sergt. Christina Crowell, of Windsor, C.W.A.C., who has been chosen queen-elect of the 12th annual Apple Blossom festival to be held at Kentville, N.S., June 2-4. She is a barrack sergeant at Cathedral Barracks, Halifax.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Outfielder Goodwin George (Goodie) Rosen, Toronto-born player in pro ball since 1932, yesterday returned to the Brooklyn Dodgers who secured him in a trade with Syracuse Chiefs with whom he had starred since 1940. Rosen started with Stroudsburg in the Inter-State League and has played for Binghampton, Louisville and Montreal, as well as Brooklyn and Syracuse. His life-time batting average is .293.

In an international soccer feature at New York on the holiday, a team of the R.A.F. Navigation School, Hamilton, Ont., played a 3-all tie with a New York all-star eleven before a crowd of 4,000. Cpl. Leslie Medley, formerly of Tottenham Hotspurs, scored two of the Airmen's goals.

President W. G. Bramham of the Minor League Association announced at Durham, N.C., yesterday that his organization had approved the postwar baseball rules as framed by the major circuits, including; acceptance of a player's service in the armed forces as time spent in baseball and a waiver rule permitting ex-servicemen to try-out with clubs.

Million Fans Turn Out To See Events

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, May 31 — (AP) — Nearly 1,000,000 sports-hungry fans jammed race tracks and ball parks during the three-day Memorial Day holiday.

Forgetting their wartime cares for a few hours, a total of 431,701 diamond followers turned out on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday for games in the Major Leagues and the top minor league loops, the International, American Association, Pacific Coast and Eastern. Other thousands saw games in the Southern Association, Pony, Interstate and Piedmont circuits.

Over the same span unofficial figures showed attendance of 486,272 at 12 race tracks. They tossed more than $22,234,311 into the pari-mutuel machines, a merry clip that set betting marks at Suffolk Downs, Hawthorne, Delaware Park, Bay Meadows, Charlestown, North Randall and Beulah.

The expected first $4,000,000 betting day at Belmont Park did not materialize, but that track's 52,029 turnout set an attendance record. The Belmont throng wagered $3,559,097 of the record $10,326,027 bet by 247,556 at all tracks yesterday. Suffolk Downs, in Boston, reported its all-time mutuel handle, $1,401,760, as did Hawthorne, $1,229,087; Delaware Park, $1,120,876; and Bay Meadows $1,013,738.

A total of 160,020 witnessed eight doubleheaders in the Major Baseball Leagues yesterday at Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, May 31 — (AP) — Baseball is about to move into India, and we assume that will lend a new meaning to the "untouchables"—they'll become umpires . . . Ensign Al Horwitz, who used to work with Roy Dumont in the National Baseball Congress, has discovered that wealthy Indian, Ezra Gabbay has become so interested in baseball that he wants to sponsor a national championship . . . Dumont is awaiting a signed agreement to name Gabbay as India's semi-pro commissioner—and what better name could you get for the the job? . . . Babe Didrickson, whose husband, George Zaharias, has just bought the San Diego franchise in Bill Freelove's pro football league is determined to become the world's best woman tennis player . . . if she succeeds, the footballers likely will take to the hills before Babe tries another game.

The football coaches association has invested all its surplus funds in war bonds . . . Bill Ford, member of Michigan's Big Ten Championship Tennis team, is a grandson of Henry Ford. Suppose he plays a model of a game? . . . Joe Herman, the San Fransisco boxing man, is kicking himself because he could have had Elmer Ray, the Florida heavyweight who has scored 13 straight knockouts in California rings, for $46 bus fare—and didn't take him after seeing Elmer's picture . . . Los Angeles now is bidding for an August tussle between Ray and Tami Mauriello.

TORONTO, May 31 — (CP). — While it certainly hasn't looked like football weather lately, nevertheless the game's stalwarts out West are talking pigskin-pushing already. Alvin Horace Ritchie is reported to be busy readying the Regina Roughriders for their autumn chores come autumn, and he is casting anxious eyes at Winnipeg to see what opposition the Blue Bombers may be able to throw at him.

He doesn't have to look very hard according to Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning, who says things just aren't so hot in the Peg's football world. About the only major ball they'll have will be of High School variety, he says moodily.

While on the subject of High School football Herb says "Hardrock" Gregory Kabat is mightily provoked over reports Winnipeg and Toronto schools will stage a "Canadian championship" match. Kabat, ex-Blue Bomber now actively engaged in building schoolboy football into big-time proportions in Vancouver, says that any such play-off without Vancouver would be merely a farce, not to mention folliderddle.

That's what they all said when the idea was first broached.

Hot tip artist:

The Calgary Herald's form chart expert for Prairie hoss racing, Lou Davies, is a good man to know when you're betting on the races. During the 10-day spring meeting in Calgary Lou picked 26 winners out of a possible 70, rolling up an imposing average of 37 per cent on the correct side of the ledger. Picking the place and show horses he was right 48 per cent of the time. Either the nags read his selections and abided by them or else Lou is psychic or something.

Incidentally:

Tommy White has found the perfect answer to what to do on a soldier furlough—he goes out and pitches no-hit ball games. White played with London (Ont.) Army last season, but now is stationed at Chatham, Ont. So came his furlough this year he ambled back to London to help out his old teammates against Stratford....A deer got mixed up with the other dears during a High School girls' softball game in Marmora, Ont. A spry doe came loping down to the scene of action, looked around, and then loped off, showing nice-base-running form, it's reported....On the no-hit ball question again, Edmonton fans were treated to a classic double-header recently as part of the season's fastball offerings. One hurler, Mike Milner of the U.S. Army Air Force officers' team, marked up his second hitless game in a row.

BRADFORD-ON-AVON, Wiltshire, England — (CP) — Mrs. James Mould received a coconut from her soldier-husband serving overseas. The coconut came through the mail unwrapped with her name and address engraved on the shell.

Name Frank Hayes Newest Iron Man

PHILADELPHIA, May 31 (AP)—The iron men of baseball will please move over and make room for a character built of armor plate when Frankie Hayes of the Athletics caught his second double-header and fifth game in three days yesterday, it was just in the day's work. The backstop has missed only one inning's play since the start of the season six weeks ago.

Topping off this performance, durable Frank is tied for leadership of the American League in runs batted in, with 26, and in home runs, with six. In addition, he has scored 17 runs himself, so he has figured in more than one-third of the A's season production of 117. While his batting average is only around 230, his 34 hits have included 14 that went for extra bases.

Jersey City Giants On Top Rung

By The Associated Press

Gabby Hartnett had his Jersey City Giants leading the International League to-day after sweeping two from the last-place Newark Bears while Rochester was belting Toronto out of first position.

A crowd of 7,668 largest in the league's total of 26,348 holiday admissions, watched Bob Barthelson best Floyd Bevens in a tight duel 1-0, in the opener and saw the Giants come from behind to take the finale on Roy Nichols' squeeze-play bunt, 5-4.

Rochester dumped Toronto from first to fourth by 6-4 and 10-7 shellackings in a twilight-night double bill before 6,140 paying customers. Glen Gardner held the Leafs to eight hits in the first game and Bill Emmerick took his sixth decison on a fancy relief job in the nightcap.

Stan West got credit for both games as Baltimore swept a pair from Syracuse, 8-5 and 8-2. West pitched the last two innings of the 10th frame opener, coasting home on a three-run splurge and finished the finale after pinch-hitting for starter Rolland Van Slate in the second inning.

Buffalo clung to second place by rallying for three runs in the last inning of the nightcap for an 8-7 edge after losing the first to Montreal's Wayne Collins 1-0.

40 Children Contestants In WCTU Contest

FAIRVIEW, May 3. — (ENS) — The annual Women's Christian Temperance Union medal contest for Smith township and Lakefield was held in the Fairview United church recently. There were forty children taking part in three groups 9 years and under 10-12 years and over 12 years. Public school represented included S.S. Nos. 2, 4, 5, 11, and Lakefield.

This contest is growing in popularity from year to year the children being especially trained by their teachers, making it a difficult task for the judges to select the winners.

Medal Winners.

In the first group 9 years and under fourteen children competed, Sanford Trotter, Lucille Brooks, Mary Cockburn, Carman Bulmer, Gwennyth McKee, Jean Patton, Stewart Gilbert, Marion McMullen, Donald Boyce, Billie Gilbert, Mary Foster, Ernest Trotter, Freddie McKee and Bobby Boyce. Medal winners in this group were Carman Bulmer, Mary Cockburn and Gwennyth McKee.

Group 10 to 12 years with twenty contestants: Ward Trotter, Betty Cockburn, Jack Ferguson, Allan Patton Jean Lee, Jean Heard, Verna Kelly, Clara Gillespie, Bert Kelly, Glen Brown, . Charlie Graham, Doris Fowler, Clinton English, Joyce Godfrey, Joyce Wannamaker, Alice Foster, Bob Olver, Russell Boyce, Reggie Fowler and Joyce Wannamaker. Medal winners in this group were Clinton English, Allan Patton and Doris Fowler.

Group 3, 13, 15— Willis Trude, Deniece Doubt, Robert Cockburn, Naomi Trotter and Wilfrid Moncrief. Medal winner Naomi Trotter.

The judges were: Mrs. (Rev.) G. F. Kelly, Mrs. M. Jory and Miss Kidd, all of Lakefield.

Medals were presented by Mrs. J. Gordon Mann and all the children were given a chocolate bar. County prizes were presented for the examinations written early in the spring by Mrs. C. Bell in the absence of Mrs. A. Poast to Mary Milburn, Caroline Trotter, Jean Patton and Walter Field. At the close of the program, Mrs. W. W. Yale congratulated teachers and children on the fine performance given..

Present Flowers.

Beautiful bouquets of spring flowers were presented to the judges, to Mrs. Yale the teachers, Misses Olga Wilson, Marjorie Galbraith, Isabel Wray and also to Charlie Hemsley. They were presented by eight little children, Helen Patton, Ernest Trotter, Nancy Archer, Jimmie McMullen, Myla Bulmer, Berniece Graham, Noreen Ferguson and Kenneth Boyce.

Pleasing interludes were a piano solo by Mary Cockburn, piano duet by Mary Milburn and Betty Cockburn and a number of solos by Charlie Hemsley of Lakefield. Rev. H. H. Mutton acted as chairman. Mrs. Elmer Milburn was the medal contest convener.

SATURN ICE-BOUND

The temperature of the planet Saturn is estimated at 238 degrees below zero.

Monday night under artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire, and took six prisoners. They are part of a force including artillery and Ontario reconnaissance troops which protected the right flank.

This is the latest job of the Recce Squadron commanded by Maj. A. A. Hugman of Montreal and including Capts. J. F. Baker of Toronto and J. D. Crashley of Oakville, Ont., which is part of a regiment fighting for the first time and going steadily for six days.

Its tasks have included spotting enemy guns, capturing prisoners, and knocking out enemy gun-posts.

As the crow flies the Canadians have advanced more than 12 miles from the Hitler Line, but over dust-choked, winding roads it is more like 30.

To their credit they have at least 30 tanks, many prisoners and a number of guns knocked out.

Say Japanese Dying; Medicine Scarce

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, May 31 — (CP) — The Japanese will crack medically in the opinion of Flt. Lt. Tom Watson, R.C.A.F. fighter pilot who was the last man to fly out of Singapore.

In Ottawa for posting, the Yukon-born airman of Vernon, B.C., told a group of newsmen of the heroic losing fight put up by a small band of British and Canadian airmen providing scanty cover for the ground forces falling back through Malay jungles to Singapore.

But despite the power of the early Japanese thrust, Watson said gathering Allied strength would have little difficulty in a showdown battle.

He said lack of medical supplies would "see the eventual extermination of the Jap fighters in the Pacific island campaign." He spoke of a Japanese bomber crew which recently crash-landed near his station "Every one of the nine men in the crew were medically unsound—some of them had venereal disease, some of them had malaria symptoms and the rest had other diseases."

Allied medical officers found this condition general among Japanese prisoners. Japanese in touch with their home bases got few enough medical supplies, but those in isolated spots got none at all "and they are cracking medically."

Watson was bitter about reports and criticism of the British effort in the Far East. He said no one seemed to take the general picture into consideration in sizing up the situation. Britain had sent more than she could afford to that theatre.

from the Liri valley. Eastward from Valmontone a series of lateral roads afford the enemy good escape routes to the north, but these are under constant and heavy air attacks.

Allied troops were closing a ring around Frosinone, provincial capital some 45 airline miles from Rome at the junction of Highway 6 and a highway leading northward.

Rushing to turn the key on the back door of this escape route, 8th Army troops occupied Pofi and pushed on northwestward, by-passing Arnara, four miles southwest of Frosinone.

Take Alfedena.

Carrying the current Allied offensive to its farthest inland point, 8th Army troops captured Alfedena, highway junction northeast of Isernia in almost the exact geographical centre of the Italian peninsula. The Germans had clung to Alfedena throughout the winter.

French troops mopped up Ceccano, five miles south of Frosinone, after two days of bitter fighting.

In the drive through the Liri Valley the 8th Army occupied Strangolagalli, Fontana and Arpino, while farther to the north New Zealanders were reported closing in from the south and southeast of Sora and Highway 82.

Fierce-fighting Goums reached important high ground at Carpineto, south of Highway 6, 13 miles west-southwest of Frosinone.

Allied airmen took a continuing heavy toll of enemy troops withdrawing before the 8th Army. One R.A.F. wing alone destroyed 97 vehicles and damaged scores more when a Nazi traffic jam was spotted in the vicinity of Subiaco, on the secondary road northward from Frosinone.

The vehicles were packed tightly in three columns when Kittyhawks swept in, bombing and strafing, and soon smoke rose 5,000 feet from the burning trucks.

Marauders made a number of bombing attacks on Tiber River bridges near Rome.

Including yesterday's heavy bomber operations into Austria and Yugoslavia, the Mediterranean Air Force lost five heavy bombers and three other planes as against 15 enemy aircraft destroyed.

TINY CONTRIBUTOR—Shortly before he went on the air to make a radio broadcast on behalf of the United Negro college fund, John D. Rockefeller, national chairman of the fund, accepted a contribution from four-year-old Marietta Dockery, who enjoys the rare honor of a seat on the Rockefeller knee.

ROBERT BELL

LAKEFIELD, May 31—(ENS)— The funeral of Robert Alfred Bell was held from the Tedford Funeral Home on Monday afternoon.

Born in Centreville 66 years ago, he was the son of the late Thomas Bell and Catherine Kirk and had resided in Lakefield for twenty years. The death occurred last week at St. Joseph's Hospital following a heart attack. He had been ill only five days.

The late Mr. Bell had been employed for some months at the Johnson Motors, Peterborough.

His wife, Olive Curtin, died three years ago and he is survived by two sons, Jack and William, both of Lakefield, and a brother, James, of Detroit.

Rev. S. A. R. Woods conducted the service. Casket bearers were: Charles Smith, Wilbert Godfrey, Truman Jewell, Manelly Green, Charles Curtin and William Watson, and interment was at Lakefield Cemetery.

Flames Destroy Empty Dwelling

Empty for nearly ten years, a five-room, two-storey frame construction dwelling at 423 Parkhill Road was gutted by flames in the early hours this morning in a spectacular blaze that attracted much attention from awakened residents of the neighborhood. The place belongs to Barney Navin, Downie Street, and is adjacent to the residence of Mrs. M. Lester, 427 Parkhill Road. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

The fire was noticed by Gerald Lester from an upstairs window, and the alarm turned in around 2:30 a.m. By this time the flames had already enveloped the kitchen and as the firemen arrived were spreading toward the front. The flames were extinguished after an hour and a half, during which time sparks in huge chunks rose over the burning dwelling, falling sometimes near the Lester residence. Had there been a wind it is likely that this house would have been involved in the fire too.

Canon Fred Sawers Named Archdeacon

TORONTO, May 31—(Special to the Examiner) — Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen at the annual meeting of the Toronto Synod of the Church of England announced to-day the appointment of Rev. Canon Fred J. Sawers M.A. rector of St. Matthews Church and clerical secretary of the Synod as archdeacon of York.

Canon Sawers is a former rector of St. Luke's church, Peterborough and succeeds in this office the Venerable George Warren who for many years was in charge of the parish of Lakefield, and also served in St. Luke's church, Peterborough.

President Cody of the University of Toronto also held this high office when he was rector of St. Paul's church. It is interesting to note that Archbishop Owen, Archdeacon Warren and Canon were all associated with the city of Peterborough Archbishop Owen and Canon Sawers were at one time students at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute during the principalship of Dr. H. R. H. Kenner.

I had a nightmare...

I dreamed that I paid $5.00 for a haircut and $50.00 for a pair of cardboard shoes. I dreamed that we had no wartime controls on prices, profits or wages, and that we hadn't had the sense to organize the distribution of supplies all the way down the line ...

I dreamed that because everyone was making more money and spending it, prices were sky-rocketing.

all the stores looked like "fire" sales ... with people scrambling to buy before prices went still higher ...

panicky people were buying things they didn't need, and hoarding everything they could get their hands on ...

I dreamed that everybody had to fight to get more money ... and that in this mad race, wages and salaries were falling behind.

I dreamed the hand of everyone was against his neighbour, with each of us blaming the other fellow for his troubles.

with everybody for himself ... no matter what it cost in the long run ... and no matter how it hurt the war effort.

THEN... THANK GOODNESS — I WOKE UP!

to realize with relief that I live in a country where things are sane and stable ... where the cost of living has been kept within bounds.

to realize that prices and wages—production costs and selling prices—are inseparably linked together.

to realize that without the safeguards that have headed off inflation, my nightmare might have become a reality!

to remind myself that the danger is still pressing and that we must continue to hold firm ... and that means everybody must play fair and do his part by not trying to get some temporary, fancied advantage at the expense of his fellow-Canadians.

This advertisement is the seventh of a series being issued by the Government of Canada to emphasize the importance of preventing further increases in the cost of living now and deflation later.

Intruder Pilot Lauds Partner

By LOUIS V. HUNTER,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

A CANADIAN AIRFIELD IN BRITAIN, May 31 —(CP) —Canada's ace intruder pilot, 23-year-old Flying Officer, J. T. (Johnny) Caine, D. F. C. of South Edmonton, is a self-made man, affable and unaffected.

Leading scorer in the R. C. A. F.'s City of Edmonton Mosquito squadron, itself the pace-making unit in Air Defence of Great Britain with 120½ enemy aircraft destroyed—100 since January 1— he has accounted for 17, eight in the air and nine on the ground, and has damaged another five.

His record is almost up to that of a former squadron mate, Sqdn. Ldr. Charlie Schern, D. F. C., and bar, of Glen Ennis New South Wales. Now an intruder controller, Schern has 14½ in air and eight on the ground.

Many of the successful flights he and his 22-year-old navigator, PO. Earl Boalgn, D. F. C., of Regina, made were voluntary efforts, outside of their regular intruder work of patrolling over enemy airfields and attacking enemy aircraft returning from raids over Britain.

A lot of the credit for his success Caine said belonged to his navigator. "You talk about success, but it takes two," he said. "You won't get anywhere if you haven't a good observer and I have got one."

Drill Parade Charges Adjourned 2 Weeks

Warning that the cases must go on at the next hearing, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., granted another adjournment this morning in eight charges against Pte. R. L. McIntosh of failing to attend drills of the Prince of Wales Rangers, Reserve.

A. E. McDougall, representing W. J. Arthur Fair who is defending McIntosh, asked for the adjournment, explaining that Mr. Fair was engaged in a case at the Belleville Assizes.

Major V. M. Eastwood of the Rangers had witnesses present this morning and Magistrate Langley said that he would grant an adjournment on the condition that McIntosh pay $4.50 witness fees.

The accused agreed to do so and by consent the eight cases were adjourned until June 15. Magistrate Langley told McIntosh that they must be disposed of on that date and that if Mr. Fair were not available then he would have to obtain some other lawyer.

Staff At Fair's Repeats Aid For War Victims

When one is not directly affected by other peoples troubles in distant lands there must in general be a genuine sympathy with a suffering humanity in order to stir up any kind of action that is going to react to their benefit, and particularly is this so when for a period of almost four years the same thing has been going on, which naturally has the effect of getting one accustomed to it, with a consequent loss of that sense of horror which it occasioned in the first instance.

Recently it has become almost a daily-nightly occurrence for enemy air raiders to be over the British Isles in some spot or other, most recent of which at time of writing took place this past Monday night when two hotels in South East coast towns were demolished, which undoubtedly would take their toll of human life, besides injury to many others.

If one is really in earnest about doing something to help people such as these, the ways are so numerous as to almost defy enumeration by which money may be raised, and it would seem that an original idea belonging as yet only to the staff at the Robert Fair Co. Ltd. would have before now given an inspiration to others similarly placed, for with to-day's report, this marks the 3rd time that money has come to the fund through the means they initiated and adoped for that purpose.

By securing of sample ends, originally intended on their part to be made into saleable articles for other purposes, when it was found they did not fit into the picture for what they had originally intended them.

In this manner at sales of only 10 cents a time they have now raised about $30.00 when one counts the $8.00 listed to their credit today, and that's quite a sum of money to raise in an effort of this kind, and when the secretary of the fund called to collect it, he could easily sense their feeling of elation at being able to accomplish that much for the fund in this way.

Peterborough Sailor Adrift 10 Days After Torpedoing In Indian Ocean

By JEAN STENTON

After 10 days adrift in a life-boat on the Indian Ocean, when he was repeatedly machine-gunned by an enemy submarine, following the torpedoing of his ship, when the burning sun and a rising thirst tormented the survivors, Seaman 1st Class Norman Walker, son of Robert Walker, 52 Howden avenue, Crawford's Grove, was picked up by a British merchant ship and landed in India. He is now home on furlough.

The nightmare sights which followed the torpedoing will never be erased from the young sailor's memory. At 18 years of age he was on loan from the United States Navy to the Merchant Marine as a gunner.

"Two days out of Bombay at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the first torpedo hit the engine room. I was sleeping up on top and the explosion blew me out of my bunk. All the gun crews ran to their guns, and as we stood there, we saw a periscope come up. We fired at it and it shot down.

Had To Jump

"Then we saw a white streak coming, heralding the second torpedo. It hit right below my gun turret and we had orders to abandon ship as the boat cracked in half. Our gun crew jumped over the side and managed to get a life-raft. Of the 27 gunners, all got on rafts and the rest of the crew who escaped managed to nab life-boats. Within 15 minutes of the torpedoing, a life-boat circled us and picked us up.

"As we huddled in our boat, watching our ship go down, the submarine surfaced and began shelling it. Suddenly the shells seemed to be coming closer. We heard machine-gun fire. Then they were shooting at us. As they careened closer, we jumped out and crouched low in the water behind the life-boat, using it as a shield.

"It was terrible. They went round and round all the boats machine-gunning as fast as they could squeeze the trigger. They hit one of the water tanks in our boat. Until it got dark the sub kept circling, taking pictures of us swarming in the water."

When it grew darker, he and 25 of his pals clinging together climbed into the boat. Besides the water tank which had been destroyed, there was an eight-inch hole, which they stuffed with parts of a life jacket to keep out the water. All the seats in the boat had been sprayed with bullets.

Rams Life-boat

"As soon as it was dark we started rowing. As we moved away we heard cries from some of our comrades a little way off. It was terrible. They had a life-boat near them and we had to keep going. It was impossible to pick them up. As far as I know, they never even got into their boat. Suddenly we heard the smooth hum of Diesel engines across the water and we thought the submarine was pursuing us. Once more we jumped into the water. It didn't see us, but in the distance it bore down on one of the other boats and rammed it," Seaman Walker said bitterly.

As soon as that danger passed, the 25 men clambered aboard their bark once again and began rowing. They put up a sail and rowed by night, using the North Star and the Southern Cross as a compass. In the daytime they drifted more, having only a small compass and the sun to direct them. A large distress flag was stretched across the boat, to protect them slightly from the searing rays of the tropical sun.

The machine-gun bullets had put holes in the side of the boat, and every two days the men had to pump out of the water. The day after the torpedoing, under the direction of the chief mate, the men took stock of their provisions. They had to stretch their rations as far as possible, since they had been torpedoed 300 miles out of Bombay.

Little Water

"We were allowed two ounces of water a day, some malted milk tablets and Pemicon—it's supposed to have vitamins. It was terribly hot, much worse than anything you have in Peterborough. We tried our luck at fishing, but didn't catch anything.

"After 10 days of alternately rowing and drifting, we sighted a ship, a British merchantman. They saw us, stopped and picked us up. We were all very weak, but not badly sunburned. They fed us hot tomato soup and that is one of the best things I have ever tasted. After travelling for some time, the ship put in at Karachi, India, about 600 miles from Bombay.

"Nobody in our boat was wounded. The only injuries I received were a couple of bumps to my head when I hit the locker. I don't want to talk about the wounded, and as for survivors, there weren't many. I was lucky. There were 70 in the crew, and a large number of these were below deck when the first torpedo struck. When it hit the engine room, the two boilers blew up and they were killed almost instantly."

After reaching Karachi, Seaman Walker was sent to a hospital where he remained for some time. When he was able, he travelled to Bombay where he was put on a transport which crossed the Pacific Ocean to the United States. When he arrived in New York a short time ago he was granted a furlough and came home.

Given Warning

At the time they were torpedoed, Seaman Walker's boat was travelling without convoy. That's why they got it, he explained. The night before another merchant ship had warned them that a submarine had been sighted in the vicinity, but they had continued on their lonely course, hoping to evade it.

Norman Walker tried to enlist in the Canadian Navy twice. The first time he was too young and the second time, he was put on a waiting list. Since he was anxious to get into the war he decided to take matters into his own hands and in July 1943 when he was in Detroit, he enlisted in the United States Navy. After he had received his training as a gunner, he was one of a group loaned to protect the merchant marine from enemy attack. Before enlisting, he worked at the De Laval and the Ovaltine, and he attended Sacred Heart and St. Peter's schools.

India is a good place not to be, in his opinoin. Only a few of the natives can speak English and they are so dirty, he remarked. When he was in Calcutta, he met a Lakefield and a Peterborough boy, both serving with the Canadian Navy, but he couldn't remember their names, although one was called "Lefty."

CONDENSED POTATOES

Four ounces of dehydrated potatoes are the equivalent of more than two pounds of potatoes.

Unemployment Insurance Fund Has Passed $200,000,000 Mark

The Unemployment Insurance Fund has gone over the $300.000.000 mark. It was announced to-day by the Unemployment Insurance Commission that the Fund, which is made up of contributions by employees, employers and the Dominion Government, had reached the total of $200.811.213 on May 9th.

The Fund has been accumulating since July 1, 1941, when contributions by employers and employees started. Under the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Government adds one-fifth to the total amount contributed by employers and employees.

Amendments to the Act passed at the last session of Parliament raised the "ceiling" from $2.000 to $2.400 and also provided for including persons in certain specified wage categories even when total earnings exceeded $2,400 per annum. This was a factor in increasing the number of persons in the higher wage categories, to whom the Act applies.

On the first of next July, collection of Unemployment Insurance contributions will have been in operation in Canada for three years.

Canucks Hurdle 20 Feet Of Barbed Wire

BY DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, May 31 — (CP Cable) — Initial penetration of the Hitler Line last week was made by the 48th Highlanders May 22, when they broke through the enemy's main defences northeast of Pontecorvo.

The successful thrust—followed next day by a full-scale assault through the line further north by Western Canada, Maritime French-speaking battalions—earned for the Toronto unit congratulations from Lt.-Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, commander of the British 8th Army, with which the Canadian Corps is grouped.

A daring daylight patrol into the Hitler Line itself by Stanley Caldwell, Toronto, Cpl. Bunny Boyce, Swastika, Ont., and Pte. John Bernard of Victoria Harbor, Ont., preceded the 48th attack.

The trio went forward 1,600 yards from their positions, climbed over 20 feet of barbed wire, and dropped into an eight-foot-deep anti-tank ditch to observe enemy positions. On the basis of their information, plans were laid for a successful attack.

"I got stuck a couple of times on the wire and must say I had funny feeling, but the Germa[illegible] never fired at us," Caldwell said.

"The next day, the engineers told us the wire was strung over land-mines, but I guess there just weren't any in the particular spot we picked."

The patrol was out for about an hour, and when in the tank-ditch saw a German washing himself less than 20 feet away. He did not see them, nor did two other Germans further up the ditch.

Political Broadcast By Young Liberals

The first political broadcast period, under the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's recently revised policy for free network time for statements by national political parties, will be devoted to a report from the National Convention of Young Liberals held in Winnipeg yesterday and to-day, Mr. A. G. McLean, National Director of the National Liberal Federation of Canada announced to-day.

Mr. McLean stated that the proceedinsg and decisions of the convention were held to be of sufficient interest and importance to the Canadian people as a whole to warrant their being brought to the Canadian people at this time through the use of the broadcast allotment made to the Liberal party.

Nine delegates of the convention, one for each province in Canada, will be heard during the broadcast, which will be heard over the Trans-Canada Network of the C.B.C. at 8.30 on Wednesday evening.

Famous Players Favor Newspapers

Before a meeting of the stockholders of Famous Players Canadian Corporation Limited, held in Toronto, J. J. Fitzgibbons, president and manager, stated.

Mr. Fitzgibbons said that Famous Players now has an interest in 313 theatres in Canada which provide entertainment for some two million Canadians a week and which last year, paid out in all forms of taxes $10,343,158 and provided a payroll of $6,000,000.

6 Are Missing

VANCOUVER, May 31 — (CP) — Royal Canadian Air Force planes are searching for a bomber missing with six Canadian airmen aboard since seven o'clock Monday night, Western Air Command announced yesterday. Next of kin have been notified and names will be released shortly.

STATIONED IN ITALY — Gnr. Hugh Preston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Preston, Lakefield, is stationed in Italy with a Canadian survey regiment. He enlisted in December, 1940, and went overseas in June, 1941. Before enlisting he was employed at J. K. Hughes.

HOME ON LEAVE—Tpr. George D. Johnston has just spent a two-weeks' furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnston on the Lindsay Highway. Before enlisting he was employed at Genelco, and he is now at Camp Borden. A brother, Melville Johnston, is stationed with the R.C.A.F. in Montreal.

Waiter Suffers Broken Arm In Hotel Battle

As a result, it is alleged, of a fight that originated in the beverage room of the Grand Hotel Tuesday night, Donald Post, a waiter employed by the hotel sustained a fractured arm and Pte. Harold Miller, R.C.A.S.C., who is stationed in Toronto, awaiting his discharge from the army faced a charge in police court today of having assaulted the waiter, occasioning him actual bodily harm.

Miller pleaded not guilty and asked for a remand, stating that he was in town to attend the funeral of a relative.

The accused was remanded for a week for trial, with bail fixed at $250.

According to the police report of the affair the trouble started when Miller's brother, also in the army, was told by a waiter that he had been cut off from having any more beer because he was noisy. Later the police report says the fight developed and Post was injured. Police say several sailors were also involved in the affair.

Fire Destroys Shed On Russell Property

MILLBROOK, May 31—(ENS)—A fire alarm was rung in at 10:30 on Monday night, when a frame building on the lawn of the H. J. Russell home caught fire and being dry, burned fiercely.

[illegible] small building had recently [illegible]oved from the Russell pro[illegible] near the C.N.R. station, the intention being to place it at the rear of the homstead and use it as a woodshed. While a place was being made ready for it, the building had, in the meantime, been left on the lawn.

Fortunately there was no wind or a serious conflagration would have resulted as the Russell home was in the immediate vicinity, and being well over one hundred years old, would readily have taken fire. The prompt response of the firemen, and the large number of volunteer helpers speedily on the scene, soon had the flames under control though the building was completely demolished.

Suspicions is that the fire was of incendiary origin, others of a somewhat similar nature having taken place in the village within the past two years.

Endowment Funds Reviewed By Board

The administration of endowment funds held in trust by the trustees for the association was reviewed at a meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Board on Tuesday. R. J. Kidd, chairman of the board, presided and all members were present with the exception of Dr. W. D. Scott, who is absent from the city.

The board has carefully conserved the bequests and legacies made over a period of years to the association by friends and citizens interested in the welfare of public institutions of the city. The hope was expressed by the trustees that this endowment fund might continue to grow in the future by additional bequests.

Reference was made to the centennary of the Y.M.C.A. celebrated this year. June the 6th commemorates the 100th anniversary of the founding of the association by young George Williams and his group of 12 young men in St. Paul's churchyard in London, England.

Two Small Boys Drowned In Creek

BELLEVILLE, May 31—(CP). — Clare L. Alyea, six, and Donald, his brother, seven, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Alyea of Ameliasburg Township south of here, were drowned yesterday in a creek on the farm of Paul Tyler. The children were returning from school and the younger child fell in the water while trying to recover his lunch pail. His brother went to his rescue and also fell in. Charles Tyler, who was with them, called help and the bodies were soon recovered. Dr. R. A. Thompson, coroner at Wellington, declared an inquest unnecessary.

Marmora Soldier On Casualty List

MARMORA, May 31—(ENS)—Patrick O'Connor has received word from Ottawa of the wounding of his brother, Corporal Leo O'Connor, of the Princess Patricia Light Infantry unit in Italy on May 23. Corporal O'Connor left for overseas in the early part of 1943.

MELBOURNE, May 31.—(CP).—Only 14 months after manufacturing data began to arrive from Britain, the first Australian-built Beaufighter plane was handed over to the R.A.A.F. yesterday by the Department of Air Production.

Showers Needed To Help Growth

May's "wonderful growth" is going to be seriously checked unless the weather delivers from its infinite resources ample showers for the pastures and grain fields. Peterborough farmers have been looking skyward since the week-end hoping they could discern rain clouds bearing relief from the persistent attention of the sun, and across the eastern section of the province many others are like them in an uneasy feeling of concern about a season that has begun so well.

"Rain is badly needed," is the comment from Prescott-Russell, and Renfrew remarks: "a good warm rain is needed immediately if the hay crop is to be average." And Carleton: "Rain is needed,—pastures are already becoming skimpy and the general outlook is for a light hay crop."

This week's review indicates that the spring seeding is completed, and here and there farmers are getting along with the planting of corn and mangels.

Hastings: "Seeding is practically completed (at the close of last week); winter killing has thinned out pastures and meadows; prospects for hay and pasture are not good."

Northumberland received a co-operative shipment of 13 purebred Yorkshires. They were distributed last week; "growth of all crops is good."

Peterborough: "Growth has been rapid, alfalfa is growing fast and some will be ready to cut by the middle of June." Prince Edward County apple trees are carrying heavy bloom. "There is no labor to be had, and farmers and their families are working early [illegible] late in an effort to get in the crop."

One of the brightest spots in the province is Lambton County, or possibly they have a departmental representative in that county whose outlook on life may be more roseate than average emotional responses to prosaic things like growing crops. Says the Lambton man: "Farmers are working long hours; tractors were to be heard at work on the land in all parts of the county from early morning until long after dark. In some instances tractors were kept in operation twenty-four hours a day. Fall wheat is looking splendid; clover and hay will be a big crop; spring grain is looking well; there is a large increase in the acreage of corn planted for husking. A large number of cement silos are being erected. One builder has contracts for the erection of sixty-five. The farm labor problem becomes more acute daily."

Peterboro Commando Wounded In Italy

Cpl. Charles Franklin Fisher, whose father, Lawrence Fisher lives at 224 Lake street, was wounded in action in Italy on May 23, according to word received this week. Details about the extent of his wounds are not yet available.

Enlisting in April 1940, Cpl. Fisher joined the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and went overseas in July of the same year. He took part in the Dieppe attack when he was attached to a Commando unit, and was not wounded. Since that time he has fought through the Sicilian and Italian campaigns. Before enlisting, Cpl. Fisher worked at the tannery in Hastings.

Surgeon Dies

LONDON, May 31—(CP).—Sir Cuthbert S. Wallace, noted British surgeon who served with the British Army in the First Great War and in an advisory capacity to the army in the present war, died today. He was the author of various works on surgical subjects and a former president of the Royal College of Surgeons.

GERMAN PRISONERS TAKEN—Canadians and Germans clamber up the scramble nets lowered from H.M.C.S. "St. Catharines'" after the U.-boat was forced to the surface and destroyed. Note the Canadian rating taking of the German prisoner in an effort to help him on board the Canadian ship. This was one of the most exciting incidents of this recent North Atlantic battle. At the Right, one of the prisoners is shown being led blind-folded down the gangway from St. Catharines. (RCN Photos)

FORCED TO THE SURFACE AND BATTERED BY GUNFIRE, the U.-boat is shown here wallowing helplessly on the surface as the attackers, H.M.C.S. "Fennel," H.M.C.S. "Chilliwack" and the R.N. destroyer "Icarus," close in. This photograph was taken by Lieut. H. E. Conyers, R.C.N.V.R., of Montreal, from the deck of H.M.C.S. "Chaudiere." (RCN Photo)

SO CLOSE DID H.M.C.S. "CHILLIWACK," one of the attacking ships, come to the U.-boat that the men in the Canadian corvette could see the expressions of terror on the faces of their German adversaries. "Chilliwack" battered the U-boat with gunfire and most of the crew finally abandoned her. The submarine eventually sank. This photo was taken by A. B. Laurence St. Carre, R.C.N.V.R., of Levis, Que. (RCN Photo)

Canadian Ships Destroy Nazi Submarine

OTTAWA, May 31—(Special to The Examiner)—After a desperate effort to out-wit its pursuers, a German submarine was finally forced to the surface and destroyed in a recent North Atlantic action by a group of Canadian escort warships assisted by a Royal Navy destroyer, it was announced today by Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services.

A number of prisoners were taken from the U-boat in whose destruction H.M.C.S. Chilliwack, one of Canada's oldest corvettes played a major role. Chilliwack's commanding officer is Lieut. Cdr. Clifton R. (Tony) Coughlin, R.C.N.V.R. of Ottawa. The other Canadian ships involved in the action were the corvette Fennel (Lieut. Cdr. William P. Moffat, R.C.N.V.R., of Montreal); the frigate St. Catharines, in which the senior officer of the escort, Commander P. W. Burnett, R.N., of Barrow-on-Furness, England, was sailin; the destroyers Gatineau (Lieut. Cdr. H. V. W. Groos, R.C.N., of Victoria, B.C.) and Chaudiere (Lieut. Cdr Pat Nixon, RC.N. of Victoria, B.C.). The R.N. destroyer was Icarus (Lieut. Cdr. Richard Dyer, R.N., formerly of Vancouver and now of Kent, England.)

Obtained Contact

The action began when Gatineau, about to leave the convoy because of distiller defect, obtained contact with an object which Lieut. Cdr. Groos was confident was a U-boat. "We thought the submarine was coming in to attack the convoy, so close did it come," he said. "St. Catharines, the senior ship carried out a depth charge attack. Then Chilliwack joined in and I brought Gatineau in and dropped a heavy charge.

"The U-boat captain was a wily bird and tried to confuse us by his underwater tactics, but we stayed right with him. Unfortunately Gatineau was in at kill. The distiller defect forced us to leave the scene before the U-boat surface. I believe that as we picked him up he fired a torpedo at us, because we saw the wake of one come very close."

Chilliwack, Fennel and St. Catharines, stayed right on throughout the action, almost from the moment of first contact until the submarine finally broke surface. When it did appear Chilliwack spotted it first. "I was standing on the bridge chatting with Lieut. Tim Dunn (of St. Petronille, Isle d'Orleans, Que.) my first lieutenant," said Lieut. Cdr. Coughlin, her commanding officer. I was sure that we had the U-boat trapped. Just then Lieut. Dunn cried 'Here he comes.' The submarine was dead ahead and we closed at full speed.

"As the U-boat was sighted I yelled to someone to man one of the bridge Oerlikons. Signalman Jack Starr of Winnipeg, grabbed it and gave the Germans a hot time of it. He was a ball of fire all the way through.

Maintained Terrific Fire

"At first I intended to ram, but as we went in I altered course and passed directly under the U-boat's stern," Lieut. Cdr. Coughlin added. "Then I brought Chilliwack around to starboard to allow all the guns to bear. We were maintaining terrific fire and all the other ships were joining in. The U-boat crew did not have a chance to man their guns. The first salvo from our four-inch gun wiped a twin mounting right off the conning tower and killed the U-boat captain who was first to emerge from the hatch. The conning tower itself looked like a sieve so many shells hit it. The Nazis then started to abandon the sub.

Asked how close he approached to the U-boat Lieut. Cmdr. Coughlin said "We were as close as we could possibly get and all our guns were blasting away. Our bow almost touched the U-boat's side on one occasion. You could see the terrified expressions on the Nazi's faces. They did not like it one bit and I could hardly blame them. They were lucky to be alive at all. The prisoners we picked up soon recovered. They were fit and hard."

Summing up the action, Lieut. Cdr. Coughlin said: "Chilliwack was first to see the U-boat and first to open fire and score a hit. All our ships were in there piching and doing a fair amount of hitting when their turn came to bat." He was loud in his praise of Commander Burnett, whose display of tactics won the plaudits of all commanding officer in the group. "He manoeuvred the ships as if they were mechanical soldiers and had the U-boat in the middle all the way," he said. "He's one of the finest officers you'd want to work with and we are all proud to have served under him."

Lieut. Cdr. Moffat, commanding officer of Fennel declared "We needed patience to stay around and when the sub finally came to the surface Chilliwack was in the best possition to grapple with it. We dropped lots of depth charges and I'm sure we sook him up plenty We were also able to pump some four-inch and Oerlikon stuff at him."

Great Team Work

"It was a great piece of team work and a fine triumph for the Canadians of whose group I have the honour to be Senior Officer," said Commander Burnett. "As Senior Officer I was sailing in St. Catharines, the new commanding officer, Lieut. A. H. Easton, D. S. C., R.C.N.R., not having had time to report by the time we sailed with the convoy. The first lieutenant Lieut. W. W. Spicer, R.C.N.V.R., of Regina, carried out the duties of commanding officer in a most efficient manner. The patience displayed brought its reward. I only hope that we can go out and do the same thing again."

Lieut. Cdr. Nixon said Chaudiere "happened to be there" when the U-boat was forced to surface. "We all let him have it" he said. "It was spectacular show. We added a couple of depth charge patterns to the already heavy load dropped on the submarine. The rescue work was a bit tricky, the weather having spoiled up during the afternoon. Fennel, Chilliwack and St. Catharines all lost whalers, so we lowered our motorboat and whaler and between them they managed to pick up all the crews as well as Nazis, thirteen or whom were clinging to or sitting in a pontoon".

Asked what happened to the convoy, Lieut. Cdr. Nixon declared laconically: "Nothing, exactly nothing. We brought it to the United Kingdom without a scratch, and it was a big one too."

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

ADULTERY SIN IN BOTH SEXES

No More Crime for Woman to Be Unfaithful Than Man But Society Punishes Wife More.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My wife is unfaithful to me and every time I reproach her for her wrongdoing she tells me to shut up, that she is more faithful to me than I am to her. I cannot make her understand that I am a man with my hat on and can go to places and do things that she cannot, and that I will be recognized in the best society where they will close the door on her. What do you think?

A HUSBAND.

Pot Calls Kettle Black

ANSWER—I like your nerve! It is simply colossal! Certainly the domestic argument in your house is that of the pot calling the kettle black. Why is it any more of a crime for your wife to be unfaithful to you than it is for you to be unfaithful to her? Wherein is her disloyalty to you greater than yours to her? The Ten Commandments make no distinction of sex. "Thou shalt not commit adultery" was not a command laid alone upon women. It was given for men as well.

It is quite true that society does not judge the man sinner as hardly as it does the woman sinner. It is true that the woman offender against the moralities has to pay a heavier price than the man does, but this is the result of a man-made rule that was formulated in the effort to keep women virtuous. It has nothing to do with the guilt of either party, and in the eyes of God the man is just as much a transgressor as is the woman.

So my advice to you is to cease reproaching your wife with her fault until you have cleansed your own record. Let him that is without sin among you throw the first stone at the Magdalene. And it seems to me that as long as your wife has such a snappy comeback as she has, you are well advised to maintain silence on the subject of morals.

But since you are both miserable sinners, why do you not forgive each other, and start over and make a second and more successful attempt to live up to your marriage vows?

DEAR MISS DIX—You say that the real proof that a man loves a girl is when he asks her to marry him. I agree. But how is a girl going to stay out of love with a fine fellow while he is making up his mind whether he loves her or not?

GLADYS.

Girl Must Wait For Proposal

ANSWER—It can't be done. In olden times it was supposed that a modest maiden never thought of such a thing as falling in love with a man until he popped the question. Then she suddenly discovered that she had loved him all the time. We are too honest to stand for such hokum now. We know that girls have no control over their emotions, and that many a one loves a man before he loves her and, alas, many a one loves a man who never loves her at all.

The point I am trying to make is that girls shouldn't deceive themselves and kid themselves into thinking that a man loves them because they want him to do so, and I am warning them to put no faith in a man's languishing looks, or his attentions, or even his love-making until he proposes.

So you will just have to wait with what patience you can until your young man comes to the point.

Peterborough Golf Club Holds Opening Luncheon

Over seventy Associate and active members of the Ladies' Section of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club attended the opening luncheon Tuesday in the club house, filled with large bouquets of lilacs and lily of the valley. After the luncheon, Mrs. C. Graham, president, welcomed old and new members, and several reports were read. Mrs. G. Wood explained the new local rules regarding roadways and Mrs. C. Graham was presented with a silver ash tray, given by the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union, for the best four scores turned in during 1943.

The afternoon was spent in playing bridge or taking part in the competitions arranged by the captains of the nine-and eighteen-hole players. Winners among the nine-hole players were: low net, Mrs. C. B. Westbrook; putting, Mrs. G. MacKenzie; highest score on seventh hole, Mrs. W. M. Lauder; greatest number of sevens, Mrs. M. Abbott. Eighteen-hole winners were as follows: president's prize, Mrs. J. H. Eastwood; vice-president's prize, Mrs. F. Roy; sealed holes, Mrs. H. C. Sootheran; least putts, Mrs. J. H. Vernor. Bridge prizes were won by Miss E. Scott and Mrs. J. M. Thompson.

Arrangements were also made for members attending Tuesday Ladies' Day, who had no transportation. Active members were instructed to call Mrs. C. G. Graham, and associate members were asked to call Mrs. A. Leach, and facilities would be found.

Among those present were: Mrs. H. Waddell, Mrs. L. DeGraw, Mrs. D. Ketcheson, Mrs. H. A. Cranford, Mrs. J. M. Heffernan, Mrs. C. B. Waite, Mrs. C. B Westbrook, Mrs. A. McConkey, Mrs. Wm. # THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, June 1

A VERY propitious and pleasant state of affairs is read from the interesting aspects of major planets. Success or stirring progress may be expected, albeit there is probability of sudden and surprising developments, involving a new field of operations and probably fresh fields and environs. Ingenuity, exceptional ideas or skills, originality and innovation are at the root of this progress, although there is need of acumen, practical methods and alertness against certain jealousy or duplicity from influential sources. Yet pleasure and good luck may be assured in both business and private affairs, with outstanding festivities.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a pleasant, happy and progressive year, with fresh fields to conquer and new environs to add to the happiness of the changing scene. This may be sudden and quite thrilling, incited by some new venture, original discovery, or a novel and spectacular culmination in the field of ideas, invention or science. Creative skill in any direction is destined to reach happy culminations, although there are those who envy or are jealous of these accomplishments and may resort to treachery. In private life there is hope of romantic celebrations of engagements, weddings or other domestic joys.

A child born on this day may have much originality, genius, and independence, reaching a prominent place from its ingenuity and creativeness. It should enjoy a romantic and lucky life.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Welcome white back to your scheme of things. Welcome it for its assured rightness these lovely days of sunshine, especially wear white in hats. Hats are shown, small, medium and large, and are especially nice in white pique. Take for example a smart tailored suit, one piece dress and short jacket, all in white pique with either a smart pill box or a wide brimmed hat. Pique is taking the place of felt for the hats this summer, and worn with the suit, it really makes a much smarter outfit than you would imagine. I saw a very beautiful and smart looking pique dress. The skirt was plain with inverted pleats at either side front knee length. The waist was made coat style with a deep yoke edged with tiny frills of the same material, buttoned down the front with either pearl buttons or colored ones, if you so desire. With this carry a white purse, and wear gauntlet gloves in the white net.

Striped cotton chambray is also new, especially for the junior miss. Take these in stripes of red, tan, blue or white buttons down the front. All these different goods and styles are so smart for the younger set. A cotton seersucker, made with nipped in waist and deep patch pockets of plain chambray to match the stripe in the seersucker. A white collar and cuffs of waffle pique adds a finish to this very youthful dress. A smart pill box, worn forward, with tiny bows of white pique on the head band, this type hat is especially good with the cotton tailored suit, for the junior miss. The summer styles in millinery are being shown with a decided forward tilt, very few hats now are being shown off the face, and the brims are large.

Shantung is another goods being shown in the first summer showing of dressed. This material is shown plain or in stripes, and the newest colors are red, tan, navy, grey, aqua and lime. Be sure and make your selections early as materials are so hard to replace when the first shipments are gone. Cottons are to the fore, and the smartest dresses will be made of it. With these dresses, be sure and wear the broad brimmed hat.

Lilac Clusters Feature of Tea

Mrs. A. E. Edmunds and Mrs. Frank Gray were co-conveners for a lilac tea, sponsored by the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the latter's home, 218 Aylmer street, Tuesday afternoon. The rooms were decorated with white and mauve lilacs, and bleeding heart, with the sweet scent of the lilacs filling the house. Mrs. A. Leach, regent of the Chapter, and Mrs. Edmunds and Mrs. Gray, the hostesses, received the guests. Mrs. B. Jackson invited the visitors to the tea room.

Mrs. H. W. Darcy and Mrs. F. L. Robinson poured tea during the afternoon, at a table laid with an embroidered, lace-edged cloth, and centred with a silver basket filled with white lilacs and bleeding heart. The table was graced with a large silver service at one end. Tickets were sold for a raffle on a cake by Mrs. J. A. Robinson, Mrs. Edmunds made the draw, with Mrs. L. Dobbin the winner.

Assisting in the tea room were, Mrs. W. A. Burrell, Mrs. R J. Martin, Mrs. W. McWilliams, Mrs. C Cox, and Mrs D. Bell. Mrs. W. A. Davern was treasurer

Ferne Armstrong Given Showers

FAIRVIEW, May 31.—(ENS). — Mrs. Albert Armstrong and her daughter Ferne, a bride-elect of next Saturday entertained recently at a trouseau tea.

The tea table was lovely in a lace cloth centred by a large silver bowl filled with yellow tulips and lilacs. Mrs. Henry Sharpe and Miss Marjorie Galbraith were in charge of the tea room.

Tea was poured by Miss Margaret English, Mrs. J. Whittington, Mrs. F. Kerr, Mrs. G. Adams and Mrs W Rosborough. Tea room assistants were: Misse Shirley McKee, Corona Hanbidge, Helen Savigny, Olga Wilson, Mr. Lorne Reynolds, Mrs. Bruce Heard, Mrs. Carman Bell and Mrs. Ferd Deyell.

Those supjerintending the refreshments were: Miss Olive Bell, Mrs. Harold Lewis and Mrs. Cephas Heard; in charge of the linens, Mrs. Clarance Mann and Miss Laura Whittington. Showing the trouseau were Misses Iris Kerr, Lillian McGregor and Muriel Adams. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion with a profusion of spring flowers.

Miss Armstrong has been guest at a number of showers. Mrs. Gordon Adams and Mrs. F. Kerr entertained at Mrs. Adams' home on Aylmer street at a miscellaneous shower. Mrs. Clarance Mann entertained at a tea and kitchen shower at her home. Mrs. Henry Sharpe also entertained in her home at another tea and kitchen shower. Miss Armstrong received many lovely and useful gifts on these occasions.

FARMS PARED DOWN

In Romania where the laws of inheritance allow farm tracts to be divided from generation to generation, many farms have been scaled down to the dimensions of Canadian gardens.

HP RATION-GRAM

Fish Croquettes

The French call them "CROQUETTES" . . . the English call them "fish cakes". But regardless of what you want to call them, here's a new "ration-saver" recipe that the whole family will like.

Mix 9 medium-sized, cooked, mashed potatoes with 1½ cups of shredded codfish, ¾ of a cup of milk, 2 beaten eggs and 1 tablespoon of H. P. Sauce. Form into small cakes and fry in fat until golden brown.

Be sure to use H.P. You'll be surprised at the appetizing difference this fine, old English thick sauce gives to foods. People the world over will tell you what a difference a dash of H. P. Sauce makes when served with meats, fish, stews, salads, fowl, soups, etc.

IN MEMORIAM

DOXSEE—In memory of our dear father, Charles Doxsee who passed away one year ago, June 1, 1943.

Gone, dear father; gone forever
How we miss your smiling face.
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by daughters Everest and Eva.

GODFREY—In loving memory of our dear father George Godfrey, who passed away four years ago, May 31 1940.
Gone but not forgotten.
—Ever remembered by his son and daughter-in-law and family.

KIERAN—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Arthur P. Kieran who passed away May 31, 1940.
In the shelter of Thy Sacred Heart,
Dear Jesus, may we rest;
We miss him much but still we know
Thy Holy Will is best.
—Ever remembered by Wife and Daughters.

OBITUARIES

SPR. N. F. SPEARIN.

The death of Spr. N. F. Spearin, R.C.E., of Brandon, Man., repatriated soldier who returned to Canada on the last sailing of the hospital ship Lady Nelson, occurred Tuesday at Christie Street Military Hospital. Thirty-six years old, he had been in ill health for some time.

A brother of Charles H. Spearin, 632 Gilmour Street, he had lived in the West until a year before his enlistment in 1942, at that time moving to Toronto. Besides his brother in this city, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Spearin of Brandon, and by a younger brother, Arnold, Flying Officer in the R.C.A.F.

The funeral, details of which have not been announced, will take place in Toronto Thursday at 2 p.m.

MRS. ROBERT HADDOCK

WINDSOR, May 31 —(Special to the Examiner) — Mrs. Eva Leone Haddow, 48, wife of Robert Haddow, manager of Heintzman & Company Limited in Windsor died Monday at her home at 1655 Victoria Avenue after an illness of five weeks. She came to Windsor with her husband from Peterborough nine years ago and since that time had made a wide circle of friends in this city. She was born in Lorneville, Ont.

Mrs. Haddow was an active member of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Kiwanis Club and until the time of her illness had been active in Red Cross work. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Surviving are her husband, Robert Haddow, two sons, Sgt. Robert Haddow in the R.C.A.F. overseas and AB. John in the R.C.N. V. R., who has been serving at sea on a corvette but is now home on leave. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sproule also survive.

The body is resting at the Charles J. Ellison Funeral Home, 659 Victoria Avenue from where the funeral services will be held today at 4 p.m. conducted by the Rev. Dr. H. M. Paulin.

Burial will be at Greenlawn Cemetery.

Girl, 5, Breaks Arm

APSLEY, May 31—(ENS)—While playing with several little playmates Monday night, little Holly Tucker, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tucker fell, breaking her right arm above the elbow. She was taken to Peterborough to have it cared for.

Roy Ormiston Is Named Fieldman

F. ROY ORMISTON.

The Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada has announced the appointment of F. Roy Ormiston as fieldman for the East-Central district of Ontario, comprising the counties of Ontario, Victoria, Northumberland, Durham, Hastings, Prince Edward, Peterborough, Lennox and Addington. This territory was formerly serviced by R. M. Holtby, Port Perry, who will now devote his entire energies to his position as Chief Inspector of Selective Registration for the association. George F. Drennan, whose appointment to succeed Mr. Holtby was announced a short time ago, has been shifted to the West-Central district of Ontario.

Roy Ormiston has literally grown up with the Holstein breed. At Brooklin his father built up one of Ontario County's best herds and at the tender age of 16 Roy exhibited a show-string at the major shows, his winnings including second prize in the senior get-of-sire class at the Royal Winter Fair. His early training was secured in junior calf club work, the winning the coveted trip to Chicago awarded to the high boy on the judging team. The first year that he took over the home farm three of the five cows entered on Record of Performance test were honor list winners. A former president of the Ontario County Holstein Club, this young man is widely knon to cattle breeders throughout Ontario.

Mr. Ormiston will make his headquarters on the home farm at Brooklin.

Law Society Suspends Lawyer For 6 Months

TORONTO, May 31—(CP)—The Law Society of Upper Canada, in a statement issued here last night announced the suspension from practice as a barrister for six months of George Newcombe Gordon of Peterborough, Ont., for "professional misconduct."

The suspension dates from June 1.

The statement said the discipline committee found "after due inquiry" that Gordon was guilty of professional conduct and "conduct unbecoming a barrister and solicitor in respect of his professional relations with another member of the Law Society."

No details were given.

Sing Sing prison gets its name from the Indian words "ossine ossine," meaning stone upon stone.

Allies To Need Fire Fighters

LONDON, May 31—(CP)—German propaganda pronouncements that the Nazis will apply the scorched earth policy ahead of Allied invasion armies coincided last night with an Allied fire-fighting talk to the European underground.

In the fifth of a series of broadcasts by Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Force, a spokesman for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told patriots across the Channel to keep their fire-control units ready because the firedanger in the battle zones would be great from bombs, artillery and "German incendiarism."

The underground also was reminded to brush up on its first aid because "the war may well pass quickly and leave its casualties behind."

Two German planes, apparently on flight over Britain to have a look at invasion preparations, were shot down yesterday.

hit. Nicholls walked, Holmes bunted safely and McNabb walked, forcing in another run.

The winners came back with three more in the fourth, scored with the benefit of only one hit, several passed balls figuring largely in the run-getting.

Seven more were pushed over in the fifth on three walks, a double by Nicholls, a triple by McCormick and singles by Harrison, Ashmore, Holmes and Padgett. Harrison scored the last run of the game in seventh on an error after he had opened the inning with a single.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LEARN BRIDGE FAST
8—How Good Is a Hand?

WHEN YOU pick up your hand, you don't know which side will eventually buy the contract. You may wind up as the declarer, or your partner, or either member of the other side. It hinges upon how the strength is distributed through the four hands, and how the bidding develops.

Half of the time your side will furnish the declarer, and half of the time the opponents will. So the question of how strong your hand will be if played on the defense, against the opponents' contract, will be the only important factor exactly half of the time. That element, the defensive strength of your cards, is about equal in the long run, therefore, to the importance of all other factors of its strength.

Even when your side buys the contract, half of the time it will be your partner who becomes the declarer, and half of the time it will be you. The factor of what your hand can do, in support of some contract played by your partner, is equal in importance to what your hand can do if you become the declarer.

Consequently, study through the years by expert players has brought complete agreement among them that the most important factor to indicate, if you decide to make the first bid on a deal, is your ability on the defense—especially since half of the time the last decision to be made by your partner will be whether to double or not to double the opponents' contract. The next most important factor, then, is what your hand can do if the contract is played by your own side, regardless of whether the declarer be yourself or your partner. The question of what your hand can do if you are the declarer ranks only third.

Except in unusual cases, which will be discussed later, the one thing you should always have, when you open the bidding, is general strength, cards which will be of some value under all circumstances—on defense, in support of a bid by your partner or if played by yourself. The only cards which have that all-around power, under almost all circumstances, are the high ones, such as aces, kings and queens.

For purposes of soundness and conservatism, it pays in the long run to value these cards under the most adverse conditions, when played on the defense against the other side's contract. Whatever appraisal you grant them then is certain to pan out under the better circumstances when your side selects its most favorable contract.

Your high cards are at their lowest trick-taking capability when an opponent is declarer at a suit contract, for then they are in danger of being trumped. It has been found by experience that it is safest to count on your own high cards as being virtually worthless on defense after two tricks have been played in a particular suit which contains them, expecting them to be trumped on the third round. The ace-king-queen of a suit ordinarily will take only two tricks on defense against the opponents' contract, with the third round of the suit being ruffed by the declarer or his partner. So that combination is generally treated, in estimating its defensive value, as being worth only two tricks.

To take the simplest way of estimating defensive value of high cards, let's remember these five combinations: Ace-king of the same suit, 2; ace-queen of the same suit, 1½; ace, 1; king-queen of the same suit, 1; king plus at least one other card of the same suit, ½.

Of course, there is no such thing as taking a half a trick in the play. The halves in two of those combinations imply that half the time you will expect to take a trick with a certain card, and half the time, not take one. The reason for valuing high cards that way, and the amount of strength you should have if you bid, should be clearly understood.

LEARN BRIDGE FAST
9—The Value of Cards

APPRAISING the value of your cards is called "hand valuation." Telling your partner what you hold is by means of your bidding system. Most good players nowadays bid in about the same way, using what is usually called "natural" bidding. That is not only the easiest kind to learn, but it is high in efficiency, and furthermore, is the foundation for the unnatural or "artificial" systems. So let's consider natural bidding.

To tell what you hold, you must first know the meanings attached to bids by the players you are sure to have as partners—and opponents — most of the time. Practically all are agreed that a sound opening bid of a suit, such as 1-Club or 1-Heart, should not be made unless a hand contains a bit better than two high card defensive tricks, usually called "quick tricks" or "honor tricks."

The simplest way to count them is to have at least a total of two made up of these combinations: A-K, 2; A-Q, 1½; A, 1; K-Q, 1, and K-x, ½. The "x" means any low card or cards. The "bit better than two" can consist of an extra half trick, or a Q-J, or a couple of Q's. Your hand also should have a number of other qualities if you make a bid, so that, if you wind up as the declarer, you may expect to take your share of the number of tricks for which you bid. Your high cards are more valuable then, because you do not provide against their being trumped by the opponents after two rounds. You then will usually count on three high-card tricks being taken in any suit in which you have that many cards. So you can value your high cards on a different basis. Don't try to memorize them, but look them over:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| A-K-Q | 3 | A-Q | 1½ | K-J-x | 1 |
| A-K-J | 2½ | A-J-10 | 1½ | Q-J-10 | 1 |
| A-Q-J | 2½ | K-Q-x | 1½ | K-x+Q-x | 1 |
| A-K | 2 | K-J-10 | 1½ | K-x | ½ |
| K-Q-J | 2 | A | 1 | Q-J-x | ½ |
| A-Q-10 | 2 | K-Q | 1 | Q+Q | ½ |

Those values are the ones which the cards will have, on the average, in actual play, if you or your partner should become the declarer. They are based on a fundamental rule of play, about which you will hear more later. It is this: An honor combination usually has a greater value when led toward than when led from. For instance, if there is an ace-queen in your hand and you lead one of those cards, you probably will take only one trick. But you would expect to lead toward the combination from the other hand.

When you do that, if the first opponent plays a low card, you put in the queen, which will win a trick if the first opponent had the king, but not if the second one has it. Hence, half of the time you will get two tricks with the ace-queen and half of the time only one, its average being 1½ tricks.

In that same fashion, leading toward a guarded king, you get a trick with it if the first opponent has the ace and none if the second has. So its average is a half. By leading toward the other combination shown, you will in the long run average the number of tricks stated after each. Study them and see why. A king-jack plus a small card or cards, for instance, will thus take two tricks if the first opponent has both the ace and queen and none if the second one has both, hence the average is one trick. Remembering how to value them will enable you to do it at the table, without memorizing all of those figures.

De Valera Born In New York; 62 Years Old

By J. H. MURDOCK
Canadian Press Correspondent

DUBLIN, May 31 — (CP) — Ireland's chaotic political history for the last 30 years is recorded in "Eamon De Valera," recently published biography of Eire's Prime Minister, written by M. J. McManus, literary editor of the newspaper, the Irish Press.

The book takes on added interest with Eire voters balloting to-day to determine whether the De Valera government will remain in office as the country holds its second general election within a year.

Although the book is not written objectively by the author, who regards his subject as a man who can do no wrong it is a valuable contribution to Irish literature and historical writing.

Eamon De Valera was born in New York 62 years ago of a Spanish father and an Irish mother. Vivian De Valera, the musician father, died when the present Prime Minister was an infant and his mother, whose maiden name was Catherine Coll from Bruree, County Limerick, sent him to her Irish home when he was 2½ years old.

His early life was spent in an atmosphere of Irish nationalism and he was particularly influenced by his old uncle, Patrick Coll. Eamon De Valera was a particularly brilliant scholar and after a most successful academic career eventually became a professor of mathematics.

It was not until the Easter week rebellion of 1916 that he became a militant politician forsaking his professor's gown for the uniform of the Irish volunteer. Commandant De Valera was one of the leaders of the rebellion.

De Valera, as presented in his biography, has a strange personality—he is brilliant, intellectual and a politician and has dominated Irish affairs since he became Prime Minister 12 years ago. He is a strict disciplinarian, non-smoker, teetotaller, a devoute Roman Catholic, an incredibly hard worker and the most outstanding Irish statesman of the last 50 years.

Algoma Bishop Is Consecrated

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 31—(CP)—Rt. Rev. William Lockeridge Wright today was consecrated bishop of the vast missionary Anglican diocese of Algoma by Most Rev. C. A. Seager, Archbishop of Huron and Metropolitan of Ontario, and at 39 became the youngest bishop in the Anglican episcopate in the Dominion.

The consecration sermon was preached by Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of Ontario, the diocese in which the new bishop was born. On behalf of this diocese "I rejoice in your elevation" he told Bishop Wright and then he urged the laity to give the new bishop their "spiritual confidence."

Bishop Wright, who was enthroned this afternoon, succeeds Rt. Rev. George Frederick Kingston, who recently was elected Bishop of Nova Scotia.

A native of Trenton, Ont., the new bishop is the son of a clergyman, the late Canon J. Depencier Wright, former rector at St. Luke's, Kingston.

He served as a clergyman at Tweed, Ont., Hamilton and Toronto before coming here in 1940 to become rector of St. Luke's Pro-Cathedral, See church of the diocese.

C.C.F. Official Raps New Labor Move

OTTAWA, May 31—(CP)—David Lewis, C.C.F. national secretary, said yesterday that those who knew something of Labor Progressive party policies in recent months "are not surprised by this public statement of their complete capitulation to the forces of big business in Canada."

He was referring to a Labor-Progressive statement issued yesterday suggesting a coalition of Liberal, Labor and farm forces to lead Canada to full co-operation.

Mr. Lewis said the statement should serve to make clear to Canadians "that the only objective of the Labor-Progressive party at this time is to try to prevent the C.C.F. from winning power at the next election."

The new policy of the Labor Progressive was a betrayal not only of the people of Canada, but also of the objectives of Moscow and Teheran conferences of United Nations leaders.

Will Re-open Plant At Nobel

OTTAWA, May 31—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe announced today that the government-owned shell-filling plant operated by Defence Industries, Ltd., at Nobel, Ont., will be re-opened "as soon as possible," with approximately 2,000 workers eventually required.

"Defence Industries has been instructed to proceed immediately with the re-opening of the plant," he said. "The operations will be started as quickly as possible, and workers will be recruited through national selective service as rapidly as their services can be utilized at the plant...."

Mr. Howe announced in the Commons April 25 that the Canadian shell-filling program would be materially increased because of revisions of the shell program resulting from actual battle experience.

He said today that since then a careful study of the United Nations' demands for propellants has made it evident that "substantial" production at Nobel will be required.

Research Works On Substitutes

OTTAWA, May 31—(CP)—Studies to determine the storage life of shell eggs indicated that oil-dipped eggs shipped in sealed lined bags keep "reasonably well," said a report of the National Research Council tabled in the Commons last night by Trade Minister MacKinnon.

Other Council conclusions included:

1. Irish moss had been developed as a promising substitute for agar-agar, a jelling substance used in the canning industry. Agaragar supplies were cut off after Japan's entry into the war.

2. The Council was financially assisting the Ontario Research Foundation in an experiment on the hydrogenation of linseed oil to produce an edible product.

3. Production of butylene glycol from wheat by fermentation was under study. This chemical was important raw material in the manufacture of butadiene, required in making synthetic rubber. Its use as a substitute for war materials in short supply was being examined and a pilot plant had been constructed to obtain data.

4. Simple methods had been devised for removing rubber from Russian dandelion roots and from the leaves and pods of milkweed.

Bread Shortage Follows Strike

DETROIT, May 31—(AP)—Detroit housewives today were dependent largely on their own ovens for bread to use in holiday picnic lunches as a strike of 1,000 bakery truck drivers continued to cut off 90 per cent of the city's bread supply.

Other relief came from bakers at the Detroit House of Correction, who worked far into the night to turn out hundreds of loaves of bread to replace the customary hot dog buns at the city's 17 municipal park refectories.

A general membership meeting of Bakery Drivers Local 51 of the A.F.L. Teamsters Union is scheduled for tomorrow, at which the drivers' demands for wage adjustments will be discussed in light of a War Labor Board directive to return to work.

1,900 Out

While many of the A.F.L. local members were enjoying an extended week-end vacation, officers of Local 176, United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers (C.I.O.), boarded a train for Washington where they had been summoned by the W.L.B. to show cause tomorrow for a strike of 1,900 employees at Parke Davis Co. which today went into its second week.

Curtailed production of medical supplies at the company's two plants is continuing despite the strike, voted in a National Labor Relations Board election to enforce 11 Union demands, one dealing with wage increases.

A walkout of 1,500 employees at the Federal Mogul Co. main plant in Detroit brought to about 4,400 the total number of idle in Michigan, where most plants were in production despite the holiday.

Federal Mogul workers, who make engine bearings, left their jobs yesterday in what officials of Local 202, United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), termed a protest against discharge of two union stewards.

Bad Whiskey Kills 7 People

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Seven persons died yesterday from drinking what police described as poison alcohol, bringing the week-end total to 18.

They said four of the last seven deaths definitely were caused by liquor purchased at a Brooklyn candy store whose proprietor, George Knisunias, 50, surrendered to the district attorney yesterday for questioning.

His wife, Sophie, 31, was arrested Sunday and held without bail on a charge of homicide. Police said the woman, mother of a five-year-old boy, admitted selling 15 bottles of an alcoholic beverage.

Investigating officers said they found 45 gallons of denatured alcohol at the Krisunias home.

Officers also reported that 11 other persons were in various hospitals in the city suffering from alcoholic poisoning and that a number of them were in a critical condition.

Distributing magazines to the Armed Forces

Joe says—the men in the Armed Forces need more reading matter. They need books and magazines to fill in those empty spots when off duty and when they just want to sit round and "take it easy".

That goes for the sailors too—When a rating or an officer is in the "doldrums", and needs cheering up, a good book helps.

But, pick out the books you, yourself, have enjoyed or recent issues of magazines.

Rail Targets Riddled Around Paris

Powerful Assaults Concentrated On French Bases

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 1—(AP)—In simultaneous overnight assaults, powerful forces of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers hammered Nazi defence installations along the French channel coast and fanned out over a 200-miles front in France to blast three of the largest railroad centres through which the Germans are shuttling their forces to meet the impending Allied invasion.

Murky weather prevailed over the English Channel early today, however, and there were no signs of daylight aerial operations from Britain—the first lull in the Allied offensive in two weeks, although heavy bombers did not go out last Friday. At 9 a.m. (3 a.m. E.D.T.) the German radio reported the Reich was free of enemy planes and one hour later broadcast that "single enemy planes were approaching"—apparently on reconnaissance missions.

In the rail-centre attacks last night some 500 night bombers smashed the Trappes Yards 16 miles outside Paris, Tergnier 75 miles northeast of Paris and Saumur 150 miles southwest of Paris. Eight British planes failed to return from the operations, which included mine-laying in enemy waters, the Air Ministry announced.

Probably 2,240 tons of bombs were dropped in the night attacks.

Halifaxes and Wellingtons of the Mediterranean Allied air force bombed railroad tow tracks by the Danube River's iron gate canal on the Romania-Yugoslavia border last night.

Planes Over Britain

After a one-night interval the Germans again sent some planes against Britain. These raiders droned over East Anglia and dropped a few bombs, but they appeared to be mainly reconnoitering. It was officially reported no one was hurt by

Allies Stalled At Biak Island

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTER, New Guinea, June 1—(AP)—Deprived by bad weather of vital air support, Allied invaders of Biak broke off momentarily their violent bid for three airfields but headquarters disclosed today they already control the eastern part of that Schouten Island.

Invasion of Biak, in North Netherlands New Guinea's Geelvink Bay, opened Saturday at Bosnek near the island's southeastern tip and headquarters said today all enemy opposition there has collapsed.

Two hundred miles down the New Guinea coast at Maffin Bay, Japanese were thwarted in an attempt to cut communication lines of another invasion force.

Today's communique list of limited air actions included 60-ton bombings of Wewak, British New Guinea, and Rabaul, New Britain, a 33-ton long range attack by Admiralty-based bombers on Satawan on the approaches to Truk and patrol stabs at Truk and Woleai, all in the Carolines.

De Valera Wins Clear-cut Victory In Eire
Holds 68 Seats With 17 Yet To Report

DUBLIN, June 1.—(CP).—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera won a clear-cut victory in Eire's general election Tuesday with the incomplete count of returns to-day showing his Fiana Fail party with 68 seats in the Dail, only three short of an overall majority.

Returns from 17 districts still were outstanding. The Fine Gael, chief Opposition party, won 25 seats, the Farmers nine, Independents eight Labor seven and National Labor four.

All members of the Cabinet had retained their seats in the Dail.

Mr. de Valera called the election last month after defeat of a Government-sponsored transport bill. The question of Eire's neutrality did not figure in the campaign.

Opposition Leader Richard Mulcahy won his seat in Tipperary

Canucks Push Flaming Tank Into River To Douse Fire

By DOUG HOW—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, June 1 — (CP). — The Canadian tank regiments that fought in the battle of the Gustav line came out of it with more tanks than they had at the start. Behind that achievement are the men of the Royal Canadian mechanical and electrical engineers. In those hectic hours and days when the Rapido River bridgehead was a thing of dubious strength they fought a war of recovery and repair that never slackened under the heaviest fire.

Lloyd Patton of Edmonton was one of those men. He is a captain in the Regimental Electrical and Mechanical Engineers of an Ontario armored regiment. He commands the unit's light aid detachment.

Ontario tanks had crossed a Bailey bridge that morning of May 12 and one after one they became mired in the mud on the far side. The squadron commander took one look and reported that things were too hot for recovery.

A Marvellous Job.

But Cap. Patton went down and he didn't come back for hours. Between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. he directed the three recovery tanks at his disposal in an operation that put 14 of a floundering 20 back into an action that vitally needed them.

A 15th was struck by a shell and burst into flames. Patton's men tried to beat out the fire, failed and dumped the Sherman into the Rapido. It was recovered two days later.

A 16th was struck by a shell and was a total loss. The other four were recovered the next day by Capt. E. K. MacEachern, Ottawa, acting E. M. E. of the Western Canada Regiment, and his light aid crews.

From 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. Capt. Patton and his men did repairs, then their own tanks bogged down. They spent the night there and other stranded soldiers came to seek the protection of their armor until there were 10 men in each tank, among them two wounded Indians. Shells and mortars had been falling all day. In that one long night three scored hits on those bogged Shermans.

One Minor Casualty.

But the only casualty was a man who lots his little finger.

The success of R. C. M. E. E. in the Rapido fight was a triumph of courage and of organization and

Showers Slow Forest Fires

TORONTO, June 1 —(CP) — Scattered rainstorms last night in Northern Ontario helped slow down bush fires which now are "well in check," Frank A. MacDougall, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, said to-day.

Describing the rain as "spotty," Mr. McDougall said some rain fell on three fires previously burning out of control, one in the Gowganda-Elk Lake region, another in Boyd Township, Algonquin Park, and a third in the Timmins area.

"We now have good fire lines established on all of the fires," he said. "This is the first break in the weather. Now that it's changed from the dry and hot variety and hazard in the bush is lessened greatly."

He emphasized that fire fighters are continuing their work and although the fires are checked they are not yet officially regarded as "under control."

Mr. McDougall, who left later this morning with Lands Minister Thompson of Ontario for an aerial survey of the fire areas, spoke of the co-operation of the R. C. A. F. and the army.

"The Air Force gave us two planes and would have given us two more if the fires continued," he said. "They did a great job yesterday when one plane transported 60 men to the Boyd Township fire. Their help has been marvellous. The army has been most co-operative. They supplied about 600 men to fight the fires in Boyd and a Gowganda. That was all we could use efficiently."

Greek Patriots Wipe Out 150 Nazis

CAIRO, June 1 (AP) — Greek patriots wiped out some 250 German troops with guns and knives after surprising them swimming and sunbathing at a stream in Thessaly, an official report said today.

Officials said the Germans were resting May 10 after a drive against villages in the mountainous Olympus area in which a number of defenceless villagers were shot and "other atrocities were committed," seven Greek patriots were killed and eight wounded in the revenge attack.

Just A Racket

KITCHENER, June 1 — (CP).—Mayor Joseph Meinzinger yesterday charged that the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department is being maintained by a tax levied by the Government on all fire insurance premiums and termed the new regulations a "racket." He said the city fire department will not add additional men as required by the Fire Department Act, effective June 5.

74 Refugees Safe From Nazi Torture

Describe Panic When U-Boat Stopped Their Ship

By GUY BEAUDRY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, June 1 (CP)—Tales of a panic that followed the order to "abandon ship" were told today when 74 European refugees—mostly Jews—arrived here from Philadelphia after their neutral Portugese ship—the Serpa Pinto—was stopped in mid-Atlantic by a German submarine and passengers and crew members were told the ship would be sunk.

Wide interest was aroused in the fact that a Canadian citizen, Camilo Grande Perez, 24, of Transcona near Winnipeg, was taken aboard the German submarine to be later released but newsmen's curiosity could not be satisfied as the thin, slightly built, young man was whisked away by army intelligence officers as soon as the refugee group reached Montreal.

Questioning of fellow travellers failed to uncover the reason for the German action.

The refugee group is the second to reach Canada within two months under arrangements made with the Canadian Government by the National Committee on Refugees and the United Jewish refugees and War Relief Agencies of the Canadian Jewish Congress.

Under the arrangement, refugees' admission into Canada is for the duration only but some of them spoke today of having found "at last" a permanent haven.

Serge Tenanbaum, about 30, who arrived here with his father, mother, younger brother and sister, described the taking to the lifeboats as a "mad scramble" for safety by the refugees who were awakened at 12.05 in the morning by the sound of a gun fired from the deck of the German U-boat.

3 Said Drowned

"My whole family and I were about the last to leave the ship after the captain ordered all hands and passengers to abandon ship," he told this reporter.

"Although I did not see any of the three reported drownings, it was a ghastly sight to see these aged women and men and also children, half asleep, jump into the lifeboats."

The official list of the 74 refugees gave no place of origin. However an official of the Canadian Jewish Congress who travelled with the

Hungarian Jews Lose Everything

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LISBON, Portugal, June 1—(AP).—News trickling through from inside Hungary these days suggests a majority of the population is torn between terror and despair as Premier Doeme Sztojay's puppet regime tries to rush through a 'social revolution,' repair the damage of Allied bombings and mobilize more men for Axis defence of the Carpathians.

Today is the deadline for removal of all Jews from the Budapest area into designated Ghettos. What personal effects any of them may still possess in the new locations is problematical. Recent weeks have been filled with accounts of systematic raids on Jewish homes with the avowed purpose of seizing hidden valuables.

The ruthlessness of this confiscation was indicated recently by Minister of Interior Andor Jaross when he said:

"I emphasize that everything which Jewish greed managed to pile up during the era of liberalism in the shape of properties, treasures and other valuables has ceased to be Jewish property. It is henceforth the property of the Hungarian nation."

The confusion and terror accompanying this looting is disclosed in another type of news item which also is strikingly widespread. These stories report hundreds of young toughs have been arrested for "impersonating detectives," threatening to arrest Jews for hiding wealth and either seizing what they can find, or taking large bribes.

Canadians Take Frosinone

Canadians-British In Race For Town Of 30,000

By ASTLEY HAWKINS
Reuters War Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, June 1.—(CP). - (Reuters). —Canadian troops occupied the important road junction town of Frosinone this morning against little resistance from the Germans whose rearguards were withdrawn after fighting another delaying action.

Canadians and British armor has been racing, virtually side by side for the town, 54 miles from Rome, from the direction of Ceprano, about 10 miles to the southeast, while French troops closed in from the west.

In Frosinone some opposition was met from isolated snipers left in the town and there was some machine gun fire. All approaches to the town have been heavily mined.

Vicious Contrivance.

Amongst the mines was a concrete picket type made up of a concrete covered charge of shrapnel on the end of a wooden picket driven close in to the ground. A trip wire is stretched from the detonator to a tree and when exploded the mine throws out a vicious mixture of shrapnel, concrete and fragments.

German mines in this area of operations are being met in a greater number now than at any time since the beginning of the present offensive.

One new German delaying action is to set a wide minefield then leave snipers to pick off Allied sappers who come to clear it. Germans are also using snipers more than ever before to harass the Allied advance, many of them being perched in trees in what turn out to be mostly suicide missions. The advance in some places moves so fast that snipers frequently overrun have to be mopped up later. Nor can sappers afford to give immediately much time to anything now other than demining roads and repairing bridges to carry on the army's move.

On the roads leading to Frosinone today many notices appeared on sidetracks warning traffic of uncleared mines. All routes leading to the north were choked with Allied traffic moving through dust clouds so thick that drivers quickly become unrecognizable behind masks of mud, sweat and dust caked by burning sunshine.

The Luftwaffe is still conspicuous by its absence but every 15 minutes relays of Allied fighter-bombers attack some of the Germans chief escape routes where hundreds of transport vehicles have been destroyed.

SAILOR TORPEDOED—Seaman 1st Class Norman Walker of the U.S. Navy, son of Robert Walker, Crawford's Grove, was torpedoed in the Indian Ocean, and adrift for 10 days before he was picked up by a British merchant ship. During that time his life-boat was machine-gunned several times by the enemy submarine.

Deep Wedge Driven Into Hun Lines Near Valmontone

BY NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, June 1 —(AP)—The Allies have driven a deep wedge into the enemy's Valmontone Line, occupying strategic high points in the historic Alban hills northeast and northwest of Velletri, and now are fighting within sight of Rome. The advances were won against the strongest kind of German resistance, a communique said today. The Allied command was silent on Velletri itself, but German radio reports indicated the shell and bomb-battered town had been left after hot street fighting. The 8th Army—with which at least one Division of the Canadian corps is fighting—advancing steadily up Highway 6, the Via Casalina, captured Frosinone, provincial capital 54 miles by road from Rome.

Take High Ground.

Other elements plunging forward in the vicinity of the Appian Way captured dominant high ground near the Lake of Nemi northwest of Velletri.

The 5th Army gains from Valmontone to the Tyrrhenian coast were officially called "limited but important."

Three miles west of the fortified town of Lanuvio armored units crossed into Fossa di Campoleone and maintained steady pressure on the enemy in that area interlaced with canals and ditches.

An official spokesman said all the rains in the Lanuvio sector were made in difficult terrain against such enemy strongholds as dugouts, concrete pillboxes, and anti-tank gun emplacements. The enemy had concentrated self-propelled artillery east of shattered Lanuvio.

Battle For Highway

British troops nearer the coast advanced astride a road north of Ardea, but the extent of their gains was not disclosed. They encountered strong machine-gun and artillery fire.

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, June 1 (CP)—The Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec engaged in three separate fights, captured more than 100 Germans and killed probably the same number in a week's advance through Gustav and Hitler lines.

The French-speaking Canadians entered the Liri valley battle May 17 and smashed still-potent reserves of the Gustav Line. The enemy lost 45 prisoners and 35 killed that day, most of them to men of the company commanded by Maj. Henry Tellier of Montreal.

After this resistance was broken, the Vingt-Deux advanced 4,000 yards in 36 hours to the fringe of the Hitler Line and May 19 assaulted the line itself and almost broke through.

Then after Western Canada infantry cracked its defences May 23, the Quebec soldiers mopped up poc-

Bulgaria Leans Toward Naziism

LONDON, June 1 —(AP) — The Moscow radio said to-day it was becoming "obvious that Bulgarian rulers have resolved to throw caution to the winds and plunge neck and crop into ventures dictated by Hitler."

It remains to be seen whether the Bulgarian people will find the strength to upset this criminal venture. One thing though is clear, and that is that the Bulgarian rulers are playing with fire. Well, he who sows the wind reaps the whirlwind."

Bulgaria is at war with the United States and Britain but not with Russia. There have been repeated indications in the last few days that Bulgaria has been faced with the choice of stopping aid to Hitler or sacrificing her long-strained friendship with Russia.

15 Divisions Ready To Strike

LONDON, June 1—(CP)—The Berlin radio asserted today that 15 Allied divisions, five of them tank, were concentrated in French North Africa for an attack on Southern France.

The official DNB dispatch said the 10 infantry and five tank divisions will enter the battle scene in conjunction with the invasion of the west coast of Europe. The troops were said to include Moroccan and Algerian units.

The report said it was possible that the Allied comand would turn the liberated French island of Corsica, which lies within 103 miles of Continental France, into a grand style invasion springboard. The Germans speculated that the Italian Riviera might also be an invasion objective.

Allies Take Malakawng In N. Burma

Drive On 3 Sides Against Japs Guarding Key Base

KANDY Ceylon, June 1.—(AP).—Allied troops have captured the Japanese strongpoint of Malakawng on the main Mogaung Valley road in North Burma, wiping out resistance, Headquarters announced to-day.

Other forces established a line south of Warong and Sharaw in the valley and were declared making progress against pillboxes and entrenchments guarding the beleaguered enemy base of Myitkyina.

Lord Louis Mountbatten's communique said 'our troops are continuing their assault from the north, south and west, and made satisfactory progress" at Myitkyina, a major Japanese base in North Burma.

He described Malakawng as "the centre of Japanese resistance" in the Mogaung Valley, which lies just to the west of the Myitkyina area. The Allies advanced on the strongpoint from south of the main road.

Japanese forces invading northeast India were reported "digging in and preparing defensive positions" in the Kohima area, less than 100 miles of the railroad feeding the Ledo road and the air transport supply line to China.

Operations to clear the enemy from Indian jungles north and northeast of the Imphal Plain were reported "making good progress" east of Kanglatongbi. The communique told of sweeps by Allied aircraft along the Mandalay-Myitkyina railroad south of Mogaung in which three bridges, rolling stock, stations and towns were bombed and strafed. Allied planes bombed and strafed Japanese positions and supply dumps in the battle zone between Myitkyina and Mogaung Tuesday, "causing large fires and damaging approaches to the Mogaung railroad bridge," the bulletin said. No Allied plane was lost.

138 Candidates Named In West

REGINA, June 1 —(CP)—Today is nomination day for the June 15 Saskatchewan Provincial election.

A survey by The Canadian Press showed 138 candidates unofficially nominated and it was expected the final total would be nearly 150. Nominations close today at 2 p.m. M.D.T., (4 p.m. E.D.T.).

At regional nomination meetings 52 C.C.F. candidates were named in the 49 constituencies, including two in each of the two-seat ridings of Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw. The Liberals have 50 candidates contesting every riding except Wadena and Athabasca. There are 33 Progressive Conservatives, two Labor-Progressives and one Social Credit.

The election in Cumberland constituency has been deferred until June 24 with nomination day set for June 10.

Meanwhile pre-election oratory was scheduled to reach new heights as non-resident campaign speakers alone prepared to address an estimated 1,000 meetings before June 15. The C.C.F. alone has arranged an average of more than 10 meetings daily.

Denatured Alcohol Causes 14 Deaths

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP) — A third person was under arrest on homicide charges today in connection with sales of denatured alcohol which has caused 14 deaths in Brooklyn since Saturday.

Thomas Fatone, 44, surrendered yesterday, saying he had learned he was being sought. Police charge he delivered 20 gallons of denatured alcohol to Mrs. Sophie Krisuinas, 30, at her Brooklyn waterfront candy store Thursday and was paid $96.

Mrs. Krisuinas and her husband, George, co-operator of the store, accused of having dispensed the alcohol to those who died, have been in custody since the first of the week, also charged with homicide.

Jap's Spine Is Severely Bent
4,000 Planes Destroyed, 150,000 Men Killed

AUCKLAND, N.Z., June 1 (CP-Cable)—Admiral William F. Halsey, Allied commander in the South Pacific, in a review of fighting in the Pacific said yesterday: "If the Jap's back is not broken his spine is severely bent."

In an interview here he said damage inflicted upon the Japanese by the South Pacific command was in the neighborhood of 4,800 planes destroyed, 150,000 Japanese killed "and so many ships destroyed or damaged I cannot count them."

The American Admiral, visiting New Zealand for the second time since he assumed the Southwest Pacific command, said:—

"In the whole South Pacific, including Bougainville, there now are only about 15,000 Japanese of whom no more than 2,000 are effective. We can now say of the Pacific generally that if the Jap's back is not broken his spine is severely bent."

Partisans Ordered To Attack
Marshal Tito Tells Yugoslavs Blow Coming

LONDON, June 1 (CP)—Marshal Tito in a special order of the day broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, told his troops today to strike immediately against German objectives in his country because "the last blow of the Red Army and the Anglo-American allied troops is approaching."

A Tito communique told of fresh blows against the Germans, including the capture of the enemy base of Arzano in Dalmatia.

Partisan units are advancing in the direction of Sinj, 17 miles northeast of Split, leading seaport in Dalmatia, the communique added.

In another action in Slovenia, Partisan forces penetrated into Sostanj, near the Austrian frontier, and blockaded a German garrison of 500 officers and men, the communique said.

SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, June 1—(CP Cable)—A group from the Canadian Women's Army Corps, handpicked for duties at field headquarters when the second front opens, has completed a rugged battle school course.

This was tough—but not too tough—said Capt. Pearl Hatton of Windsor, Ont., who admitted she slept on a mattress but added "we'll be sleeping on camp beds in the field."

At this field headquarters were: Sgt. Lois Green, Toronto and Lindsay, Ont. and Cpl. Kathleen Robson, London, Ont.

Tank Turret Gun Cowers 6 Huns In Hidden Dugout

BY DOUG HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, June 1 — (CP Cable) — Canadian and British 8th Army forces were in the vicinity of Frosinone, 54 road miles from Rome, last night, while troops of an Ontario Reconnaissance Regiment took to foot-slogging and progressed to positions about three miles west of Frosinone south of Highway 6.

(Reports from Naples today announced the fall of Frosinone to British Infantry and armor after a sharp battle.)

Western Canada Battalions took over the advance on the right flank and it was they which were in the vicinity of Frosinone. On the left flank eastern Battalions were moving up and were reported in the Tomacella area, about five miles southwest. British tanks were supporting them.

The advance was marked by the same shelling and moraring, as the attackers met land mines and pockets of resistance, as have typified the whole week since the Hitler Line fell.

Difficulties in finding the enemy in the thick foliage and vegetation are demonstrated by the report the Canadians were being fired on from the rear by a German gun which they can't find.

Pofi, fall of which was announced yesterday, is a small, hill-top town, hit by artillery and bombs and entered by platoons from a Western motorized battalion. Likely enemy places of resistance were raked by snipers and cleaned out by men from a company commanded by Maj. G. D. Johnston of New Westminster, B.C.

Over-Run Post

Later a company under Maj. J. K. Mahoney of New Westminster cleared the heights on the flank of Pofi and overran an enemy artillery observation-post. This is the same company which established a bridgehead across the Mella River kets of resistance, capturing another 65 prisoners.

There were many deeds of heroism that week, and the bravery of a Quebec City captain who continued to direct the operations of his company although wounded five times stands out among them. Two of his subordinate officers moved up to assume command; one was killed, the other wounded.

This was during the battalion's Hitler Line assault May 19, and the company had advanced into a U-shaped pocket until it was virtually surrounded on three sides by machine-guns, snipers in trees and 88-mm guns. The captain wanted tank support, so despite his wounds he had two men drag him back toward the armored positions.

"I heard someone singing 'Alouette,' looked around and found it was the company commander," said CSM. J. L. R. Drapeau of Montreal.

The captain eventually agreed to be evacuated and Drapeau took charge of the company until it was withdrawn.

Education Bill Given Final Passage

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 1. — (CP).—The British soldier overseas will vote by proxy when the country goes to the polls again.

When Britain's next general election will be held probably depends on how long the European war lasts, but it may be a straw in the official minds that the War Office has begun distributing forms British servicemen must compete before they can vote.

There is a chance the commonwealth prime ministers' conference will be followed by a meeting of Dominion labor party leaders or their representatives. The British labor party executive hopes to complete final arrangements for the conference shortly.

Though there is no labor party in Canada by that name, M. J. Coldwell, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation will be invited to provide Canadian representation.

Six months to the day after receiving first reading, the historic Education Bil received final passage in the Commons from where it moves into discussion by the House of Lords. This isn't expected to take long and the bill revamping Britain's entire system of education, probably will be law by July.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., June 1 — (CP). — E. B. Jolliffe, Leader of the C.C.F. Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, charged last night that "non-Socialistic parties and newspapers were attempting to confuse the people about the C.C.F."

In a Saskatchewan general election campaign address, Mr. Jolliffe claimed politicians and newspapers had made "stupid" statements against the C.C.F.

"I seriously think that one of the major reasons for the success of the C.C.F. in the Ontario election last summer was the stupidity of attacks made on us by opposing parties and papers," he said.

The 35-year-old Toronto barrister mentioned the Toronto Telegram and the Toronto Globe and Mail. Those two dailies had "done a great deal to advance the C.C.F. cause in Ontario through ridiculous editorials."

Forest Fires Still Raging

By The Canadian Press

Reports of new forest fires came today from British Columbia, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia but the situation in Ontario and Quebec—the two provinces most seriously affected by timber blazes—was reported improved although some fires still were out of control.

Reports at the mining centre of Noranda yesterday, said 300 forest fires in northern Quebec have caused $10,000,000 damage to timberlands. Great fires still are burning in the northwesten counties of Temiscamingue, Rouyn-Noranda, Abitibi east and Abitibi west, the largest reported to be 15 square miles in area and another nine miles wide and nine miles long.

At Quebec Henri Kieffer, Chief of Quebec Forest Protection Service, said one "big fire" was out of control in Montbray township of Temiscamingue but that elsewhere the situation was much improved. He said his reports did not agree with the 30-fires figure reported from Noranda and based on an aerial survey.

The fire situation in the Lake St. John area, the north shore of the St. Lawrence and in Gaspe was good, said Kneffer, with all fires reported under control. A new blaze near Notre Dame Du Lac in Temiscouata also was under control, he said.

At Toronto, Lands Minister Thompson said "things are much improved", in Ontario.

"It appears that the outbreaks are pretty well under control, he reported. Rain fell in the Timmins

4-Year-Old Boy Rescued From 40-Foot Well

COBOURG, June 1.—(ENS). — Four-year-old Bronson Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Murray, just east of Cobourg, escaped death by a close margin Wednesday when he fell into a 40-foot well. With just his chin above water he clung to the suction pipe of the pump for a half-hour until Albert King, a neighbour, slid down the pipe and rescued him.

"The cover on the well tipped just as we stood on it and the both of us were tipped down into the well Bronson went down head first and I must have brushed against the side of the well at the top because I was able to grab the edge and pull myself out. I ran to the house and telephoned the police and the fire department. I got Ollie Clarke, a neighbour and he went for some rope. I was so frightened that I hardly remember what happened. I believe that Albert Ling had Bronson out of the well before the fire department got there," Mrs. Murray told the Examiner.

Ling went down the pump pipe swiftly and about thirty feet down where the lad was clinging to the pipe, he clutched him and lifted him out of the water. A rope, made up of several lengths tied together was lowered and made fast to the boy while those above drew him to the top. The youngster was exhausted and almost unconscious and it was only instinct that kept his hands clinging to the pipe.

The rope was not strong enough to hold Ling so he made his way to the top via the pump line.

Provincial Constable Alex MacLeod stated that the gasps of the exhausted boy could be readily heard at the top of the well. Constable MacLeod took the boy as he was brought to the surface. Dr. Fred Blackwell of Cobourg, examined the youngster and apart from the shock of his experience and a few bruises, he was otherwise uninjured.

Synod Debates Apportioning Rectory Fund

TORONTO, June 1 — An argument old in the Anglican Synod of Toronto Diocese came up for annual debate yesterday, when Rev. T. F. Summerhayes endeavoured to have a motion passed requesting that the courts investigate the apportionment of the First York Rectory Fund.

The age of this perennial debate was recalled when Mr. Summerhayes pointed out that the fund was established that the resultant income was not being distributed legally. After three hours of debate the motion was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

"Last year virtually all of it was paid to the clergy," Mr. Summerhayes declared. "I don't think that that is properly carrying the instructions of the synod; the present practice was never authorized by the synod."

Distribution of Fund

Income from this fund was $140,581. The rector of St. James' was paid $5,000 and the active and inactive clergy $118,095 Purpose of the fund, as stated in 1836, was for the "spiritual instruction and welfare" of the people within the First York Rectory.

"The best way to help the Church may be to give the money to the clergy, but I think that is a little indirect and not flexible enough," stated Prof. E. A. Dale, Mr. Summerhayes seconder, and one of 12 ministers and laymen who supported the motion.

Speaking against it, President H. J. Cody of the University of Toronto, remarked, with a smile: "For many years I have heard all the discussion on this very interesting, ancient and pungent subject."

Describing the financial difficulties under which clergymen labored, Dr. Cody commented: "I think my friend has not given due weight in documents and acts of Parliament under which the synod distributes its fund. They are not at liberty to do as they please, but must act under legal procedure."

The Archdeacon of Orillia, Ven. A. G. Emmet, remarked: "Our Church is dedicated to voluntary giving. If the rectors of Toronto are so materially minded and so grasping that they have to be constrained by legal action to do the Christ-like thing, we'd far rather let them have the money and hope it will be a blessing to them."

FO. A. H. Huycke MissingOverseas

WARKWORTH, June 1.—(ENS). —A message received recently by Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Huycke, Norham, from the R.C.A.F. casualties officer, Ottawa, states that their younger son, Flying Officer Austin Harold Stanbury Huycke is reported missing after air operations overseas

In June, 1937, FO. Huycke joined the R.C.A.F. and took a mechanics course. Early in 1942 he changed his course, training as a pilot at Camp Borden, Trenton, Yorkton, Sask., Winnipeg, Man., Regina, Sask.

FO. AUSTIN HUYCKE

At Dauphin, Man., he received his wings and commission as pilot officer. He went overseas about a year ago and received his commission as flying officer six months ago.

He was born in Percy township Jan. 6, 1918 and was educated at White School, Warkworth Continuation school and Campbellford High School.

Vagrancy Charge

LINDSAY, June 1 — (ENS). — Appearing in Police Court here on Wednesday on a charge of vagrancy Robert Cretien, a French-Canadian of Montreal, was remanded for sentence. The accused, unable to speak English, told the court through an interpreter, that he had accepted a position in a lumber camp at Haliburton, but not liking the work had quit. Magistrate Gee agreed to allow him to wire home for money to obtain passage back to Montreal.

More Guidance Urged For Students

LINDSAY, June 1 (ENS) — "There is a vital need for guidance and training of boys and girls in Public Schools and in the Collegiate Institute" said Howard Moebus, teacher in the Lindsay Collegiate Institute, who is shortly leaving to accept a position as head of Vocational Guidance in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, when addressing the Kiwanis Club.

"There is a necessity for guidance, such as boys and girls are not getting in the home today" continued Mr. Moebus "the schools must give this leadership. Churches and the State can do a great deal, but the Schools can do more good than any other institution.

The meeting was in charge of President Roy Smith and a musical program was heard. Bert Wainman led in community singing and a new trio was heard, namely: Kiwanians Glad Telford, Murray Grant and Art Claxton. Two numbers by J. MaCahan were also enjoyed.

Secretary Wesley Mason reported that the Executive had decided to aid in fitting two boys with glasses and a grant of $25. had also been made to help the Music Festival.

Kiwanis J. W. Deyell, (Chairman of the Board of Education) introduced the speaker, stating that Mr. Moebus had been on the Lindsay Collegiate staff for ten years.

Mr. Moebus referred to the pioneer work regarding vocational guidance in United States and England. Today in Ontario an effort is being made to give students in the first form a picture of every type of occupation, of which there are thousands, he declared. The teacher will be directly engaged in teaching, but will also be available for consultation by students and parents, in an effort to get the boy or girl started in his or her rightful occupation in life. It is possible that school curriculums may be changed in order to give assistance to young people.

Young people are confronted with a bewildering confliction of choices, stated the speaker. Vocational Guidance will be of assistance to them. It will be ascertained what occupation they are suitable for and they will be trained accordingly.

Past President B. L. McLean moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Kinsmen Told Need Of Export Trade

COBOURG, June 1 — (ENS) — Frank Grindley of Oshawa was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Cobourg Kinsmen Club. During the early stages of the present war he was chief air raid warden in one of the sections of London, England, and for two years was in the Auxiliary Fire Services.

Speaking on post-war international trade, he declared that if nations which were trading with one another could not see each other's point of view, there was small chance of successful trade. British industry was now consolidated and remodelled on a stable basis and would play a solid economic part in future world markets, he said.

Britain was Canada's best customer in peacetime, and the balance of trade was in Canada's favor, but this country was still not export-conscious enough at the present time. The speaker gave his opinion that war was generally caused by the lack of outside trade or inability to acquire outside trade. One of the most important things to be discussed at the peace table was the international control of trade, the speaker said.

Hotelmen To Meet

COBOURG, June 1—(ENS)— Lester Caughey, proprietor of the British Hotel, who is zone president of the Hotelmen's Association, will entertain all the hotelmen of zones 11A and 11B at a luncheon to be held at the British Hotel on June 7. Jack Connell of Toronto, retiring managing director of the Hotel Association of Ontario, will be guest speaker. Hotelmen will be present from Whitby on the west, Haliburton on the north, Picton on the east and along the lakefront

Obituary

MRS. GEORGE EAGLESON

The funeral of Mrs. Hattie Reid Eagleson, beloved wife of the late George Eagleson, was held recently from the home of her son, Edwin, R. R. No. 2, Millbrook, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. Services were conducted by Rev. W. Patterson, assisted by Rev. A. H. McConnachie; and interment took place in Baillieboro cemetery.

Mrs. Eagleson, 73, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Dawson, 561 Gilmour street, last week. Besides her son, Edwin, and her daughter, Mrs. Frank Dawson (Jean), she leaves to mourn two brothers, Willie and John Reid, both of Toronto.

Pallbearers were Jack Reid, Willis Wood, Tom McCamus, Allen Preston, Harold Beele and Roy Greer.

The Spectre Of Nihilism

Speaking recently in Chelsea, a borough of London, Sir Samuel Hoare, the British Ambassador to Spain, said this: "Europe's immediate danger is not Capitalism or Communism, but Nihilism — that dismal no-man's land in which devastation is complete and there are no signposts to mark the way of escape from surrounding chaos". This may come as a shock to those people who think that as soon as the war is over the whole of Europe will give a happy sigh and begin building up everything, tangible and intangible, which the war has knocked down. It provides no comfort either for those who think that the rest of the world can abandon Europe to its own devices when the fighting is over; like it or not, the world cannot get along without Europe and must help to put Europe on its feet. But the nations which emerge from Nazi thralldom when the war is over will be embittered, disorganized and discontented to a degree which we cannot yet measure. Nihilism will be a very real danger; what are we going to do about it?

Clearly the big job of re-organization will fall chiefly to Britain, aided by the nations of the Commonwealth, Russia and the U.S.A. Now all three of these powers are engaged to some extent in the experiment of 'statism', which can briefly be defined as governmental interference with the economic process. In Russia statism is complete; in Britain and in the nations of the Commonwealth statism has taken great strides during the war, and agitation is loud to continue it, and expand it, after the war, and post-war planners are unsparing in their demands for statism in all its forms; in the U.S.A. the yearning for statism is not so great, but it is still powerful, and business cartels, labour unions, and blocs of many kinds all want government support. The question is, will the three great powers encourage statism in Europe after the war?

The danger of statism and planning lies in the fact that it can only be made to work satisfactorily after a nation has closed its border. Price levels can only be fixed and uneconomic industry upheld when there is no competition from outside. If there is to be a rigid internal control of economics, a nation must withdraw itself economically from the rest of the world, and the result, if the scheme is applied on a large scale, is a continent, or a world, full of closed compartments. That is not the cheapest or healthiest way for world economics to operate, and inevitably the larger and more favoured nations do better at it than the smaller and poorer ones. And the outcome is the old quarrel of the haves and the have-nots. That quarrel usually ends in war.

The sickness which possesses Europe was not entirely caused by Fascism, although Fascism was one of its principal symptoms; the extirpation of Fascism will not bring a complete cure. The danger of Nihilism in government, economics and morals is a very real one, and if the great powers are not quick to present Europe with a workable, though perhaps temporary, scheme of existence, the consequences will be extremely serious. And what begins in Europe quickly spreads through the rest of the civilized world.

Eight To The Bar

Every now and then some gentleman with more learning than humour excites himself about the vagaries of our American folk-culture. Recently Dr. Howard Hanson, of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N.Y., gave his opinion that boogie-woogie was "an aural drug... crass, raucous, cheap and commonplace", in which, of course, he is quite right. But then lots of things which are cheap and commonplace are also extremely popular, and do not seem to do anybody any special harm. Where Dr. Hanson erred was in saying "If it's not curtailed we could become a nation of neurotics".

Dr. Hanson spoke of the United States. But as most of Canada's folk-culture comes from across the border, let us count ourselves in on the dispute.

The eminent musician's statement raises some interesting points. How does he know that we are not a nation of neurotics already? How does he propose to curtail popular music of any sort? Does he favour artistic dictatorships? We think that he has put himself in a position from which he will not be able to escape without loss of face.

Boogie woogie appears to us to be a perfectly understandable outcropping of our very peculiar age. At no time in history, perhaps, have nervous tension and nervous exhaustion been so widespread as they are today. The spirit of the age is admirably expressed in the devitalized, monotonous rhythms of boogie-woogie, and a society which is at the fag-end of endurance is still able to keep on jigging to its tuneless insistence. What is more, boogie finds its audience among the very young, and the young are always, in some degree, neurotic; balance, if it comes at all, comes with maturity.

Dr. Hanson really need not worry. Boogie-woogie is a symptom of the curious condition of our world at present, and it is very far from being the most alarming and distressing symptom. In a hundred years no doubt everything will be quite changed.

Death Of An Editor

Last month the Manchester Guardian lost its editor, Mr. W. P. Crozier, one of the ablest journalists of our time. The editor of the Guardian is probably second only to the editor of the Times in the influence which he wields and the seriousness with which his opinions are considered. W. P. Crozier was admirably fitted for his job by temperament and ability, and the great tradition which was established for his paper during the long editorship of C. P. Scott suffered nothing during his period of office.

This appreciation of him from the New Statesman is of interest:

"W. P. Crozier, who took over the editorship of the Manchester Guardian after the death of E. T. Scott, was a very able man, a terrific worker, solid, reliable, anonymous, indispensable. A newspaper lives on such men more than on the brilliant correspondents and famous columnists. Crozier had all the threads in his hands; he read carefully and critically what everyone else wrote in the paper and, when necessary, he could do most jobs better than anyone else. He was himself an admirable journalist; after he became editor I believe that, in addition to his other responsibiloties, he took to writing the main leaders on foreign affairs which meant, of course, a lot of reading, contacts with Cabinet Ministers, visits to London and all the rest of it. When he talked freely, which was not every day, he showed a range of knowledge beyond that which anyone would have thought compatible with so much executive responsibility. He had a sharp wit and a hatred of shams and injustice, which was much less obvious than C. P. Scott's, but not, I think, any less sincere. He was a Liberal by nature and training, a cautious man who believed in understatement and quiet persuasion. He once repeated to me with strong approval the dictum that the job of a Manchester Guardian 'leader' was to make 'Lancashire business-men think twice'".

Writing of the late C. P. Scott in J. L. Hammond's Life of the great editor, Crozier said: "He held the strictest views about the function of editor. For him, the Editor was the personality, directing, controlling, harmonising, which gave unity of purpose and character to the paper"; the same might have been said of W. P. Crozier.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Korean women wear hats three feet in diameter". Yes, we have noticed several of them at the movies.

Excavators in Nevada have discovered a skeleton with one foot in its mouth. Probably a prehistoric politician.

A naturalist says that bears contract arthritis. Hence the expression, "like a bear with a sore paw"?

Scotland reports a shortage of bagpipes. Better than a shortage of kilt, anyhow.

Says a headline: "Swedes Maintain Stand on Ball-Bearings". Is that what is called "a precarious position of neutrality"?

Australian Regionalism

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA: The belief that Australian policy stands for consolidation of the British Commonwealth, so sedulously fostered and widely believed by advocates of commonwealth centralism, has now been exploded since Mr. Curtin put his signature to the declaration issued by the dominions' prime ministers at the conclusion of their London conference. It was wrong to begin with and it created misunderstanding of the true position of Australia.

The Australians have done a great deal of thinking about their position in the British Commonwealth and in relation to the world, since theri narrow escape from national extinction in 1942. The trend of their present policy is clearly stated by Mr. Curtin and his able lieutenant, Dr. H. V. Evatt. Australia possesses a proportion of purple imperialists and self-abasing colonials. They, though their era went to pieces in the blood and heat of Singapore, have not changed their minds.

But the line of Australian thinking is clear, despite some contradictions, and it has been the job of Mr. Curtin and Dr. Evatt to translate it into policy. That policy might be called regional responsibility, and no substantial dissent from it exists inside Australia.

THE fledgling bird that is pushed from the nest probably feels first a sense of disaster and then, as it finds it can fly enough to save itself, a sense of relief and self-confidence. Australia had an experience like that. Early in 1942, Singapore was silent and two British battleships lay at the bottom of the China Sea, the last promise gone of quick British aid. Even American aid was a doubtful thing for a time, since Pearl Harbor was devastated and the Americans might not have held a line west of Hawaii.

As events proved, they did, and Australians held the line above Port Moresby in New Guinea. They recalled their forces from the Middle East to help hold Australia, and they have no regrets about that. Mr. Churchill said in London the other day that, by agreement, the Pacific was left to the Americans while Britain concentrated on Europe. But that was in March, 1942, after Singapore had fallen in February. There were reports at the time that Singapore would be turned over to the Americans, but the base fell while the U.S. fleet was still 4,000 miles away from it.

In December, speaking to the Australian Labor party, Mr. Curtin said: "The geographical position of Australia has determined her destiny to be that of a Pacific power." This is the key to the Australian attitude. Australia is a new fledgling power of the Pacific, and its leaders are engaged in seeking to assert that position. In these terms, the Curtin proposal for a permanent secretariat of the Imperial Conference, and his related proposal that the high commissioners in London should act as a standing sub-committee of the Imperial Conference, may be seen as devices to strengthen the prospect that Australia's voice shall be heard.

How far Australia will go in promoting its doctrine of regional responsibility cannot be foreseen. In writing about Australian policy from Canberra, in a despatch that appeared in the Winnipeg Free Press on Dec. 8, 1943, I wrote:

"Creation of a great zone of security in the Southwest Pacific, under Australian influence but in collaboration with other Pacific powers and within the framework of a world system of security, has become the major post-war objective of the Commonwealth of Australia."

I had written the words, "under Australian dominance," but the official censor changed it to "under Australian influence." Unconsciously, the censor pointed up precisely the element of doubt that existed in Australian policy, whether Australia should seek to dominate or merely influence its regional part of the world.

The words used by Dr. Evatt in the Australian parliament on Oct. 14, 1943, were:

"We feel that, because of our special geographical position and our growing responsibility and power, we can and should make a very special contribution towards the establishment and maintenance of the peace settlement in Southeast Asia and the Pacific."

He spoke of a "system of subordinate regional councils" within the framework of a world organization. The limits that he set in the words "Southeast Asia and the Pacific" will be seen, on reflection, to cover a great deal of territory. The Evatt speech went on to mention particular islands and territories in Australasia.

THIS is the policy that has been obscured in controversy over the permanent secretariat proposal. It represents new and challenging concepts of policy being evolved by a British dominion. A Canadian naturally seeks to translate it into Canadian terms to judge its meaning. Would Canada assume full regional responsibility for British interests within North America? So far, Canadian policy covers only Canadian interests. Canadian-American policy is clear and distinct from British-American policy, and it is neither desirable nor feasible to merge them.

Whether Australia's John Curtin and Dr. Evatt wish to merge British policy with Australian policy in the Pacific under the effective dominance of Australia is not clear. But the implication is there when Dr. Evatt says:

"We have been animated not merely by a resolution to defend Australia and its territories, but also a determination to maintain the prestige of the British Commonwealth in areas where Japanese military occupation and political infiltration have subjected the United Nations to tremendous risks."

What is obviously happening is that Australia is examining the new limits of its vital interests and it policy towards its own region of the world is hardening. Since the London conference, there is reason to expect that British and Australian policy will converge in the Pacific; but it will not follow the same pattern as existed before Singapore fell.

PROBLEM OF FUTURE

Under the Canadian treaty no Chinese, except those under a special category for temporary visits, will be admitted. This arrangement, of course, will be highly satisfactory to those of us who believe in total exclusion. However, it may not be acceptable to the Chinese as a permanent arrangement. It will have to stand comparison with the treatment accorded them by the United States in placing Chinese on the same basis as all other nationals and removing them from any special category of national inferiority. The Canadian treaty does not touch on the problem of nationalization. This must be faced some day if the Chinese who are now here are to be allowed to remain as permanent residents.—Victoria Times.

Blockade Running By The Axis

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

ONLY occasionally, and then briefly, does the story of blockade running by surface vessels from the Far East get into the press, and now that it is almost certainly at an end it is worth some examination. Both the Germans and the Japanese placed great value on it, but Allied naval and air patrols, with the ceaseless reconnaissance which helped them, have worked crushing losses in the ships available for this special task, and now have mastered it. According to reliable sources, in 1940-41 Vichy cargoes from French overseas possessions bound for France and thence to Germany were the biggest leak in the blockade, and one such traffic was of ships carrying rubber from Saigon. As British naval vessels on patrol increased in number this dwindled away, and the next to be dealt with—by the sinking of one vessel—was the traffic in mica, meat and other products from Madagascar to the same destination. The loss of Madagascar in 1942 ended any danger of recurrence, but of all the Vichy traffics, the most serious loss to the Germans came with the invasion of North Africa in the autumn of 1942. This stopped imports into Europe from North and West Africa, which had been carried on in small ships stealing across to the Mediterranean French ports.

Both in 1940 and 1941, the Germans made great efforts to get ships to Europe through the Atlantic patrols from South American countries. But as a result of the high rate of interceptions and sinking, and the improvement of indirect Allied economic control over South American trade, this Atlantic blockade running has ceased. Only small leakages still continue, and these are the result of smuggling by members of the crews of neutral vessels.

This leaves Japan as the only source to and from which blockade-running is now possible. The commodities which Germany needs most from the Far East are rubber, tin, vegetable oils, tungsten, resin and essences. Conversely, Japan's needs, apart from machine tools and special components such as ball-bearings, are mainly blue-prints and prototypes of tanks, airplanes and machinery that have been tried out in the European zone and found effective. If Japan could obtain these, she could probably put certain armaments into serial production within six months; without them she may have to spend anything up to four years on experimental building and testing, or cling to increasingly obsolescent types.

The tireless watch of the Allied patrol has done its work, and the results are officially summarized in the statement that, of the approximately thirty surface vessels which at one time or another in the last two years have been engaged in this inter-continental trade, less than ten remains, and many of these have been severely damaged. There has been a certain amount of submarine traffic, but here special factors enter. The bulk cargoes Germany requires demand U-boats of large model; the Japanese need for blue-prints can be more easily satisfied. Germany, therefore, has less to gain, for when the extra ballast and some of the armaments and tubes of a submarine have been removed, the capacity of the vessel is only about 150-200 tons. Yet if a regular traffic could be maintained, appreciable quantities of wolfram could be transported, and this would be immensely valuable. On the Japanese side, the carrying not only of blue-prints from Germany, but of service and technical experts to Germany for consultation, makes the traffic almost indispensable. It must be assumed that this form of blockade running will be continued at all costs, therefore, in view of the failure of surface vessels to get through.

Fateful Waters

It is only a very small stretch of water, a ditch, as Cromwell called it, and as many have called it since. Yet its uneven shores hold the most fateful waters of the world. Recently storms have been showing once more how high and how rough these waters can run. But even in calm there is hidden treachery in their tugging currents, their strong tides, their high sand bars and their sudden depths.

History, too, presides over these waters to deepen their fatefulness. They were the crossing-place of Caesar, of William Duke of Normandy, of William of Orange and Van Tromp's Dutch fleet. These waters were eyed by Napoleon as he rode with his staff along the sands at Boulogne, and they bore the battered ship that brought the dead Nelson home. Over these waters, too, passed eight million fighting men through the four years of another war.

Now, as over these waters the tension of the world gathers, there is a strange immediacy to Matthew Arnold's lines on Dover Beach. Though written in another age and with another purpose, they sense the silence that precedes an inevitable destiny.

The sea is calm tonight.
The tide is full, the moon lies fair
Upon the straits:—on the French coast the light
Gleams and is gone; the cliffs of England stand,
Glimmering and vast, out in the tranquil bay...
Listen; you hear the grating roar
Of pebbles which the waves draw back, and fling,
At their return, up the high strand,
Begin, and cease, and then again begin,
With tremulous cadence slow...

This same calm, which again lies over the Channel, may mark the unheeding passiveness of nature before the greatest storm of human history.—Montreal Gazette.

African Farm

The farm at Njoro was endless, but it was no farm at all until my father made it. He made it out of nothing and out of everything — the things of which all farms are made. He made it out of forest and bush, rocks, new earth, sun, and torrents of warm rain. He made it out of labour and out of patience.

He was no farmer. He bought the land because it was cheap and fertile, and because East Africa was new and you could feel the future of it under your feet.

It looked like this at first: It was a broad stretch of land, part of it open valley, but most of it roofed with the heads of high trees—cedar, ebony, mahogo, teak, and bamboo — and their trunks were snared in miles of creeping plants. The creeping plants rose to heights of twelve and fifteen feet and, from the ground, you never saw the tops of the trees until they fell from the blows of axes and were dragged away by teams of oxen handled by Dutchmen with whips that cracked all day....

My father bought two old steam engines and anchored them to make power for a grist mill. It was as if there had never been a grist mill anywhere, as if all the maize in the world waited to be ground and all the wheat ever grown needed only to be made into flour.

You could stand on a hill and look down on the dirt-track road that went to Kampi ya Moto, where the maize was so tall that the tallest man seemed like a child when he walked in it, and you could see a ribbon of wagons, each drawn by sixteen oxen, coming loaded with grain to the farm. Sometimes the wagons followed so close upon one another that the ribbon seemed motionless. But at the entrance to the mill, you could see that it almost never stopped.

The mill never stopped, and the crew of Kavirondo who unloaded the heavy bags and reloaded them again, the coarse grain ground smooth and yellow, moved from dawn until dark, and sometimes after dark, like the lesser members of a great ballet set to the music of steam and turning millstones.—From "West With the Night," by Beryl Markham.

TOO INFLEXIBLE

A reader of the Province, an ex-soldier who has served Canada overseas in two wars, writes this newspaper in protest because his mother, aged 83, born in Canada of Canadian-born parents and grandparents, is refused the old age pension. The old lady, it seems, resided in California between 1927 and 1933 and that circumstance disqualifies her. The act requires that a pensioner shall have resided in Canada for the past 20 years.—Vancouver Province.

DEMAND FOR REFORM

New forms of government are being advocated from time to time. What is needed in this and every other country, however, is not so much radical and revolutionary innovations to tear down existing institutions and put new ones in their places, but rather a serious and determined effort on the part of public men to carry out the highest ideals provided by present forms of government.—Chatham News.

A GRAVE DANGER

The Alberta Department of Lands and Mines has issued a statement recently warning against the danger of forest fires in this Spring of abnormally low moisture. The warning is timely, and it is to be hoped it will be heeded.

Some time ago the Herald warned farmers and ranchers against the danger of grass and stubble fires this spring. Great damage could be done by fires getting out of control.—Lethbridge Herald.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL

A Vancouver apartment dweller whose janitor refuses to co-operate about garbage disposal reports a rather neat solution to his problem. Every day he wraps his household garbage into an attractive parcel and drives down town where he leaves it prominently displayed on the back seat of his parked and unlocked car. Invariably when he returns the package has been stolen. All he hopes is that some disillusioned thief doesn't return and swipe the car.—Maclean's Magazine.

FISH STORY

Another wonder finding a place in the daily despatches is recorded from a Quebec village, the hero being a fisherman who must have hard work making his friends believe his good luck. He said he was dipping water out of a stream, when a fine, big trout just hurried out from a mossy shade and swam into his pail. It is not known whether his friends believed his tale, but being that the fisherman is reputable citizen, it has to be accepted, since he had a fish to prove his statements and the fish showed no signs of a hook upon it.—Chatham News.

PROFIT IN GOLF

We have recently received two fancy bits of promotional matter, complete with coloured charts, diagrams and pictures of snappily dressed super-efficient-looking young business men, portrayed in the act of running a golf club as a "business for profit," to which questionable purpose these handsome brochures are dedicated and issued, notwithstanding the paper shortage.

The sponsor of this heresy is "The American Golf Foundation," an organization, which in turn, seems to be sponsored by a United States firm of efficiency experts.—Hamilton Spectator.

PREFER

Mr. Coldwell is reported at Port Arthur, Ontario, as stating that only three per cent of the people of British Columbia enjoy an optimum diet. This, of course, is due to the wretched capitalist system, in the opinion of the C.C.F. But, in fact, if only three per cent of the people of British Columbia enjoy optimum diet it is because most of them don't want it. Today British Columbia is as prosperous as any considerable area of the world's surface has ever been at any time in history. A small minority of our people are still poor and unable to buy the things they need, but a vast majority can eat all they want and the kind of food they want. However, many of them prefer to spend their money on other things, on gasoline, for example, and on liquor.—Vancouver Sun.

Says Democracy Not Safe Now

TESSIER, Sask., June 1—(CP)—E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. leader of the opposition in the Ontario Legislature, said in an address here last night democracy "is not safe" in the hands of the Liberal party.

In both Saskatchewan and Ontario the Liberals extended the life of the Legislature beyond the normal term. "There was no excuse for it in Ontario where the Liberals went down to crushing defeat," he said. "That was what they deserve when they play fast and loose with the democratic rights of the people."

Mr. Jolliffe asserted the Liberals have lost touch with the people and that the Liberals had not held a National convention since 1919. The C.C.F. has regular conventions so that the rank and file control the policy of the party, he added.

Speaking in support of John T. Douglas, C.C.F. candidate in Rosetown constituency for the Saskatchewan general election June 15, Mr. Jolliffe said Co-operatives of the farmers must gain more recognition by governments.

YPU Ball Team Plans Schedule

MILLBROOK, June 1 — (ENS)—The citizenship department was in charge of the Young People's Union Monday evening, with Bruce Ingham taking the topic, and giving a practical talk on the importance of choosing the right vocation in life.

What disappointment and failure may result from trying to fit the individual into a calling for which inclination and ability are lacking, was vividly portrayed, and illustrations of the success and happiness which attends a right choice were drawn from the lives of General Montgomery, David Livingstone, and others. At the close a discussion brought out individual experiences and opinions and was of great practical value.

Mrs. Franklin Bannister, citizenship convener, led in worship period, her talk stressing the supreme importance of the dedication of life and talents to Christian service. Miss Betty Lunn read the lesson and the leader closed the period with prayer.

The president, Miss Jean Fisher, took charge for the business during with an animated discussion on the ball teams which the society has organized took place. Miss Mary Sanderson and Bertram Bell are captains of the two teams, and the young folk are anxious to arrange games with other young people's societies of the district. Also they hope to have a game for the day of the annual spring fair, June 9, at the agricultural grounds, if possible.

Mr. Muspratt has kindly offered the use of his field, Anne street, for the practice games, and Monday's meeting was the final one indoors for the current season, the other now to be held out of doors wherever the ball teams are playing.

Presbytery President To Address Meeting

SPRINGVILLE, June 1—(ENS)—Mrs. Perry Neals was hostess to the W.M.S. for their May meeting. Quiet music was played by Mrs. Bothwell and the president, Mrs. Bernard Preston, read a poem on "Mother" in opening the meeting.

Mrs. Allie Bidgood had charge of the worship service, reading the scripture lesson from Matthew I. This was followed by a paper on the responsibility of motherhood. Joy Preston contributed a solo "My Mother's Prayer." Readings entitled "A Fellow's Mother," "Mother's Day" and "Mother" were given respectively by Mrs. Rowan, Mrs. Everson and Mrs. Cathcart.

The June meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Murray's group and will be held at the home of Mrs. Harold Cathcart. The Society will have as its guest, Mrs. F. Harris, president of the Peterborough W.M.S. Presbytery.

Mrs. G. Whitfield's group had charge of the study book and chapter IV, "The Grace of Living Together" was studied in detail.

The churches' program for christianizing the homes in China, India and Africa was dealt with. Those taking part in this discussion were Mrs. Dunford, Mrs. Kimbal, Mrs. Keik, Mrs. Cooke, Mrs. Bidgood, Mrs. Staples, Miss Schaeffer and Mrs. Bothwell.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Respecting further restrictions in the sale of Spirituous Liquors in the Province of Ontario

IT has become necessary to reduce again the amount of spirits which can be purchased by individual permit holders in the Province of Ontario. This is something over which the Liquor Control Board of Ontario has no discretionary authority. Under P.C. 11374 the Dominion Government limited the amount of spirits which could be obtained for sale in the Province of Ontario to 70 percent of the amount obtained from November 1st, 1941, to October 31st, 1942. That means that by the order of the Dominion Government there became available in Ontario for annual sale 1,153,594 gallons of proof spirits.

It is a problem in simple arithmetic.

All that the Board can do is to adjust the quantity available to holders of permits so that the total amount procurable for sale under the Dominion Government Order P.C. 11374 can be distributed throughout the whole year. Due to the increase in the number of permits, and the extent to which the permit holders are purchasing spirits each month, it now becomes necessary to reduce the amount which can be purchased by individual permit holders or there will be no spirits available for sale during the closing months of the present year. The following table shows in simple form exactly what has been taking place:

| | Number of Permits outstanding at month end | Monthly ration | Aggregate to fill monthly ration |
|---|---|---|---|
| January, 1943 | 155,295 | 160 oz. | 108,702 proof gals. |
| January, 1944 | 1,227,459 | 26 oz. | 139,623 proof gals. |
| March, 1944 | 1,282,938 | 26 oz. | 145,934 proof gals. |

A recent survey of the sales for the present year and the amount still available under the limits imposed by the Dominion Government make it necessary to limit purchases on the following basis as of the first of June.

FROM THE FIRST OF JUNE UNTIL THE END OF THE PRESENT OPERATING YEAR EACH PERMIT HOLDER WILL BE PERMITTED TO PURCHASE ONE BOTTLE (25 or 26 ounce) OF SPIRITS EVERY TWO MONTHS OR TWO HALF-BOTTLES, WHEN AVAILABLE.

Frisch Credited With Building Cards' Infield

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP). — Manager Frankie Frisch of the hustling Pirates should be happy as a lark with laryngitis to learn he is responsible, in roundabout fashion, for the envied Cardinals' sparkling infield play.

Such is the case. Emil Matthew Verban, the "Croatian Comet" who scintillates around the Cardinals' second sack, confessed all.

Verban is the dynamic rookie from the Columbus club who removed worry wrinkles from Pilot Southworth's brow, temporarily at least, when he proved a bang-up keystone replacement for Lou Klein now in the Coastguard. Before the season opened, second base was Southworth's biggest problem.

Removed Keystone Worries.

Now Southworth says "If there has been any feature to our play this season, I would say it's Verban's work at second. Although only a fair hitter, he's a fine fielder—can go to his right or left like a flash; and he's great on double plays. He's certainly a key man in our infield."

But what's the connection with Frankie Frisch?

Slender, brown-haired Verban explained the connection from a hotel lobby chair. He said: "I'm 25 now; but when I was in High School at Lincoln, Ill.—where I was born—Frisch was my idol. He was playing with the Cardinals then. Because of his fame and my admiration for him, I decided to become a second baseman. I read everything I could about him, and listened in on the radio when he was playing. I tried to pattern my play after him.

Picked Right Man.

"My brothers, Matt and Steve, were pretty good semi-pro players. They read the Sporting News. I'd go through every issue, looking for pieces about Frisch. Of course, I'd go through the daily papers, too. I was lucky to pick the right man for an idol; the longer I play the more I realize what a really great second baseman Frankie was."

SOX WHIPS YANKS—Trapped, but, like the sprightly rabbit, Ralph Hodgins of White Sox scampers safely back to first when caught between first and second by Nick Etten, No. 5, Yanks' first sacker, and Keystoner George Stirnweiss. This was one of the frustrations that led to the defeat of New York Yankees 4 to 3 at Comiskey Park, Chicago.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

With well on to half of the total membership of our club in attendance President P. Moore officially opened the lawn bowling season on Wednesday night. Speaking before 125 bowlers (men and women) he thanked all who had worked so hard for the organization and he said that although the season was a week later than usual in opening, he hoped that all would soon make us for lost time.

Ken Sloane, chairman of the membership committee, introduced the new members and urged that all old bowlers be ever ready to help and encourage them.

In the absence of Chaplain Dr. George Easton R. A. Downey spoke of the loss the club had sustained with thqe passing of James Baird, S. Archibald and Elmer Frost and asked them to pay their respect by standing with bowed heads for one minute.

To-night the scheduled games get under way in earnest.

On Friday night at 7.30 p.m. the first week-end tournament is to be held. It is for men's rinks. Draw from the board and all other details the same as other years.

St. Paul's Triumph By Big Score

Two homers by McNaught, outfielder for St. Paul's, featured a juvenile Church League game last night in which the Saints defeated Murray Street 20 to 9.

It was a heavy-hitting affair with the winners scoring in every innings but the first. The teams:

St. Paul's: Brown, p; Doughty, c; Turner, 3b; McNaught, cf; J. Brown, 2b; Hall, rf; Poule, rf; Barrett, 1b.

Murray Street: Borland, Grant, H. Graham, W. Graham, Matthews, Dallin, Brown.

METEOROLOGY ADVANCE

Scientists say that the war has condensed 50 years of normal development in the technique of weather forecasting into two or three years.

Westclox Juniors Snatch Victory

Westclox second team has evidently absorbed the faculty long held by Westclox seniors of being able to come up with a late rally to snatch a game out of the fire.

The Baby Bens demonstrated that faculty last night in their debut in the Girls' Softball League race when they came from behind to defeat Quakers, another new entry, 4 to 3.

The Quakers were leading 3 to 2 when the Westclockers went to bat in the 8th inning but the ultimate winners chased in two runs and grabbed off their first win.

The two teams, made up of girls who have had no experience in organized softball staged an interesting battle. It was close all the way.

Westclox started the scoring by getting a run in the third and they added another in the fourth to go in front 2 to 0. They held that margin until the sixth when the Quakers rallied, sent two runs over and tied up the game. When the Cereal Belles registered a single counter in the seventh to take the lead for the first time they looked like winners but the Westclockers wiped out that one-run margin by their up-rising in the 8th.

Westclox: M. Dunford, 3b; A. McIvor, p; J. Nice, c; R. O'Heron, 1b; B. Moore, lf; M. Miles, lf; D. Johnston, 2b; L. Storey, ss; M. Miller, rf; F. Hanwell, cf; J. Rome, cf.

Quakers: McIvor, ss; Gandy, 2b; Brown, rf; Laing, 3b; Masters, p; White, c; Crane, cf; Williams lf; O'Heron, 1b; Thomson.

St. John's Bantams Smother St. Paul's

The bantam teams from St. Paul's and St. John's played a league game at the Oval Wednesday night, St. John's winning 19 to 4.

The teams:

St. Paul's: R. Johnston, Beals, Brown, Powers, Howard Johnston, A. Howard, Hill, Montgomery, Delahaye.

St. John's: Thompson, Patterson, Burrows, Wyatt, Van Allan, Swanston, Cutmore, Wyatt, Langhorne.

LONDON, June 1 — (CP) — The United States was described as "alarmingly unready to deal with her post-war problems" in an article today by George Thomas, industrial correspondent of the Labor Party organ, The Daily Herald. # SPORTS-Day by Day

The final game for this week in the City League schedule will bring Switchgear and the Military Training Centre team together at Riverside Park at 6.45 o'clock. The league-leaders will be gunning for their fourth straight win while on the other hand the Soldiers will be striving to get out of their losing streak and start along the victory trail. From the camp comes the word that there will be a few changes in the Soldier lineup that is expected to strengthen the club both offensively and defensively and that the Training Centre club hopes to break into the win column at the expense of the leaders. Aiken may do the throwing for the Soldiers while Switchgear who have worked three pitchers in turn to win their first three starts will undoubtedly select Ronnie Akers to do the tossing for them tonight. This will be the last game of the week and the next fixture in the league schedule is carded for Monday night when the Plazas and Switchgear teams will meet in their second battle of the season. The leadership of the loop will be at stake when the two rivals clash and the affair should draw the biggest crowd of the campaign.

The Girls' Softball League offers a game tonight that should give the customers plenty of good ball. It is a clash between Johnson Motors who opened the season with a cleanout win over Lock Works and played fine ball at bat and in the field to turn the trick, and Aircraft who was nosed out by Westclox in the opening game of the season. The Johnson Motors team has improved to a degree that indicates that the young outfit may prove tough opposition for the rest of the league. They have rounded out into a well-balanced club. Helen Mark will probably be called upon to do the pitching for the Marines in this argument while Marg Selkirk will do the gunning for Aircraft with Annette DeCarlo behind the bat. The game is called for 6.45 o'clock. Friday night two of the younger teams in the loop, Quakers and Lock Works will supply the excitement. Both teams will have a number of changes since their opening games and it looks as if this should be an even battle all the way. There are no games scheduled in the Men's League for Friday night so the Lock Works-Quaker clash will have the stage to itself.

Draw Up A Chair, Mike

The sports writers of this end of Ontario are delighted to welcome into their midst no less a celebrity than Michael J. Rodden, widely known hockey referee, football coach and sports authority who has accepted the post of sports editor of the Kingston Whig-Standard and whose first column appeared Tuesday. The veteran Toronto writer and sports expert will be a welcome addition to the ranks of Eastern Ontario sports commentators. "Mike" Rodden is of course well-known here, not only for his work as former sports editor of the Globe but more particularly for the number of times he refereed games in which Peterborough hockey teams were concerned. When the Petes won the Ontario senior honors against London two decades ago Rodden officiated in many of their engagements and used to have many kidding matches with Biffer Ranger for whom he had a lot of respect. It was Mike who was instrumental in getting Ace Bailey into the N.H.L. Peterborough also remembers Michael, although not perhaps so affectionately, as the coach of a U.T.S. football squad that gave the Peterborough Collegiate team an artistic shellacking.

"Undoubtedly one of the most interesting characters in major league baseball circles this year is Dixie Walker," says Doug Vaughan in the Windsor Star. "Walker is no youngster. He stuck his nose up over the major league horizon for the first time away back in 1933 when the New York Yankees brought him up from Newark of the International League. While with the Yanks, Walker suffered a shoulder injury that threatened to end his baseball career. He couldn't throw a ball 50 yards, let alone measure up to the throwing standards of a major league outfielder. But Dixie wanted to continue as a ball player. He was willing to take any chance, so he submitted to an operation. The doctors did quite a job of hemstitching—with wire—but the operation was a success and Dixie was saved for baseball. The Yanks finally let him go and the Chicago White Sox acquired him. From the White Sox he drifted to the Detroit Tigers. He didn't do badly with the Tigers, but they had a number of younger and more promising stars they wanted to try, so they, too, cut him adrift. That was how Dixie came to land with the Brooklyn Dodgers and become one of the most popular players of recent years in the hearts of those unpredictable Flatbush fans."

It's Stopped Now

Max Lanier, ace left-hander of the St. Louis Cards will not have to wait for the result of that interrupted game to see whether or not his 1944 victory parade has been stopped. It's stopped now anyway for the Boston Braves attended to that little chore yesterday, beating the Cards 5 to 1. Lanier and his teammates happened to run into Barrett when that flinger was feeling right and the result was a clean-cut win for the Braves. Another feature of yesterday's baseball card was the fact that the Detroit Tigers made it three straight over the New York Yanks beating the champs 5 to 2. Overmire and Orrell did the pitching for the winners while Dubiel absorbed the loss, thanks to pitching a home-run ball with the bases full. Lefty Judd, Ingersoll's contribution to the Boston Red Sox was driven to the showers by the Cleveland Indians who eventually went on to win 7 to 4 with Kennedy getting the credit.

* * * * * *

St. Louis Browns whose early season success was termed by many sports writers as just one of those things are showing a disposition to resent the intimation that they are merely morning glories. The Brownies in short refuse to be shaken off and today finds them in a first place tie with the New York Yanks by reason of New York's third defeat in a row at the hands of the Tigers and the Browns' eleventh-inning victory over the Senators. It was the third win in succession over Washington and the St. Louis battlers had to come from behind. They were down 3 to 1 when they went to bat in the last of the ninth but they shot two runs across then to tie the score and they eked out a 4 to 3 win with an unearned marker in the 11th. Incidentally it was the first victory of the year for Al Hollingsworth who went in as a relief hurler in the ninth. The Philadelphia A's had a 2 to 0 lead over the Chicago White Sox after three innings when rain rubbed out the game. Christopher on the hilltop for the A's had retired nine Pale Hose in a row when came the deluge.

One of the real pioneers of baseball, John W. McKelvey, 96, died at Rochester, N.Y., yesterday. He was credited with being one of the first to solve the trick of pitching a curve but later became an infielder, playing his last regular season with the New Haven, Conn., team in 1875.

Bing Crosby's track at Del Mar, near San Diego, Calif., yesterday received a permit from the California Racing Board to conduct a 36-day meeting from July 1 to Aug. 19, subject to the approval of U.S. Army authorities. Crosby has been refused a license because of the wartime transportation problem.

In a servicewomen's track meet at Montreal last night, Cpl. Thelma Gersiman of Regina, representing the women's division, R.C.A.F., won the 60-yard dash in 7.1 seconds, only one-tenth of a second slower than the Canadian record held by Mrs. J. L. McGowan of Montreal.

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association has issued a call, through Secretary Frank Feaver at Hamilton, for membership applications from local associations to which players' certificates will be sent. Players are required to sign up before the first league games.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 1 (AP)—Organized baseball might do well to take a leaf from pro football's book and establish a "draft" of college baseball (particularly his Yale team), though he's somewhat better known as a great third baseman with the Yankees....Red recently suggested a national championship tournament as a post-war shot-in-the-arm for college baseball in the United States and he is keenly interested in forming an association of coaches for the betterment of the game....To round out his idea, he proposes that pro baseball should let the athletes alone until they finish college and then the clubs could select the ones they wanted by some orderly process.

Personal example:

"Take my own case," said Red. "I was approached by a major league club in my sophomore year. But I preferred to finish my education and it certainly didn't hurt me any. When I graduated six clubs made me offers and I got a lot better bonus than I would have if I had signed with the first one that heard of me."....Incidentally, the first bidder was the Yankees.

Rolfe visions the time when colleges, playing an improved brand of baseball, will be the feeders to the big leagues.

Plazas Defeat St. Peter's; Stokoe Pitches

Plazas came up with a new pitcher, Frank Stokoe, to stop St. Peter's with a neat five-hit effort last night and the former 4th Battery outfit took over undisputed possession of second place, half a game behind Switchgear, by beating the Saints 7 to 4.

Stokoe, who showed a nice turn of speed and a good change of pace, allowed but five singles, gave only one base on balls and with more alert fielding behind him would have yielded only one run. Three of the Saints' four counters were unearned.

Gene Reynolds went the route for the losers and was touched up for 14 hits, including five doubles, but he was steady and Plazas left a lot of ducks on the pond.

There was some flashy fielding during the engagement. Pryde and Blewett had nice catches in the

Orioles Realize Embree A Find Defeat Chiefs 2-1

By The Associated Press

It appears the Baltimore Orioles got a big break in landing Charlie (Red) Embree.

Embree, a big winner in the Eastern League two years ago, where he set a league strikeout record, couldn't get going with the Cleveland Indians in the American League, and Ed was optioned to the Orioles on 24-hour recall.

Added to his 3-1 victory over the Newark Bears last Sunday, when he struck out 11 men in seven innings, Red won another masterfully-pitched game last night, defeating the Syracuse Chiefs, 2-1. His nine strikeouts give him a total of 20 in 16 innings. As in his first game, he allowed only six hits.

For the Chiefs, it was their eighth loss in succession and dug them deeper in seventh place in the standings.

In the only other game, the last-place Newark Bear snapped Jersey City's winning streak at six straight by defeating the Jaycees, 10-4. The defeat dropped the Junior Giants into a tie with the idle Buffalo Bisons for first place.

Eddie Miller Gets Good Start

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Eddie Miller of the Cincinnati Reds, baseball's leading shortstop for the past four years, appears on his way to become the best-fielding shortstop of all time.

The 27-year-old native of Pittsburgh seems destined to better his own fielding record of .983, established in 1942 when he made only 13 errors while tackling 748 chances in 142 games.

Including the game played May 31, Miller has accepted 205 chances in 37 games with only one error for a phenomenal fielding mark of .995.

If Miller continues to pace the short-fielders this year, he will tie Joe Tinker in leading the National league shortstops for five years. Miller's however, will be in succession, whereas the best Tinker could do was two straight years.

Florida Races Boost State Treasury

MIAMI, Fla., June 1 — (AP). — A record-breaker from the start, Florida's first $100,000,000 racing season has ended with the State Treasury $6,824,268 richer.

In 6½ months, bettors poured $109,561,969 into the parimutuel machines at horse and dog tracks and the Jai Alai front.

The total topped by far the previous record betting of $68,280,202 in the 1940-41 season. It represented a striking comeback from the low of $26,658,646 last year when the pleasure-driving ban caused a suspension of horse racing after only 15 days.

Attendance was off from the high of 2,695,464 in 1940-41 to 2,458,933.

In 100 days of horse racing at Hialeah and Tropical Parks, the betting aggregated $56,445,063.

There were 792 dog racing programs, during which 1,539,232 spectators bet $50,614,142.

Ninety nights of Jai Alai brought out an attendance of 199,593 and betting of $2,612,764.

TORONTO, June 1 — (CP). — With justifiable civic pride, Capt. George Wardrope, Port Arthur statistician, advances the claim that the Lakehead city has the finest senior hockey record of any city in Canada. The Ports have won the Thunder Bay title 19 times since 1924, have been Western champions eight times since 1925, and have brought home the Allan Cup four times in that period. They were finalists again this year, bowing to the powerful Quebec Aces.

That's quite a record for sustained playing ability all right, although both Toronto and Winnipeg have the Lakeheaders beaten in cup wins, Toronto with seven and the 'Peg with eight. Winnipeg set quite a wicked pace in the early days of cup play, scoring six wins and being runner-up three times up to 1920, when their dynasty began to crumble.

Kicking around:

Chiming in again about football, plans seem quite up in the air at present for the Ontario season this fall. At latest reports no bids have been made for dates at Varsity Stadium in Toronto, which ordinarily was partly hooked up shortly after the season ended.

Some meetings have been held, but everyone seems to be waiting to see just what the war will bring forth. At any rate, under new service edicts, the R.C.A.F. and the Army, and possibly Navy, will be able to play only in service leagues. They were backbone of the game around this neck of the woods last fall. Hamilton Wildcats, the Dominion champs, haven't as yet shown any signs of life for the coming year either.

Incidentally:

With an itch for the game that never dies, the "old timers" baseball group in Toronto has offered to help out the minor teams by supplying coaches and umpires for the youngsters this season. . . Moose Jaw Royals damsels showed plenty of form in a recent softball game at Regina, but unfortunately it was not the right kind for the diamond. The lassies perpetrated a record number of 14 errors to absorb their first loss in six games. . . . H. C. Hatch's tripping trio of King's Platers, Acara, Ompalo, and Sayonara, will be shipped to Winnipeg for the Canadian Derby on July 1. Rival owners are hoping the Western air will slow the three down just a trifle. . . Reading of Jack McConnell who has seen 23 World Series to come second only to Joe Page of Montreal in classic viewing. Bill (Niagara Falls Review) Gaynon recalls he also has seen 23 series. He started in 1921 and hasn't missed since.

Hollywood and HERE

By HYE BOSSIN

Danny Kaye, the screen's new comedy sensation in "Let's Face It," is already working on his next, "Wonder Man." In this he plays a grown up quiz kid — perfect casting, as you will agree if you saw his first film. . . . A while back there was a complaint that the troops overseas were being sent old films. So far 65 prints of the grand Bing Crosby-Barry Fitzgerald picture, "Going My Way," have been shipped overseas — and there have been just a few showings of it on this side . . . It Had To Be note: Maria Montez will star in "The Return of the Sheik."

Hollywood stars who take their chances with the troops overseas and come to Canada without cost to boost our war effort were shown scant appreciation in the House of Commons by James Sinclair, member for Vancouver North.

"If people have to be persuaded to buy Victory Bonds," said Mr. Sinclair, "perhaps it is better that we use men . . . who have fought actual battles in the air over Germany, rather than painted actors and actresses who fight their battles on the screen or in divorce courts."

So many stars have disappeared from the screen into the services and so many actors and actresses visit the battle fronts or meet requests to boost the war effort by their presence that the studios are having a hard time. Stars get $5,000 per week and more. They either go off salary on these trips or the studios bear the cost. And in most cases they are very gracious as far as we are concerned, since Canada is neither a war front nor their own country.

As for divorce, the ratio per thousand marriages is really not much higher in Hollywood, where separate careers interfere with domesticity, than it is elsewhere, where it doesn't.

Mr. Sinclair certainly isn't speaking for the rest of us.

They say that Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, the screen tough guy, was bitten by a horse—so he punched the horse on the snoot. I hope the horse kicked him over the fence . . . Canada has an organization called the Moving Picture Pioneers, to which membership is restricted unless the applicant has been in the business 25 years. It now has 300 members, an indication of the fact that motion pictures began here a week after they were introduced in the USA. Canadian-born players, directors and producers are many in Hollywood.

Sacrifice: Grace Moore will sing "Mairzy Doats" for the boys overseas. A current quiz question is "What do the letters MD, DD and LLD mean after peoples' names?" The answer usually is Medical Doctor, Doctor of Divinity and Doctor of Law. The reply is "Mairzy Doats and Doesy Doats and Little Lamzy Divy" . . . Garry Moore, Jimmy Durante's radio partner, will be the screen's newest comedian . . . Hedy Lamarr burned her ears with the solution used to clean her earrings . . . Eddie Cantor, who discovered Canada's Deanna Durbin and Dinah Shore, celebrated his 35th year in show business with the swell film, "Show Business."

Walt Disney's newest will be "Swing Street," featuring the music of Benny Goodman . . . Ingrid Bergman has a great role coming up, that of Sarah Bernhardt, the famous actress. . . . The wardrobe girls are happy that Irene Manning, who starred in "The Desert Song," won't sing in her next film, "Make Your Own Bed." Miss Manning has a five inch chest expansion and when she reaches for a high one the buttons pop. . . . Lou Lehr asked a friend: "Who introduced you to your wife?" "Oh, we just met," was the reply. "I don't blame anybody."

Hollingsworth Steers Browns Into Top Spot

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

Four rookie pitchers celebrated their first big league victories today but the biggest thrill went to Al Hollingsworth, 34-year-old veteran of 17 baseball campaigns, who graduated into the 1944 win column by boosting the St. Louis Browns into a first-place tie with the New York Yankees.

Hollingsworth's relief chore went on the right side of the ledger when the Brownies scored two runs in the ninth to tie Washington and went on to a 4-3 verdict in 11 night innings.

Forrest Orrell engineered Detroit's third straight over New York, 6-2, in a relief role as Pinch-Hitter Al Unser belted Walt Dubiel for a bases-loaded home run with two out in the last of the ninth. Orrell, bought from Portland last year, was credited with his first win the big show.

Specs Klieman of the Cleveland Indians also passed the test in the role of a fireman, getting his first major league triumph after replacing Vern Kennedy in Cleveland's 7-4 edge over Boston.

Calvin Coolidge McLish, 18-year-old rookie, made the grade for Brooklyn after two losing efforts by turning back Pittsburgh with five hits for an 8-4 win. Dixie Walker boosted his bulging average to .436 on a double and two singles.

Frank Seward of the New York Giants was the fourth member of the I-won-my-first-one class as he survived a wobbly first inning to beat Chicago, 85. Nap Reyes dug himself in at third base with two home runs and a single that drove in six Giant runs.

Max Lanier's six-game winning streak went by the boards as Boston pounded out a 5-1 edge behind Red Barrett.

Ron Northey emerged from a hitting slump to single home Jimmy Wasdell with the telling run as Charley Schanz hurled the Phils to a 5-4 nod over Cincinnati.

The Philadelphia-Chicago game in the American was rained out after three innings with the A's leading 2-0.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Al Unser, Tigers—Delivered pinch hit homer with bases loaded to sink Yankees, 6-2.

Nap Reyes, Giants—Sparked New York attack with two home runs and single, accounting for six runs as Giants stretch streak to five on 8-5 triumph over Chicago.

Max Macon, Braves—Poled homer with Connie Ryan on base in first inning as Boston snapped Max Lanier's string at six, 5-1.

Calvin McLish, Dodgers — Won first major league game by limiting Pittsburgh to five hits in 8-4 edge.

2 Lindsay Boys In Hospital On Italian Front

LINDSAY, June 1 — (ENS). — Two Lindsay boys with the Canadian Army fighting in Italy have been reported wounded, one seriously ill.

Cpl. Thomas Madill, who has been in the Army for four years, has been twice wounded while in Italy. He is a son of Thomas Madill, a member of the Veterans' Guard now stationed at Niagara. Thomas, Jr., is a graduate of Lindsay Collegiate Institute, and was employed on the Canadian National Railway, when he enlisted. He was wounded in the first invasion on Italy, and following that received stripes as a corporal.

Thomas Madill, Sr., a veteran of the last Great War, was married when in Scotland, and his son, Cpl. Madill, was anlso recently married while in Scotland, and in the same town. Word of the young soldier being wounded was received by Mrs. John Madill, 76 Albert Street South, his grandmother, with whom the young soldier lived for many years.

Seriously Ill.

The other young Lindsay soldier to be reported wounded is Gnr. Aleck McLaren Kingsborough, a son of James Kingsborough, 51 Melbourne Street. The first telegram received on Saturday reported the young gunner as being wounded in action, while the second message on Sunday reported him to be seriously ill.

Gnr. Kingsborough, a graduate of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute, was a member of the Midland Reservists in Lindsay when he enlisted. He received his training in Kingston and Woodstock, and went overseas in April, 1940. He accompanied the Canadian Army to Sicily and has been in all the Italian campaign to date. Two air mail letters were received from Gnr. Kingsborough recently, one dated May 10, and one dated May 21 (the latter being posted two days before the young gunner was wounded).

In these letters Gnr. Kingsborough reported playing baseball on a "real good team," with Tommy Cook, also of Lindsay, as the star pitcher. He also tells of seeing Merwyn Wood of Lindsay, Les Fanning of Lindsay, and Ivan Thurston of Dunsford. Gnr. Kingsborough also writes of his hopes of seeing his brother Thomas Kingsborough, who is with the Dental Corps in Italy.

Gnr. Kingsborough is a radio operator with an artillery unit.

Gnr. Kingsborough's uncle is Pte. Evan Ruck, of the Toronto Irish, who was recently awarded the Military Medal for "extraordinary meritorious action," the first member of the Toronto Irish to receive a medal.

Tanks of a Western regiment encountered a cluster of enemy resistance near Torrice east of Frosinone Tuesday, and knocked out two Tigers and three Mark IV's in a joust that was unusual at the present stage.

It was strictly unorthodox, but Cpl. Chris McCall of Montreal, of an Eastern armored unit, is still the captor of six German prisoners.

McCall was brewing a cup of tea a few days ago somewhere behind the front. He climbed into a tank to get something and was forced to turn the turret to get at it. The gun swung around and pointed at what turned out to be a German dugout. The first that McCall knew about it was when Tr. Pete Foley of Winnipeg shouted "Hey, Chris, look at the Jerries!"

The menacing gun had brought them out muttering "kamerad."

district yesterday where one huge fire has been raging, and the blaze was being held in check. Elsewhere, too, the situation was said to be improved.

Rain Helps

While the Minister said a big fire in Boyd Township, Algonquin Park, was being held in check following rain, reports from Pembroke, Ont., were to the effect that the rain there was light and the blaze still was uncontrolled last night.

The third big fire in Ontario is in the Gowganda-Elk Lake area, covering 70,000 acres in 10 townships.

In British Columbia where fires have been burning for several weeks, a new 2,000-acre outbreak was reported at Cluculz Lake, 35 air miles west of Prince George. Fears were expressed last night that the fire was getting out of control.

New fires broke out late yesterday in bushland across the northwest arm of Halifax harbor and hundreds of servicemen and civilians were trying to divert the flames from their homes and Fleming Memorial park.

A fire was raging on a three-mile front near the New Brunswick border in Nova Scotia's cumberland country.

ed to increase his defensive forces in the Valmontone area to keep Highway 6 open for German remnants fleeing from the southern battle sectors. It was officially announced that the Allies made some gains in that area despite the stubborn resistance.

The enemy stepped up the pace of his retreat out of the mountain area where the 5th Army's French troops have been moving northward from the Pontine marsh area.

French units marched northward from Carpineto and the last Nazi defenders fled from the Lepini hills, which had been a bulwark guarding the Via Casilina from the south. Other French units advanced four miles and occupied the village of Patricia, 6½ miles southwest of Frosinnoe, and Monte Pisciarella, the same distance southwest of Ferentina.

"French troops are maintaining contact with German rearguard detachments falling back toward Valmontone and Avezzano, where it is deemed almost certain that a defensive stand will be made," an official announcement said.

Eighth Army troops occupied the town of Sora, northeast of Frosinone and 13 miles up Highway 82 from its junction with Highway 6 at Arce. Sora fell to a column of New Zealanders driving toward Avezzano, 24 miles beyond.

British forces also overran the towns of Ripi, four miles southeast of Frosinone, and Torrice, two miles to the east—both north of Highway 6.

San Giovanni, four miles northwest of Arce, was taken as the 8th Army mopped up the last enemy positions near the junction of the Liri and Sacco rivers.

Two American destroyers supported the British operations on the 5th Army's left flank yesterday, bombarding enemy positions in the beach area and north of Ardea.

By night German aircraft made attacks on Allied supply lines, but the largest of these involved only six planes.

Rail Targets

the German foray and only slight damage was caused.

The Air Ministry's report on the big French coast bombardment said simply a "number of military objectives were attacked." This operation began just before midnight and was crammed into 15 minutes, with relays of bombers passing each other going and coming. "Hell let loose," an English coast observer said.

So accurate was the bombing at Trappes that the first barrage knocked on the ground flare indicators and the Pathfinders had to swoop in again and drop another set.

All three rail yards had been attacked before. Trappes was one of the first targets when the campaign against continental railroads started. With the great damage done to the Creil yards on the other side of Paris, rail facilities around the former French capital undoubtedly are at a low ebb.

The operations yesterday provided a thunderous finale for the month of May, which saw Allied planes fly a record-breaking 148,000 sorties.

United States bombers and their fighter escorts flying from British bases destroyed 886 enemy aircraft during the month. This was a record, the previous high monthly kill being 784 in October, 1943. total of 287 American heavy bombers and 133 fighters were lost in May. The latter exceeded by seven the previous all-time high of 146 lost in April.

Heavy bombers of the U.S. 8th Air Force made 12,000 individual sorties during the past month and fighters of the 8th and 9th Air Forces made 16,000 additional sorties in escorting them.

R.A.F. heavy bombers were estimated to have flown 10,000 sorties from Britain, losing 263 planes. Additional thousands of sorties were flown by tactical planes of the Allied Expeditionary Air Force.

While the record of the Mediterranean Air Force's activities last month are not complete here, it is known to have flown more than 45,000 sorties with all types of planes, losing at least 171 and destroying at least 176 Nazi aircraft.

VOL. LXXXIX, No. 129 — THURSDAY, JUNE 1 — PAGE NINE

BOUGHT BY WAR SAVINGS STAMPS—The school children of Victoria and Haliburton counties have purchased sufficient War Savings Stamps to buy a Hurricane for the R.C.A.F. Twenty-five thousand dollars has been raised, and in recognition they will receive an honor plaque on June 7 in Fenelon Falls.

School Children To Present Plane

In Victoria and Haliburton on June 7th. all roads lead to Fenelon Falls where, according to Dan McQuarrie, Lindsay 20,000 persons including 6,000 children are expected to picnic and watch the presentation of the plaque. The children raised $25,000 and in their honor an operational Hurricane fighter, of the general type previously made at the Canadian Car and Foundry plant at Fort William, will be named "Victoria and Haliburton". Ingenuity in these gas-less times will be needed to get the people there but, as Mr. McQuarrie said, "If the children can do their job, so can we." By proclamation, June 7th. has been declared a holiday throughtout the two counties.

The children will rally at Fenelon Falls at 1.30 and, headed by the 38-piece Trenton Air Station bugle band and by Canadian Legion veterans of the last war, bearing their colors will parade to the picnic grounds. Each class in the two-mile parade will carry banners. Chairman will be T. H. Stinson, K. C., Lindsay, chairman of the Victory Loan Committee. Assisting by Messrs. Stouffer, R. F. Downey and Colin Lees, school inspectors for Haliburton East Victoria and West Victoria respectively.

Main Street Topics

HORTICULTURIST TO SPEAK

John A. Smith of the Peterborough Horticultural Society will be guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon Friday noon. He is to speak on the subject of flowers.

VITAL STATISTICS

There were 74 births in the city in May, exactly the same number as in the same month last year. The number of marriages was 34 and deaths 30. In May, 1943, marriages were 28 and there were 37 deaths.

BELIEVED IN SUB BATTLE

Three Peterborough boys are believed to have taken part in the sinking of a U-boat in the Atlantic recently. Stkr. Les. Ascott is thought to be on the frigate St. Catharines; Leading Supply Officer James White on the corvette H.M.C.S. Fennel; and Coder R. W. Parnell of H.M.C.S. St. Catharines.

BLOOD DONORS.

Donors at the Clinic Wednesday numbered 75, with 31 representing the C.G.E. and Genelco. Employees came from the plants of Nashua Paper Co., Canadian Sealright, De Laval, Peterborough Lock Co., Outboard Marine, Quaker Oats and Brinton Carpet Co. An 11th donation was made by Arne Erikson of the C.G.E.

PLANE SOARING

With the end of the campaign to purchase a Hurricane plane in view school pupils are working hard to complete their allotments. At Queen Mary School, the big plane attached to the "scoreboard" outside, is soaring towards the top as the students have raised $1,300 of their $1,500 total. The drive will continue until the end of June.

GRADUATES AT AIR STATION

Graduating today as a navigator at No. 1 Air Observers' School, Malton, is Sgt. R. J. McCormack, 298 King street

HELP RED CROSS.

Students of Miss Marguerite Rome recently held their annual recital, the proceeds of which they used to help the Red Crosz. The donation totalled $12.

REPAIRING CITY STREETS

Much in evidence on city streets today, particularly in the vicinity of the business district, were the roadmen of the Board of Works, engaged in patching and filling holes.

BANK CLEARINGS.

The secretary of the Peterborough Clearing House announced to-day that the bank clearings for the past week totalled $1,135,537, and for the month of May $5,114,929.

AIRMAN MISSING

A Port Hope flier, FO. William Keith Raby, is among those missing on active service after air operations overseas, the 897th casualty list of the R.C.A.F. revealed today. His wife lives at 18 William street, Port Hope.

BINGO WINNERS.

The winners of the five dollar War Savings Certificates drawn at the Canadian Legion bingo Wednesday night in aid of the Bomber Fund are as follows: Mrs. Margaret Ralph, 4 Knox Street; Laura Storey, 294 Mark Street; Beverly Cooney, 234 Murray tSreet.

SOLDIER IMPROVES.

Pte. Ken Masters, who was invalided home a week ago from Italy, is reported to be improving His father, John Masters, 163 Rink Street, has been visiting him at the Kingston Military Hospital, and found that he was able to get around on crutches. This soldier was wounded in the battle for Ortona when a bullet struck his knee. He lay where he fell for more than eight hours before R.C.A.M.C. bearers could make their way to him in the darkness

7 Lakefield Boys Get Suspended Sentence

Suspended sentences running from one to five year were imposed by Magistrate E. A. Gee in juvenile court this morning on seven Lakefield boys who pleaded guilty to charges of stealing from Lakefield stores and three to breaking and entering the refreshment both at Gilchrist Park and stealing $25 worth of fishing tackle.

The charges, fifteen in all, were laid following an investigation by Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield and cleared up a series of thefts that have worried village merchants for some time. The youthful offenders had carried on shoplifting to a surprising degree and a large amount of merchandise had disappeared from the stores.

The refreshment booth had been entered by shooting off the lock with a rifle.

Chief Samis recovered a large proportion of the stolen goods.

Supports Gardiner

STRATHROY, Ont., June 1 (CP)—Mitchell F. Hepburn, former Ontario Premier and now independent Liberal member of the provincial legislature for Elgin, yesterday endorsed the demand of Agriculture Minister Gardiner for increased hog production in Canada. Mr. Hepburn was addressing several hundred horse breeders and farmers at the opening of the ninth annual Perth County Horse Show and Commercial Swine Show here.

Firemen Rescue Young Girl In House Fire

Fire which is believed to have got its start from a defective electrical fixture damaged this morning the front downstairs room of the residence of William T. Fanjoy, 627 Homewood avenue, filled the entire house with dense smoke and intense heat, and compelled the rescue by ladder from a second-story bedroom of a boarder who was sleeping in the house when the fire started.

The boarder is Miss Audrey Harrison, a night-shift worker at the C. G. E., who was the occupant of the house at the time. She was carried down from the smoke-filled upper story by Firemen Foster, Gimblett and Barrie. Firemen had first been forced to break into the locked house, and by this time heat and smoke had converted the air in the house into a suffocating mass; and Chief Gimblett, attempting to mount the stairs to get to Miss Harrison's aid, was forced to turn back. A ladder was then placed to the bedroom window in the rear of the house, and the young girl brought to safety. Uninjured by her experience but suffering somewhat from the shock, she was taken to a neighbour's house down the street.

The fire got its start around ten o'clock, and it was Mrs. H. B. McGinnis, 632 Homewood avenue, who fortunately spotted the smoke and flames across the street shortly after the fire began. She immediately put in a call to the department and firemen arrived in time to quell the blaze before major damage could be done.

The front part of the livingroom, floor and walls, were seared by the flames; a chesterfield couch was completely demolished and other furnishings damaged to a lesser extent; while the heat was so severe that it broke panes of glass in the windows. However, no other rooms were damaged, though smoke penetrated to every corner of the house.

None of the Fanjoy family were in the house when the fire started, Mr. Fanjoy, C. G. E. engineer, being at the plant and Mrs. Fanjoy on Hospital Aid service. Their son was at school.

No Cuffs Allowed On Cottons, Rayons

According to manufacturers there appears to be a general impression among retailers that the recent amendment to the Fine Clothing Order A-207 allowing cuffs on trousers applies equally to cotton and rayon summer sports trousers. Such is not the case.

The amendment to A-207 applies only to wool fabrics in either odd sports slacks or suits trousers. All trousers other than wool are regulated by the Work Clothing Administration under Order A-593, which is still in effect and states in part:

"Men's dress pants made of cotton, rayon, tropical or fibre material—not more than four pockets—one watch pocket, two side pockets and one hip pocket (right side). Elimination are: cuffs, pleats, high English back, top pockets of any description, flaps on back pockets, tabs on back pockets, back or side straps, French fly, tunnel loops, welt, raised or lap seams, zippers or dome fasteners on pockets, extension waistbands."

Though the order specifically mentions tropical worsteds, such fabrics are not wool as in tropical worsted suitings regulated by the Fine Clothing Administration. Tropical suits therefore come under order A-207 regulating wool goods but any fabric designated as tropical but not made of wool is regulated by order A-593.

Crops Good

TORONTO, June 1.—(CP).—Crop conditions in Ontario were described to-day as "exceptionally favorable" by J. D. McLeod, director of the crops, seeds and weeds branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The weather has been good for growth and germination and all crops are far advanced over a year ago. He added that the quality of the seed used this year was exceptionally good.

Otonabee Temp. Sets New High

Bathers will be happy in the announcement from Official Weather Observer James Harrison that the temperature of the water in the Otonabee stood at 70 degrees yesterday, the warmest at this time of the year that has been recorded since 1922, which is as far back as the official data goes.

The highest temperature recorded during the month was 86 on May 31st, and the lowest was 30 degrees on the 19th. The average mean temperature for the month was 59.5, the highest in ten years, and the official records do not go back any further than that.

The total precipitation was 1.89 inches, a mark that is a little lower than the average for the month.

Chimney Cleaner Fined On 2 Counts

Pierce Butler declared in police court this morning that Toronto detectives had told him that it was all right for him to do chimney sweeping without a license so long as he did not employ any helpers.

That explanation, however, failed to avert fine of $1 and $1 costs imposed by Magistrate E. A. Gee after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of having cleaned a chimney on the premises of the Peterborough Printing Company without the necessary license.

Butler, despite a plea of not guilty, was also convicted of having been drunk, after the evidence of Officer John stevenson, who arrested the accused, and Inspector Reid, who had seen him in the police station afterwards, had been heard.

Officer Stevenson said that there had been complaints that Butler had represented himself as a fireman and had gone into a number of stores and notified the proprietors that a chimney-cleaning job was required.

Butler in giving evidence complained to Magistrate Gee that he had been refused beer at two different Peterborough hotels. He said he was not drunk when arrested the other day.

Magistrate Gee, however, registered a conviction and fined the accused $10 and costs.

Hears Claims

MONTREAL, June 1—(CP)—Mr. Justice Orville S. Tyndale, special commissioner appointed to hear claims for damages resulting from the crash of a Liberator bomber in the Griffintown area, April 25, yesterday heard 10 claims although many claimants failed to appear to support their demands.

More Gardens

TORONTO, June 1. — (CP).—There are about 15 per cent more victory gardens in Ontario this year than last, it was estimated to-day by George Rush, Ontario Department of Agriculture vegetable specialist. He said much of the increase is in areas adjacent to towns and cities with many residents taking over tracts of land outside city limits for gardening purposes.

War—4 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press)

JUNE 1, 1940—Gen. Gort, commander of British forces in Europe, returned to Britain from Flanders as evacuation from Dunkerque continued. Germans and French battled fiercely on the Somme. Italy called up 10,000 non-commissioned officers.

Ward Questioned By Mounted Police

John Ward, 29, of 621 Water street, was remanded for a week when he appeared before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning on a charge of having failed to notify the divisional registrar of a change of address, despite the fact that he come within the class eligible for military service.

In asking for the remand, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., said that there was a suspicion that the accused had been evading a military call-up and the authorities wanted to investigate the matter.

Later in the morning Ward was questioned by R.C.M.P. officers.

Game Association Places Fish Fry

The Peterborough Fish and Game Association recently placed a large amount of pickerel in the Kawartha Lakes and watering places around the city. The amount left at the various locations is as follows:

Pickerel: Katchewanooka, 400,000; Clear Lake, 400,000; Stoney Lake, 400,000; Buckhorn, 400,000; Lovesick, 400,000; Pigeon at Gannons Narrows, 400,000; Chemong, 400,000; Deer Bay, 200,000; Otonabee, $1,000,000 (on the Otonabee they were placed below Nassau, the Water Works, and Auburn Dam); Little Lake, 200,000.

Building Figures Increase For Month

Upward building trends in the city are recognizable in the latest figures from the City Engineer's Office for the month of May and for the year to date. Permits for the past month totalled 63, valued at $56,155; and total value of construction activity since the beginning of the year has mounted to $114,998.

Comparable figures for the same periods in 1943 show 40 permits with a value of $35,982 in May and for that year from Jan. 1 to May 31 a total value of $60,649.

The breakdown of May figures is as follows: May, 1944—7 garages, $3,369; 7 dwellings, $33,325; 49 miscellaneous, $18,981. May, 1943, three garages, $373; 7 dwellings, $28,300, and 30 miscellaneous, $7,319.

Killed in Storm

TORONTO, June 1—(CP)—John Gardhouse, 62, farmer of Concession 7 at nearby Halton, was instantly killed last night when struck by a bolt of lightning while driving his cows home from pasture. His body was found in a ditch following a search.

Pool-Room Proprietor Faces Charge In Court

"This boy was in uniform and it is hard telling ages when men are in uniform," said Louis Yeotes in police court this morning in facing a charge that he had allowed a boy under 18 years of age to frequent his pool room.

"I understood that soldiers in uniform, no matter what their age, can go into beverage rooms and are served beer without any questions asked. Billiards is a game of skill and we do not even ask them to play. They can sit around without playing if they like," Yeotes told the court.

"I am informed," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., "that Mr. Yeotes has been warned on a number of occasions by the police about boys frequenting his pool-room and there has been no improvement in conditions in spite of the warnings."

The Crown Attorney's suggestion of a week's adjournment to see how the situation would look then was acted on by Magistrate Gee.

Milk For Britain Passes $15,000

J. A. Macdonald, treasurer of the Milk for Britain Fund announces receiving $100 from the Students' Council of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School, and $2.00 from Mrs. William Shannon, a regular monthly contributor to the fund.

With these two donations the fund goes over the $15,000 mark which means that 150,000 quarts of milk will have been provided by this city and district for the children of Great Britain.

The Kinsmen organization is shipping every quart of milk available in Canada, and the contributions made by the public aid the clubs raise the necessary funds to purchase this milk.

Obituary

MRS. KEITH S. WIGHTMAN.

The death occurred at her home, 210 Geraldine Avenue, Wednesday, of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Wightman, the wife of Public School Inspector Keith S. Wightman. She had been in ill-health for some time.

Born near Owen Sound, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John James Stinson, she lived at Woodford as a girl before coming to Peterborough 27 years ago. She was a member of St. John's Anglican Church. Surviving, besides husband, are a son, Major K. J. R. Wightman, who is with the 12th Canadian General Hospital overseas, and a sister, Mrs. Leslie Morrison of Falconbridge.

The remains are resting at the late residence, and the funeral will take place on Friday at 2:30 p.m. from St. John's Church, with Canon W. P. Robertson officiating. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

Box At Empress Again Repeats For War Victims

When the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund was first organised, two important main principles were laid down, which after a long lapse of time could very well stand reiteration, for they have in the past played an important part in the success that has so far attended this particular effort of the residents of the city and district to help along the war effort.

It cannot be over emphasised that the fund belongs to the people of this city and district, and as such represents their expression of sympathy with those people in the British Isles whom the misfortunes of war have afflicted, and it was a faith in the goodness of the people hereabouts that prompted those responsible for its inception, to undertake the task of organization, later events proving how justified they were in doing so.

Both of the main principles of operating the fund on a daily basis, and that of sending every cent contributed without any deduction for necessary expenses to the Lord Mayor of London, have been rigidly adhered to ever since the fund began to operate, and when one considers that this has been going on day in and day out for almost three and a half years, it should surely prove that those behind the movement have given a great deal of time and work without stint so as to be worthy of the support that would be given to it.

Steady Workers Greatly Assist

One of the big reasons why it has been able to continue on this daily basis, may really be laid in part to the fact that it has had a number of very steady supporters, whose unflagging interest has been very much evidenced in a continuous stream of gifts that are really a credit to themselves, and react to give a favourable impression of strength of character to the whole community.

Among these, what has been noted on many occasions as the penny box at the Empress Hotel is an outstanding example, for the proprietor there never misses a day but what he drops his daily quota into the box, this in itself alone being responsible for over $90.00 on an annual basis, with much more being added on occasion to further the work of the fund.

It was on May 12 that this box was last reported with a gift of $12.75, and now again to-day it reappears with another one amounting to $8.05, and this is no isolated instance, for this same thing has been going on for well over three years now on the same steady basis, which causes the writer to be extremely thankful that such genuine helpfulness is back behind the movement for good in which he endeavors to give leadership in the name of the people of this city and district.

Then to double emphasize the steady help that some have given to the fund, Mrs. William Shannon brought in her monthly contribution of $3.00, which this time is given "In memory of WO.1 Victor L. Boyd, who was killed over Malta in May of 1943, for whom it is a worthy act on her part, for no finer remembrance could be made to cherish the memory of such a gallant one who laid down his own life that others might have all of those things with freedom, that make life worth living.

Passes Available To Tour Corvette

Arrangements have been completed to afford Peterborough people preference in visiting the corvette H.M.C.S. "Peterborough" at Cobourg on Sunday, by the printing of special visitors' passes which are now available at several stores in the city free of charge.

It was thought that a great many people attending the dedication ceremony would want to get on to the boat, and because of this perhaps, many Peterborough people would be frozen out. To avoid such an eventuality, these special passes were printed, and every person holding a pass will be given preference over other visitors trying to go aboard.

Alderman Adam Sands, representing the City Council on the Corvette Committee reported today the tickets are at McLeod's Drug Store, Elliott's Drug Store, Borland's Drug Store in Ashburnham, Miller's Drug Store, Dinty's Inn, Dick Raine's, Jack Coit's and Harrison's store. They are absolutely free for the asking.

Gets Promotion

OTTAWA, June 1—(CP)—Brig. Gen. John B. White of Montreal, Commander of the Canadian Forestry Corps, has been promoted to the rank of Major-General and will retire shortly from the Canadian Active Force after a long career, the Defence Dpartment announced last night.

WOUNDED IN ITALY—Pte. Orville H. Robbins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Robbins, 655 Park Street, was wounded in Italy on May 23. The young soldier has been with the H. and P.E. Regiment since the middle of February. Prior to enlisting he worked as a guide at Lake Baptiste, and his wife and two children live in Bancroft.

P.C.V.S. Pupils Give $1,300 For War Work

Cheques totalling $1,300, money raised by students of the Peterborough Collegiate for their War Objective Fund, were given out to the Navy League and various charitable organizations at a presentation at this morning's assembly in the auditorium. Mayor Hamilton was present for the ceremony.

The Navy League was the recipient of a cheque for $800, presented to Percy Moore; and $100 was given to each of the following war charities—the Red Cross, represented by Mrs. Reg. Turner; Chinese War Relief, Hum Hoy; Greek War Relief, Georgina Demos, who is a Collegiate student; Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund, Mrs. H. C. Southeren and Mrs. T. J. Carley; and the Milk for Britain Fund, Kinsmen president Art Lewis.

This is the second time such presentation have been made this year, $300 having been given out on a previous occasion to the British War Victims' Fund and a piano contributed to the equipment which will be supplied the corvette "Peterborough." Altogether some $1,800 was raised by the students this year.

A similar achievement was accomplished in the two previous school years, when a like sum of money was raised and donated to different charitable, wartime institutions. In the first year of the War Objective Fund a mobile kitchen, whose purchase price is $1,200, was given to the city of Peterborough, England; and the next year another such kitchen was presented to the Seamen's Institute in Liverpool. In addition, $100 cheques were given in each year to six local charities.

Camera Club Planning Fall Exhibit Of Work

The Peterborough Camera Club held a business and social evening at their regular meeting in the Y.M.C.A. The first part of the evening was spent putting the finishing touches on hte Fall Exhibit, which is being sponsored by the club. The exhibit is to be held in September, and all amateur photographers are invited to submit mounted prints. Entry forms and rules will be published at a later date.

The second half of the evening was spent in the Little Theatre, where Gil Downer, a member of the club, showed some color movies he had taken around the Peterborough district and as far north as North Bay. Most of the scenes were taken in the fall of the year, giving a great contrast of color.

The next meeting of the Camera Club, will be June 13, at 8 o'clock, Y.M.C.A.

Canadian Fliers Smash Trains Surprise Nazis

LONDON, June 1—(CP Cable)—Canadian units of the British 2nd Tactical Air Force, sharing in the pre-invasion pounding of key military targets, battered bridges, wireless stations nad other objectives in France, Belgium and the Netherlands yesterday.

The force's rocket-carrying and bomb-carrying Typhoons demolished military buildings southeast of Boulogne, a barracks near Dieppe and a large wireless station near Ault.

Spitfires under Wing Cmdr. George Keefer, Charlottetown, hammered six military trains and a barge in Holland and Belgium and other Canadian airmen, flying with medium bomber squadrons, helped to attack a bridge over the Seine just north of Paris.

The wireless station near Ault was struck by Canadian-manned bomb-carrying Typhoons. They pounded the dust-clouded debris until the station just tumbled. They were led by an R.A.F. wing commander.

"The attack surprised the Jerries," said FO. Ross Reid, Toronto. "We flew over as if we were bound inland and suddenly circled and dived at the target."

Other Canadians on this raid included FO. Ross McCurdy, Haileybury, Ont.

Two military trains near Ghent were shared by Flt. Lt. W. S. Johnson, Belleville, Ont., and FO. R. R. Bouskill, Toronto. Johnson then went on to strafe a canal barge.

Canadians flying among the medium bomber crews included Sgt. N. H. Spagnolett, Merritton, Ont.

Strong Appeal Made To Ontario For Farm Helpers

TORONTO, May 31 — (CP) — Alex. Maclaren, director of the Ontario Farm Service Force, today appealed to all cities and towns in the province to organize farm commando committees to assist in harvesting farm crops.

In accompanying announcements, Mr. Maclaren said also there is an immediate need for both High School boys and girls for work both in farm service camps and on selected individual farms.

Crop prospects in Ontario this year are excellent, said Mr. Maclaren in his appeal for organization of the Farm Commando committees which arrange for volunteer workers to take part in haying and harvesting. Immediate action is necessary to have the organization ready when haying starts, he added, explaining that agricultural representatives or the department will assist in setting up committees.

Only 1,550 girls have registered for farm service work compared with 3,067 by May 31 in 1943, said another announcement. Unless there is an increase in registrations it may not be possible to open four additional camps for girls—at Simcoe, Huttonville, Waterford and Clovelly—which are scheduled to begin operations about June 15. High School principals are asked to urge their pupils to assist in this work.

Camps for boys at Burlington, Leamington and Harrow are in full swing, Mr. Maclaren reported. There are about 240 boys in the three camps and an additional 450 to 500 High School students have been placed on individual farms. Boys are still needed for camps at Holland Marsh, Blenheim, Harrow and Flamborough.

Rev. Dr. Harold Young Is Host To Conference

TORONTO, June 1—(Special to Peterborough Examiner.) — The twentieth annual sessions of the Toronto Conference of the United Church of Canada opened here last night in St. Paul's Avenue Road United church and will continue until Friday evening. Because of the acceleration of theological courses which graduated the 1944 class last fall there will be no Ordination service until the 1945 class graduates at the end of the present summer session at Emmanuel College. Dr. W. Harold Young, minister of the Conference Church, is host to the delegates and Rev. Dr. W. J. Johnston of Eglington United Church, as ex-president, conducted the opening services and Communion because of the death of the President. Dr Richard Davidson, last week. Dr. Young is a former minister of George Street United church.

Of Interest to Women

BASIC INTEREST—The busier the woman, the more she has come to rely on the good basic dress to keep her looking smart no matter what event or occasion the day may bring. Lucille Manners, favorite radio soprano, is a great believer in the go-everywhere basic dress but she likes the type of model that can stand on its own merits when it isn't all done up with accessories. This one is of navy blue crepe and features a triangle effect in peplum. Navy faille for the collar, for the side fastening and for the peplum.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, June 2

A MODERATE degree of success in finance, credit, business and professional advancement is foreseen from the predominant astral configurations. There may be enscouragement for expansive and ambitious moves toward attaining cherished goals, in both business and private affairs. Sound judgment toward working out such objectives may circumvent certain threatening or tricky or peculiar circumstances. Keep alert and poised in singular situations, business, socially or romantically. Refrain from overdoing in any direction.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of accomplishment and gratification in all its relations, if they concentrate their unique talents and high ambitions upon sound and worthy objectives. There may be influential support for original and practical plans, although there may be treacherous or envious situations to deal with, by vigilance, keen insight and definite constructive ability, to put over large propositions. Personal prestige and popularity may win good will and practical assistance for promotional enterprises. Curb inclinations toward extravagance, of funds and energies as well.

A child born on this day may have original talents and exalted ambitions, thereby enhancing its prestige and popularity.

TO LIVE HAPPILY DON'T ARGUE
As Long As Peace Dove Hovers Over Home Domestic Machinery Will Run Smoothly.

TO ALL bridal couples I would say: If you want to be happy though married, don't argue. Arguments have estranged more loving hearts, broken up more homes, orphaned more children, and done more to swell the divorce court records than all the glamour girls and boys in the world, aided and abetted by the seven deadly sins.

As long as a couple yes-yes each other the dove of peace hovers over their home, whether it be a castle or a hovel. Agreement is the oil that makes the domestic machinery work smoothly and prevents those nasty jars that wake so many husbands and wives up from love's young dream and makes them wonder why they were dumb enough to pick out mates who were so stupid that they didn't see eye to eye with them.

Why the argument, and why the arguer must forever remain among the mysteries of human behavior, since it is a matter of common knowledge that no argument ever changes anyone's personal point of view, and that there is no other individual who is such a bore and from whom we flee in such terror and haste as we do a chronic arguer. As a steady companion with whom we had to live any of us would prefer the vilest criminal to a worthy man or woman with the perpetual debating complex.

The people whose society we enjoy and whom we grapple to us with hooks of steel are those congenial souls who either have the same tastes and likes and dislikes and opinions that we have, or else who have enough magnanimity to let us enjoy our own views in peace. If this is true of friendship in general, it is doubly true of the domestic relationship, and it is strange that husbands and wives do not realize that the success of their marriage depends upon their keeping silent on the subjects on which they differ.

You can trace almost all of the tragedies of marriage to the arguing habit. It is what makes home life so dull that it is a little foretaste of purgatory, for when husbands and wives find out that they are married to arguers to whom they cannot even mention the state of the weather without starting something, they take refuge in silence, feeling that it is better to yawn than to fight.

Most divorces begin in arguments over nothing at all. Then they pass into quarrels. Then into criminations and recriminations and reflections upon each other's mentality, and before you can say scat they have dragged in each other's families and are rattling the skeletons in the closet, and everything is over except dividing the children and the silver. There is no such thing as an amiable argument. In an argument every word is a fighting word.

So I urge every young couple who are getting married to make a solemn oath, and keep it, not to argue. Let each other's politics and religion and tastes be taboo, unless you agree. If John asserts that the moon is made of green cheese, don't trot out scientific data to the contrary. Just murmur: "Isn't it wonderful to think of it?" If Mary is addicted to crazy hats, just tell her how pretty she looks. And it will save you tears and the price of a new one. But arguments never get you anything except into trouble.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Below you will, I hope, find some different ways of serving meat that will appeal to you and your family. The first one I am going to give you is a stew and this stew, with a light dessert, will make a meal for a family, and one they will enjoy too.

Shamrock Stew.

1½ pounds stewing beef, flour seasoned with salt and pepper and dry mustard, 3 tablespoons finely flavored dripping, boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup each sliced carrots, sliced onions, diced turnip and 1 inch pieces celery, biscuit dough. Wipe stewing beef and cut into cubes, dredge with seasoned flour. Make the dripping hot, add the meat and brown on all sides. Cover with boiling water and simmer gently, covered, until meat is almost tender, about 1½ hours. Add salt, carrots, onions, turnip, and celery, cover and cook until meat and vegetables are tender. In the meantime roll baking powder biscuit dough to about 1-3 inch thickness and cut in tiny shamrock shapes, arrange on greased cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven. Thicken stew with a little flour, blended in cold water. Stir and cook until thickened, then pour out on a heated platter. Decorate with freshly baked shamrock biscuits, and for a green touch, a few pieces of fresh parsley. Makes a wonderful dinner.

Chicken Pot Pie.

One large chicken, cold water, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, biscuit dough. Cut and joint the chicken, cover with cold water and boil gently until tender. Season with salt and pepper, and thicken the gravy with flour, mixed smooth with butter. Have ready nice light biscuit dough, roll about ½ inch thick, cut with a small cutter and drop into the boiling gravy. Put the cover on the pot closely, so that none of the steam escapes and do not allow to cease boiling until the biscuits are done and ready to serve, about half an hour. To make the biscuit dough: 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, ⅝ cup milk. Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening, add liquid to make a soft dough. Toss on a floured board and pat out. With this pot-pie serve carrots, peas and baked apples.

MOB CAP MILLINERY—White pique for hats and matching gloves is a fashion feature that is cited by several eminent designers. Lilly Dache crashes through with some very attractive numbers again, including this appealing wrap-around affair that stems from the 18th century mob cap. It is edged with rickrack that frames the face and is shirred into fullness in back. A core at the back serves as a drawstring and ties around the head for neatness.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE: We used to be told that spinach was indispensable especially to our children. Consequently I have learned several methods of preparing it and our whole family like it—I think, as a consequence. I am sending you my two best methods of preparing it and think it deserves a place under the best wartime recipe column for the ways I am giving could be served alone as a luncheon dish if soup preceded it.

Spinach, India Style

(Contributed by Mrs. Ford Howard)

Two pounds spinach, 1 tablespoon bacon fat, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon curry powder, 1 cup milk, salt and pepper, 3 hard-cooked eggs. Wash spinach very well, cook and drain (I cook it in the water that clings to the leaves, turning it over twice in the first two minutes); make a cream sauce of the butter, flour, and milk stiring. Add seasonings. Arrange the spinach in a serving dish and slice the eggs over the top. Pour hot sauce over all and serve at once.

Spinach and Eggs Au Gratin

(Contributed by Mrs. Ford Howard)

Two pounds spinach, 4 hardcooked eggs sliced, 1 cup diced celery, 1½ cups cheese sauce, 1½ cups buttered crumbs. Wash and cook spinach. Arrange half of spinach in buttered casserole then a layer of hard cooked eggs and a layer of celery. Cover with half of sauce and repeat until ingredients are used. Cover with buttered crumbs. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 400 deg. F. for about 20 minutes.

These are good for us and taste good. Nuff sed.

FAVORITE FASHION FORMULA—The short-sleeved, nicely detailed print frock worn with light or dark accessories is a favorite Spring and Summer choice for the busy careerist who wants to look smart but not over-dressed through the day. Evelyn, the attractice and efficient concertmistress of Spitalny's All-Girl Orch., is especially addicted to this type of outfit. With a neat navy and white flowered print with deep neckline and deftly molded bodice, she wears hat and gloves of white pique, navy shoes and bag.

Refreshments were served at the close. Mrs. Crane is the former Mae Webster.

Bride Entertained By Many Friends

Mrs. Frank J. McNulty, nee Marnie Sheehy, was entertained several times by her friends, prior to her marriage. Mrs. F. P. McNulty entertained about 75 guests at the tea hour recently, when the guest of honor was presented with a silver and pyrex pie plate. The tea table was decorated with white roses, a miniature bride and groom, and white wedding bells, for the occasion. Mrs. J. Kelly Sheehy, mother of the bride, Mrs. W. S. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Frank Hickey and Mrs. Vincent Sullivan poured tea.

Miss Grace Smyth, 258 King street, Oshawa, was hostess at a kitchen shower given by members of the payroll office of the General Motors where Mrs. McNulty was formerly employed. All gifts were in red and white enamel and were wrapped in pink and white paper and placed under a showering can. Mrs. J. Kelly Sheehy and Mrs. Roland Hunter poured tea when refreshments were served after a social evening.

Each guest to attend the tea given recently by Miss Doreen Sheehy was asked to bring her favorite recipe. These were then put in a recipe book and presented to the bride-elect, in addition to an oil painting. Miss Doreen Wells, Downie street, was hostess for a miscellaneous shower given by members of the upstairs office of the Outboard Marine, where Mrs. McNulty is now employed. In addition to the miscellaneous gifts presented to the guest of honor in a basket decorated in pink and white, the office staff presented her with a Duncan Fyfe coffee table.

The new bride received several dainty cups and saucers at the cup and saucer shower given in her honor by Miss Vivian Sullivan. The tea table was charming with a miniature bride and groom surrounded with heather and an open umbrella, made of pink paper, was suspended above the table.

Shower Given For Leona Lang

LIFFORD LINE, June 1.—(ENS).—Mrs. Cephas Staples and Mrs. Lawrence Staples were joint hostesses for a shower this week for Miss Leona Lang elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Les Lang, Lifford Line, whose marriage took place at St. Mary's church, Lifford, to-day.

A large group, including those from Fleetwood, Bethany, Omemee and Lifford gathered at the farm home of the Staples during the late afternoon and enjoyed a pleasant social time. A seat was arranged on the beautiful lawns for the guest of honour. Streamers of pink and white were the predominating feature in the decorative scheme, towering above the bride's chair to the overhanging boughs of the green tree above. Little Nancy Lowery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Lowery attired in the costume of a June bride, drew a decorated wagon load of gaily wrapped gifts before the bridal chair. A large basket of gifts was also presented.

Mrs. Gibson Lowery read an address, voicing the appreciation of those present for the bride's past services in the church and community life and extending to her every good wish for future happiness.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess. The gifts included linen, china glassware, graniteware and money.

Six Nurses Get Diplomas From St. Joseph's Hospital

"'Omnia in caritate'—all in charity—may it always be exemplified in the lives of its graduates," said Miss Louise Robinson, valedictorian, as she and her five associates received the plaudits and congratulations due them, on their graduation from St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing. The graduation ceremonies were held Wednesday afternoon in the Collegiate Auditorium, with Mayor James Hamilton, Most Reverend J. R. MacDonald, D.D., Right Reverend F. J. O'Sullivan, V.G., Dr. A. G. Howson, and John R. Corkery taking part. The lighted platform was set with roses, fern and each graduate carried a bouquet of deep red roses.

As valedictorian for the graduating class, Miss Robinson spoke of the ceremony as the culmination of three years of effort, and as the beginning of a new phase in their lives. "We are starting all over again," she said, "but with a different outlook, because of the contacts we have been privileged to make, and the spiritual help ever at hand. We know the road ahead will be difficult, but we have also learned that nothing is accomplished without work."

In conclusion, Miss Robinson paid tribute to the spiritual directors for their help and understanding, to the Sisters of St. Joseph's for their unfailing efforts on their behalf, and to the doctors, for their patience and their aid.

Medal For Nurses

In his address to the gathering, Right Reverend F. J. O'Sullivan, V.G., announced that a "Benefaciendo" medal would be given to nurses in training who are proficient in their work, but who excel in bedside nursing, and, if their standard is maintained, it is to become their property on graduation. He said that it took strength of character to fulfil the tasks set before a nurse, and he felt that the nurse who could be cheerful and gracious and considerate of her patients at all times, was demonstrating the highest quality of nursing.

In his opening remarks, the speaker stressed the dignity and value of church service, and enumerated the four fields of endeavor which he would classify as Christian service—priesthood, religious orders, medicine, and nursing. He said that those who entered these professions had some further goal in mind than mere monetary gain, and that their lives of service were an example to all.

Present Diplomas

Most Reverend J. R. MacDonald, D.D., made the presentation of diplomas and medals to the graduates, Mildred Aasen, Julia McLaughlin, Lorreta A. Murray, Mary A. Mulhall, Louise E. Robinson, and Helen M. Walsh. John R. Corkery, chairman of the St. Joseph's Hospital Board, made the presentations of awards to the two nurses who had been outstanding in certain fields. For the highest marks in theory, Miss Robinson received the award of a post-graduate course in operating room technique, Miss Aasen, who received the highest marks in nursing arts, received a post-graduate course in obstetrical nursing.

Dr. A. G. Howson, as chairman, announced the introduction of these scholarships in his opening remarks. He also spoke of the shortage of nurses, and said that it was a challenge to every community. Speaking of the nursing profession, Dr. Howson said that it was difficult to master, and required a great deal of effort, study, and application, and paid tribute to the six graduates who were realizing the culmination of three years of work and service, and entering upon a new life dedicated to the alleviation of suffering.

Mrs. Leo Picard, a soloist of the afternoon, sang "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," accompanied by Miss Veronica Scollard, A.T.C.M. Edward Sollis sang "Sylvia" and Kevin Leahy played two violin solos, "Souvenir" and "Londonderry Air." Both were accompanied by Miss Marion Best, A.T.C.M. St. Peter's orchestra played several numbers.

Hospital Colors Grace Table At Reception

St. Joseph's Hospital campus was the setting Wednesday afternoon for the reception given in honor of the six nurses who were graduated from St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing. About 250 guests gathered to honor the six graduates, and to wish them every success.

Tea was served from a long table set on the lawn. The centrepiece was a huge bowl filled with spirea and blue iris, representing the colors of the hospital. Blue candles in silver holders gave added effect to the graceful table. Pouring tea were Mrs. L. Boland, Miss L. Hurley, and Mrs. Frank McCarthy. The Diocesan Catholic Women's League was in charge of the reception, and the president of the League, Mrs. Frank Lynch, was general convener. Mrs. George Hynes supervised the tea table.

Those who assisted in serving were: Misses V. Scollard, M. McNulty, J. Lynch, B. Snider, A. Grant, and Mrs. J. P. Gagnon, Mrs. T. Butcher, Mrs. A. Armstrong, Mrs J. Moher, Mrs. C. Connelly, Mrs. E. Riley, Mrs. E. Johnston, Mrs. G. Kennedy, Mrs. D. Campanaro, Mrs. D. Emery, Mrs. E. Hurtubise, Jr., Mrs. T. Carter, Mrs. J. Fraser, Mrs. H. Kennedy, Mrs. J. Garvey, Mrs. C. Veenman.

Nurses who assisted at the graduation ceremonies were Mrs. Macdonald, Mrs. B. Maher, Mrs. T. McParland, Mrs. T. LePlante, Mrs. W. E. Finn and Mrs. H. Crowley.

Dr. Robert Young and Mrs. Young and Dr. A. G. Howson and Mrs. Howson were patrons and patronesses for the dance, held Wednesday evening at the Kawartha Club, when about 80 guests were present. Mrs. Howson won the birthday dance, and Mrs. F. Smith won the elimination dance. The door prize went to Mrs. T. Gould.

Kinettes Hold Bridge Party

Approximately 40 tables of bridge were played Wednesday afternoon in the first travelling bridge sponsored by the Peterborough Kinettes. After an afternoon of bridge in the various homes, the players met in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A. for a social hour and refreshments. A large tea table was set in the centre of the room and was covered with a beautifully embroidered cloth. Centering the table was a huge crystal bowl, filled with white lilacs, spirea and purple iris. Flanking this bouquet were silver candelabra, set with ivory candles, and silver services were set at either end.

Vases filled with spring flowers, lilacs, honeysuckle and iris were set around the room, giving an added air of springtime freshness. Pouring tea were Mrs. J. G. Wharry, Mrs. C. L. Upper, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, and Mrs. Claire Collins. Mrs. W. J. Gordon was in charge. Members of the Kinnettes assisted in serving the guests.

Winner of the bridge prize was Mrs. J. L. Gillespie and draw prizes went to Mrs. C. L. Upper, Mrs. O. Hayward, Mrs. J. W. Hardill and Mrs. M. B. Pringle. Mrs. M. Holt was convener of the prize committee. General convener was Mrs. J. A. Nornabell, assisted by a committee consisting of Mrs. J. King, Mrs. S. Osborne and Mrs. L. Bateman. Receiving the guests were Mrs. M. Holt, president, and Mrs. J. V. Elliott, vice-president. Proceeds from the afternoon will be donated to the Milk for Britain Fund, a project of the Kinettes.

Tribute to Woman

LONDON, June 1.—(AP).— The U.S. Army Air Force paid tribute yesterday at the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Everitt, Essex widow, who was fatally burned attempting to pull an American airman from his bomber which caught fire after it had crashed. A senior officer and a detachment of Army Air Force men were among mourners and as the coffin was lowered into the grave a formation of American planes circled the cemetery dipping wings in salute.

80 Children Attend Kiddies' Party

Almost one hundred parents and grandparents of members of the Cradle Roll of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church gathered in the Sunday School room Wednesday afternoon, for the annual Cradle Roll party. There were 80 children present, in addition to the large number of parents. The room was decorated with lilacs and spring flowers. Mrs. W. L. Ferguson and Mrs. C. Hagerman poured tea at a table set with a lace cloth and centred with a silver basket filled with tulips, set on a reflector. Small vases of lily of the valley were also ranged along the table, and silver services were placed at either end.

The afternoon was spent in playing games and a social get-together. Mrs. R. Ross, who is serving in her twelfth term as Cradle Roll superintendent, presented a silver cup to the youngest guest present, Diane Elizabeth Barton, aged three months. For lunch, the children were served at the large tables. Rev. J. D. Smart asked the blessing for the gathering.

Mrs. Ross and Mrs. J. D. Smart received the guests, and Mrs. Wesley Brown and Mrs. G. Wilson Craw were in charge of registration. The committee in charge of decorations consisted of Mrs. E. Bathgate, Mrs. W. Bristow, and Mrs. Donald Dickson. Mrs. W. Burrell and Miss L. Eakins were in charge of the tea table. Serving were Misses Mildred Rowan, Joan Carley, Jean Blewett, M. McIver, Dorothy Ross and Mrs. Rosenburgh, Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. W. Easton Mrs. A. Powers.

Hunger Is Best Seasoning For those 'Picky' About Food

BY MARY MOORE

My hands are blistered, my back's stiff, my shoulder muscles ache but I got so hungry from digging up the garden and planting tomatoes and turnips and trees that I ate the ice-box bare.

At the moment there isn't a slice of bacon, an egg, a leaf of lettuce or a drop of milk or an orange. If the grocer's boy doesn't get here soon the poor family will have to fill up on soup and canned fruit.

It all tasted wonderful and I ate all alone and enjoyed the solitude; the bacon was especially sweet; the eggs although at least six days old tasted fresher than when actually fresh; I had never detected such flavor in lettuce before. Hunger was the great seasoner.

I have been struggling through some ideas for one of our mother-readers to fatten up her undernourished five-year-old, but now I want to scrap the whole thing and tell her to walk the child until he cries for food. Then feed him until his stomach is full. Then walk him again until he calls for food. Feed him his fill again.

Such a method not only creates a genuine hunger but the amount of food needed to satisfy the hunger stretches what is probably an abnormally small stomach; then the capacity for food is increased.

Try the above method on your thin ones who are "picky" about their food.

We intended to eat our supper last night in the garden but it was too dewy by the time I was finished so we had our hamburgers indoors with plenty of onions (2 lovely lbs.) and a plenty big green salad and spice cake.

Marianne made the cake — I wouldn't take time off from the garden to make a cake this week for cash money.

The food budget had to be pared down to look after garden needs so I rediscovered.

Short Ribs En Casserole

when I knew company was coming.

Two pounds short ribs of beef (have the butcher cut them into 2½ inch chunks), 3 tablespoons French Dressing, 2 sliced onions, 2 cups stock or water, 6 small potatoes. Wipe meat with cold, damp cloth. Brush with French dressing and let stand 1 hour. Put in greased baking dish. Put sliced onions over top of meat. and pour in stick. Cover tightly and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Have potatoes pared and at end of hour add to dish. Recover and bake 1 hour longer. Uncover and bake, basting occasionally, for ½ hour longer. Serve in casserole if glass. Pan juice can be increased and thickened. Tomatoes could be used in place of water but don't improve the dish for me.

Veal Pie

One 2½ lb. of veal, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 slices onion, 1 cup diced celery, ½ cup sliced carrots 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons flour, plain pastry. Wipe meat with cold damp cloth; cut from bone in small pieces, sprinkled with salt and pepper. Cover bones with cold water. Add vegetables and heat slowly to boiling point. Add meat. Boil 5 minutes, then reduce heat and simmer until tender. Line sides of baking dish with pie paste. Put meat and vegetables in dish. Thicken liquor with flour mixed to a paste with cold water; then pour over mixture in dish. Cover with pie paste well slashed to allow steam to escape. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for about 18 to 20 minutes.

Jellied Veal Loaf

One 2½-lb. shank of veal broken in 2 or 3 pieces, 1 medium onion, 2 quarts water, 2 bay leaves, 2 pieces celery, 1 tablespoon salt 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Dice onion. Combine ingredients and simmer together 2 hours. Remove veal from bone and chop it fine with sharp knife—it looks better in the loaf if it is not ground. Strain broth. Cook down to 1 cup. Add veal. Press firmly into loaf pan and chill. Delicious with scalloped potatoes, pickled pears and buttered green peas or beans.

BRILLIANT REPTILE SKINS—The gloves have suede palms and thumbs; the big bag is leather lined, and fitted. The high-crowned sailor hat is trimmed with a band, bowknot and long streamers of matching grosgrain. Python skin is one of the handsomest of the reptile hides which man uses because of its hardy quality. In modern treatment... softened, highly polished, dyed costume accessory colors... it plays a stylish role in any woman's wardrobe. In this ensemble... gloves, boutonniere, handbag, earrings and hat... violet, red, blue, rosy beige, green are the colors available.

Fraserville

The Sunday school members remained after the Sunday morning service and the superintendent, Ray Findlay discussed the holding of a Sunday school anniversary. All were agreeable and the following were nominated as a committee to set the date and also to send out invitations to all those who at one time were members and are away from Fraserville now: Mrs. Frank Lachey, Mrs. Keith Larmer, Mrs. Hilliard Waterman, Miss Elinor Pue and Ray Findlay and Ray Bothwell.

Mrs. J. A. Carl, who has been staying in Coboconk the past winter and spring is back visiting friends in the community.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON (Society Editor of The Examiner)

Warmer weather has definitely arrived, as many a hot and disgruntled business girl has discovered, much to her discomfort. However, there's always a silver lining which, in this case, is the thought of holidays and week-ends at the beach. Many girls are thinking about replenishing summer wardrobes, but want to observe the request of the Government and not buy things they do not really need.

Summer styles have shown a greater tendency to use a minimum of material with a maximum of smartness. Summer cottons are now sleeveless and backless, with trim skirts. Playsuits either conform to this style, or are made according to the bare midriff fashions. In either case, the styles allow a great deal of freedom for sports, and give milady a chance to get herself a "super" tan.

Combination play suits and bathing suits are just the thing for the girl who is travelling, and doesn't want to take too many clothes along. This play and bathing suit combination cuts down considerably on space in suit cases, and still ensures smartness. They can be bought in prints, or heavier materials. One-piece bathing suits, in dressmaker lines, are still holding their own, with the new styles featuring panels of plain or printed material, down the front, in contrast to the rest of the outfit.

CRISP SALADS.

There's nothing as inviting and appetizing as a cool, crisp, and colorful salad plate, for lunch or supper during the hot weather. In summer it is often difficult to tempt sluggish appetites, and to see that father as well as junior gets his full share of essential vitamins and minerals for each day

In this respect, salads are the answer to the housewife's prayer. There are so many different combinations for tempting salad dishes that they can be varied every day, and the housewife can even start to plan and "invent" her own dishes, to suit the particular tastes of her family.

Salad greens, such as lettuce, radishes and celery, should be washed and drained immediately after they are brought home, and then stored in the refrigerator or another cold place, in a covered container. Never forget that an attractive place is always easier to sell to jaded summer appetites. Spend a little more time on arranging a colorful, nutritional salad, and marvel at how quickly it disappears.

SUMMER HATS.

It looks as if, as the season advances, more big, cool hats will be making their appearance A large hat always adds a great deal in smartness to any outfit, and is particularly effective with soft, cool summer dresses. The coolie type seems to be among the most popular models now being shown.

The definite trend towards big hats, in preference to sailors, half-hats, pompadours, scoop bonnets, and beanies, does not mean that these other styles are becoming old-fashioned. It just shows that although mother and daughter wear small dinky hats for neatness and less bother for working days, they like to really "dress up' with a flattering and stylish hat, a little larger than usual, but certainly smart. Pastel shades are popular, but natural shades of the straw are also selling well.

CULINARY TIPS.

Never keep spices, coffee or raisins in open jars or boxes, since they will quickly lose their flavor and become dry and tasteless

Save the stems of mushrooms, scrape them, and slice them finely and saute them. When added to gravies, creamed limas, peas or carrots, they will give a delightful flavor.

With the arrival of summer weather, steamed and baked puddings enjoyed during the cooler months lose their popularity. With eggs plentiful, delicious egg desserts — custards, souffles, and others — should be the answer to the "what shall we have for dessert to-day" problem.

To make a tasty, simple, and nutritious sandwich mixture, cream pimento and cream cheese together and spread evenly on bread. A lettuce leaf will give added flavor and freshness.

PERFUME STRETCHER.

The delicate scent of a favorite perfume is often lost by careless application, and disappears before it should. Perfume does not hold its scent if dabbed on wool and furs, and there is always the risk of staining dresses and scarves, if the perfume is applied directly to them.

Here's an idea to make a little perfume go a long way. Place a few drops of perfume on a small pad of absorbent cotton, and pin pad inside lingerie in their drawer. The fragrance will cling much longer, and is softer and sweeter. Perfume lasts longer, too, if it is used with a cologne or sachet of matching fragrance.

CLOTHES GIVE NAME

White Russia is thought to have been so named because of the former traditional costume of its people—white smocks, fibre shoes with white leggings and white homespun coats.

IN MEMORIAM

DOXSEE—In loving memory of our Grandfather, Charles Doxsee, who passed away one year ago today, June 1, 1943.

He is gone but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.

—Always remembered by his three granddaughters, Gladys, Verna and Marion.

DOXSEE—In loving memory of our dear father, Charles Doxsee who passed June 1, 1943.

Our lips cannot tell how we miss him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say,
God only knows how we miss him
In a home that is lonesome to-day.

—Sadly missed by Daughters Maude and Donna.

DOXSEE—In loving memory of my dear husband, Charles Doxsee who passed away, June 1, 1943.

I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own,
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.

—Sadly missed by Wife.

LINDSAY, June 1 (ENS) — Several hundred people from the counties of Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough, Haliburton and Victoria packed the academy theatre, Wednesday afternoon to hear the Hon. John Bracken, Leader of Progressive Conservative Party; address the meeting of the Ontario East Centre Association.

With Gordon Fraser, M.P. of Peterborough, presiding officers of the association were elected as follows: Hon. Presidents, John Bracken, Premier George Drew, Senator Iva C. Fallis, President Gordon Fraser, Vice-Pres., Mrs. V. Lowe and Irwin Caldwell, representing Durham, Mrs. Frank Topas and Kenneth Crewes of Northumberland. Mrs. Cridland and Frank Erskine of Peterborough, Mrs. H. Rogers and John Alton of Victoria and Haliburton. The Secretary-Treasurer will be selected by the executive.

Among the officials of the Progressive Conservative Association on the platform were Harry Willis, Hon. L. M. Frost, Richard Edmonds, William Goodfellow, MPP, Harold Scott, MPP, Mrs. Percy Vivian, C. G. Frost, Senator I. Fallis, T. H. Stinson, K.C.

Chairman Gordon Fraser advised the new executive to organize a women's advisory committee. He stated that the Liberal party was working more for political needs rather than for the good of the country.

Hon. L. M. Frost in introducing the federal leader, John Bracken, received great ovation from the assembly. Mr. Frost stated that the democratic view of the nation had undergone drastic changes and that the Progressive Conservative Association was working for rational reform towards a goal of equal partiality towards all.

Reviews Provinces

Mr. Bracken dealt with national issues in an impartial manner. He discussed each province with reference to its natural resources and people. Stressing agriculture as a main industry of Canada, Mr. Bracken stated the main reason he accepted the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party was to obtain a "Square Deal" to farmers.

One third of the people of the Dominion are engaged in agricultural work, he said but they received only one sixth of the national income. One of the main platforms of the Conservative party was "equality for farms." The wealth of the nation lay in it he said and this wealth would be distributed by farmers if they received a fair price for their products, he said.

"We are living in the period when democracy faces the cross roads of its destiny" Mr. Bracken stated "and the outcome of the war will decide our future. Men today in the armed forces have not chosen the easy way. It is costing the country millions of dollars a year to maintain our war effort, about ten times as much as was expended formerly. It is our responsibility that peace be achieved on terms to assure protection to future generations.

Fair Pay

A post-war creed was exemplified by the speaker in that every man should have a position giving him fair pay and a measure of responsibility. Enterprise must not be limited but must be governed to allow no exploitation. Security for the aged was one of the most important factors for the government to face. The new era, he said, must allow an expanding economy in a world at peace.

Commenting on political party disputes the speaker stated that it was time differences were dropped and unity gained. The war has made us united on the majority of things, he said, but we have been too long disunited on minor things. He referred to the peoples party of Manitoba which as premier, he led for 21 years. "We were the only party in the British Empire to maintain the confidence of the people for over 20 years of trying times," he said, and this was made possible by the faith of the people of the province, although they were of every race, faith and political creed.

Ontario is Canada's greatest province, he admitted and will give leadership towards bringing Canada into a new state of unity.

Previous to the meeting, Mrs. Bracken was entertained at luncheon by the Progressive Conservative Association of Victoria and Haliburton counties. President Mrs H. Rogers of the Lindsay association, introduced Mrs. Bracken to the assembly as a typical Canadian mother with four sons in every branch of war service and as a loyal wife, helping her husband in his great work for Canada.

Plazas Defeat

outfield for Plazas. Mike Conroy made a nice grab of a long drive by Tucker and Joe Caccavella contributed a couple of sparkling plays, making a fine running catch of a fly in short right and robbing Joe Blewett of a hit by a circus stop of a hard-hit roller.

St. Peter's cashed in on some loose fielding to score a run in the first. Condon got an infield hit and went to second on Tucker's wide throw. Courneya rolled to Hawks, Condon going to third. Hollingsworth's roller got away from Ellis and when Pryde threw high to third the runner went to the difficult corner. Condon of course had scored on the play, Reynolds struck out and Masterson rolled to Ellis.

Plazas evened it up in their half. Jones singled past second but was forced by Pryde. Hawks flied to Hollingsworth in right. Blewett walked. Tucker's single to left scored Pryde. Burton popped up.

St. Peter's took the lead again in the third. With one away Courneya beat out a roller to Jones, Hollingsworth also got an infield hit. A wild pitch sent Courneya to third. Reynolds forced Hollingsworth on a tap to Hawks but the attempt at a double play failed and Courneya scored. Masterson flied to Tucker.

Plazas bunched hits to drive in two runs in the fourth and go in front for the first time. With one away Tucker doubled to left. Burton's roller got away from Courneya but Stewart, backing up the play recovered the ball and tagged Tucker coming into third. Starr however ripped a double on the ground into centre and Ellis exploded a single past Caccavella to score Burton and Starr. Stokoe ripped a single through short but Jones ended the rally with a fly to Hollingsworth.

The winners put the finishing touches on the victory in the fifth. Pryde opened with a double to left and Hawks singled to right. Joe Blewett's double sent in the pair. Tucker popped to Courneya. Burton struck out but Starr walked and Ellis doubled and Stokoe singled for two more runs before Jones fanned to end the rally.

St. Peter's cut down the margin with two runs in the seventh, the last scoring of the game. Carlson singled to left. When Stewart rolled a double-play ball to Hawks Heal dropped the toss to second and everybody was safe. Condon's single to left got away from Burton and two runs scored. Courneya however rolled to Heal, Hollingsworth lined to Blewett, who made a nice running catch, and held Condon at third and Hawks tossed out Reynolds.

Cheese Output Climbs Steadily

OTTAWA, June 1 — (CP) — Quantities of Ontario and Quebec cheese graded since the first of April, 1944, were approximately 27 per cent greater than that graded during the corresponding period of 1943, the Dairy Products Board reported today.

"Given average climatic conditions during the remainder of the year, total production of cheese should be sufficient to provide necessary stocks for Domestic consumption and also provide the quantities required for export to the British Ministry of Food, and to others," the Board added.

Trout Fisherman Frightens Off Wolf Saves Deer From Stealthy Attacker

LINDSAY, June 1. — (ENS).— While on a trout fishing expedition north-east of Wilberforce, C. G. Frost of Lindsay, witnessed a drama of the wilds seldom seen. Attracted by the cracking of bush nearby to where he was fishing, Mr. Frost was amazed to see a deer burst out and start swimming along the lake-shore. In a few seconds he spotted a large timber wolf stalking the deer and following its progress down the lake.

The party of anglers paddled over and the wolf disappeared. The deer, badly frightened, allowed the fishermen to come within about 30 feet as it stood in deep water undecided which of the two evils was the worse.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LEARN BRIDGE FAST
10—A Sound Opening Bid

WHEN YOU make an opening bid, you may be sure your partner's later action will be based partly on what your bid has told him about your hand. His most important decision may be on any of these problems: (1) Raising a bid of yours, (2) making some other bid himself, (3) doubling an opponent's bid, (4) leading against an opponent's contract. So you had better, as a rule, be ready for any of these if you open the bidding That means you should have at least what your bid indicates; possibly more, but seldom less.

Whether your bid is in a suit or No Trump, if you make an opening bid of one, he will consider that you have at least two defensive tricks, based on the high cards in your hand. That covers requirement No. 3 above, and will guide him in possible doubling of the opponents, counting also on whatever tricks he can take.

Also, whether your bid is in a suit or No Trump, he will consider that you are able to take your own proper share of the tricks if you become the declarer. As an irreducible minimum, that means at least four, usually a bit better. The reason four is the sound minimum is that, if each player could take three it would account for 12 tricks, leaving over one additional trick, which the bidder should be able to take, or otherwise should not bid. This enables your partner to add his strength to yours to determine how he might raise you. This covers No. 1 above.

The combination of enough strength for numbers 1 and 3 enables him to estimate how good your hand may be if it proves to fit some other declaration he may bid himself. That is No. 2 above.

If you have bid a suit, and he becomes the opening leader, against an opponent's contract, he will usually lead your suit. You therefore should have a suit that is desirable for him to lead. That is No. 4.

There are two other qualification, one of which should be present for a sound opening bid. If the bid is No Trumps, you should be able to keep the opponents from running any one of at least three suits against you—have "stoppers" in at least three of them. A stopper means any card which is sure to take a trick if "led up to" often enough, such as an ace, a guarded king, a twice-guarded queen or four cards headed by a jack. If the bid is a suit, you should have a "biddable suit." Strictly interpreted, and in line with expert practice, that means at least four cards headed by at least a jack, or any five cards or more.

The reason for needing four cards is the same as that for being able to average a total of at least four tricks taken by your hand in the play if you become the declarer. Divide the 13 cards of the suit so that each player has three, and add one for the fact that you are the bidder. This also will enable your partner to know how many trumps he can count on from you.

The reason why the suit should contain at least a jack at its top, or else be of five cards, is twofold First, your partner may consider bidding No Trump, and should most surely be able to count on you as probably able to stop the suit you bid, if he is strong in the other three. Second, your partner may ultimately lead that suit against an opponent's contract, and you therefore should have some kind of strength in it.

Many players consider that a four-card suit should have still more strength at its top. Some consider that a five-card suit should. And in No Trump opening bids, some players insist on having all suits stopped, or upon at least three cards in every suit, or both. The minimums given are only minimums. Increase them if you find yourself with a group of players, or a partner, who prefers them.

Belmont W.I. Hears Of Red Cross Work

HAVELOCK, June 1 — (ENS) — "Health Education" was the topic studied at the Belmont Women's Institute. The guest speaker was Miss M. Young, from Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, who spoke on the great need for more nurses and nursery schools, since a large percentage of this profession have joined the armed forces.

The roll call was responded to by "Health Hints." Mrs. Donald Anderson was convener for the program, opening with a piano solo, "The Robin's Return," by Mrs. Harry Scott. Mrs. Fred Bennett, Havelock, gave a detailed report of the Toronto Red Cross convention and Mrs. Cecil Anderson reported on the Toronto work rooms giving many new ideas and simpler methods of making civilian clothing. It was decided that the branch apply for a short course in "Glove-Making" to be held early in September, if possible.

An all-day quilting bee is to be held on Wednesday, June 8, with a pot-luck dinner served at noon. During the afternoon, the efficient secretary, Mrs. William Harris, was presented with a linen tablecloth for her faithful service for the past four years. Refreshments were served by Mesdames D. Anderson, W. Smith and G. Hartin.

Havelock Loses Three Teachers

HAVELOCK, June 1 — (ENS) — The resignations of three teachers were accepted by the School Board at a special meeting on Monday night.

Principal of the High School for the past seven years, R. W. Goheen, in tendering his resignation, said he had accepted a position as assistant principal at the Lindsay Collegiate. The Public School principal, George E. Jones, has served on the local staff for the past two years, and has accepted a position in the Webbwood School in Northern Ontario. The teacher for Grades 2 and 3, Miss Vivian Locklin, who has served for one year, handed in her resignation.

A letter from the three remaining teachers, Miss Nellie Watson, Miss Lucy Wing and Miss Verna Buchanan, asked for an increase in salary, and on motion by Trustees Anderson and Matheson, that the present saalries are according to salaries of teachers in surrounding schools, and no action be taken.

Regarding the resignations received, it was decided to advertise immediately for a Public School principal and a teacher for Grades 2 and 3. The matter of the High School principal was laid over until such a time as they could communicate with Inspector W. R. Stewart, Toronto. Every member of the board was present, and will convene again at the call of the chairman.

Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery

If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.

Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

Keene YPU Has Annual Banquet

KEENE, June 1 — (ENS) — The Annual Young People's Banquet of Keene United Church was held recently when 110 young people sat down to tables set with patriotic colours of Red, White and Blue, in honor of those who are in the Armed Forces.

Tom Gall acted as chairman and toastmaster. Prayer was offered by Rev. George Murray. In giving the chairman's address Tom Gall extended a hearty welcome to the large number present which represented the different young people's organizations of the congregation, namely the C.G.I.T., Trail Rangers, Trillium Class, and Y. P. U.

Rev. H. Mahoney was introduced by Agnes Nelson. In his address Mr. Mahoney presented a challenge to the young people to help build a better world. A duet was sung by Edith and Jean Armstrong. Toast to the C. G. I. T. was given by Mrs. A. Rennie who referred to the fine two groups and the splendid leadership given by Mrs. Ross McIntyre and Mrs. Mary Miller. This toast was responded to by Lois Humphries. Mrs. Ross McIntyre read a poem "A Prayer For Peace". Toast to the Tillicum Class was given by Allan Drummond and responded to by Miss Agnes Weir. A piano selection was played by Lois Wright. The story of Summer Camp was presented by Miss Marion Beatty. The most amusing number of the evening was when Thomas Weir, the clerk of the township, appeared in the roll of coloured Sambo. He kept his audience in fits of laughter by his actions and stories. A toast to the Trail Rangers was given by D. Edwards, superintendent of Sunday School, who praised the boys for the work they are doing. This was answered by Jack Wright.

An address by Reeve Peter Mather was given which enlightened the young people on the program for Post War Reconstruction and the part they would be called upon to play. The toast to the Church was given by Miss Mary Millar which was a tribute to what the Church was doing for young people and a pledge to be more worthy of what the Church stands for. This was replied to by the Rev. M. Murray who thanked the young people for their active interest. A vote of thanks was given by Alan Borland to all who had helped to make the banquet so successful.

LONDON, June 2—(AP).—Up to 1,500 American heavy bombers and fighters struck the heaviest single blow yet at the French invasion coast today and another great armada of 500-750 four-engined planes from Italy bombed five railway yards in Hungary and Transylvania after night attacks by British planes from Britain and Mediterranean bases.

Mediterranean air force headquarters reported "good" results in assaults upon Miskolc, Szolnok and Szeged in eastern Hungary and upon Cluj and Simeria in Transylvania, the mountainous Romanian province which Germany ceded partially to Hungary in 1940.

The Mediterranean strikes were in direct tactical support of the Russian armies massing in the Carpathian slopes. German troops and material had been funneled to the front over lines passing through the five tangled yards.

No Fighters

The Britain-based planes struck the Pas-de-Calais department of France and reported no sign of German fighter opposition.

Perhaps 3,000 tons of explosives were unloosed on the French fortifications, with the bombers able to carry maximum loads due to the short trip involved.

Before dawn R.A.F. fliers struck over 2,000 miles of airways from Scandinavia to France and from Hungary to Crete.

The Pas-de-Calais section, probably the most intensively bombed area in the world for its size, is a scant 25 miles across the Channel from England. The department extends 90 miles into the French interior and along 35 miles of the coast and contains such familiar points as Calais, Boulogne, the resort Le Touquet and Cape Griz Nez, terminal for Channel swims.

R.A.F. heavy bombers concentrated on southwest French rail yards at Saumur, 150 miles from Paris, and the French coast last night and Canadian Mosquitos carried out offensive patrols over France and Germany. Mediterranean forces attacked Hungarian yards 30 miles east of Budapest at Szolnok. Mosquitos

Reds Crumple Hun Attacks

LONDON, June 2.—(AP).— Red army troops smashed all German attempts to crack the Russian lines north of Iasi and Romania and have counter-attacked in some sectors inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy, Moscow announced to-day.

A broadcast Soviet communique, telling of the fourth successive day of battle north of the Moldavian province city, said 800 Nazi soldiers were killed and 17 tanks were knocked out.

Throwing in large forces of tanks and infantry the Nazis made three separate thrusts, but were stopped by Soviet artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire the communique declared. Red tanks and infantry launched successful counter-attacks on some sectors.

A Finnish communique reported strong Russian attacks on two fronts facing Finland — on the Karelina isthmus northwest of Leningrad and between Lake Ladoga and Onega.

Fighting French Angry Not Recognized

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 2 —(CP Cable)— The problem of Anglo-American relations with Gen. Charles de Gaulle and the French Committee of National Liberation which he heads came to the fore today amid blunt hints from Algiers that continued hesitancy in recognizing the committee as a tentative government of France might cost Allied invasion armies the full aid of the French resistance movement.

It was indicated also that de Gaulle's visit to London for personal consultation at the invitation of Prime Minister Churchill may be postponed.

Reports reaching here from Algiers reported that the French leader is said to be seeking a guarantee that any agreement reached in London would not be called in question on the demand of a third power. This was regarded as aimed at the United States' intention not to participate in the London talks.

Want Air Cleared

The Daily Mail editorially said the British refusal to recognize the Committee of National Liberation was in deference to United States wishes. The paper added that with the whole Allied cause at stake this summer "the time has come when we feel entitled to ask for a clear understanding" between Washington and Algiers and to ask the United States to announce its objections to the committee.

One report in London, which lacked official confirmation, was that de Gaulle is planning to submit to the Allies a mandate from the representatives of all political parties, factions and underground organizations inside France, authorizing him to negotiate as leader of a provisional government. There was reported to be a possibility that the mandate would be announced in Algiers to coincide with de Gaulle's arrival here.

Gallant Welsh Girl Dies With Partisans

LONDON, June 2 — (CP). — The story of a Welsh girl who fought and died as a guerilla in Yugoslavia under the banner of Marshal Tito has been brought to London by General Velebit, a member of Tito's military mission.

The frail-appearing girl became deeply interested in the Continent when she went there as a student. She returned to Britain for her B.A. degree, then went back to Yugoslavia as a lecturer at Belgrade University. Before the war she married a Yugoslav.

When her adopted country first came under Nazi domination in 1941 she worked in the underground until she was forced to the hills as a guerilla. As a fighter she endured the intense heat of summer and the cold of winter in the mountains, took part in the long forced marches, under constant bombing and shelling.

Finally she died from sheer exhaustion. Men who fought with her described her courage as "fantastic."

Pope Claims Allies May Prolong War

Reiterates Plea To Leaders To Spare Rome

By PUGH MOORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 2. — (AP).—Pope Pius XII, in a speech to the College of Cardinals, expressed hope to-day peace soon would appear on Rome's hills and over the whole world but added a demand for total victory might prolong the war.

In an Italian language broadcast the Pontiff called on the victors to give up hope and faith to the vanquished, and declared "whoever would dare lift a hand against Rome would be guilty of "matricide."

Speaking as contending armies surged within sight of Rome, Pope Pius said anyone lifting a hand against the eternal city would "have to bear a grave responsibility toward future generations."

His broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

The Pontiff said many persons fear the theory of "full victory or complete destruction" and this "operates with a bad influence as a stimulus prolonging the war and also on those, who following their internal impulse or for realistic considerations, would be inclined to a reasonable peace."

Changes Attitude.

A fear of the enemy's determination "to destroy national life down to the roots suffocates all other arguments and brings about a courage of desperation," he said.

"Those who feel this," the Pope continued, "advance as in a hypnotic sleep amid unspeakable sacrifices and compel all others to an extenuating and bloody struggle, the social, economic and spiritual consequences of which threaten to become the scourge of future times."

Thanking the Cardinals for their good wishes on his name day, the Pope said the conflict had reached a tremendous pitch of cruelty and destruction. He added that what a year ago seemed impossible now has become a terrible reality.

"The Holy City of Rome is now in the battleground," he declared. "However in the midst of all this suffering we do not want to fail to stress how the threat of air raids on non-peripherical zones of Rome has brought about a more considerate treatment."

( Reuters News Agency translation of the same passage read: "Nevertheless, in the midst of so much pain we must point out that air attacks against inner areas of Rome have been conducted with greater care.")

Quoting an historian of the 19th Century, the Pontiff said Rome has

More Americans Land On Biak

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, June 2—(AP)—Massing of reinforcements for an all-out assault on Japanese-held Biak island in the Schoutens and pincer moves aimed at trapped Japanese on two other fronts were announced today.

Under naval guns and without enemy aerial or naval interference, more American units landed Tuesday at Biak, enemy air base in Netherlands New Guinea's Geelvink Bay, invaded Saturday.

On Bougainville Island, in the northern Solomons, Allied units landed behind Japanese lines Tuesday at the mouth of the Tekissi River, in the southern sweep of Empress Augusta Bay, on the island's west coast.

The switch-back move took the Allies seven miles southeast of the Torokina River which the Allies crossed in January in extending their original beachhead. The two forces thereby clamped between them parts of thousands of Japanese still resisting on Bougainville.

Pincer Movement

A second pincer movement against entrapped Japanese was narrowed when Australian soldiers, advancing northwest along the British New Guinea coastline, occupied Guru village and Mulu harbor without contracting the enemy.

These Australians now are established three miles southeast of Uligan Harbor and 40 miles southeast of Japanese-held Hansa Bay. The advance closed to approximately 200 miles the stretch of by-passed

Cpl. A. Davidson Goes Through Rapido Battle

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, June 2—(CP). — For hours the tanks fought and every round they fired meant they needed another — and they fired thousands in those first few days of battle for a bridgehead across the Rapido River.

Cpl. Davidson

The tanks of the 1st Canadian Armored Brigade first crossed the river the morning of May 12. By dawn May 13 there had to be enough ammunition, supplies, petrol and rations on the other side to sustain 100 tanks in action for an entire day. And from then on the sustenance must be maintained.

The responsibility of supply for a Western Canada regiment fell upon 10 "Honey" supply tanks commanded by Lieut. John Whitton of Port Hope, Ont., and Montreal. In that first night 25 tank loads went across the Rapido to grow into a brigade supply dump. The shells kept coming over. Men were killed and wounded, but the Honeys kept moving over and back.

For hours only two bridges spanned the Rapido and one would be knocked out and repaired by the engineers, then the other would go.

As the battle went on, the Honeys kept that supply dump virile.

When they mired trying to cross the flats to the river tanks came

Gas Affects 220 People In New York

Escaping Chlorine Sends 195 To Hospitals

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Ambulances, two emergency squads and radio cars were dispatched by police today to a Brooklyn pier where 20 to 25 men were reported overcome by carbon monoxide gas in the hold of a ship.

The latest gas accident occurred as approximately 195 persons remained in Brooklyn hospitals suffering from after affects of chlorine gas which affected an estimated 1,000 persons yesterday.

No fatalities were reported from the fumes which seeped from a 220-pound steel cylinder on a delivery truck and billowed out over a radius of half a dozen blocks in a busy downtown section.

Drop Like Flies

More than 350 men, women and children were taken to seven hospitals. Most of them were allowed to go home after treatment.

Scores of others were treated at makeshift first-aid stations set up in stores, gasoline stations and nearby homes. Many of the victims were subway passengers.

Chlorine gas, according to an authority, is used by armies to purify water while civilian uses include bleaching paper and textiles.

Witnesses said that as the pungent fumes spread over the area, people toppled to the ground like flies, while others were sent into violent spells of choking, coughing and vomitting.

The scene resembled pictures of battlefields, they said. Many of the victims were subway passengers, affected when the gas descended through ventilators into two subway stations. Hundreds of passengers were made ill and fled to the streets where they, too, were overcome and fell to the sidewalk.

Emergency treatment was administered at the scene by 33 doctors, 42 nurses and 16 Red Cross nurses' aids. A detachment of gas-masked soldiers also aided.

Allied Leaders Differ On Spanish Issue

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 2 (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, publicly don't see eye to eye on the Spanish question. But Washington's diplomats hastened to say today there probably are good reasons for the apparent differences of opinion and denied even the thought of a "split" between the Allied war leaders.

The Prime Minister in his House of Commons speech last week spoke, as he said, "kindly words" about Gen. Francisco Franco's Fascist Spain, expressing gratitude to Franco for not permitting the Germans to attack Gibraltar, nor attempting to do so himself, when Britain was hard put elsewhere. This week, the President at a press conference said, among other things, that Spain's conduct continues "unsatisfactory."

Viewing these differing public expressions from London and Washington, some United States editorial writers quickly read signs of a Churchill-Roosevelt split, that the Grand Alliance was breaking up. But the opinion among diplomats here is that both leaders had good reasons for their comments and that they have complete understanding.

Sizing Up Situation

These diplomats viewed the situation this way:—

Mr. Churchill, sharing the terrible and immediate responsibility for launching the liberating Allied armies against German-held Europe has good reason for keeping a potentially dangerous neighbor at quiescent at this critical time.

Mr. Roosevelt, sharing the responsibility with the Prime Minister but far removed from the scene and with domestic political considerations to influence him, had no alternative but to speak as he did when asked a blunt question at his press conference. Conscious of the "spot" he was on, the President urged that his comment not be looked upon as a basis for an international incident.

The attitude of the president, expressed under questioning, hardly could have been different in view of his public declaration nearly a week ago: "We will have no truck with Fascism in any way, shape or manner. We will permit no vestige of Fascism to remain."

Considered opinion here is that Mr. Churchill may feel exactly as does the president, but he is concerned solely at moment with winning the war. When that is done, the Franco government can be dealt with by the victorious Allies—if it does not collapse in the meantime from internal pressure.

Bombs Riddle 3 German Ships

LONDON, June 2—(C-Reuters)—British naval planes struck a strongly escorted convoy of three supply ships off Norway last night, hitting all three ships with bombs, the Admiralty announced today. In addition four escort and anti-aircraft ships were damaged by gunfire.

Two British naval aircraft are missing.

The Admiralty said the attack was the sixth successful blow by carrier aircraft during the last two months.

These operations began with the assault on the German battleship Tirpitz in Altenfjord April 3.

The fleet air arm has sunk one large and one medium-sized supply ship, damaged 11 others and one large tanker by torpedo or bombs. Some of these were probably sunk. Three escort vessels have also been damaged.

Last nights operations, said the Admiralty, were carried out in the vicinity of Statland, near Trondheim.

The Admiralty disclosed that fleet aircraft carriers have taken part in some of these operations as well as escort carriers. The Admiralty named the carriers as H.M.S. victorious and H.M.S. Furious. The escort carriers named were H.M.S. Searcher, H.M.S. Emperor, H.M.S. Pursuer, HM.S. Fencer and H.M.S. Striker.

280,000 Japs Mass In China

CHUNGKING, June 2—(AP)—The Japanese have amassed 280,000 troops in the Hankow and Canton areas for a smashing drive aimed not only at the conquest of the entire Canton-Hankow railway but to prepare for new blows elsewhere in China, Maj.-Gen. C. C. Tseng, an army spokesman, declared today.

There are 210,000 in the Hankow area and 70,000 in the Canton area, compared with a force of only 40,000 hitherto employed, Gen. Tseng said.

Gen. Tseng asserted the Japanese are carrying out a new strategy of being on the defense everywhere except in China.

"As the Allies apply greater pressure against Japan, Japan will exert greater pressure against China," he said.

The Japanese are massing troops on the Indo China-Yunnan border, building a new motor highway between Hanoi and the frontier town of Laokay, 160 airline miles northwest of Hanoi, and constructing a big air base near the border, Gen. Tseng said.

Chinese troops have partially overrun strongly-defended Japanese positions around Peichaikungfang on the Salween front in Yunnan province and bitter fighting for that town north of the Burma Road is continuing, a Chinese communique said today.

Canadians Take Ferentino Velletri Falls To 5th Valmontone Also Occupied

Americans Firmly Astride Via Casilina 20 Miles From Rome 8th Army Takes Veroli In 5-Mile Gain

By SID FEDER—Associated Press Staff Writer

NAPLES, June 2—(AP).—The Germans' wall before Rome began to crumble today as the 5th Army captured both Velletri and Valmontone, the two biggest fortress cities guarding the Eternal City, and the British 8th Army, which includes Canadian troops, took Ferentino 18 miles southeast of Valmontone.

The Fifth Army was firmly astride the Via Casilina after cutting it near Valmontone, threatening to cut off whatever troops the Germans had been unable to withdraw of the nine divisions battling on the lower front.

Velletri is an Appian Way junction 18 miles southeast of Rome.

Already American troops were fanning out beyond it into the Alban hills, fighting within sight of Rome's prized buildings.

Valmontone, bitterly defended by the crack Herman Goering Armored Division, is on the Via Casilina 20 miles sotheast of Rome . The Germans were fighting a rear guard action north and west of the breakthrough onto the Via Casilina by U.S. tank and infantry forces.

Parallel Highway

The 8th Army smashing up the Via Casilina, in addition to taking Ferentino also struck on the east side of the highway, winning Veroli, five miles northeast of Frosinone.

While 5th Army forces were astride Via Casilina, other troops spread out through the Alban hills after piercing the centre of the Nazis' final line below Rome.

Garrison Cut Off.

Fifth Army troops broke into Velletri in the centre, on the Appian Way 18 miles from Rome, fighting fiercely in the streets against the cut-off enemy garrison. Beyond the by-passed town, infantrymen battled on the Alban heights within sight of the Eternal City.

Meanwhile, on the 5th Army front, American infantrymen entered Velletri late yesterday after the key fortress on the Appian Way 18 miles southeast of Rome had been virtually encircled. At noon today "fierce fighting is in progress" in the streets, headquarters announced.

Two miles to the northwest, troops fighting on Monte Artemisio, in view of Rome's historic buildings, were meeting "very obstinate opposition," a communique said.

This force had snaked beyond Velletri and seized the dominating heights of Mounts Peschio and Artemisio, catching the Germans by surprise.

Boy Escapes Flaming Gasoline Car

OTTAWA, June 2—(CP)—Two five-year-old boys miraculously escaped serious injury today when one of them, standing atop an 8,000-gallon railway gasoline tank car, struck a match and touched off a thunderous blast which shook the suburban town of Eastview.

As a sheet of flame spurted from the tank car, young Bernard Leduc suffered burns about the head and was thrown from the top of the car. His companion, Joseph Larabie, who stood on the ground watching while Bernard struck the matches on the tank car, was uninjured.

The blast occurred as 8,000 gallons of gasoline was being emptied from the car, on a railway siding, into the storage tanks of the McColl Frontenac Oil Co. Ltd., Company employees quickly quenched the blazing gasoline with chemical extinguishers. They said 2,000 gallons went up in flames in six minutes.

Within 30 feet of the burning tank car were an additional 120,000 gallons of high-octane gasoline in storage tanks.

Young Leduc was taken to Ottawa General Hospital, where his condition was described as "not serious."

Half Myitkyina Held By Allies

KANDY, Ceylon, June 2 — (CP-Reuter)—About half of Myitkyina, Japanese North Burma base, is in Allied hands, an announcement from southeast Asia headquarters said today.

An earlier communique said Chinese and American troops were attacking the town from three sides and scored fresh gains.

Headquarters announced that the Allied forces advanced 400 yards in the southern part of the town and gained nearly a mile on the northwest.

West of the Mogaung river, Chinese units with artillery support continued their advance from Malakawng.

Chindits who were forced from a block on the Mogaung-Myitkyina road were credited with killing 700 Japanese before they withdrew.

In northwest India, the Allies employed tanks against invading Japanese in the Kohima area and continued clearing the area "with success."

Boost Farm Implements

More Repair Parts To Be Available

TORONTO, June 2 — (CP). — Supplies of farm implements will be increased in the next machinery year beginning July 1 and the greater quotas of repair parts also will be made available to Canadian farmers, it was announced last night.

The announcement of the increases was made here by J. A. Carroll, chairman of the Departmental Implement Committee of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, to a meeting of county and district agricultural representatives in Ontario, shortly before Douglas Abbott, Parliamentary Secretary to Finance Minister Ilsley, revealed the facts in the House of Commons at Ottawa.

Mr. Carroll said that whereas the 1943 quota was 35 per cent of 1944 sales and the 1944 quota was 92 per cent of the 1940-41 average, the quota for the coming year would be 100 per cent of the 1940-41 average.

He told representatives that harness manufacture was 50 per cent ahead of 1941 but metal parts were needed.

Corrective measures to retard costly soil erosion were urgently needed and a broad survey to prepare for after the war was needed, Dr. T. S. Archibald, director of the Dominion Experimental Farms system, told delegates.

Move Complete Airfield

Remain Fully Operational During Task

WITH THE R.C.A.F. OVERSEAS, June 2 — (CP). — Members of the R.C.A.F. earned the tribute "jolly fine show" from the R.A.F. supply and transport experts for their feat in conveying a complete airfield from Scotland to Southern England on schedule, remaining fully operational during the 300-mile journey.

The movement — believed to be the largest non-stop advance by airfield crew and complete equipment in the present war— required three convoys of camouflaged lorries, largest of which was five miles long.

The trek was from the training grounds to a temporary operational base, and was so ordered that pilots of the squadrons served by the mobile airfield launched their first operational flights from the new base while the rearguard was still rolling.

As the main movement neared the new base, fighters which depended upon it for maintenance flew low overhead on their way south, to arrive a few hours before the ground crews. The rear party brought forward the balance of the equipment needed to service the aircraft for their final flight from the old base.

Within 36 hours of the arrival of the main party, the first operational flight was made by aircrews served by the mobile airfields.

Canadian Troops Welcome Italian Summer

BY DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, June 2 — (CP) — Italy's summer is near at hand and the soldiers who fought through it in Sicily last summer are welcoming it.

They knew both the heat and the rain, the dust and the mud. And they'll choose the heat and dust every time.

For the Canadians, along with other Allied soldiers, learned a lot about rain and mud during the lengthy static period that preceeded the current offensive. It was the period of rain and mud which converted roads into impassable quagmires, impassable for the heavy vehicles and tanks, vital adjuncts to a major push.

The rain stopped falling, eventually, and the roads and fields began to dry. But there still was mud long after the daily downpours ended and April's showers delayed the drying process.

By night men patrolled into the enemy's positions while others waited in silence for Germans patrols which might penetrate the Canadian lines. More often than not the Germans never came, but there was no guarantee they would not come so defences had to be manned constantly.

Lived In Trenches

For several weeks in a row troops lived this "slit trench" life, enduring the discomforts of the mud, the dampness and the dangers that go with the front line. Then, their period as forward troops over, they would be relieved for 10 days or so by a reserve battalion.

Normally the Canadian brigades kept only two battalions at the front at a time. The third battalion was always close a hand, maybe only a few hundred yards behind the forward troops, but it was in reserve and its men were not fighting.

While in reserve soldiers paraded to the mobile baths, to wash off the grime of the previous weeks. They added movies to their "entertainment," sometimes went to nearby rest centres where life was less crude.

There were always Canadians at the 8th Army rest centre, a massive camp in the southern Italy where soldiers relaxed for a week, free to spend the time almost as they chose.

This was the infantryman's life in that static period and it was much the same for the other soldiers.

Those days are over now.

Night Blows Smash Rail Yards

Troop Movements Crippled Over Wide Area

LONDON, June 2—(CP)—R.A.F. heavy bombers hammered the Saumur rail yards in France for the second night in a row last night, it was announced today, in continuation of an Allied aerial offensive which already was declared to have restricted severely certain German military movements behind the invasion front.

The night raiders also attacked a military objective near the French coast, the Air Ministry said, but did not indicates its nature. Mosquitoes simultaneously bombed an unspecified objective in Denmark and mines were laid in enemy waters. All planes returned safely.

The Vichy radio said a locality on the northwest coast of France was bombed during the night and that 42 persons were killed.

The night operation followed daylight assaults on military objectives in Northern France yesterday by U.S. medium bombers escorted by fighters. Offensive patrols also were conducted by fighters of the 2nd tactical air force, and one German plane was shot down by long-range fighters off the German island of Borkum.

Smoke Thick

A pilot returning from the attack last night on Samur said the bombing was concentrated. Another pilot declared the smoke was so thick that fresh target markers had to be dropped 20 minutes after the bombing started.

Since the all-out Allied campaign to disrupt communications in western Europe began early in March, Allied planes have carried out 246 attacks on 94 railroad targets, some in great strength.

While most of these raids were concentrated in France, Belgium and Holland, some were made on points as deep as Brunswick, Germany, 400 miles from the Channel coast.

In a statement last night reviewing the results of the Allies' "battle of communications," the Air Ministry gave this picture of the enemy's transportation position:

Damage Picture

1. Destruction of bridges has severly restricted military movements which involve the crossing of the Seine River within 100 miles of the coast.

2. Dislocation of the railroad system in occupied countries has driven

Potato Subsidy Stimulates Lengthy Debate

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, June 2— (CP) — The federal government estimates it will pay out $115,500,000 in subsides during the present fiscal year to help keep down the cost of living in Canada, Douglas Abbott, parliamentary assistant to finance minister Ilsley, said yesterday in the Commons.

An estimated $30,000,000 more than last year would be spent by the prices stability corporation, a unit of the prices board set up to help in the task of keeping the cost of living on an even keel.

The corporation anticipated expenditure of $140,000,000 in subsides, trading losses and administrative expenses, Mr. Abbott said. Domestic subsides, including a $25,000,000 consumer's subsidy on milk, were expected to total $53,500,000. Import subsides were expected to total $62,000,000.

Mr. Abbott gave the figures before certain phases of the government's subsidy policy were criticized by opposition members during resumed study of the finance department's war appropriation estimates.

Some criticism of the government's subsidy policy came from T. L. Church (PC—Toronto Broadview) who said prices remain high despite all the money being paid in subsidies. The government should spend some of the money subsidising low cost homes and the delivery of fuel.

Raps Deal

H. H. Hatfield (PC—Victoria-Carleton) said 50 per cent of the $800,000 paid in subsidies on potatoes last year was paid without justification.

Expenditure of about $100,000 in subsidies on new potatoes imported prior to last June 10 was justified because potatoes were scarce at that time. However, after June 10 any amount of potatoes could have been obtained.

Mr. Abbott said when the government decided to pay the subsidy there was a real shortage of potatoes in Canada. The subsidy was first applied to imported potatoes and latter was extended to the domestic crop. The government expected the potato shortage to continue for some time, but shortly after inauguration of the subsidy payments large volumes of potatoes began arriving on the markets.

Looking back on the situation now, the government realized the payment of the subsidy was not necessary, but the turn of events could not be forseen at the time.

Mr. Hatfield said the subsidy was paid when prices went up, but was not paid when the prices went down. This was tackling the problem in reverse.

Mr. Abbott said the subsidy was paid to permit the consumer to buy potatoes at ceiling prices. Potatoes imported from the United States could not have been sold at ceiling prices if the subsidy had not been paid.

Several opposition members urged that the government make public the report of the corporation's investigators, who investigated payments of the potato subsidy, but Mr. Abbott said the report was not the type of detailed report which should be produceable. It was not proper that a detailed report of an investigation to a government be produced.

Synod Advocates Sex Booklet

TORONTO June 2.—(CP).— The Synod of the Anglican diocese of Toronto last night endorsed five specific measures in connection with sex education and venereal disease control. The program was criticized by Rev. G. N. Luxton of Toronto who said it overlooked the armed forces "in which there ought to be an intensive Christion approach."

"The medical officers are preaching an entirely different doctrine," he said. "They as much as say 'you can't be good but be careful.' In some units orophylactis are distributed. We should insist on Christian idealism among the medical officers instead of peddling this unsavory attitude through our forces."

Rev. G. H. Mason, who introduced the five resolutions, said some action has already been taken in this connection but "it has not been done publicly, to avoid a scandal." He added: "What Mr. Luxton says is true. It is a scandalous situation."

The specific measures endorsed by the Synod included: Appointment by the Archbishop of a special committee to prepare an outline of instruction on marriage and sex for the guidance of clergymen, parents, teachers and others, suitable for children of confirmation age and for guidance of persons about to be married.

Rev. D. M. Ross of Oshawa and Dr. G. S. Cameron of Peterborough were named to the executive committee of the diocese

Lightning Fires Large Barn At Bancroft Cattle, Pigs Perish In Disastrous Blaze

BANCROFT, June 2—(ENS)—Lightning believed to have been conducted into the barn by a hay conveyor during a brief electrical storm which swept over the Bancroft district Wednesday afternoon destroyed the main barn, the stables, the granary and two other sheds on the farm of Frank Hinze in Monteagle township.

The contents lost included seven head of cattle, several pigs, four tons of hay and 200 bushels of oats; a cutter, a separator, binder, mower, sleigh and a ton of fertilizer.

Only the direction of the wind saved the residence of Mr. Hinze, who at the time was working on an adjacent farm. The fire was first noticed by neighbors, who formed a brigade and fought the flames. The loss was estimated at approximately $5,000.

Storms Reduce Forest Blazes

By The Canadian Press.

Canadian forest fires have lost their chief ally—the weather—and officials in Ontario, Quebec, and Nova Scotia, where fires have ravaged unchecked for more than a week to-day reported most of the blazes now under control.

Ontario's eight uncontrolled fires in the North Bay-Cochrane area were still causing great damage, but officials said the heavy storm on Wednesday night has aided them considerably. Most of the smaller fires now are checked.

"The situation is a lot better, but we still have to contend with a big fire in North Williams Township in the Gowganda district," one official said yesterday. There are 16 townships affected and the fire has covered more than 70,000 acres.

Officials in Nova Scotia said most blazes are under control although a 24-hour downpour of rain is needed to end the hazard.

In Temiscamingue and Abitibi Counties in Quebec, an estimated 100,000 square miles of standing timberland has been burned with damage to timber estimated by one lumber official at more than $10,000,000.

Also destroyed in the Quebec fires were the greater part of the blueberry bushes which last year yielded more than $1,500,000 for pickers in the district.

Rains in New Brunswick yesterday eased the forest fire menace and aided workers in controlling all outbreaks.

There were no new reports from Alberta's Peace River district of British Columbia.

McNevin Lauds Prices Board

OTTAWA, June 2.—(CP).—Bruce McNevin (L., Victoria Ont.) said last night in the Commons that he believed the people of Canada had been well served generally by the Prices Board.

Mr. McNevin saiad if sugar and automobile tires were not rationed the cost of them would be out of bounds for many.

Possibly one complaint against the Board was that officials in charge of the Board's regional offices were not always as considerate and as courteous as they might be.

He said it would not be amiss to have regional officials called to a central point at least once a year and told how to enforce restrictions in a way which would not be offensive to the public.

Mr. McNevin said he wishes to suggest that the Board pay a subsidy to Ontario clover seed growers. There would be a large export market for clover seed in Europe after the war.

A subsidy to the growers of fall wheat in Ontario also would be helpful.

Detroit, June 2 (AP)

A 35-year-old auburn-haired dress designer is held here on a Federal charge of fraudulent receiving servicemen's dependent allowances on account of four husbands, but Federal Bureau of Investigation agents said today her marital adventures were much more extensive than that.

In fact, if she used the names of all the husbands she remembered, her names would be:

Mrs. Marian Labyatt Hopkins Coffey Sperrow Fitze Barker Stermanns Neumann Patchett Zerich Wilhelm Cowarth Horn Calvin Stankowich.

That's 15 husbands since 1926, according to the F.B.I. count.

De Valera Holds Clear Majority

DUBLIN, June 2— (CP-Reuters) —Prime Minister de Valera's Fianna Fail Administration has been returned to power with an overall majority of 14 in the Dail.

Final figures for last Tuesday's general election showed the standing was as follows:

|---|---|
| Fianna Fail (Government) | 76 |
| Fine Gael (Chief Opposition Party) | 30 |
| Labor | 8 |
| National Labor | 4 |
| Farmers | 9 |
| Independents | 11 |
| Total | 138 |

The Dail—Eire's House of Commons—has been summoned to meet June 9.

De Valera called the election three weeks ago after a Government-sponsored transport bill was defeated in the Dail by one vote.

Merchant Fined By Prices Board

BELLEVILLE, June 2 — (CP).—Don Christian, Oshawa, and manager of the Christian Electric Stores, was fined a total of $32.75 after being convicted in court today of offering for sale or supply and installing fluorescent lighting fixtures, contrary to the regulations of the Prices Board. Mr. Christian said he had installed such fixtures, but they were units that had been discontinued in manufacture.

Magistrate J. L. Lloyd said he did not think the Christian firm had deliberately violated the regulations, but the company was guilty of a breach of a technical point and therefore the minimum fine was imposed.

May Send Draftees On Overseas Draft

TORONTO, June 2 — (CP). — The Globe and Mail in an Ottawa despatch to-day said "increasingly critical manpower shortages and the imminence of invasion operations together have spread the feeling in Parliament that the Government will soon invoke the Mobiliation Act and make some 50,000 high-category personnel of the Home Defence Army subject to service on overseas battlefronts."

Separate School Board Facing Crisis

OTTAWA June 2—(CP).—Resignation of all members of Ottawa Separate School Board in protest over a 1.98 mill increase in the tax rate for separate school supporters ordered by the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs was viewed as a possibility to-day.

Trustee Achille Reny of Rideau ward resigned Wednesday, and Trustees Henri Rheaume of Ottawa ward and Romeo Lachaine of St. George's ward said they would resign their seats at the next meeting of the Board.

The Board's finances have been under control of the Municipal Affairs Department for nearly three years since the Board defaulted in payment of its debentures.

Hon. George Dunbar, Minister of Municipal Affairs, wired the Board Wednesday instructing it to set its tax rate at 16.78 mills, an increase of 1.98 mills over last year's rate.

Board Chairman Adelard Chartrand said he was "keenly disappointed" with the action taken by authorities at Toronto, and said the Board was refusing to accept any responsibility for the increase in taxation.

With the increase, Separate school supporters will have to pay civic taxes at a rate of 43.18 mills, against 33.5 mills for public school supporters. Most of the Board's members have postponed decision on whether or not they will resign until its next meeting.

Anglican Synod Considers Year's Program

TORONTO, June 2—The Anglican Church extension program, the most ambitious for many years, was detailed yesterday to the annual synod meeting of the Toronto Diocese in St. James' Parish House.

Thirteen different church sites were taken under consideration within the last year, and three were purchased. The sites for which the church is "financially committed" are at the corner of Old Park Dr. and Ridgeway, in the Bathurst and Eglinton area; at the corner of Southborne and Wilson Ave.; and at Bloor West and Prince Edward Rd., in the Kingsway district.

The report was presented by Very Rev. C. E. Riley, who explained, "The Church of England is aroused to a sense of the importance of keeping pace with the growth of population, not only of the city of Toronto, but also in other centres. The committee rejoices in the liberal response to the appeal for funds."

Year Brings $24,000

Last year, the Synod decided to appeal for $75,000 for extension, to be raised on a three-year basis. In one year, Dean Riley declared, $24,000 had been raised. The responsibility of the direction of this plan has been undertaken by Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Dean Riley added.

Work In China Told To Circle

MILLBROOK, June 2—(ENS).—Mrs. G. E. Burnham and daughter Jean were joint hostesses for the May meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle held at their home on Wednesday evening, with the president, Mrs. Elsie Paulson, in the chair. The worship theme was "Jesus Calls Us," and the poem "Master Speak," with Betty Lunn reading the missionary story. Two letters were read by Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, one from Jean Stewart, a missionary in China for over ten years, and a prayer partner of the Circle, telling of her work, in spite of war condiions. Miss Stewart is a teacher and works especially among the children. The other letter was from Miss M. Banfill, now in Labrador, and vividly portrayed her travels by dog team and canoe to give nursing aid in a variety of cases over a wide area. The leader conducted a quiz on various aspects of mission work as carried on by the auxiliaries and circles throughout the world, and the treasurer reported a total of $26.75 on hand, half the year's allocation at the half-year period.

A silver tea will be held by the Circle on June 24 on the lawn of W. H. Theobald's home, Anne Street, from 4 to 6 p.m., to which the general public will be invited, and details were discussed and arranged for.

The June meeting will be in the form of a Sunset service on Sunday, June 25, and will probably be at the home of the honorary president, Miss E. L. Hetherington.

Cobourg Briefs

COBOURG, June 2— (ENS) — Charles Baker of Harlowe was sentenced to five days in jail Thursday dating from May 28 when he appeared on a remand for breach of the oil controller regulations. He was arrested last Saturday by Provincial Constable Douglas Wilson on a charge of unlawful possession of a commercial gasoline book.

Keen interest is being shown by local residents in the impending arrival Sunday of the covette HMCS Peterborough. The corvette will be given its reception by the city of Peterborough in Cobourg harbor. The Cobourg corvette was given its reception on May 24.

Rev. Dr. P. J. Kelly pastor of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church is making good progress toward recovery following the illness which has kept him in bed for some time.

Staff sergeant Ray Keating of Cobourg has been invalided back to England from Italy his wife here has been advised. He is a paratrooper.

Beer For Crews

MONTREAL, June 2 (CP)—E. F. Riddle, general manager of Park Steamship Company Limited, said yesterday the Company is considering including beer in store supplies on all Park freighters operating from the East and West coast. The beer would be alloted to members of the crews on a ration basis.

Returned Men And Justice

The Examiner suggests that the Crown might be well advised to give its most careful attention to the assault case which appeared in the Police Court here on May 9. To recapitulate it briefly, a drunken and violent man broke into the apartment below his own, and there assaulted the householder, a man in his 74th year, and beat him up severely. In court the accused admitted that he had been drinking, and had in fact put away a bottle of wine, six ounces of liquor and two pints of beer in the course of his evening. All this happened at one o'clock on a Sunday morning.

The magistrate sentenced the defendant to a month in jail, and said that if he had not been a man returned from overseas service he would have made the punishment heavier. It is worth noting that the jail sentence is now almost expired and the attacker will soon be free; the attacked, however, is still suffering from the effect of the pounding which he was given, and is likely to do so for some weeks to come.

The question which this newspaper wants to bring up is this: does service in the armed forces mitigate the conduct of a hoodlum who has been returned to civilian life? Is the returned soldier not as responsible for his actions as other men? We ask this because we think that the reputation of returned soldiers should be jealously guarded, and we do not think that this end is achieved by admitting that returned men are, in some measure, licensed brawlers.

When the war is over we shall have many thousands of returned men in Canada. Ninety-nine per cent. of them will be upright, decent, law-abiding men; one per cent. of them, or less, will be ruffians—men who would have been ruffians whether they had been in the services or not. Are we to cast a slur on the ninety-nine per cent. by treating the one per cent. with misguided leniency? Is the label 'returned man' to excuse, or partially excuse, conduct which is clearly indefensible? To narrow the matter down, is a returned man to have a trivial sentence for breaking into the house of a man old enough to be his father, and beating him up in a drunken rage?

We do not think that the majority of returned men would appreciate such an attitude in their homeland. They are fighting for justice and the suppression of terrorism and hooliganism abroad, and they do not want to see it lightly treated at home.

'. . . But Ne'er So Well Expressed'

Alexander Pope summed up the matter for all time in his Essay on Criticism:

True wit is nature to advantage dress'd,
What oft was thought, but ne'er so well
express'd.

How few of us take pains to polish our expression! We complain at length about this, that and the other, but how rarely we boil our complaint down to the form in which it is briefest and strongest!

The people of Britain have plenty to grumble about at present, and with a view to getting a little fun out of the grumbling the New Statesman recently offered a prize for five epigrams about food. Food in peacetime England is always a fit subject for debate, for the Island Race seems to be unevenly divided into a majority who can, and do eat very dull food without protest, and a minority who cry aloud for food which delights the palate and does not actively antagonize the digestion. In wartime England the situation is seriously aggravated.

Here are some of the epigrams which were submitted in the contest: "From the soggy, the gritty and the lease-lent, good Lord deliver us"; "The gourmet and the merely protein-conscious will always sit on opposite sides of the table"; "The sanctity of despising food comes near to the hypocrisy of denying life".

Epigrams on the dried eggs which are now so common in Britain are especially good. Consider these: "It takes a world war to convert an egg into a shell egg"; "Un oeuf is, nowadays, as good as a feast"; "If spiced ham is called Spam surely dried eggs should be called Dregs. . . ."

Hunger is a great stimulator of greed, and there is wistful reminiscent lip-licking in these: "The man who says 'enough is as good as a feast' proves clearly that he has never feasted"; "Nature was niggardly in the matter of food when she gave us only sufficient appetite for four meals a day and a few odd snacks"; "Food is the universal bribe; it is understood by all and has an appearance of good will".

For comment on special wartime conditions, we turn to these: "The better the day the longer the queue"; "A French menu covers a multitude of English sins"; "It is easier to catch a fish in the sea than in the queue"; "The tails of oxen appear to have been among the heaviest casualties of the war".

The English traditional girding at English traditional cooking has its innings, too: "The average Englishman takes two things for granted: the goodness of his women and the badness of their cooking"; "The potatoes were less floury than the gravy which was, if possible, more watery than the greens".

And we must conclude with a piece of wisdom which provides plenty of food for thought — which, indeed, almost sums up a whole political philosophy: "No gourmet has ever had any stomach for revolution".

It used to be said that the British took their pleasures sadly. Perhaps, but they still know how to take their adversities with gaiety.

Will The Toothpick Come Back?

The Ontario Dental Association, we observe, has put the full weight of its approval behind the toothpick. "We believe in putting the tooth picks back on the table—anything to keep the mouth clean", said one of the dentists at the convention which is being held in Toronto. Unless teeth are brushed and picked, they decay; smoking and drinking are bad for the gums; indeed, we have even heard it whispered that the present reduction in the liquor ration was engineered by the dentists in order to save the gums of Canada. There is nothing you can do with your mouth which won't hurt your teeth, in fact; even eating tends to wear them out after a time.

But to return to the toothpick; will the Dental Association be able to bring it back? Frankly, we are not hopeful, for although tooth-picking is undeniably enjoyable it is also unsightly. No one can look distinguished, intelligent or beautiful while plying the little wooden stick; there is only one way of picking the teeth, and that is to assume a glassy stare, open the mouth wide, and dig.

We have seen people try to pick their teeth with an air of well-bred hauteur. Frenchmen pick with animation and enjoyment. Germans before the war had a method of plying the pick under cover of a napkin. But the result was always the same. They all looked as though they were doing something in public which should have been done in private.

No doubt the Dental Association is right; we ought to pick our teeth. But we still don't think that the association will ever make the toothpick smart.

Expedition From Brazil

It was on August 22, 1942, that Brazil declared war on the Axis powers. Now there are 15,000 Brazilian troops at Rio de Janeiro, about to cross the ocean to take their place wherever the United Nations need them most. As the New York Times has pointed out, this is a reversal of historic precedent:

"Fleets and armies have come from Europe to some of the countries south of us. A French adventurer seized Rio de Janeiro in the seventeenth century but was soon driven out. From 1580 to 1640 Portugal was part of Spain and subject to attack by the enemies of Spain. A fleet of the Dutch East India Company occupied Pernambuco in 1630. In 1661 the Dutch gave up their claims to Brazilian territory.

"Brazil is now continuing and enlarging the armed effort against Germany which she made in the First World War under the Presidency of Dr. Braz. From the outbreak of that war most Brazilians sympathized with the Allies. After the Germans torpedoed a Brazilian steamer off the French coast Brazil broke off relations with Germany on April 11, 1917".

It was similar German action between 1939 and 1942 which brought Brazil into this war. Brazilian vessels were attacked by German U-boats without regard for their neutrality. At last Brazil had no alternative but to declare war, and since then she has done much to assist the United Nations in what President Vargas has called 'a fight to re-establish the human values of liberty and justice".

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mussolini is reported to be designing a new Italian flag. Which, a contemporary suggests, will probably be flown at half-mast.

The price of penicillin has dropped from its early price of $20 per 100 Oxford units to $3.25. This should bring disease within the reach of all.

How To Be Sane

By
BRUCE HUTCHISON

IN the screeching chaos of modern life the one sure haven and anchor is a cabin in the bush (as I have written in many previous springs and will write again every spring, so long as I own a typewriter and a cabin). No matter what happens in the world, the cabin is there after the long winter, smiling its welcome—faithful, unchanging, uncomplaining of your neglect. Flinging open its creaky door for the first time every year, you cross the threshold from lunacy to sanity.

Sanity, nowadays, is a hard thing to come by. You cannot be sure of finding it in study, for many of the most eminent professors are as crazy as coots. You cannot generally discover it in business, where the most successful men invariably make themselves slaves and consider that they have failed if they do not die of cardiac trouble in their fifties by overwork. You will not usually acquire it in politics, where the sane man is constantly distracted by the whirling dervishes of reform and the stuffed shirts of reaction.

In fact, the only sure place to find sanity is in a cabin in the woods. This is not merely because the cabin is remote from the world's insanity. One could find the same remoteness, I suppose, in a submarine or a coffin. No, the cabin offers something else entirely which is essential to man's sanity and which he has lost in ordinary life. That is the opportunity to function, to build, to create.

THE fact that the building and creation around a cabin are bungled and absurd does not remove their essential magic and spiritual health. Sanity is usually bungling and nearly always absurd. The sanest men invariably bungle their lives according to the standards of the world and appear absurd simply because they refuse to imitate the world's accepted absurdity. Therefore, though the owner's work around the cabin may appear bungled and absurd to strangers from a bungled and absurd world, the owner knows their true worth.

It is not to be reckoned, of course, in money or even in beauty of craftsmanship. You could easily purchase for a few dollars all the furnishings made by the owner through years of toil. It would be much cheaper to hire a carpenter than to build on, with your own labour, all the additions and the numerous outhouses, and the results, to the casual eye, would appear better. But that argument misses the whole point, the whole value of the cabin, the whole philosophy of cabin ownership. The value of the property counts for nothing and the quality of the workmanship likewise is unimportant. The magic, the health and the sanity all lie in the fact that the workmanship is your own.

THAT is the supreme need of man—to function, to create, to express something inside himself, however bungling and absurd. And that is the thing which man has lost in modern society. He has lost the chance to function, to create and to express. He is no longer a part of creation but a cog in a vast machine. The artist and craftsman has been replaced by the mechanic, and society is sick as a result, sick with a disease which cannot be cured by any economic reform—a philosophical and spiritual problem which men are trying to solve through government or through business, like a doctor trying to cure heart disease with a ship's compass.

The cure will be found only in creative work and in solitude. This cannot be arranged within a city, even in a man's own home, for here he is still subject to the conventions of society. He can add whatever rooms he chooses to his cabin. He can wreck and bungle it beyond the imagination of architecture. He can tear it to pieces and remould it in still crazier forms. The whole resources of his imagination can riot through the design and construction of outhouses with Keats' magic casements opening on the foam of perilous seas, in faery lands forlorn. No one will interrupt this cleansing madness. No city building bylaws will forbid it. No neighbours will criticize it. Only the forest will watch and its great trees will nod in understanding.

Men of grosser sort may retire to country homes to lie obscenely in the sun, to loaf, to read, or even to drink. They are no better than the slaves of the city, the cogs in the world's machine. The only man worthy of a worthless and priceless cabin is he who labours for it, whose sweat has built it and re-built it, whose immortal longings have gone into every board and shingle, whose sanity has come out of the satisfaction of work done, a dream realized. And if it is no dream to strangers, if they see only a crude structure of gaping seams and unskilled carpentry, that is because they are blinded by the world and have yet to work their way out of it.

U.S. Family Names

(Belleville Intelligencer)

The American Magazine first published the following letter:

Dear Sir: Answering your correspondent's query, the following are the twenty-four most popular surnames in this country, with my careful estimate of the numbers of persons bearing each name:

| Name | Estimated Number |
|---|---|
| Smith | 1,258,010 |
| Johnston | 938,880 |
| Brown | 701,940 |
| Miller | 663,850 |
| Jones | 663,420 |
| Williams | 660,160 |
| Davis | 532,960 |
| Anderson | 448,470 |
| Wilson | 399,890 |
| Taylor | 357,220 |
| Thomas | 354,910 |
| Moore | 352,760 |
| Martin | 337,960 |
| White | 337,010 |
| Thompson | 328,110 |
| Jackson | 308,680 |
| Harris | 289,080 |
| Lewis | 256,980 |
| Allen | 243,450 |
| Nelson | 243,370 |
| Hall | 242,170 |
| Robinson | 231,980 |
| Green | 220,430 |
| Adams | 216,400 |

Your correspondent might also be interested to know that the most common English surname is also Smith and that Scotland has even more Smiths in proportion to its population. Murphy is the most popular Irish name, while Jones leads in Wales; in France it is Martin; in Germany, Schmidt, while Spain favors Garcia.

"Where There's A Will . . ."

"WASHINGTON STAR"

IN two separate addresses within the past few days—one in this city and the other in Charleston, West Virginia—Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, made two simple points of prime importance in relation to the future. The first of these is that the peace-loving nations of the world must make it a matter of basic policy to predicate their own disarmament only upon the condition of first establishing a system of collective security guaranteeing that potential aggressors will not have a chance to cut loose again. The second is that Britain and America must spare no effort to continue co-operating in the post-war period quite as much as they are co-operating now.

The point on disarmament speaks pretty much for itself and is already set forth in the Atlantic Charter. It stems from what happened in the years between the First and Second World Wars, when the victorious Allies dissolved their battle partnership, neglected their arms and began travelling separate roads, ending that unity of purpose and joint strength by which they could have stopped the Hitlers and Tojos before it was too late. As Lord Halifax says, it means first of all that we must in the future refuse to the late aggressors, by whatever actions or regulations may seem most sure, any opportunity to start trouble again. "It means, secondly, the maintenance of these controls or prohibitions until we are satisfied that there is a real and permanent change of heart. It means, finally, the refusal to permit any one-sided infraction of any terms that are imposed or accepted". It means, in short, no more appeasement, no more Munichs; it means backing up the next peace with force until there is set up a permanent and effective security system making force no longer necessary.

As for perpetuating close co-operation between Britain and the United States, that, too, should speak pretty much for itself, although there are those who profess to see great obstacles in the way because of the alleged conflict in the interests of our two countries. Lord Halifax argues otherwise, and he argues persuasively. There are differences between us, of course, but none of a vital nature and none that cannot be settled through a fair give and take. In modern history, since the establishment of the Monroe Doctrine, we have almost invariably joined hands in time of war or of gathering world crisis. This is not only because we speak the same language and share a common heritage in our free institutions. It is also because geography, our position in the oceans, makes us so dependent on each other that when Britain is threatened, we feel insecure, and vice versa. That is perhaps the basic reason why we team up in war—and if in war, why not in peace? Considering how far-flung our joint power is, Lord Halifax may be nearer right than wrong when he says that he doubts that the present world struggle would ever have started if the two of us "had worked together from 1919 to 1939 as closely as we fought together in 1917 and 1918."

As we move toward the next peace, the possibilities implicit in these two points — lasting Anglo-American co-operation and the watchful control of potential aggressors—are well worth the most careful consideration, since we would be well on the road toward an enduring system of collective security if we would make them materialize. Nor should we think of this as a remote prospect, for, as Lord Halifax says, although our intentions and resolutions were similarly good after the First World War and yet came to nothing, it is reasonable to hope that mankind will take the lesson of the past to heart and do better this time. In any case, in peacemaking as in other things, the old saw still is sound: Where there's the will, there's the way.

Inviting Inflation

(FINANCIAL POST)

THERE is an important and timely sermon for the government in the current story of the four U.S. luncheon friends meeting in Washington.

One reached for the check saying, "This is on me. The way taxes are, it only costs me 80 cents on the dollar." The second offered to pay the check saying it only cost him 70 cents on the dollar. The third wanted to pay with his 50 per cent discounted dollars. The fourth said, "Let me pay. It won't cost me anything. I have a Government contract at cost plus 5 per cent."

Present blunderbuss tax methods inevitably and naturally lead to extravagant business methods; to recklessness about operating and other expenses. In most companies executives are constantly fighting such tendencies and are worried about the inevitable shock coming to some of their associates when the conditions of normal prudence again prevail.

U.S. observers are very blunt in attributing a good deal of the huge increase in travel, telephone and telegraph service to the fact that present tax schedules have removed all or nearly all of the incentive to corporate thrift.

Another way in which the present form of taxation intensifies pressure against the wage and price ceilings and increases the demand for scarce goods and services is through the stimulus it gives to construction, rehabilitation and other forms of business spending with dollars "costing" only 20 or 30 cents because of the form of taxation.

There was a similar unwise development during the depression when the Federal Government offered to match, dollar for dollar, the municipal expenditures on relief projects regardless of the kind of work contemplated. More than one municipality, inebriated with the prospect of spending dollars "costing" it only 50 cents went on a building "jag," stretching sidewalks, pavements and other services right out into the hayfields. Their debt increased and so did their inability to meet further relief calls as the depression continued.

In the forthcoming budget it is very sincerely to be hoped that the Finance Minister will call for drastic and long overdue changes in the form of taxation.

There will be strong political resistance to any change in corporate taxation from those who say that any alteration in corporation taxes will be interpreted by the C.C.F. as a Liberal Government concession to business.

That reasoning is fallacious and shortsighted. It is like hobbling a plough horse so he can't walk in order to prevent him running away.

Businessmen are perfectly prepared to carry their proper share of the nation's tax load. But when the form of that taxation leads to undesirable business practices, when it weakens the capacity of business to provide secure jobs, the that taxation is nationally harmful, and in the long run decreases the taxpaying powers of the nation.

If the Administration policy is going to be determined by what the C.C.F. likes or doesn't like, then let's have done with this masquerade.

Incredible, But True

While two continents strained to make ready for the decisive ordeal of the war, 62,000 workers idled in the Detroit area last week as the result of strikes that shut down two dozen war plants. To cry "Shame!" is a waste of breath, or of good white paper. This sort of thing has been going on ever since Pearl Harbor. It is shameless in its indecency, in its callous indifference to human life, in its cruel obliviousness to the feelings of those with loved ones soon to be plunged how this so-called Arsenal of Democracy ever is into the above-mentioned ordeal. We do not see to live down the record compiled here. We do not see how unionism ever is to live it down or how the Federal Administration can justify to history its own record of utter failure to deal with the evil at all resolutely, or even try. . . . A strike of 3,000 workers was called over a dispute between rival unions as to which should deliver the soft drinks on sale in a war plant! This plant makes assemblies for the Bofors anti-aircraft gun, for heavy bombers and for army trucks. At any time this strike would have been remarkable for childish petulance. At this time, it—well, it leaves one open-mouthed in amazement.—Detroit News.

UNAVOIDABLE

History has reached one of those terrible moments when neither pity nor goodwill, nor hard working can alone find a way out. The way leads through death and wounds, through pain and sorrow. The ordeal by fire cannot be avoided.—Vancouver Sun.

DISORDER IN COURT

When the Government was at last able to open its case against the 29 persons charged with seditious conspiracy, it was met with another storm of boos, catcalls, objections, roars of laughter, disorderly appeals of constitutional rights, protestations of injured innocence and stump speeches.

One defendant seemed to set the tone as he bawled out, "I'm a Republican, not a Nazi", and the heights of the judicial process were achieved as another, indicating some one on the public benches, screamed, "That's a Government stooge; throw him out!"

The defendants may or may not be guilty as charged, but one can only say that if they had wished to convict themselves in the eyes of the public of being the treasonable tools of Adolf Hitler they could not have chosen a better method.—New York Herald Tribune.

TICKLISH SUBJECT

A method of rendering wool non-ticklish by treating it with the juice of the pawpaw, luscious tropical fruit, is reported to have been developed by Australian research workers. A great advance, indeed. But the itch from winter underwear has become such a traditional and accepted part of life in Canada from November to March that we wonder if seasoned wearers of woollies could get along without it. — Montreal Gazette.

DOUBLE TAX

There is an inequity in the tax system in the fact that profits are taxed twice and double, ordinary profits, not excessive war profits, for there are none of the latter. A company pays a 40 per cent. tax on its ordinary profits. The small stockholder pays it equally with the large stockholder; the poor man equally with the rich man. Then, after the dividends are distributed, and dividends in Canada are not above the level prior to the war, they are taxed again as personal income.

In the recent British budget the Chancellor indicated the lines along which a recession of taxation would be made as the war ends. He allowed a token recession and promised a further one when the circumstances permitted. It is a course which Mr. Ilsley well might follow to build assurance and give guidance to post-war enterprise.—Regina Leader-Post.

A Bible Message

Man that is born of a woman is of few days, and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down: he fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not. (Job 14: 1, 2.)

Lord, what is man, that thou takest knowledge of him! or the son of man, that thou makest account of him! Man is like to vanity: his days are as a shadow that passeth away. . . .

I will sing a new song unto thee, O God: upon a psaltery and an instrument of ten strings will I sing praises unto thee. . . .

Rid me, and deliver me from the hand of strange children, whose mouth speaketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsehood: that our sons be as plants grown up in their youth; that our daughters may be as corner stones, polished after the similitude of a palace. . . .

Happy is that people, that is in such a case: yea, happy is that people, whose God is the Lord. (Ps. 144: 3, 4, 9, 11, 12, 15.)

Lo, this only have I found, that God hath made man upright; but they have sought out many inventions. (Eccl. 7: 29.)

"What on earth are you clapping for, have you gone mad?" he cried. "The woman's voice was simply awful."

"Oh, but her dress is lovely," cried his wife, "and I want to have another look at it so that I can give the dressmaker hints upon making mine."

Install Officers At CWL Meeting

MARMORA, June 2 (ENS)—The May meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the Sacred Heart school this week with a good attendance.

The meeting opened with the past president, Mrs. J. Black in the chair A letter was read acknowledging a box of clothing for overseas. Mrs. Black made reference to the dedication of the Honor Roll and Day of Meditation and Prayer to be held on Sunday, June 11. Before relinquishing the chair to the president-elect, Mrs. Ed. O'Connor, Mrs. Black thanked the chaplain, Rev. H. J. Farrell, also the past executive and members for their co-operation and assistance during the term of office as president. Following the roll call letters of thanks were read from members of the parish who had received gifts such as baskets of fruit during illness.

Mrs. K. Macdonald then presented the treasurers report.

Convener's were appointed by the president as follows: Publicity, Mrs. J. A. Shannon; Social Service, Mrs. Charles Crawford; Child Welfare, Mrs. L. P. Hughes ; Red Cross, Mrs. Mary Hughes and Mrs. Rose Johnston; Refreshments, Mrs. C. Cook and Mrs. Joseph Doyle; Program, Mrs. J. Black; Mailing Papers, Mrs. T. Warren; Pianist, Mrs. E. Shannon; Membership, Mrs. Hannah Auger and Mrs. Charles Crawford; Magazines, Mrs. J. Belanger.

It was decided to hold a Bingo in the School on June 12 each member to donate twenty-five cents towards the prizes.

Rev. Father Farrell addressed the gathering congratulating the new president and urging the members to cooperate with the new executive and carry on a successful year as in the past. A piano solo by Mrs. J. Black was contributed by Mrs. J. Black followed by a reading by Mrs. J. Belanger entitled "To Many."

Unique Art Gems Stored At Vatican Face Destruction Through Nazi Action

By WILL BARON
Central Press Canadian

This war has been no respecter of historical and spiritual landmarks. Although the Allies have promised to do all in their power to preserve the ancient and significant buildings of that city and the Roman Catholic church, these cities are now in peril as the British and American armies battle closer and closer to the Eternal City.

The peril, as the Allies have advised the Vatican, is contingent upon Nazi conduct in areas in which those building stand. Germans held off the Allied drive into Cassino by converting the 14-century-old onastery into a bristling fortress. Allied planes had to blow the ancient establishment into rubble to protect troops from the deadly machine-guns and artillery from within its walls.

Fate Hangs in Balance

Such structures as the Vatican, St. Peter's, the Pantheon, the Colosseum, the Forum, the Arch of Constantine, the Capitol and other historic structures face imminent destruction. This destruction may be the wanton demolition of retreating Germans; or it may take the form of military necessity on the part of the Allied forces.

The Vatican, seat of the world-wide Roman Catholic church, is one of the greatest treasure houses of art in the world. In its galleries and museums are works of Michelangelo, Raphael, da Vinci and many other great painters and sculptors. Michelangelo's statuesque figures of the prophets in the Sistine chapel and his famous "Last Judgment" above the altar are irreplaceable works of religious art within the Vatican.

St. Peter's in Rome is the largest church in the Christian world. Its dome rises 435 feet above the square. It is also the final resting place of many popes.

The Pantheon, with its impressive columns, was built 27 years before the birth of Christ, rebuilt in the second century. It also houses the tomb of Victor Emanuel II, first king of the modern Italian nation.

The vast Colosseum is a storied structure of the days when Rome was in her greatest glory. This arena was the scene of the combats of the gladiators and the grim battles-to-the-death between men and beasts.

Millions of visitors during the centuries before World War II walked through the famous Forum and climbed the celebrated Palatine Hill. Students of the arts and theology came to Rome to study and work.

The great Arch of Constantine is another magnet for visitors. The Spanish Steps rank among the foremost architecture of the world; as does the Castel Sant' Angelo and the Piazza Navona, all built centuries ago. The Arch of Constantine was built to celebrate that ruler's victory over Maxentius in the fourth century.

The Villa Medici, built in the 16th century, has housed the French Academy of Art in recent years. Winners of the Prix de Rome were sent to study within its walls.

The massive Capitol building was constructed in 1143 A.D., and has been the seat of the municipal government of Rome ever since its dedication.

The fate of Rome and these buildings and the Vatican itself rest with the Nazis, who now occupy the area. If the Germans evacuate this sector, the historic building and religious centres will be spared from reduction to rubble.

If, as in the case of the ancient monastery at Cassino, the Germans use the buildings as fortifications, their destruction is unavoidable. The military necessity of saving British, Canadian and American lives may result in their demolition if the Nazis refuse to evacuate when the Allied war machine rolls through the gates of the Eternal City.

500 Millions Face Hunger

TORONTO, June 2 — (CP) — County and District Agricultural representatives in Ontario today continued their study of wartime and post-war farm problems on the second day of a two-day meeting which began yesterday with a discussion of farm labor, marketing and other questions.

Premier Drew told a dinner meeting of the representatives last night that he did not share the view that the high production of foostuffs to meet wartime needs would create post-war problems, providing plans were made in advance for the broader picture into which agricultural production would fall.

If sanity prevails after the war and intelligence is applied to the problems, of peace, we do not need to fear over-production in our lifetime, he said. "It is impossible for us, so far removed from the impact of war, to realize that to-day there are 500,000,000 people on the verge of starvation, or actually starving and when victory comes only the productive capacity of countries like Canada will stand between these people and a return to the dark ages.

"But assuming that the distribution of food is organized, when these countries are freed, I can see a demand for our foodstufs such as has never been contemplated in the past."

Agriculture Minister Kennedy, who urged the agricultural representatives to keep in close touch with the farmers in their counties, said that the Government proposed a program of research and experimentation to assist farmers in maintaining the quality of their products. He expressed amazement at the volume of wartime production and said there were grave problems ahead in disposing of the volume of produce that could be produced on Ontario farms after the war.

The minister also voiced concern over soil depletion and said active steps would be taken to institute a program of reforestation, of preservation of existing trees and of soil conservation.

Kentucky Boy Joined Canadian Army At 14 Has 19th Birthday In U.S. Army Overseas

SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, June 2 — (CP-Reuters) — Pte. Marion Gigson of Covington, Ky., who will celebrate his 19th birthday June 23, boasts more than four years of war service.

He enlisted in the Canadian Army in Windsor, Ont., at the age of 14 and served for some time with the Essex Scottish Regiment. In 1942, after service with the American Merchant Marine, he joined the United States Army.

Gibson is married to a 19-year-old English girl, who was May Cowper of Maidenhead, Berkshire, before her marriage. They expect a child in September.

There was no immediate explanation of how Gibson was able to enter the Canadian Army at the age of 14.

Co-Op Venture 100 Years Old

LONDON, June 2—(CP)—Just 100 years ago a handful of Rochdale weavers banded themselves together and opened the first co-operative stores.

Since then the movement has spread to every country in the world until today the side street store in Rochdale has grown to what the British movement claims is the greatest business concern in the world.

Now, to celebrate the centenary of the Rochdale pioneers the Co-operative Wholesale Society is planning to embark, as soon as the war is over, on an immense development scheme which calls for spending $50,000,000, one of the chief features of which will be the extension of overseas depots to enable the movement to buy raw materials directly.

F. Woodliffe at the conclusion of his preliminary hearing. The Magistrate rule there was no evidence to support the manslaughter charge.

Omemee Society Plans Picnic

OMEMEE, une 2 (ENS) — Omemee and District Horticultural Society held their regular meeting this week in the Council Chamber, and enjoyed a lantern slide lecture on "Trees, Vines and Shrubs" presented by Mrs. Lloyd Hart. The Society had secured a number of silver maple and spruce trees and these were distributed among the members present.

The President, J. A. Bent, conducted the business period. It was decided to change the rules for the Home Improvement Competition. All village homes will be scored in the Fall of 1944 and judged on improvements effected since they were scored in the Spring of 1943.

For the June meeting, the Society plans to go to Peterborough, visit two outstanding gardens there, and have the picnic at Nicholls Oval The date set was June 21. Mrs. A. Stephenson is the director in charge of these plans.

Mrs. H. Hill and W. Wilson and E. Cornell were appointed as a committee to assist Miss Hazel Wilson with the July meeting on Flower arranging.

BIG MIKE . . . By Jack Sords

Pat Seerey, Slugging Indian, A Newcomer, Making Good

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian

When it comes time for allocation of awards for outstanding rookies in the major leagues this year you'll just have to give a nod to James Patrick Seerey, the big Irishman who patrols the outfield for the Cleveland Indians and propels long hits to the same outfield when he reverses his working procedure.

Seerey may be a pseudo-rookie, for he did come up last June. But the smiling, good-natured "fat boy" only played in 26 games last season while warming the bench the rest of the time. Seerey's batting average was a meagre .222 which would have classed him as a regular bench warmer if the Tribe hadn't needed outfielders this year.

Given a chance to play regular Seerey began to pound the ball and now today he is leading the American league race (such as it is) in home runs and has been one of the more effective clubbers on the Tribe roster.

"Pat," for that is what he's called, is a product of American Legion baseball.

A native of Wilburton, Okla., where he was born on St. Patrick's Day back in 1923, Pat worked his way up to notice where he batted .330 and socked 31 home runs.

The next season Pat moved up to Cedar Rapids where again he batted .300 and clouted 33 homers.

That was enough for Tribe officials and the husky outfielder wound up at Wilkes-Barre. He was called up to Cleveland last June.

Watch Him

At first Pat couldn't hit curve balls but he has overcome that this season to belt those pitches, too.

An all-round athlete in his school days, Pat played football and liked basketball although his weight forced him to forego the cage sport.

Pat contributes some of his success this season to his loss of avoirdupois. He weighed 226 and now weighs a mere 200.

While Pat may not turn out to be a Rudy York or a Jimmy Fox at the plate, he has shown enough in his minor and major league career to date to indicate he merits attention as a future big league star.

SPORTS - Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The outstanding City Softball League game of the season is billed for Riverside Park Monday night when the two leading teams in the loop, the Switchgear who are leading the race with four straight wins and Plazas who are in second place, a game behind, will clash. First place will of course be at stake and with the keen rivalry that exists between the two clubs it should prove the most exciting game of the campaign. Realising that this looks like the contest of the year the City League has decided to make it a benefit game for the British War Victims' Fund and every cent taken in will be turned over to that most deserving fund. In addition to the opportunity of seeing a grand game and also of helping a splendid cause, the fans will have a chance to win a couple of valuable draw prizes, a Brinton rug and a blanket. The ball game in itself should be enough to draw the biggest crowd of the summer. The teams are well-balanced, both have a lot of power and there is nothing either of them likes better than beating the other fellow. Plazas have Terry Wood, Dave Wilson and Frank Stokoe all ready to throw in at the league leaders while Murph Chambers will have Ronnie Akers and Bert Harrison both ready for action. Holly Mowry expects to be back in the Switchgear lineup and Plazas will have their full battle array. It is a natural and the British War Victims' Fund should benefit substantially.

Two of the younger teams in the Girls' Softball League will supply the entertainment at the Ashburnham Bowl tonight when the Quakers and Lock Works clubs will clash in a league fixture, called for 6.45 o'clock. The Quakers made their initial appearance the other night against Westclox seconds and came close to starting off their season with a win. As it was they were only nosed out by one run, the final count being 4 to 3 for the Baby Bens. Lock Works also lost their opening game but they have revamped their team since then and with several practices since the team is in much better shape and are hopeful of grabbing off a win tonight. The teams look to be evenly matched and as a result tonight's contest should be close all the way with little to choose between the two outfits. From teams like these must come the senior players of tomorrow and so there should be a real crowd on hand to encourage the youngsters. They need support at this stage in their softball career if they are to develop and improve. Much depends upon the fans who can make or break young players by the kind of reception they give them during their formative years.

Still More Thrills

Tag team wrestling which started off in Peterborough with a bang Tuesday night and was pronounced by local fans as the most thrilling mat fare that has been offered here will be back for next Tuesday night's show at the Brock Street Arena but with one change in the cast. Frankie Sexton the Pacific Coast champion who partnered Nick Elitch in the Tuesday night battle here has asked Promoter Tunney for another crack at John Katan and Bunny Dunlop, the victorious badmen, on the condition that he be allowed to select another partner to replace Elitch. The impressario was quite agreeable and Sexton asked that he should be teamed with Wilbur Toar Morgan in a best two-of-three-falls match with the rowdy Katan and the roughhouse Dunlop. "Give me Morgan," said Sexton, "and I will guarantee that we can put up a fight that will make Dunlop and Katan wish they had never heard of team wrestling. Nick did the best he could the other night and that head butting of his helped but he's a little too light for that pair. Dunlop weighs 254 and Katan 236 and that is a lot of weight for Elitch to try and handle."

* * * * * *

Fans who saw Tuesday's battle will agree with Sexton. They got a lot of kick out of the humorous touches contributed by Elitch but at the same time they realized that Sexton had to do most of the wrestling for his team and made a swell job of it throwing Dunlop for the only fall registered by the losers and keeping his own shoulders from being pinned. With Morgan to spell Sexton out the bad man team of Katan and Dunlop who are willing to tell the world any time that they are the toughest pair in the mat game today are likely to find the going a whole lot tougher next week. Morgan is young, fast, tough and durable and he can fight back alley style or wrestle straight, just as the opposition wishes. With a grappler of his ability backing up the classy performance of Frankie Sexton, the clash between these two powerful teams should be about the last word in excitement. The two teams are evenly matched in weight and skill and with a fresh partner jumping into the ring every few minutes the pace should be hot from the opening bell. The addition of Morgan as a teammate for Sexton will be popular with local fans who would like to see Katan and Dunlop made to say uncle and think the new team can turn the trick.

Another Sewell Year

By this time the opinion is general that Rip Sewell's blooper ball is no fluke. The Pittsburg veteran picked off his seventh victory of the season yesterday as against two defeats as the Pirates nosed out the Brooklyn Dodgers 2 to 1. Sewell allowed only six well scattered hits in grabbing off the win. Curt Davis, Brooklyn veteran pitched some fine ball, too . In fact he yielded only four hits but two of them happened to be homers by Dalhgren and Barrett and that was the ball game. Munger of the St. Louis Cards who is having quite a season pitched a four-hitter against the Boston Braves and the league leaders took that one easily at the expense of Al Javery. Munger has won six games this season and has only been beaten once, a nice card. The Philadelphia Blue Jays won a high-scoring game at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds with the scoreboard showing the final tally as 8 to 7 for the Phillies. Barrett was the winning pitcher and the loser was the former International League ace Tomas DelaCruz who has dropped four games this season while winning two.

* * * * * *

The feature game in the American League yesterday saw Detroit make a clean sweep of the four-game series with the New York Yankees by beating the men of McCarthy 4 to 3 in a 16 innings battle. As a result St. Louis Browns remained at the top of the league column in spite of the fact that they took a shellacking at the hands of the Washington Senators. The New York-Detroit battle was a honey. The Tigers took an early lead and were in front 3 to 1 at one stage but the Yanks picked up a run in the sixth, added another in the ninth to tie it up. Then the rivals fought for seven long innings before there was another counter. In the 16th Don Ross came through with a double to score Jimmy Outlaw with the winning run. Hal Newhouser who was called upon in the ninth was given credit for the win while the loss was chalked up against Atley Donald. And now the Yanks want to know who started the idea that the Bengals couldn't win at home. Stan Spence's terrific batting was the spark that enabled Washington to larrup the Brownies 11 to 5, with the winners making 20 hits. Boston Red Sox were also winners, chasing three runs in in the ninth to overcome the Cleveland Indians 7 to 6.

Switchgear Team Captures Fourth Straight

Switchgear won their fourth straight City League triumph last night by turning back the Soldiers 11 to 4 in a game that was not nearly so lop-sided as the final score would indicate.

It was, in fact, a close tussle until the seventh. The winners were only one run in front up to that stage but they scored two in the seventh to widen their margin and finally salted the game away with a four-run rally in the eighth.

Soldiers came up with a new pitcher in the person of Don Procyk, a Winnipeg boy who looked as if he would be a big help to the Military Training Centre when he gets into shape. Procyk stepped off the rattler here yesterday morning after a four-day train ride from the Pacific Coast and it was not surprising that he tired on end, especially in view of the fact that it was his first pitching effort since he hurt his shoulder a year ago.

Although a bit wild he showed a nice turn of speed in the early stages and the hard-hitting Switchgear team didn't do much with his delivery until he weakened toward the finish. And he suffered, too, from some indifferent support.

Ron Akers went the distance for the Switchgear to win his second game of the season and although he yielded a dozen hits, he only allowed the losers to build up one real rally and pitched himself nicely out of several jams.

Fielding feature was contributed by Junkin, second baseman for the Soldiers who made a circus grab of a sizzling drive from Akers' bat and doubled McNabb off second with a quick toss to Ossie Anderson, who covered.

Switchgear broke in front in the first frame. With Tompkins out Carpenter walked, Playford singled to right and after Ashmore had flied out to McIlveen Brockley doubled to right for two runs. Nicholls flied to Mortimer to end the inning.

Soldiers got one back in the first of the third. With one out Beatty bunted safely and went to second on Anderson's hot shot which was knocked down by Akers. McIlveen singled over second to score the run.

Switchgear came back with three in a rather lucky frame. Tompkins was forced at the plate on Ashmore's roller to Anderson. Brockley dumped a little roller down the third base line. Paris thought it was foul and when he finally did make a play he threw wild to the plate and two runs counted. Then a passed ball permitted Ashmore to go home with the third run of the inning.

There was no more scoring until the sixth when the Soldiers came through with a rally that almost knotted the count. McIlveen started with a single to left, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Morgan's line single to left, the batter going to second on the throw in. Mortimer fanned but Junkin doubled over third and Morgan counted. Paris singled to centre, Junkin stopping at third. McLaren struck out. Procyk's hopper to third got away from Tompkins and Junkin crossed the plate. Beatty whiffed for the third out.

Soldiers had the bases full in the seventh on hits by Anderson and McIlveen and then a pass to Mortimer after Morgan had been retired running into a bunted ball in trying to sacrifice. Junkin, however, fanned and Paris fouled to McNabb.

Switchgear got two in their half. Ashmore reached second on Anderson's bad throw after fielding his grounder. A wild pitch, a pass to Brockley, a single by Cal Nicholls and Holmes fly to right sent in the pair.

The winners broke it wide open in the eighth. With one gone Tompkins tripled to right. Carpen-

Aircraft Girls Win 21 to 5

Aircraft girls wore their very attractive new swing skirt uniforms in their Girls' League clash with Johnson Motors at the Bowl last night. But they carried more than neat toggery into the battle, including good pitching and a lot of power at the plate, and when it was all over Aircraft had won by 21 to 5.

The Outboard Marines tried hard and made a fight of it in the early stages but weakened under pressure toward the end and the classy Aircraft girls piled up the score. They were stepping into the ball hard and the official statistics show that Eleanor Craig hammered out two home runs and Norma Strickland and Irma Perdue also hit for the circuit.

Marg. Selkirk and Norma Strickland divided the pitching duties and both turned in fine cards while they were given fine support by their team mates. Helen Mark toiled on the hilltop for the losers.

Aircraft scored at least one run in every frame, starting with a single in the first inning. Johnson Motors matched that with a counter in the first half of the second inning but Aircraft came back with one themselves in their half. The Outboard Marines chased in two runs in the first of the third to go in front 3 to 2, but once again Aircraft roared back with three in their end of the frame and they were never threatened after that.

The team were:

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

With every rink that was scheduled to play, playing, and with very few substitutes, the 1944 season got away to a good start on Thursday evening. There were the usual surprises and upsets, but we were too busy to notice them. You see, it is like this—yours truly happens to be skipping a rink in this season's schedule; if you do not think that keeps you busy, just try it sometime.

So between Nels Routley's quartette and the many thousand mosquitoes we were really busy; but as soon as we get on to the hang of the thing we will be able to give a few more details of the games.

Sewell Beats Brooklyn For 7th Win

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

It's only five games from top to bottom of the American League scale today as St. Louis Browns celebrate their latest feat of "losing" themselves into first place.

When the Brownies were slaughtered yesterday by Washington, 11-5, as New York Yankees were squeezed out by Detroit, 4-3 in 16 innings, Luke Sewell's crew took over the lead by two slender percentage points. They have won four and lost three more than the champions.

Steve O'Neill repeated with Paul Trout and Hal Newhouser in relief roles to shade the New Yorkers.

Stan Spence slammed six hits in six times at bat to tie the modern record that team-mate George Myatt and 23 others hold as Washington routed four Brownie hurlers with 20 blows.

George Metkovich banged a three-run homer in the ninth to give Boston a 7-6 victory over Cleveland.

Johnny Barrett was the whole show as Pittsburgh topped Brooklyn 2-1 for Rip Sewell's seventh triumph. Barrett's eighth - inning round-tripper won the game and his catch of Luis Olmo's long drive in the ninth saved it.

St. Louis Cardinals lengthened their national lead to 3½ games by downing Boston 4-2, while Cincinnati bowed to the Phillies, 8-7. George Munger joined Mate Max Lanier in the six-win class but had to be relieved by Fred Schmidt after dislocating a finger trying to stop a liner.

Danny Gardella slammed his fourth homer in the seventh frame of a night game to score behind Bill Voiselle with the two runs of the New York Giants 5-3 edge over Chicago.

Tigers Climb Near Top Take 6 In Row

DETROIT, June 2—(AP)—There's no pennant talk just yet, but the highly-inflammable Detroit base ball public is getting mighty curious about the team that in a fortnight has soared from the American League cellar to 1½ games from first place.

By completing a sweep of a four-game series with the champion New York Yankees yesterday, the Tigers ran their winning stream to six games and made it 17 victories in 25 starts for a breathless .680 pace.

Yet in the spring the over-age club generally was consigned to the second division. Manager O'Neill is getting enormously satisfactory pitching from his mound staff.

The Tigers got away to a slow start and were lodged in last place until they made their first swing of the east where they won 10 of 14 games. Curiously, they got out of the cellar May 17 by beating ex-teammate Bobo Newsom at Philadelphia and have been climbing ever since.

Win, lose or draw, box office business is always pretty good at Briggs Stadium, and the Tigers have played to nearly 200,000 in 21 home games.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Provision for a wide variety of sports equipment for men of the armed services stationed at many Ontario centres was made at a Toronto meeting of the Sports Committee of the Citizens' Committee for the troops in training.

The equipment includes softball equipment, tennis balls, soccer outfits, fishing tackle, and numerous other lines. It will be supplied as quickly as possible.

Men stationed at training ships, Air Force stations, and military depots as far apart as Sault Ste. Marie and Brantford will benefit.

The committee assured authorities of M.D. No. 2 Headquarters of full co-operation with the Army and the Ontario Athletic Commission in the Army track and field meet to be held in July.

At Brooklyn Calvin McLish, the 18-year-old Oklahoma City schoolboy who pitched his first National League victory on Wednesday, passed his physical examination and was accepted by the U.S. Navy. He remains with the Dodgers until called.

The U.S. Army at Boston rejected Al Javeny, right-handed pitcher of the Braves who has one of the lowest earned-run averages in the majors. Javery was found to have varicose veins.

The New York State Athletic Commission has sanctioned the Henry Armstrong-Al Davis fight, and Mike Jacobs immediately set the date for June 15 at Madison Square Gardens.

In the feature bout on Toronto's weekly wrestling show last night Wild Bill Longson and Whipper Billy Watson were both counted out of the ring after 56.38 minutes.

TORONTO, June 2 — (CP). — Jimmy McLarnin, hardy little Vancouver scrapper who once held the world welterweight crown, wants to come back to Canada to live again, Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell reports. Jimmy has been living in Berkeley, California, since he retired in 1936 and bought the controlling interest in a soap factory in the state where rain never falls on the Boards of Trade.

Jimmy fought nearly 200 times in his ring career from 1924 to 1936 winding up with those classic battles against Barney Ross.

Round the bay:

Just to show how sporting events build themselves up, Walter (Hamilton Spectator) McMullen says that the around-the-bay race which has become a popular feature in Hamilton, originally started as the result of a bet among several sportsmen back in 1894. A group wagered that Bert Aussem, the best walker in the crowd, could cover a three-mile distance in 38 minutes. He tried but failed by a minute, and from that start the race gre into it present more lengthy form.

Incidentally:

Harry (Calgary Albertan) Scott picks Neil Campbell's Pagan Star as the horse to beat in the $5,000 added Canadian Derby at Winnipeg on July 5.....The fans are fickle down Montreal way. Here it is only June and they have started to give the Bronx cheer to some of their baseball Royals....Eddie Gilmore, one of the most ardent devotees of lacrosse on the West Coast, was guest of honor at a party the other night when reminiscences flowed freely. Gilmore coached Richmond Farmers the past eight years, taking them to the Mann Cup finals against St. Catharines in 1941....Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle would like to see Bill Brand's pronunciation guide for National League players extended to the International. There is good fodder for some syllable-shivering too, with players like Yovanovich, Filipowicz, Strohmeier, Pfeiffer, Mackiewicz, Amanicz, Mustaikis, etc., etc., to baffle announcers and scorekeepers.

Oriole Fielder Provides Batting Power

By the Associated Press.

The rolling Orioles gathered moss and are mighty happy about it too. For Howard Moss, who roams the outer pastures for the Baltimore Orioles, has proved a pleasant surprise for the Songbirds.

He was received in a swap with Jersey City for Catcher Bob Becker last winter, but the deal was called off when Becker was accepted by the Army. Then the Little Giants sold Moss outright to the Orioles.

In yesterday's 21-hit 13-4 victory over Newark, their sixth straight Moss hit a home run, triple, and two singles, drove in four runs, and scored four himself. The homer was his fourth in 10 days.

The victory placed the Orioles only a half-game behind second-place Toronto and 1½ games from the league-leading Jersey Giants.

Jersey City maintained its lead by blanking the Syracuse Chiefs 7-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Mike Mellis. It was the Chiefs' ninth straight loss, a losing streak which has dropped them from first place to seventh.

Led by Jim Tyack, who hit a homer with the bases full, Toronto swamped Buffalo 11-1. Johnny Zontini and Red Kress also hit round-trippers for the Leafs. Woody Crowson held the Bisons to six hits, while Toronto gathered 15 off three Buffalo hurlers.

Rochester and Montreal were not scheduled.

Whiskey Muddle Blamed On Premier King

TORONTO, June 2 (CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario, in a statement issued yesterday on the reduction of the liquor ration to 13 ounces a month, said the Ontario Liquor Control Board had no choice under the circumstances and "the whole situation is one which calls for a removal of the restriction by the Dominion government and the placing of full responsibility under the provincial authorities in regard to both quantity and distribution."

Beverage alcohol has been and is being manufactured in Canada in large quantities, he said, adding that the limitation imposed by the Dominion government is not the result of a shortage of beverage alcohol."

Canada exported more than 2,000,000 gallons of beverage alcohol last year "a quantity not very far short of the total amount consumed by the people of Canada.

"At the same time reserve stocks of potable spirits in the warehouses of Canada on March 31st this year were higher than on the same date in the first year of the war."

Should provincial authorities have responsibility for fixing the amount available there was no thought that it would lead to a great increase in the consumption of spirits, Mr. Drew said.

"On the contrary, the experience since the removal of the restriction on beer demonstrates that the problem is largely psychological. The moment the arbitrary restriction was removed the situation improved immediately. There is ample evidence that the appetite for beer was greatly stimulated by the difficulty of obtaining it.

Evils of Prohibition

"The inescapable fact is that some of the evils of prohibition are being revived by the knowledge that it may be difficult to obtain spirits through the ordinary channels," Mr. Drew said.

During the recent sittings of the Ontario Legislature the members were informed of the Ontario government's request for the removal of the restrictions and the reasons for the request being made, Mr. Drew said.

Ten days ago, he added, the Ontario government again requested Ottawa to remove the restriction and the request was refused. "That refusal left the Liquor Control Board with no alternative but to reduce the quantity which could be obtained by any individual permit holder," he said.

Mr. Drew, referring to the fact that 80 ounces of liquor monthly are allowed in Quebec, said "there may be some good reason for this striking contrast in the ration, but there can be no doubt of the effect of this situation upon the minds of those who come in contact with it."

Cattle Steady Calves Down 50

TORONTO, June 2 — (CP), — A good supply of cattle was cleared at steady to strong prices on the Livestock Market here this week. Hogs, sheep and lambs were steady. Veal calves closed 50 cents lower.

The Dominion Marketing Service reported coolers were well cleared of beef and more decent killers could have been absorbed without weakening market prices. Small buyers were promient on the market and several loads of cattle were forwarded to Quebec Province. Weighty steers sold at $11.50-$13. One load of special quality steers, grading all red and dressing 60 per cent sold at $13.50 cwt. Butcher steers were $11-$12.50, and heifers $10.50-$12. Fed yearlings were $12-$13.50. Butcher cows sold at $8-$9.75, with canners mostly $5.50-$6. Bulls were $7-$9.75, according to quality. Stockers and feeders sold at $9-$11.50 cwt, milch cows were slow at $85-$120 each, while backward springers were in demand at $30-$150 each.

Veal calves closed at $8-$14.50. Earlier in the week good to choice calves brought $14 to $15, with common to medium Easterns from $7 to $13.50.

A small supply of spring lambs sold at $16.50 cwt. for choice. The common to medium feed-lot lambs and yearlings sold at $8.50-$14 cwt. Sheep were firm at $3 to $6 cwt.

Hogs sold at $17.55 to $17.65 for Grade A, off trucks at the yards and at local packing plants. Sows dropped 50 cents to $12.50 dressed. The hog run was light and some hogs held over from last week were cleared.

Aided Refugees

Rome has known terrible days in its history, he continued—in the 16th century, in the 18th and many other occasions.

"On all these occasions the Popes of the times succeeded in avoiding catastrophe and rescued and opened their doors to refugees of all creeds of all nationalities," he said.

"But what were the numbers of 6,000 or 7,000 refugees compared with the thousands of today?"

"To the last of our energies, and helped by so many good people, we intervened often," the Pope said. "In spite of the violations of our own rights we have tried to help the population of Rome and its surroundings, supplying them with food.

"We have also started negotiations in order to bring food by way of the sea. But the consent of one belligerent still is awaited."

Continuing the Pontiff said: "We have tried everything in order to spare Rome one of the darkest moments in its history. It is our supreme duty to follow the rules of our Lord as Peter did.

In all the nations of the world there is a want for the future New Order. But this New Order must be supported by just and wellbalanced moral and material guarantees.

"Hopes for a future pleace would be better based and more realistic if there were not so many religious movements which have departed from the Christion church and created separatist churches."

Adverse weather conditions hampered aerial activity in New Guinea but a giant Pacific triangular area was dotted by bomb craters to-day—across 1,000 miles of the Carolines, north of Guam, then beyond Japan in the frigid Kuriles and back to Wake—as the consequence of coordinated blows by American bombers from three war theatres.

In unprecedented operations bombers from the Southwest and Central Pacific combed the Carolines; Central Pacific planes flew the 21,300 miles to Guam; other Central Pacific bombers pounded Wake; and Aleutian-based planes struck the Kuriles. All planes returned safely from these operations.

Big Four Plan To Benefit In Peace Time

OTTAWA, June 2 —(CP)—Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia yesterday set before Canadian Senators and Commoners the suggestion that co-operation of the British Commonwealth, the United States, Russia and China in war should be extended into the peace for the good of mankind.

Making his plea for "the average citizen," Mr. Curtin said that fraternity among the powers had been indispensible to obtain strength to meet the attack of enemies. It should be preserved and nourished by statesmanship to ensure there would be no recurrence of the condition in which the sword became the instrument of government rather than the light of reason.

In Canada en route home from the conference of empire prime minister's in London, Mr. Curtin reached Ottawa Tuesday evening and left for Washington yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Curtin was welcomed to the Commons chamber by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, who praised the contribution Australia had made to the war effort.

In turn, he praised the contribution by Canada in her fighting men and her supplies of war materials.

Mr. Curtin said that the Australian struggle had been a struggle to serve the world. The Japanese drive to cut the line of communication between Australia and North America had been nearly successful, and Australia came close to being isolated.

"It was a very close call that Great Britain had," he continued. "It was a very close call that Australia had. Just a little more here, a little less there, and the result might have been different."

Admires Russians

The British Commonwealth prime ministers had met to help each other devise formulas and make arrangements, "so that in a world where none of us is strong enough to stand alone we shall discover how and by what means we can best stand with and for each other."

War was the worst evil which could befall nations. Upon the great nations, then, there fell the responsibility of making clear that the association of wartime should be continued to see that calamities such as Hitler and his collaborators had forced on the world were not repeated.

The light of reason, despite all the criticism of democracy could give to free people not a clear vision of the future, but a capacity for right decision the totalitarians could never attain.

Mr. Curtin said he praised the courage and determination of the people of Great Britain and gave his admiration to the achivements of the Russians.

Canadian regard for Australia as he would report it would give Australians inspiration and encouragement in carrying through to a conclusion the task of the United Nations "so that those forces of evil which commenced this struggle against liberty and freedom in the world will be forever destroyed."

the Germans to roads where additional bridges are out and in some places traffic jams extend for miles.

3. Earlier strategic bombings doubtless have wiped out many Nazi factories which the Germans need to produce motor vehicles.

4. In general the capacity of the enemy to repair blasted rail lines has been swamped. Heavy British assaults on French rail centres seem to have forced the Germans to abandon their plan of trying to get all yards in full working order again, and the enemy now appears to be concentrating instead on repairing only through lines.

Col. Wilhelm Ritter von Schramm, a Nazi military commentator, said in a Berlin broadcast that large rail repair crews were busy in western Europe, working not only on bomb damage but also on "sabotage of railway installations and military buildings committed on an ever-increasing scale by groups of saboteurs provided with explosives dropped to them by air."

Cow Sells For $117

MARMORA, June 2 (ENS)—The auction sale held at the farm of John Connors in Marmora township Wednesday afternoon is considered to have been one of the best held in this section of the county in years. One cow realized $117 and others averaged from $80 to $90. Practically everything was disposed of at good prices and bidding was brisk so that the sale terminated shortly after 5 p.m. T. L. Johnston was the auctioneer.

Corporal Melville G. Perrin Is Killed In Italy

MILLBROOK, June 2 — (ENS). Mrs. Mary Perrin received word from the War Office on Wednesday evening notifying her that her only son, Cpl. Melville George Perrin, of the 48th Highlanders, had been killed in action in Italy on May 24. Cpl. Perrin was in his 30th year, and his father, Joseph Perrin, highly-respected citizen of Cavan Township, died four years ago.

Cpl. Perrin was with the Heintzman Company, Toronto, before his enlistment in July, 1942, and began his basic training at Brantford in October of the same year; later he was moved to Camp Borden, and sent overseas in February, 1943. After a comparatively short time in England and Scotland, he went to Sicily for active service, and later to Italy, where his death occurred.

Two sisters, Mrs. Ross Brown and Miss Alma Perrin, both of Toronto, and his mother, who lives at Ida, North Cavan, are the immediate survivors. A cousin, Pilot Officer Donald Williamson, R.C.A.F., the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williamson of Carbon, Alberta, was killed in action over one year ago.

Battery Plans Summer Camp

With preparatons for their summer camp to be held between July 30 and August 12, near Picton, already underway, an increased attendance and keen interest has been noted in the past few weeks at parades of the 4th (R) Heavy Anti-Aircraft Battery Training of an intensive kind, aimed at bringing the Battery to a high pitch of efficiency in order to get the most out of the two weeks in the field, is being carried out; and Battery parades are being held each Monday evening, as well as parades on Wednesday nights and Sunday mornings for officers, NCO's and specialists.

The camp this summer is to be solely an anti-aircraft artillery camp, with the unit firing its 3.7 Mobile A. A. guns which were acquired last year and which will go with the Battery to the firing ranges at Point Petre.

The camp there, which will be the temporary home of several units during the summer period, is now being put in shape in preparation for their arrival; and during recent weeks a large number of men have been at work getting the grounds ready. By the time the units move in, it is expected that things will be in excellent condition and the troops accommodations very comfortable.

An exceptionally competent instruction staff has been lined up, and the return of Maj. J. F. C. Maunder, M. C., training officer and adjutant of the 4th Battery as well as of the 51st Light Anti-Aircraft Battery of Ottawa, brings the training staff up to full strength. Maj. Maunder has recently returned from a stay of four months at Halfiax, where he participated in a combined heavy and light ack-ack course.

With interest in the forthcoming camp rising among members of the Battery, it is expected that there will be a large turnout. Notification of the date has been sent to each member of the unit, and the cooperation of plant managers in helping Battery members arrange to attend is being requested.

Park Meetings Being Planned

Meeting for the first time since its appointment by the Fish and Game Association, May 22, the committee selected to consider the question of a provincial park in Peterborough County passed a resolution Thursday night requesting Harold Scott, M.P.P., to arrange, if possible, for a representative of the Parks branch of the Department of Lands and Forests to visit this district and address public meetings at Buckhorn and Apsley at an early date.

Held over Roy's Studio, the meeting was attended by all members of the committee. They include Charles Kingan, Fred L. Roy, James Geraghty and Fred Marshall of Peterborough; Wallace Shearer of Buckhorn; and Norman Wilson and Lloyd Young of Apsley.

The motion originated with Mr. Wilson and was seconded by Mr. Geraghty. It was the feeling of the meeting that H. W. Crosbie, chief, Division of Land and Recreational Areas, would be a good man for the job in mind, as he is familiar with the district and well known to many of the residents.

A lot of misunderstanding, committee members felt, still existed among residents in the northern part of the county as to the exact basis on which a provincial park could be established. The public meetings at Apsley and Buckhorn would serve to inform these people of the precise nature of the plans; and would also give them an opportunity to express their views.

REPORTED WOUNDED—Sgt. H. V. Coombes, attached to an anti-tank unit in Italy, has been wounded in action, according to word received by his wife on Crescent Street. He enlisted in June, 1940, and went overseas in October, 1941. At the time he enlisted he was with the 4th Battery R.C.A., but transferred to another unit. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Coombes, 233½ Park Street, and prior to enlisting he was employed at the Peterborough Lock Company.

Suggest Change In City's Election Date

A change in the municipal election date is likely according to a resolution passed by the Finance committee of the City Council Thursday night. The recommendation reads that the date of elections be changed from New Year's day to the first Monday in December. If this passes the Council on Monday night a by-law will be prepared placing this date in effect for the 1945 elections.

Included in the resolution, which was moved by Alderman James Dutton and Roland Glover was a change in the date of nomination day. Previously it has always been held on December 23. The new ruling pushes it ahead to the Friday preceding the last Monday in November.

The committee unanimously supported this decision. It was felt that much more interest would be shown in municipal affairs if people voted before the holiday season interferred with other activities.

The City Clerk reported how elections were held in 14 other Ontario cities. He said that the clerks in all cities suggest opening the polls not earlier than 10 o'clock in the morning since voting in the morning is light, and to close the polls at seven in the evening. With the exception of Oshawa, Mr. Outram said that all of the cities held their elections the first Monday in December.

"In most cases the schools are used as polling places. Kingston introduced a new plan this year. The schools are used and on election day the children go to school as usual. For 15 minutes they are given a talk by their teachers on civic duties and the importance of voting and then are sent home with instructions to tell their parents about the election."

All cities report increased interest in elections since the date was changed. Belleville reports 60 per cent. of the electors voting in the last election, the report showed.

Concern was manifested over a new provincial statute affecting the Fire Department. This law becomes law June 5 states that when firemen go off duty, they cannot be called back in a case of emergency. They have an 8-hour shift. After which their time is their own.

"If the city were burning down, we could only call on half our Fire Department. That's ridiculous," one member of the committee exploded.

No one disagreed with the idea that the firemen should get their free time. But the Finance committee members declared that the law could not have been passed at a worse time. The labor shortage has affected them critically, and to follow the regulations means that the department would have to have a large increase in staff, if they could find the men.

Alderman Max Swanston pointed out that men working in the Fire Department have to be medically fit, to carry on such heavy work, and most of the men qualified to fill these jobs are serving in the Army or on war work.

It was also said it was the custom here that if a call came in from a neighbouring place, such as Lakefield, and permission was granted to go, that part of the staff leaving the station was replaced by men off duty. In an emergency, those men of duty are also called. They either man the station, or go out to help the others fight the blaze.

Alderman Jack Sullivan, chairman of the Fire and Light committee was instructed to prepare a resolution protesting the change in working hours of the department and forward a copy to the Premier of Ontario and the Minister of Labor.

Another resolution by Alderman Dutton and Herbert Bradburn was for The Finance Committee to seek a conference with the Peterborough City Trust to discuss the report of the city auditor in reference to surplus funds. It is hoped to find a means of reducing this surplus, through the cooperation of the two groups.

Labor Shortage Stopping Work

Although the Board of Works is willing in spirit to accede to demands from different sections of the city that certain improvements be made, it just can't be done, members of the Boards of Works were told at their meeting Thursday night.

Before the war the average number of employees in their department at this time of year numbered between 75 and 100 men. At the present time they are barely sliding along on 33, which means that many jobs have to be left alone. There aren't enough men to go around.

The committee received two petitions requesting help. One was from the residents of Manning avenue asking for a curb and gutter. The second was from the residents of Centre street in Ashburnham, asking for a cement walk. The Board of Works were unanimous in their agreement that the work needed doing, but passed a resolution vetoing it, because of the labor shortage.

Police Checking Car Drivers

Provincial Officers Price Morris and L. A. McClure are making a checkup on motorists and bicyclists, with a view to eliminating dangerous practices.

The officers are checking drivers for their driving permits, the condition of their lights and brakes and also for their driving technique.

It is stated that special attention will be paid to bicycle riders because of the increase in bicycle traffic on the highways.

"There is a lot of careless riding," Officer McClure stated this morning. "Cyclists are riding three and four abreast on the highways and some of them have had very narrow escapes from being hit. And a lot of them are still riding after dark without lights. We are going after all who are guilty of those offences."

Boys' Worker Dies

TORONTO, June 2 (CP)—Prominent boys' worker, George W. Hambly, 71, head of the drygoods firm of Hambly and Wilson, died yesterday at his home here. He had devoted much time to work on behalf of underprivileged children, having been largely instrumental in the establishment of the Bowmanville, Ont., school for boys and the girls school at Galt.

INDIAN WORKERS INCREASE

NEW DELHI — (CP) — Comparing 1939 with 1942, factory labor has increased from 1,751,000 to 2,156,000 recording an increase in four years of 531,000.

Lumber Firm Protests Council's Order

After studying possible locations around the city for new buildings to be erected by the Beaver Lumber Company, the Board of Works committee which met Thursday night reluctantly decided to allow the concern to operate at its present location.

Some of the committee felt that now a change was being made, it would be an opportune time, to shift the company to another section of the city and include their present grounds in their park. Although all favored the idea, a study disclosed no suitable piece of land which they were willing to relinquish for this project. The matter was let stand.

There has been considerable dissatisfaction expressed at the thought of having new wooden buildings built there. There is a by-law in effect which states that any commercial buildings must be fire proof, and the Council at a previous meeting recommended that brick buildings be erected.

In reply to this recommendation the Lunber company forwarded a letter Thursday night, explaining that brick buildings were unsuitable as storage places, and claiming that they injured the wood. The only proper way of keeping wood, is in frame buildings, the letter concluded.

It was finally moved by Alderman R. Glover and Max Swanston that the Beaver Lumber Company be allowed to erect buildings on the present site, but that the company must submit suitable plans to City Engineer R. Parsons, of what they intend to build before proceeding.

The Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Company applied to the City Engineer, Mr. Parsons, for a permit to shingle their buildings. When Mr. Parsons appeared to make his inspection he found that the work was already underway with wooden shingles and suggested the use of patent shingles. The members of the committee discussed the matter and decided that since city buildings, which stand alongside those of this company, were roofed with wooden shingles last year, that permission could not very well be with held. However, the company was warned that proper fire roofing must be used underneath them.

A suggestion from the C.N.R. that the city take care of the repair work necessary at railway crossings, with the railway reimbursing them, was given the cold shoulder. The committee passed a resolution that the because of the shortage of labor. clerk write them rejecting the offer

An agreement has been reached between North Monaghan township council and the City Council Board of Works about the care of roads this summer. The south side of Lansdowne street will be oiled by the township, and the north side of the boundary by the Board of Works.

It was also decided to advertise for a temporary part-time building inspector.

To Call Tenders

OTTAWA, June 2 (CP)—Tenders for the construction of the proposed new Soldiers' Hospital at Sunnybrook near Toronto are expected to be called at the end of this month, the Works Department said yesterday in a return for T. L. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview).

Employess Honor Howard Steggles

A. Wander Limited and the employees honored their manager, H. Steggles, on the occasion of his 25th anniversary with the firm on Tuesday.

Mr. Steggles joined the company in England in 1919. In 1929, he came to Canada to supervise the building of the Canadian plant and has been here since that time.

In recognition of the 25 years of faithful service, Mr. Steggles was presented with a gold wrist watch and Sheffield entree dishes from A. Wander Limited; a silver tea service and an illuminated address with all the signatures from the employees of the Canadian plant.

Guests present were Mrs. Steggles and J. W. Thain of A. McKim Limited, Advertising Agents, Toronto. Mr. Thain gave a brief talk on his pleasant association with Mr. Steggles and A. Wander Limited and presented Mrs. Steggles with a bouquet of roses.

After the presentations, Mr. Steggles thanked all the employees for their loyalty and co-operation during the years of service with him and asked for their continued support in the future.

Salvage Drive Will Open In City June 6

The third instalment of Peterborough's Salvage campaign, which is being directed, as were previous drives, by the Women's War Services Committee, will get underway next Tuesday and continue for four days. The dates are June 6, 7, 8 and 9.

Salvage drives in the city have now been put on a regular monthly basis, and henceforth will be conducted on the four days starting Tuesday of the first complete week in each month. Organization of the June drive has divided the city into four districts, numbered to correspond with the first, second, third and fourth days of the collections.

District Boundaries

Following is a table, also to be found in advertisement in this paper, of the different districts. District No. 1 is bounded by McDonnel street on the north, Sherbrooke street on the south, the river on the east and city limits to the west. District No. 2, bounded on the south by McDonnel and on the east by the river, stretches to the city limits in the north and west directions. District No. 3 all south of Sherbrooke and west to city limits, east to river. District No. 4: All of East City.

In previous collections a separate day at the end of the drive had been set aside to take in the business district, but inasmuch as the salvage return has been disappointing in that area by itself, this practice will no longer be followed. The shopping centre of the town will come under the first day's collection, in District No. 1

Consciousness of the role that all cities and communities must play in order to keep the vital scrap waste paper rolling to the mills where it is reprocessed for war emergency and essential civilian needs has braced the Peterborough Women's War Services Committee for a further effort at collecting salvage, even though the results of past drives have been on the whole disappointing and, in some particular respects, bitterly discouraging.

A bright note in the last campaign a month or more ago was the valiant response of the school children; whose natural energy and devotion to the cause was stimulated further by the reward of free movie shows and special prizes of pocket money. What the adults themselves did not do, the young pupils made up for in large measure, bringing many bundles of the precious scrap, lurking in dark corners, out into the light of day and their eventual return to manufacturing necessities.

It is, of course, waste paper that is "still Canada's foremost salvage need", to quote the words of Director of the Department of National War Services. Bulletins issued by that Goverment organization constantly refer to the many instances where the short supply of waste paper has held up orders for vital paper products. Moreover, with the country needing 20,000 tons of waste paper each month and collections often falling far below that minimum level, the paperboard mills are working on a day-to-day basis; and some are facing shutdowns because reserve stock supplies are critically low.

Situation Desperate

With the Minister of National War Services, L. R. LaFleche, urging all Canadians to help, it is stated that experts on the matter consider the shortage of waste paper has created "a desperate situation" Marching ever nearer to the enemy and with the tempo of battle increasing all over the world, the fighting men require more and more supplies to hold up their end. And to get them those supplies, there is no substitute for the containers made of waste paper turned in by householders.

A direct connection with the city is evident whenever a discussion of the paper shortage arises. Within recent months the British Ministry of Foods has placed large orders with Canadian mills for rolled oats in packages; and because of the shortage, the problem of packaging is very serious. Here the citizens of Peterborough are directly interested since the city is the home of the largest cereal mill, the Quaker Oats in the whole British Empire; and consequently most of the order will be put up here. Also a large user of packaging materials is the Western Clock Co., whose wartime production of clocks is going to fill essential requirements.

It is interesting to note that there are 51 articles used by the men at the front that are now manufactured from waste paper, though a year ago they were made of metal; and that in a recent month 1,000 tons of fighting material made of paper and varying from parachutes to temporary water pipes, were shipped to the Italian front. Direction of the difficult Italian campaign has already used up 710 tons of paper to map the country's rugged terrain.

Also urgently needed in the current salvage drive are all kinds of rags, the shortage of which is in many respects akin to and as serious as that of waste paper. Canada can no longer depend on outside sources for her supply; and importation that reached a level of 46,000,000 pounds in 1940 has since practically dwindled to nothing.

New Peep Holes

TOLEDO, O., June 2 (AP)—New-type observation panels of laminated plate glass are being installed in Allied tanks to permit tank commanders to view battle action without exposing themselves to enemy fire, the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Company, maker of the panels, reported yesterday.

BROTHERS SERVING—Veteran of the Italian campaign Everett S. Fairman (Right) has been promoted to the rank of Major, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fairman, Hastings. He is now in command of a light anti-aircraft unit, and he won his commission before going overseas in August, 1941. Major Fairman's wife and daughter live in Belleville. A brother, Flt.-Sgt. Gordon Fairman (Left) is with the R.C.A.F. in Weyburn, Sask. Before the war, he was on the permanent staff of the R.C.A.F. at Camp Borden.

Police Chief Hardy Resigns In Protest

POLICE CHIEF HARDY

PORT HOPE, June 2—(ENS)—Troubles are brewing again between the Town Council and the Police Department. Chief Gordon Hardy tendered his resignation Thursday because of interference from the police committee. Last year the chief and the police committee were at loggerheads until the council appointed a new police committee.

Trouble has broken out afresh and the matter will be the subject of a special council meeting next Monday night. Constable James Scott tendered his resignation after that of the chief in protest to the action of the police committee.

The town still has police protection, however, as the resignations are not yet effective. Chief Hardy said he resigned because of interference from the committee and Scott said he resigned in protest against the treatment of the chief.

One Month In Jail For Stealing Gas

Tegfryn Thomas, 29, R.R. 6, Peterborough, who pleaded guilty last week to stealing a quantity of gasoline from Border Transit Limited was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to a month's imprisonment in the county jail.

Thomas was employed by the Peterborough Bus Lines and was working at night. Gasoline had been missing and a watch was set with the result that Thomas was arrested by Constable Leo. Murphy.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., handed the court a copy of the accused's record, showing previous convictions.

"This was quite a while ago" commented Magistrate Langley, "Have you been going straight since you got out?"

Thomas replied in the affirmative and added that he had a wife and three children.

Magistrate Langley made the sentence one month but declined to act on the accused's suggestion that the imprisonment should date from a week ago.

Include Dentistry

TORONTO, June 2—(CP)—Dr. R. P. Vivian, Ontario Minister of Public Health, told closing sessions of the Ontario Dental Association yesterday that a prominent place is occupied by dentistry in Ontario in the Ontario Government's new health proposals and it is not too early to include dental benefits in a health program.

Garden Supplies Total $44.40 For War Victims

Commencing with a sale of seeds on the market some six weeks ago which netted $3.70, the stall made available by the city council to assist the work of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund has operated every Saturday morning since then, adding plants to the list of supplies sold for the past three weeks.

Last Saturday a nice supply of potted plants was donated from the Little Lake greenhouses through Frank Kitney and Isaac Harrison, and together with supplies from the secretary of the fund's garden, the amount raised stood at the highest for any single week-end, going over the $15.00 mark when the proceeds of plants sold privately later on in the day was added to the money taken in at the stall.

For this occasion two girls, Joyce Hanes and June Moore of the Prince of Wales School through F. D. Windrim their principal were in attendance as sales clerks, and were assisted by Gwen Cooper of Lundy's Lane, and they did excellent work to help the cause along, it being of interest to note that Mr. Windrim himself came to offer the girls encouragement, and see that they got away to a good start.

The plants supplied by the staff at the Little Lake cemetery found a very ready sale, their contribution repeating a similar one of a year ago, in addition to which they have assisted the fund through the sale of flower holders as accessory to the decoration of the last resting places of loved ones in the cemetery itself, and a number of these donated by Bill Naish are now once again on sale at the office or greenhouse to give still further help to the fund.

In all, counting the $15.45 credited in today's receipts, the nice total of $44.40 has been raised from the sale of these seeds and plants since this present season began, and each city public school has taken a turn in supplying two senior students to act as sales clerks as a contribution to the cause, the respective principal's giving splendid co-operation in this latter detail.

One other donation from a similar source is listed today, having been handed to the secretary of the fund to do what he pleased with in return for a neighborly act of supplying a few plants for the donor's own garden.

This Saturday's Market

Another supply of plants will be offered, some of them supplied by Harold Johnson, together with a few from the same source as that has been represented at every Saturday's market thus far, and two senior girls, Joyce Main and Doreen Ferguson from Confederation School through the kind arranging of Mrs. H. B. Jackson the principal, will be on hand to act as sales clerks.

The secretary of the fund will be glad to receive gifts of a like nature for sale at the same time, and there is a possibility that some may be forthcoming through the pupils of the school represented this week. Plants may be brought to the stall or left at the Examiner Office for the secretary of the fund, or a telephone call to 9896 could possibly arrange for their being included in this week's sale by other means.

|---|---|
| Previously acknowledged | $76,391.12 |
| Proceeds of sale of plants at market stall per Joyce Hanes, June Moore and Gwen Cooper | 15.45 |
| A neighborly gift | 1.00 |
| Total to date | $76,407.57 |

3 Showers Given For Bride-Elect

LAKEFIELD, June 2 —(ENS)— Miss Marjorie Dunford, whose marriage to Glenford Murphy takes place on Saturday was the guest of honor at several presentations this week.

About 40 of her friends met at Grace Gospel Hall on Monday evening and after Evangelist C. E. Tetham had given an interesting address, T. C. Yonge, on behalf of the assembly, presented the bride-elect and her fiancee with a lovely tri-lamp. Glen Crapp gave them a walnut end table from the young people of the church and the Mission Circle presented them with a quilt. Many friends gave them miscellaneous gifts.

Mrs. James Rae of Peterborough on Tuesday evening entertained fifteen of Miss Dunford's friends at a delightfully arranged cup and saucer shower. The bride-to-be was seated underneath an umbrella from which pink and white streamers were draped, and the gifts were brought in in a prettily decorated cradle. A buffet lunch was served.

The girls in the Main Office of the C.G.E. where Marjorie is employed, presented her with an occasional chair and a satin cushion Thursday evening. S. Shaughnessy presented the gifts on behalf of the group.

Cradle Roll Has Annual Party

More than 80 were in attendance at the annual cradle roll party for babies, mothers and children of the gras mat classes at the Salvation Army Temple on Thursday afternoon.

Races—5 and 6 year olds: First prize Johnny Edwards, second prize Douglas Lindores. 3 and 4 year olds: First prize Phyllis Wood, second prize Marion Routly. Babies: First prize Marion Ward, second prize Ross Smith.

Roy Kenneth Burns, 21 days old, received the prize for being the youngest child in attendance. Mrs. W. Tippett and Mrs. P. Lindores were winners of the thread-the-needle race. Mrs. H. T. Tippett won he prize for guessing the nearest number 763, of the babies who have passed through the cradle roll.

An interesting feature was the dedication by Major J. C. Wood of the infant children of Mr. and Mrs. L. Bennewith, Linda Joan and Paul Leonard.

The women assisting with the games and refreshments were Mrs. A. Scott, Mrs. L. Boorman, Mrs. T. Mills, Mrs. W Jones, Mrs. N. Carr, Mrs. S. Winterbottom, Mrs. B Smith, Mrs. K. Bolam, and Nancy Shadgett. The afternoon's proceedings were under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Richardson, who is in charge of this department, and who was presented with a beautiful spray of gladioli by co-workers. Major J. Wood presented the prizes.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

As the weather is getting warmer, we like to get away from heavy meals, yet have something that is nourishing and tasty, so we will give you some different ways of serving eggs.

Italian Eggs

1 tablespoon minced onion, 2 tablespoons melted fat, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 cups tomato sauce, ½ cup diced soft cheese, salt to taste, 4 eggs. Cook the onion in the melted fat until golden brown. Add all other ingredients except the eggs and stir constantly until cheese is melted. Add the slightly beaten eggs, stir gently until eggs are set. Serve on buttered toast.

Egg and Vegetable Casserole

2 cups diced cooked potatoes, 1 cup cooked celery, 5 hard-boiled eggs, sliced, ½ cup grated cheese, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon chopped pimento, 2 cups well-seasoned white sauce. Add all ingredients except the cheese to the hot white sauce. Pour into a well greased casserole, and top with grated cheese. Bake in hot oven over 450 degrees, about 15 minutes or until brown. Serve at once.

Piquant Stuffed Eggs

8 eggs, hard boiled, 3 strips bacon, ½ teaspoon minced onion, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 1 teaspoon vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt, paprika. Mash the egg yolks, add the cooked and finely chopped bacon, the minced onion, chili sauce, vinegar salt, paprika and enough salad dressing to make a smooth paste. Stuff the egg whites with this mixture. These stuffed eggs may be served with salad greens as a salad or added to white sauce and served on toast.

Crumb Omelet

4 eggs, ½ cup milk, ½ cup bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter. Soak bread crumbs in milk for 15 minutes. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, add liquid, salt and pepper. Beat egg whites in another bowl until stiff and dry and fold into the yolk mixture. Melt the fat in an omelet pan and tip it slightly to grease sides and bottom. Pour in the omelet and spread evenly on the surface. Cook over a low heat until the omelet is golden brown on the underside. Place it in a slow oven, 350 degrees, for five minutes to dry off the top. Loosen with spatula, fold and turn out on hot platter. Serve at once.

With The Girl Guides

On Wednesday night the 2nd Ashburnham Company of Girl Guides held its annual "Mothers' Night" and display, on the lawns of the Knights of Columbus. The District Commissioner, Miss Alicia Langley, welcomed the parents and guests.

A colorful enrolment ceremony saw the following Guides receive their Tenderfoot pins: Audrey Allen, Gloria Anthony, Ninita Bogue, Geraldine Bloom, June Blodgett, Betty Drummond, Marcella Fontaine, Patsy Johnston, Sheila Kelly, Yvonne Minicola, Lois Nolan, Ellamay Pearl, Mary-Louise Quesnel, Mary Shaughnessy and Patsy Williams. Captain D. M. Atton assisted the District Commissioner in enrolling the Guides. Presentation of the Second Class Badge was made to 2nd Madeleine O'Connor and the following received their Laundress Badges: C. L. Marie Crough, P.L. Mary Jane Fitzgerald, P.L. Barbara Johnston and 2nd Mary Cauley.

The company demonstrated several games and different parts of Guide badges, including charades of Guide laws, various methods of Morse signalling, and compass work. Short gym and pyramid display followed by a rollicking folk dance in which the mothers joined, ended the outdoor program.

Supper was then served by the Guides at tables tastefully decorated in the colors and flowers of each patrol. Guides Ninita Bogue and Patsy Johnston entertained with a violin solo and recitation. His Excellency Bishop J. R. McDonald presented hat badges to each member of the Lily-of-the-Valley patrol, for obtaining the highest marks in patrol competition during the year. Marie Crough, Company Leader, and Mary Cauley, 2nd, head this patrol. The Daisy Patrol ran a close second being only three points behind. During the sing-song around a mock campfire, C.L. Marie Crough made a presentation to Captain A. Langley on behalf of the company.

Doris Munro Given Prize

NORWOOD, June 2 (ENS)— The Get-Together Club met recently at the home of Mrs. J. Hamblin for a social evening and the presentation of a chesterfield cushion was made to Miss Doris Munro by Miss Muriel Andrews and Mrs. J. Hamblin.

The dress made at the sewing class by Miss Doris Munro received special mention at the achievement day held in Peterborough on May 27, when the leader, Mrs. L. Edmunds and Miss Muriel Andrews and Miss Doris Munro were in attendance. Five of the classes dresses were shown.

Welfare League Holds Thrift Shop Tea

The gracious hospitality of a lovely home was extended to Peterborough women Thursday afternoon, when the Junior Welfare League held their thrift shop tea at the home of Mrs. Hugh Waddell, Monaghan Road. Although the weather was warm, the house was cool and inviting, as Mrs. D. MacTavish, president of the League, and Mrs. Clair Collins, vice-president welcomed the guests and invited them to have a cup of tea.

Refreshments were served from two tables. One was centred with a large bouquet of spirea in a silver basket, set on a reflector, while the centrepiece of the second table was a low bowl, filled with fragrant blossoms. Pouring tea during the afternoon were: Mrs. R. H. Parsons, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mrs. D. Neeve, Mrs. Claude Rogers, Miss Annie Wood and Mrs. J. H. Eastwood.

General conveners for the event were: Mrs. R. Faryon and Mrs. Hugh Waddell. Assisting during the afternoon were members of the League: Mrs. W. J. Gordon, Mrs. G. H. Simpson, Mrs. A. Nobbs, Mrs. R. Honey, Mrs. L. McKeever, Mrs. W. Blackwell, Mrs. R. Stevenson, Mrs. W. Perks, Mrs. K. Lech, Mrs. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, Mrs. G. Walker and Mrs. W. B. Gordon, Mrs. Hubert Eastwood and Mrs. J. D. Anderson were in charge of registration, and received the gifts for the annual Thrift Sale of the League, which were the price of admission to the tea.

Two features of the afternoon were the tea cup reading by Mrs. Moore, and the card fortunes by Mrs. J. Dewart. Miss Annie Wood made the draw for the door prize which was won by Mrs. A. W. MacPherson.

Millbrook

Little Gordon Howard, four-year-old son of Major W. R. and Mrs. Howard, had a fall while playing with other children this week, and sustained a fractured left wrist. He was taken to the Clinic at Peterborough for an X-ray and Dr. M. E. Hobbs gave the necessary medical attention.

Miss May Attwooll, who has been a patient at Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, since last March, was able to be brought home on Sunday, her many friends will be glad to learn.

Mrs. Simpson, who is staying with her sisters, Misses Helen and Jean Lough, Ida, while her husband, Archdeacon William Simpson is attending Synod sesion at Toronto, has been guest of honor at a number of bridge parties this week. Mrs. H. A. Kerr of Millbrook entertained for her on Wednesday evening.

Miss Mabel Clarry of Peterborough, and her sister Mrs. Maxwell Cameron of Ottawa are at the family homestead, Park Roadway, this week. Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Clarry of Calgary are expected to arrive the beginning of next week and will remain for the summer months.

YES . . . it is nice to get up in the morning when your wife knows this fact about coffee. It's a lesson that thousands learned through having to make a little coffee go a long way:

To be sure of full enjoyment in every cup you must use really good coffee.

You'll start the day with fragrant full-bodied coffee that really does put heart into you if you drink Maxwell House. You'll like its grand, satisfying flavor so well you'll want to make it your regular coffee.

There are two main reasons why Maxwell House is so consistently good:

1. It's blended from rare, extra-flavor coffees, each with its own special quality of flavor, body or fragrance.

2. Roasted by a special process that roasts each coffee bean evenly all through.

Maxwell House is packed in a Wartime Bag in an All Purpose Grind and at less cost to you.

GET OUT OF THE BARRIER—

AND GET MORE OUT OF LIFE!

SO OFTEN the invisible barrier of "B.O." comes between its victims and their hopes of happiness. It goes where they go . . . dooms love, friendship, popularity!

Yet the answer is simple. Bathe daily with Lifebuoy and break out of the barrier! Lifebuoy, you know, is the only soap especially made to stop "B.O."

You'll enjoy its rich, velvety lather. And notice how Lifebuoy's invigorating scent vanishes before you're even dressed!

Remember, too, Lifebuoy is extra mild, extra gentle. Tests prove Lifebuoy actually milder than many so-called beauty soaps.

FROM HEAD TO TOE—IT Stops "B.O."

SHELL GAME IN FASHION—Earrings and pin accenting the widow's peak of this plain black beret are real conch shells, just like Triton's trumpet. The glamorized shell brooch is a sure enough cockle shell. Stylish as can be, sea shells used as decor, and not only for Victorian-minded room decorations, but as costume jewelry. Nina Wolf, who made a name for herself several years ago by boxes, whole pieces of furniture, tidbit trays, et cetera, encrusted with shells of all sizes and varieties, now turns her mermaid talents to pins, earrings, as you see by this photograph. David Mir, another well-known jewelry designer, has just completed his shell ornaments, too, his media Florida oyster shell and cabochon cut glass gems—as attractive as they are new.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

LONELINESS BREAKING UP HOME

Wife Should Leave War Job, Return to Husband Before Tragedy Becomes Fatal.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — I am a married man 34 years of age. Have been married for eight years to a woman who has been faithful, industrious, a good companion, and we have been very happy together. Since the war she has worked on the night shift in a defense plant in a nearby city and has only been able to come home for Sundays. I also work in a defense plant, but in my own home town, and my job is a day one. This makes it so that we only get to see each other occasionally.

The problem is that a girl of 19, who is a friend of my wife's, has been living in our house and she has fallen in love with me. I had never thought of her that way, but now I don't know whether I am falling in love with her or not. If my wife and I could live together, we would both be happy. And if we had children, there wouldn't be any room in my mind for doubt about the other woman. As it is, I don't know what to do. Can you enlighten me in any way?

Wife Should Come Home

ANSWER—Yes, I think I can. My earnest advice to both you and your wife is for her to give up her job and come back to live with you so that you can have a normal family life, and send the pretty young girl scooting.

That will save the happiness of three people, for in the end everyone of you is bound to be the victim of the mixup unless you straighten it out in time. For can't you see that what's the matter with all of you is that you are lonesome, you are hungry for companionship and affection and you are just inevitably turning to the people who are the nearest to you and with whom you are thrown in daily contact?

The girl thinks she is in love with you, although you are so much older than she is and you are a married man and she knows you are forbidden fruit, just because you are kind to her and propinquity is getting in its deadly work and making her forget her loyalty to her friend. And you are thinking that perhaps you are in love with her because it flatters any man for a younger girl to throw herself at his head. And your wife is making the fatal mistake of believing, because she knows you love her and will be faithful to her, that she can leave you to your own devices, and that you will sit at home of an evening and read an improving book, instead of stepping out with some cutie.

Money is a good thing to have, but it doesn't pay for dosing a perfectly good husband, and that is what thousands of wives are doing when they are tempted by the high wages to leave their husbands on the loose without homes or home comfort, or companionship, or a wife's watchful eye upon them. It is a high price they pay for fur coats and fine clothes they are buying.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX— I have a soldier boy friend who loves me very much. He is saving every cent of his money so we can marry when he comes back. He tells me that I am his whole future and that if I should ever leave him he would do something desperate.

Now the trouble is I have fallen in love with someone else and what I want to know is if I should tell him now, or wait until the world is settled again and let time deal with the situation?

CONFUSED.

Another Member For Brush Off Club

ANSWER — I think the honest thing to do is to tell him now that you have changed your mind and not let him go along nursing false hopes. News comes from the front that so many girls have fallen out of love with the boys they were engaged to that the discarded lovers have formed what they call a Brush Off Club, and they are finding great comfort in discussing their broken hearts with other forlorn lads.

Don't think the boy friend will take it too hard. "Men have died and worms have eaten them, but not for love."

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Do you think a girl should marry a man who has no way of supporting her and whom she would have to work and support if she married him, and who is allergic to work in any way, shape or form?

ALICE.

ANSWER—Not unless she is a glutton for punishment.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, June 3

THIS DAY'S astrological map holds rather conflicting and complicated conditions, with many annoyances and perplexities largely brought about by uncontrolled temper, impulses, emotions and speech. All this impetuosity, resentment, bad feeling and contention may prove a defeating factor to some well grounded chances for substantial success and solid achievements. It may also arouse the ire of those in high places but who may be disposed to use their authority to chasten or subdue. Keep within the law, work diligently on well organized objectives and there may be gratifying rewards and pleasant contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a year of substantial progress and sound achievements, with a solidification of the affairs. Efforts for enduring worth, security and permanence of position should not be jeopardized by a tendency to strife, contention, malice and an indulgence in impetuous and emotional moves as well as words or writings. They may forfeit support from public or influential sources and incite reprisals or penalties. Concentrated effort for the future should be enforced rather than momentary satisfactions of grudges.

A child born on this day may have many safe and sturdy qualities for serious achievements in life, but its tendency to strife, impulsive and emotional indulgence may undermine its best aspirations.

COTTON'S GALA NIGHT SHIFT—This bright pink, black and white plaided cotton gingham is fashioned for evening with a low-necked, snugly-fitted bodice with bertha and peplum, above a straight and narrow skirt. To be cool, wear cotton . . . also wear it to be chic, even on a gala evening with dancing beau in tow. The photographed dress above is all cotton, a gingham in black and shocking pink checked pattern. And unlike many gingham frocks with afterdark aspirations, no unlaunderable sequins have been added to point the notion on this frock, which is as practical as it is pretty.—By Prunella Wood.

ONTARIO

The Effect of the "HOURS OF WORK AND VACATIONS WITH PAY ACT 1944"

ON BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY IN ONTARIO

ON JULY 1st, 1944, the "Hours of Work and Vacations With Pay Act, 1944" becomes effective in the Province of Ontario.

While it is the purpose of this Act to provide improved conditions for all workers employed in industry in this Province, it will be obvious that the provisions of the Act cannot be permitted, at this time, to interfere with the all-out capacity effort required in producing material for war.

The Industry and Labour Board, which will administer the Act, therefore, considers, in view of the present acute manpower shortage and the vital demands of war, that the application of the Act should be postponed and working conditions in force at present should not be arbitrarily changed.

The Board therefore authorizes the continuance of Existing Working Hours in all industries operating on priority War Material in the Province of Ontario.

Industries engaged in Agriculture, Horticulture, Fishing and the Production of Foods and Farm Products; Dairying Industries including cheese and butter; Firms engaged in the building and upkeep of roads, construction, transportation, textiles and other undertakings which can be considered essential to the full maintenance of the war effort, shall be considered in the category of War Industries insofar as their present working hours are concerned.

Preparation of the groundwork for the operation and application of the Act will go forward immediately but the Industry and Labour Board wishes it to be understood that these preparations will not be permitted to interfere in any way with existing working conditions in vital industry as long as the present crisis exists.

HON. CHARLES DALEY
Minister of Labour

IN MEMORIAM

GREGORY—In loving memory of a dear wife and Mother, Alice Maud Gregory, who passed away two years ago to-day, June 2, 1944.

Time speeds on, two years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
Her vacant place there is none can fill
Down here we mourn, but not in vain
For up in Heaven we will meet again.

—Ever remembered by husband, children and grandchildren.

DAVIS—In loving memory of Barbara Davis who died June 3, 1943.

Her faint last wish, I should like to have heard,
And breathed in her ear, one last parting word,
Only those who have lost, are able to tell,
The pain of the heart, in not saying farewell.

—Sadly missed by Mother, Father and Family.

Millbrook News

Rev. A. E. and Mrs. Chevis are in Toronto this week, the former attending the Synod.

Shipments from the Red Cross rooms were lighter than usual this week, the number of workers diminishing as housecleaning and gardening make seasonal claims. The list included: For the Navy, 7 turtle-neck sweaters, 5 scarves, 4 pairs mitts, 4 pairs gloves, and 5 pairs of socks; British civilian: 2 pairs pyjamas. Quilting was done, but none were ready for shipment, and none brought in from outside units. Miss Josie Sutton is the shipping clerk.

Mrs. Walter Williamson of Carbon, Alberta, who has been visiting her sisters, Mrs. J. McKnight and Mrs. Mary Perrin, and other relatives in Ontario east, left on Thursday on her return trip to the West, staying off in Toronto and Hamilton with her sister Mrs. H. Lang, and her brother Norman Locke, respectively.

Lakefield W.I. Hears Reports

LAKEFIELD, June 2.—(ENS). —Mrs. Ernie Waldon was hostess to the Women's Institute for their meeting Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. E. Jory gave an intersting paper prepared by Mrs. J. McKercher on the district annual meeting of the Women's Institute held in Peterborough recently. In this article the women were asked to plan and prepare for a victorious peace to help the returned boys and girls to adjust themselves to community life, and to give a warm welcome to the war brides. Many mothers and women of the home to-day are working in factories. They will be a big problem when peace comes the speaker said. The women were asked to give thought to promoting better rural health through establishing better rural homes.

Mrs. Spence announced the next meeting would be held at Mrs. Howard Bullock's. A chocolate cake donated by Mrs. A. Davis was auctioned and brought 92 cents.

Mrs. M. O. Kingdon suggested that if the members required help on their farms it might be obtained from the Training Centre in Peterborough, as the boys are allowed to work on the farms for short periods during the busy season.

The prayer was given by Mrs. S. E. White and tea was served by Mrs Waldon, assisted by Mrs. Trude Waldon, Elsie Waldon and Kaye Grier.

New Type Control

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., June 2 (CP)—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison suggested in a Hobhouse Memorial Trust lecture read for him at Cambridge that there should be public control of scientific advances in industry. Great firms dominating their market or dealing with some process vital to the economic well-being of the community could not be expected to take views long enough or disinterested enough, he said.

Letter Reveals Attitude Of Man Called Up

OTTAWA, June 2 — (CP). — The name of Theodore Dubois, 23, of Ottawa, stationed at Chilliwack, B.C., as a member of the Home Defence Forces and single sculls champion of Canada in 1941, will be "blacked out" on an honor roll of enlisted members of the Ottawa Rowing Club scheduled for unveiling on Saturday, it was learned on Thursday. The roll was made up of members and past members of the club who have volunteered for general service and in error Dubois' name was included, although he was called up under the National Resources Mobilization Act, and did not volunteer for overseas duty.

It was understood Capt. Roy L. Byron, club president, wrote Dubois, a former resident of Winnipeg, suggesting he "go active" so there would be no 'black out' on the honor roll, but he declined. A club officer made public these two paragraphs from Dubois' letter of reply:

"When inducted the Army examiner told me, as no doubt he tells others, that there was no difference between the N.R.M.A. and the G.S. (General Service), and that the N.R.M.A. men would be sent over the pond as soon as they found it necessary. Logically, then, I do not see any sense in doing any more than the necessity calls for.

"To me the necessity is controlled as it appears, by those who crave that type of action or excitement. Now if Admiral Byrd was to come down and ask for volunteers to accompany him on an Antarctic expedition or the like, why I am inclined to think he would find it a tough proposition, but I would jump at that type of adventure. Just as in rowing, it seems my temperament is such that where I can punish myself—it's just fine and dandy—but when it comes to handing it out I just cannot do it."

St. Andrew's Trim Trinity 19 to 11

On Wednesday night, St. Andrew's beat Knox in a Church League bantam game at Queen Mary School grounds, by a score of 19 to 11.

It was a hard fought game. Knox got away to an early lead and kept in front till the fourth; when St. Andrew's got over 7 runs. Getting through for 8 more in the sixth, St. Andrew's had the game in the bag.

St. Andrew's: Nichols, Murphy, Peltz, Sutcliffe Manbeck, Hempstead, Hillis, Barnsley, Rattenbury and Harris.

Knox: Killingbeck, Freeman, Ritchie, Sharbelais, McMullen, Mongraw, Granger, Chambers and Johnson.

Umpires—F. E. Kerr and P. Weir.

Trinity Now Tied For Second Slot

Trinity juveniles moved into a second place tie on Thursday evening, when they defeated Mark Street by a score of ten to five. Fast, steady ball was played by both teams and as a result there were no errors. The winners were sparked by strong infielding, notably by B. Lech and R. Boorne. J. Hinton on the Trinity mound pitched a superior game, as usual.

Quakers Defeat Woollens 15 to 11

An eight-run batting rally for Quakers in the second inning was the decisive blow in a well-played and interesting Industrial League game played at the Dominion Woollens last night, in which the Porridge men defeated Aircraft 15 to 11.

Despite that reverse the Aircraft team battled until the finish and succeeded in closing the gap, although they failed to overcome that early lead.

Two circus catches in centre field by Morrison and a couple of nice grabs of foul flies by Weaver were the fielding features.

The teams:

Aircraft: Roberts, ss; Heffernan, cf, p; Morrison, p, cf; Beasley, 2b; Mongraw, 3b; Kemp, c; Kidd, rf; Davey, rf; Florence, 1b; McCartney, lf; Goodson, lf.

Quakers: Tice, lf; Willshaw, cf; L. Ash, 1b; Sullivan, 2b; Roote, ss; Pollock, rf; Townsend, c; Weaver, 3b; Fisher, p.

George Street Boys Whip All Saints'

George Street Juveniles won a well-played game from All Saints' in a Church League fixture last night by 8 to 2.

The final score hardly indicates the closeness of the play, for the teams battled on an even footing until the sixth, when George Street staged a big inning, scoring six runs.

George Street: Richardson 3b, Estlick ss, Sisson cf, Griffin 1b, Nicholls p, Outram c, Lee 2b, Braund rf, Dormer rf, Delahaye lf.

All Saints': Cutmore 3b, Menzies c, Doughty cf, Ellis 1b, McDougall p, Kidd lf, Outram cf, Filer 2b, Franks ss.

Baptists Beaten In Juvenile Game

In a juvenile game in which Murray Street played with only seven men and St. Paul's with eight, the latter defeated the Baptists in a Church League fixture by 19 to 10. The winners scored in every inning but the first, and built up several big frames.

The teams:

St. Paul's — Brown, Doughty, Turner, McNaught, J. Brown, Hall, Boule and Barrett.

Murray Street — Borland, Grant, H. Graham, W. Graham, Matthews, Dallin, Brown.

11—Counting Suit Tricks

TO ASCERTAIN the total strength of your hand in "playing tricks" — the number it should take if you become the declarer with that suit as trump—you have two kinds of things to count. They are high card tricks and low card tricks.

Value the top card tricks on the presumption that you are going to lead toward your high cards from the dummy, and consider that there will be three tricks taken by high cards in any suit in which you have that many. To that total, then, you add your low card tricks.

Low card trick, in this sense, is a term to describe cards which will take tricks after the high cards have been played. The sound way to count them is by considering every card beyond the top three in the trump suit to be worth a trick, and to treat each card beyond the first three in some other suit as being worth a half a trick, up to the first two such cards, and a full trick for any additional ones.

Consequently, a four-card trump suit would have in it one low card trick, a five-carder would have two, a six-carder three, a seven-carder four, and so on. In a side suit—that is, any suit other than the trump—you would have a half a low card trick if it was of four cards, one trick if it was of five, two if it was of six, three if it was of seven, and so on.

Now, to illustrate what constitutes a sound opening bid, let us look at four hands which would not quite justify an opening bid of 1-Spade. Each of these lacks some one vital qualification:

1. ♠ Q J 10 6 4
♥ A Q 7
♦ 5 4 2

2. ♠ J 6 5 2
♥ [illegible]
♦ A 7 2
♣ 6 5 3

3. ♠ A K Q
♥ 7 6 4 3
♦ A 8 5
♣ 4 3 2

4. ♠ 8 5 3 2
♥ [illegible]
♦ A 6 2
♣ 7 4 3

No. 1 contains all requirements but one. It has the total playing tricks—one high card trick and two low-card ones in spades, plus 1½ in hearts, a total of 4½. It has surely a biddable trump suit containing protection for the lead. But it lacks the necessary defensive strength, which is about 2½ minimum, having only 1½ in hearts and ½ in spades. Hence the hand calls for a pass.

No. 2 has plenty of defensive strength, with two quick tricks in hearts and one in diamonds. It also has four trumps in a suit containing a possible No Trump stopper. But it has only four playing tricks, one low card trick in spades and three in the side high cards. It is below minimum in total playing strength.

No. 3 has plenty of defensive strength, three such tricks, and 4½ playing tricks, with four in high cards and ½ in the low card of the heart suit, but lacks four trumps needed to justify the spade bid.

No. 4 has plenty of defensive strength, plenty of playing tricks, with one low-carder in spades, one in diamonds and 2½ in hearts, a total of 4½, also has four trumps, but lacks a No Trump stopper in the spade suit, to protect such a bid from partner or to make spades a sound lead.

Add a K in diamonds or clubs and No. 1 would make a sound bid. Change the diamond or club suit in No. 2 to one card longer to add a half playing trick and it would be an irreducible minimum. Shift a card into the spade suit to make four and No. 3 would qualify. And put at least a J at the top of the spade suit in No. 4 and it would be right on the line.

Remember that some partners expect you to be the least bit stronger when you bid. If so, it usually will pay to heed them.

Roosevelt Slow To Recognize Fighting French

WASHINGTON, June 2—(CP)—Allied and neutral diplomats in Washington, and many high Government authorities seem puzzled by the United States Government's hesitancy to give full, if temporary recognition to the French Committee of National Liberation.

The general opinion to-day seems to be that President Roosevelt alone has the answer and that he has revealed it only to his intimates.

It is believed that if the United States granted such recognition, Britain, Russia and Canada would quickly, and gladly follow suit.

The Canadian Press asked a Fighting French official comparatively fresh from the European and North African scene, if he could explain it. He said he did not even have a theory.

It has been suggested—and Prime Minister Churchill mentioned it in his last parliamentary review— that the United States fears there is a substantial group in France which does not support General Charles de Gulle, 53-year-old leader of the Fighting French.

President Roosevelt may feel the French underground, necessarily silent as it fights, may produce some "unknown" with popular support, when the fight comes into the open and a political ruler is to be chosen.

This possibility was suggested to the French Committee's spokesmen here and he agreed it might be a reason for Mr. Roosevelt's reluctance, but he said it was not a sound one.

Underground Support.

The French Underground, the spokesman said, was more than 90 per cent. behind De Gaulle. There was not the slightest doubt of this, he said, because the committee receives complete and constant reports from the resistance movement.

These forces fighting in the Underground battle in France were bewildered "and mad" over the reluctance of the major powers to accept the committee as the true symbol of the government of France, he said. And they looked upon the United States government as the stumbling block.

Officially, however, the De Gaullists had been satisfied with the partial United States recognition granted when it was announced to Gen. Eisenhower, Allied commander of the Liberation Forces, would treat with De Gaulle as the only authority of French civil government in the initial stages of operations on French soil.

Veterans Get Special Grants

OTTAWA, June 2 — (CP) — Grants were given 1,300 ex-service men during April under the Government's post-discharge rehabilitation plan, the Pensions Department reported to-day.

A breakdown listed 763 as receiving maintenance assistance while taking vocational training, and 242 were paid out-of-work benefits, but this number had dropped to 149 by the end of the month.

A total of 8,500 ex-service men of the present war were placed in employment in April through National Selective Service co-operating with veterans' welfare officers of the Pensions Department, bringing the total of jobs arranged since the service was inaugurated to 115,-648. In addition, 3,359 veterans of the First Great War were provided with jobs, making a cumulative total for that category of 78,836.

At the end of April, 3,105 veterans of the present war and 1,715 First Great War veterans were registered as unemployed. The figure for present war veterans is considerably below the total number discharged from the armed forces during the month, the Department said.

A Blitz Dancer

LONDON, June 2—(CP).—Fifteen-year-old Barbara Holmes, who has been hailed as a dancing find for the English stage, owes her career to the blitz. The girl was so nervous and upset following London's heavy raids two years ago her parents encouraged her to study tap dancing. Barbara's condition was cured and she became an expert dancer.

Bancroft News

A special building committee of the Red Cross Society were in town this week meeting with the executive committee of the local Red Cross in connection with the erection of a new and much larger Red Cross Hospital for Bancroft. The new building is much needed as the present Red Cross hospital is inadequate to handle Bancroft and district properly.

Mr. George Stedman of Stedman Brothers of Toronto was in Bancroft Monday and Tuesday of this week on business.

Wednesday's electrical storm and short rain was a welcome to all, as no rain has fallen in Bancroft and district since May 13 and 15 and these falls were light. Over an inch of rain fell May 6, the only rain of any consequence until today.

Allies Hope To Spare Eternal City

Attack Necessary If Nazis Choose To Defend It

NAPLES, June 3 — (AP) — The Allied command in Italy pledged itself today to continue to take every precaution to spare Rome, but declared its fate was up to the Germans, who would be hurled out by force if they attempted to defend the eternal city.

A special communique, expressed hope the enemy "will not make such an ill-considered choice." It came the day after Pope Pius XII urged that Rome be spared, declaring that "whoever would dare lift a hand against Rome would be guilty of matricide."

The Allies "have only taken and only will take military action against Rome insofar as the Germans use the city, its highways and its roads for their military purposes," the communique said.

Text of the statement:

"Allied military authorities, confronted by the ruthless enemy in Italy, are interested solely in the destruction and elimination of German forces in that country.

"They have taken and will continue to take every possible precaution during the course of their campaign to spare innocent civilians and cultural and religious monuments of permanent value to civilization.

"In particular they are deeply conscious of the unique position occupied by Rome as one of the chief historical religious and cultural centres of the world, and of the fact that Rome is the seat of His Holiness the Pope, and contains the neutral state of the Vatican City.

"It is therefore the firm intention of Allied Governments and of Allied military authorities to continue to take every precaution in their power, consistent with essential military requirements, to safeguard the population of Rome and its historical and religious monuments."

"The Allies have only taken and will only take military action against Rome in so for as the Germans use the city, railways and roads for their military purposes. If the Germans choose to defend Rome the Allies will be obliged to take appropriate military measures to eject them. It therefore is the sincere hope of His Majesty's Government and the United States Government that the enemy will not make such an ill-considered choice."

Vigorous Drive Underway To Fill Ranks

BY JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, June 3 — (CP) — As 'D-day' rapidly approaches signs are mounting in military circles here that officials have adopted more intensive efforts to maintain the supply of 4,000 men required for general service.

Nobody has suggested that the monthly quota would not be met. Military spokesmen, however, emphasized that after the United Nations invade Europe—a task in which the Canadian Corps in Britain would play a big part—it would be more than ever necessary to keep up the monthly quota and, if possible exceed the total.

They stressed the great strain on manpower needs throughout Canada. Besides the army's quota, additional strain on resources include 1,000 men monthly to the Navy and 2,100 to the Air Force.

Some Signs

These were straws in the wind:—

1. In Victoria, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Pacific Coast Commander, announced an intensification of Active Service force recruiting which would run through July and August—when seasonal fall-off of recruiting usually occurs.

2. In Ottawa, an army officer, commenting on the action of an athlete who declined to "go active," said that despite west coast recruiting activities there apparently still some doubt in the minds of called-up men of the need for them to sign for overseas service.

Gen. Pearkes has been conducting a vigorous drive for active Army reinforcements among the Home Defence Force men in his command for the last few months. Army spokesmen said they did not know whether the General's policy would be adopted throughout Canada, but they added that district commanding Officers had "every right" to follow such a policy if they thought it necessary.

They said men in the Reserve Army, starting to go to summer camps, would "no doubt" be asked to volunteer for Active Service, but "no coercion or even persuasion will be used."

One officer recalled that Defence Minister Ralston some time ago told the Commons that if the need arose the government could pass on Order-in-Council which would send all draftees overseas. Approval of parliament which

Planes Land In Russia From Italy

Shuttle Bombing Inaugurated Across Balkans

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN RUSSIA, June 3—(AP) — Strong formations of American Flying Fortresses and Mustang fighters escorts have landed at secretly-prepared American bases in Russia after bombing Romanian targets, accomplishing west-east bombing of Hitler's fortress for the first time and establishing joint offensive operations with the Red Air Force.

The historic operation, completed yesterday, was disclosed to be the fruit of a long-range plan through which Britain, the United States and Russia brought the most far-flung portions of the Nazi domain under precision bombing.

The dramatic arrival of American bombers and fighters on Russian soil—presumably from Italy—evoked the first communique from the Eastern Command, U.S. Strategic Air Force:

"A large force of strategic bombers and fighters today attacked Romanian targets selected by our Russian ally and then continued to Russian bases.

Reds Cooperate

"Enemy opposition was slight. One bomber was lost and one fighter is still outstanding.

"The Red Air Force co-operated by attacking enemy airdromes on the route of the Allied strategic force and providing area fighter support."

(Late last night the Budapest radio went off the air, a possibility that the second phase of the shuttle operation might be under way.)

The American fliers were greeted by Russian and American ground crews as well as an official welcoming group which included U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, his daughter Kathleen, and Maj. Gen. John R. Deane, head of the American military mission to Russia.

Given Welcome

In an enthusiastic celebration, the American Legion of Merit, which the fliers had brought, was presented to Lt.-Gen. Alexander R. Perminov, in charge of Russian facilities for the Americans.

"It was a brief but happy celebration before servicing the aircraft with fuel and ammunition for another call on the Axis en route to their home bases in England, Italy and Africa," said Gen. Deane.

"The operations carried out today mark the first large-scale physical co-operation of the air forces of Britain, Russia and America."

Gen. Deane explained that without British aid the American planes could not takeoff from their original bases.

(The Moscow radio broadcast an official announcement that "a considerable force of American bombers and fighters dealt a blow against enemy objectives in Romania," adding that "a part" of these planes landed on bases in Soviet territory.

(Another Russian announcement declared: "The westward advance of the Red Army has brought the area

Butter Rations Causes Mine Strike

By J. E. HOLDSWORTH
Canadian Press Correspondent.

SYDNEY, Australia, June 3 — (CP Cable). — A domestic crisis over the reduced butter ration, which has resulted in a walkout of miners in five New South Wales Collieries, awaits the return from Canada of Prime Minister John Curtin.

Other problems requiring his attention concern pensions and the clothing allowances for discharged soldiers, both of which have drawn protests from some quarters.

The work stoppage in New South Wales came about despite appeals from Francis Forde, Acting Prime Minister, that a reduction of from 8 to 6 ounces in the weekly butter ration be accepted "in the same spirit as many inconveniences and hardships are being endured by the gallant men of the fighting services."

Mentions Vitamins

Production of the idle mines was 5,000 tons daily and the Western Miners' Federation was threatened an extension of the work stoppages unless the order reducing the ration is reviewed.

At the same time the Federal Council of the British Medical Association issued a statement saying the reduced butter ration would have an adverse effect on the health of civilians unless increased quantities of other fats were made available.

John S. McWilliams Missing Overseas

Word was received today by Mrs. Alice McWilliams, Hunter street west, that her husband, Flt. Sgt. John S. Mcilliams with the R.C.A.F. overseas, has been reported missing following air operations.

Formerly employed at the DeLaval, Flt. Sgt. McWilliams enlisted in 1942 and went overseas in March 1943. The young airman was serving as a navigator in a bomber crew. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. McWilliams who lived on Gilmour street, and a brother Robert McWilliams, lives at 17 Manning avenue.

Aerial Blows Continue In 16th Day

Channel Coast Hammered In Night Swoop

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 3 — (AP) — American heavy bombers struck twice at Nazi coastal fortifications in the Pas de Calais areas of France today, carrying on the non-stop aerial assault of Europe now under intensified pressure after the shuttle raid to Russian bases and an R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. night strike against French coastal targets.

Flying two missions from Britain for the second day, a force of 250 American heavy bombers with equally strong escort hit coastal emplacements in the morning; and similar fleets roared back in the afternoon to the same area.

These west wall fortifications were hit Friday in their heaviest daylight pounding of the war, and 500 R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. bombers attacked the west wall defences and crumbling German rail facilities last night.

The daylight attacks sent the air offensive into its 16th day.

Today's raiders hurled probably 1,500 tons of explosives in this Atlantic wall section— or a total of about 4,500 tons smashing down in the last 24 hours on this area closest to Britain.

The night blows climaxed a day which saw the Allied Air Forces expand their pincers campaign against the continent to a three-way aerial stranglehold from Britain, the Mediterranean and Russia.

Rounding off a day which brought an epochal shuttle-raid by American bombers to new Russian bases and two heavy bomber attacks on France from Britain by daylingt, the R.A.F., night-bomber fleet dealt a quick follow-up drubbing to German defences along the channel coast and again attacked the great Trappers railway yards on the outskirts of Paris.

A side force of R. A. F. Mosquitoes attacked the chemical centre of Leverkusen in Germany near Cologne, a frequent target of recent attacks, and other formations laid mines in enemy waters.

Seventeen British planes were missing from the night operations and at least seven German fighters were shot down, the Air Ministry announced.

All Canadian planes returned safely.

Allied bombers based in Italy attacked objectives at Girgiu, a Romanian city on the Danube River, last night. Planes of the Mediterranean Allied Air Force flew 2,700 sorties yesterday.

Hun Prisoners Happy When Captured

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, June 3. — (CP).—TR. Donovan Dow of Claresholm, Alta., had a prisoner story and Cpl. Ivan Smith of Revelstoke, B.C., had a prisoner story and others of a western Canada regiment who faced the Germans on the Gustav Line had them, too.

TR. Dow came upon his prisoner in Panaccioni, a village taken by Canadian tanks and Indian infantry.

"I was lookig for a pistol," he explained, "and I started asking this fellow in Italian. Then he pipes up in perfect English, gives me this Belgian pistol and says he was sorry he had only two rounds of ammunition.

"By the time they took him away he had given me this snapshot of himself, some first aid equipment, and a bottle of cognac."

The Nazi also gave him a blanket but as TR. Henry Labouski, Athabaska, Alta., explained, it had its defects. It seems TR. Dow acquired fleas its first night on his bed.

Cpl. Smith came upon his prisoner as his tank moved into a harbor area.

"He was a sniper," he said, "and he just got up out of the grass and gave himself up. We took him with us and when Jerry started shelling he jumped under the tank with the rest of us. Then we forgot all about him because we figured he would be taken back with the others.

Slept With Them

"I woke up in the morning and jumped for my gun when I saw a Jerry walking around. It turned out to be the same guy. They hadn't taken him back and he'd simply gone to sleep like the rest of us."

"Then to crown it all when one of our lads misplaced his revolver this Jerry corporal looks around, finds it and hands it to him. We gave him breakfast, some bully beef and cigarets and sent him on his way."

Capt. Jack Buchan of Toronto had a story about an Indian who was in a hurry to get a captive to brigade headquarters but couldn't talk enough English to explain himself. Finally, the German stepped forward and said "he wants to take me to headquarters of —th brigade," he even had the number right.

Another Indian found himself the master of three German prisoners and nothing to get them back with except a jeep he couldn't drive. Canadian tankmen were still chuckling days after about the sight of a jeep with three Germans in the front, one driving, and the Indian taking life easy in the rear.

Hepburn Irked By Liquor Cut

LONDON, Ont., June 3—(CP).—Mitchell F. Hepburn, Independent Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Elgin and former Liberal Premier, said last night if he were in Premier Drew's place "I would take action in the courts against the cut in liquor rations by the Federal Government."

(Ontario's liquor ration was cut from one 26-ounce bottle a month to 13 ounces a month or 26 ounces for two months earlier this week.)

Speaking to a banquet of Ontario and Quebec members of the United Commercial Travellers of America, Mr. Hepburn said Premier Drew could base his court action on the signed agreement made by Federal authorities with the Ontario Legislature while he was Premier.

He said his government at that time received "the assurance that the Federal Government would not interfere with the liquor laws of Ontario in return for turning over the income and corporation tax."

Americans Are Fanning Out From Valmontone To Join Forces With French

Iron Claws Closing In On Germans Protecting Retreat As Campaign In Italy Continues Apace

By NOLAND NORGAARD—Associated Press Correspondent

NAPLES, June 3—(AP). — Allied troops slugging through the Alban hills toward Rome have captured Monte Castellacio, a bare 14 miles from the Eternal City, and another column today drove up the Via Casilina toward the capital. Other Allied troops pushed down the highway from Valmontone, one jaw of a potential trap for Nazi rearguards falling back under steady advances by the Allied armies to the southeast.

The British 8th Army, including Canadian troops, was hammering the Germans in that area. The Canadians, who pounded up the Via Casilina yesterday and seized Ferentino were last reported withing 18 miles of the 5th Army forces who had taken Valmontone on the same highway.

The power drive that cracked the Germans' Velletri-Valmontone line swept on to Monte Castellacio 6½ miles north of Velletri, and only 14 miles southeast of Rome.

At the same time, headquarters cautioned that although Velletri and Valmontone, bastions of the Rome line, have been captured, "the enemy's defensive position in this sector has not yet been broken," that the German defences are "in considerable depth and firm resistance is being encountered."

French Move Fast.

United States units which took Valmontone struck out in three directions—northwest along the Via Casilina toward Rome, 20 miles away; southeast along the same road to link up with the French who are driving the Germans out of their last footholds on the south side of the Sacco River, and due north along an important secondary road toward a vital highway junction at Cave, three miles from Valmontone.

The French, meantime, closed in quickly from the south on Colle Ferro, 4½ miles southeast of Valmontone and within pistol shot of both Highway 6 and the river.

Farther to the south-east, other French troops closed the retreat route from the area south of the Sacco River by slicing across a secondary road to Scurgola, 14 miles from Valmontone and 5½ miles west of Ferentino, captured yesterday by Canadian units of the British 8th Army.

Gen. Alphonse Juin's French troops also were driving northward from the village of Montelanico, 11 miles south-west of Valmontone. Montelanico was taken the night of June 1.

Thus iron claws are closing in on German units who were attempting to fight a rearguard action in the 13-mile sector between Colle Ferro and Ferentino, looping south of the Sacco River.

From this trap the Nazis had four unsurfaced country roads extending northward, along which they could attempt to escape, but close pursuit from three sides was certain to cost them heavy casualties as well as the loss of all but their most highly mobile vehicles.

Americans exploiting their breakthrough into the German defences hinged on the Alban Hills captured 2,000-foot Monte Castellacio, 6½ miles west of Valmontone and the same distance north of Velletri.

The enemy lost 1,006 men in pris-

Nazis Withdraw Fast Before Canadian Units

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, June 3 (CP-Cable) — Canadian infantry and reconnaissance troops added more miles to their advance northwest up the Sacco Valley yesterday, capturing Ferentino on the Via Casilina which leads to Rome and closing it to within 18 miles of Allied 5th Army forces which took Valmontone on the same highway.

Active opposition to the Canadian advance, which confronted enemy forces between Ferentino and Valmontone with the alternative of retiring northward into the hills or being trapped, was limited strictly to shelling.

Ontario troops in the Ferentino area have encountered no Germans since Thursday night when six were taken prisoner without a fight.

(These troops were believed to be part of the Canadian Division which saw its first major action in the current offensive. Ontario infantry units of the division include the Irish Regiment of Toronto and the Perth Regiment of Stratford, Ont.)

Use Demolitions

Mines, which hitherto have been a factor delaying the progress of the Canadians, were fewer in number yesterday, indicating the Germans were making a speedy withdrawal.

But the enemy is continuing to use extensive demolitions and the speed of the Canadian advance during

Burma Column Storms Station

KANDY, Ceylon, June 3—(AP)—Reinforced Allied columns fighting their way into the Japanese North Burma base of Myitkyina from both the north and south have captured large quantities of supplies and ammunition, a headquarters announcement said today.

Allied forces pounding into the important railhead city from the south have reached the railway station in hand-to-hand fighting while another column driving down from the north has crashed to the town's edge, said a press note from headquarters of Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commander of American and Chinese forces assaulting Myitkyina.

Yesterday's communique said a column driving from the north had gained 1,500 yards in the face of stubborn opposition that cost the Japanese many casualties. The column penetrating the town from the south was reported to have gained an additional 400 yards.

Mop-up Squads Finish Snipers

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, June 3 —AP). — Mop-up squads ferreted Japanese snipers from limestone caves and hunted down machine-gun nests on wooded ridgetops as the week-old Allied invasion of Biak Island, stalemated since Monday, moved back into high gear to-day.

A big push by reinforced American units toward three airfields—potential bases for bombing the Philippines— was pointed along a coastal road, hitherto a death trap because of murderous fire poured down from the ridges.

Biak, main island in the Schoutens 880 miles south-east of the Philippines, was invaded in Dutch New Guinea's Geelvink Bay last Saturday. The Japanese pulled out of Bosnek Village on the south-east coast, allowed the invaders to move west along a shore road to within half a mile of Mokmer, then cut loose with withering blasts which forced them back 1½ miles.

Forest Fires Not So Bad

QUEBEC, June 3 (CP)—The situation in Quebec timberlands is "steadily improving" and while there has already been "considerable damage," it seems that "some people have purposely exaggerated it," Henri Kieffer, chief of the Quebec forest protection service, said here last night.

Mr. Kieffer said "it is very far from being true that $10,000,000 worth of standing timber has been burned in northern Quebec as it was reported." He denied a report that a large blueberry crop in the Abitibi and Temiskamingue areas had been almost wiped out.

He said that "the province is doing everything possible" to stop the fires.

Mr. Kieffer described as "the worst fires in the province" those in the Metabetchouan River and around the township of Ferland in the Lake St. John district. He said no new fires were reported yesterday.

Russia Leads Developing North

LONDON, June 3 — (CP) — Speaking in Russian to a native audience in the Siberian town of Irkutsk, vice-president Henry Wallace of the United States said that "it is becoming quite clear that only the full collaboration between our two countries and their Allies can insure to the world a stable peace and true development."

The Moscow radio, reporting the speech last night, said Mr. Wallace, en route to China, was greeted warmly.

He told his audience development of the American northwest, Canada, Alaska and Soviet Siberia must play an important part in post-war construction, and that Canada and the United States must make "a decisive effort in the task of developing their northern regions" as has been done by Russia.

May Raids Pile Up Great Total

LONDON, June 3.—(CP).— The tremendous Allied pre-invasion aerial assault rocked the European continent during May with a record total of more than 133,700 tons of bombs — nearly three tons every minute official summaries disclosed to-day.

From British and Italian bases planes of all types flew more than 139,000 sorties.

These staggering figures—all records—did not include operations of the tactical air force in Italy.

Showered from the west and south across Europe—from Norway to the Balkans, from Italy to Poland—this tonnage was divided as follows:

R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. 40,700.

U.S. 8th and 15th Air Forces, more than 63,000.

U.S. 9th Air Force, more than 20,000.

British section, Allied Expeditionary Force, more than 10,000 (estimated).

The R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. made 44,000 sorties, the 8th and 15th made 49,811 sorties; the 9th 30,000, and the British section of the A.E.A.F. an estimated 15,000.

Seven Hun Fighters Downed

Five Canadian Squadrons In Raids

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, June 3 — (CP Cable) —Heavy bombers of the Canadian bomber group numbering several squadrons swooped across the English Channel in to-day's early darkness, attacking military installations on the French coast. All returned safely.

Among units participating were the Goose, Thunderbird, Leaside, Alouette, and Snowy Owl Squadrons.

An R.C.A.F. communique covering operations during the past 24 hours said two Canadian fighters and one Mosquito are missing. The pilot of one of the missing fighters is safe.

Canadian Mosquitoes attacked airfields in France Friday night, while other heavy bombers laid mines in enemy waters.

The main bomber force reported some opposition from enemy fighters and anti-aircraft fire.

Three of seven enemy fighters destroyed by bomber command Halifaxes were shot down by Canadians. Sgt. William Stefanyshin of Wynot, Sask., and Sgt. J. O. E. Nelvin of St. James, Man., gunners in one Canadian bomber, accounted for the Messerschmitt 109s, while Sgt. V. G. Marks of Leask, Sask., accounted for another.

Peterborough And District Boys Receive Their Training Aboard H.M.C.S. "Cataraqui" At Kingston

Since the war Canada's Navy had expanded rapidly and with the commissioning of ships like the Peterborough the demand for more trained men is felt. The great majority of the hundreds of Peterborough boys who have joined the Navy, have enlisted in Kingston. There the training ship H.M.C.S. Cataraqui takes men from all walks of life, and in a remarkably short time gives them a thorough grounding in seamanship which prepares them for the advance instruction they receive before going to sea.

The process of converting a landlubber into a competent seaman is an interesting one and a reporter was afforded the opportunity of seeing just what happens to a recruit from the time of his first application for enlistment.

Aboard the Cataraqui the first person the recruit encounters is Lieut. S. W. Salmon, a former member of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve and veteran of the Great War, who is in charge of recruiting. After proving his age, education and occupation the recruit is sent to the ship's surgeon and dentist.

Need Consent

Youths between 17½ and 18 must have the consent of their parents, Lieut. Salmon explained, and usually recruits with Grade 10 schooling or better were most desirable although there were exceptions to this rule. In their enthusiasm to wear bell bottomed trousers some young fellows actually tried to submit bogus birth certificates, the recruiting officer recalled. Naval knowledge is without end in the opinion of Lieut. Salmon, who said after many years of service, "There is still a lot I don't know." Since the R.C.N.V.R. established the training ship here, 2,000 men have passed through this process of enlistment.

Another step in the expansion of the Canadian Navy locally was the establishment on August 17 of a permanent recruiting office for the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service in charge of Sub-Lieut. Edes. A variety of jobs are open to the girls and many have taken the opportunity to become Wrens. In the case of women enlisting in the Navy, four references are required in addition to the documents demanded of prospective sailors. The enlisting process is otherwise identical.

Surgeon First.

The recruit on leaving the recruiting office goes to the ship's surgeon who gives him first an eye test, then a questionnaire regarding his medical history. This if completed satisfactorily is followed by a complete physical and clinical examination and if the recruit is of the quality demanded of all seamen he is given an appointment to have an X-ray at the Hotel Dieu Hospital. Sometimes he is sent to the recruiting office before the X-ray where tentative attestation forms are filled out. When X-rays prove satisfactory the recruit is then attested and becomes a member of His Majesty's senior service.

In the regulating office the new seaman fills in his joining papers and is given assistance in finding quarters in Kingston. This small office becomes a mighty important spot to the sailor for it is here that he gets his "liberty boats"—leaves to landlubbers—but on the other hand it is also from here that punishments are meted out to those who break naval rules. At this office the recruit fills in his joining card and arranges for his clothing and food.

At the local station, recruits receive their equipment at the stores depot. Each piece of clothing and equipment must be marked with the man's identification in the regulation way. Lodgings have not yet been provided "aboard ship" but it is expected that before long the men will sling their hammocks in a new addition being built near the "Cataraqui."

One of the first things a sailor has to undergo once he has officially joined the ship, is to see the dentist. Dentists of the Canadian Dental Corps serve the Canadian navy as well as the army. The sailor is given a thorough dental examination and, if necessary, appointments are made for treatment. Field equipment is used in the dentist's office aboard the "Cataraqui" but aboard small ships of the Canadian Navy there is no dentist's office at all. Hence the treatment received while in training is of the utmost importance.

"A man at sea with tooth trouble is useless," declared the dentist.

To the individual sailor the number of documents to be signed may prove somewhat confusing but his task is simple compared to that of the battery of writers who work in the ship's office and keep records of each man from the time he enters until he leaves the "Cataraqui." This ship's office is a large room but those aboard corvettes are just small cabins. Included in each man's documents kept here are full personal particulars, dates of all postings and promotions, medical records conduct sheets, attestation papers, pay records and an account of each fan's progress during the eight weeks' course aboard the Cataraqui.

When training gets under way the naval recruit learns first of all something of the rules customs and traditions of the service. He learns to salute officers and the quarterdeck. This custom dates back to the time when people religiously made the sign of the cross when boarding ships each of which then carried a wooden cross mounted astern.

Knots, bends and hitches, ever associated with navy men, are not forgotten under the program to teach the recruits seamanship. They are still essential, declares Chief Petty Officer A. N. Saunders who supervises much of the training in seamanship. Chief P.O. Saunders is himself a veteran seaman who enlisted in the Royal Navy in 1894 and has seen, altogether 29 years' service. Behind his eight medals are undoubtedly a multitude of adventure stories but the old sailor whose very words sound salty, takes great pride in mentioning that he served under Cmdr. Atwood who is now retired from the Royal Navy and resides in Halifax.

Under Chief P.O. Saunder's instruction, the young landlubbers learn the points of the compass as well as the meaning of degrees by which nearly all ships now sail. Boat pulling (not "rowing" to salts) is also on the curriculum both in cutters and in the lighter whalers. In classes on anchors and moorings the sailors learn how to properly drop and raise anchor and the all important job of launching a life boat from a ship is taught by means of a model.

"Sou" and "Nor" insists Chief P.O. Saunders, not south and north when teaching the young men their directions — "navy style."

Plenty of Marching.

Some of the sailors have remarked that they do more marching than any other service. The truth of this will not be proved or disproved here, but at any rate, the men "aboard" the "Cataraqui" get their share of foot drill, route marching and arms drill which helps cultivate a sense of discipline and teamwork in the men.

Chief P.O. Saunders paid high tribute to the officers of the R.C.N.V.R. who administer H.M.C.S. "Cataraqui. "The officers of this ship are really keen, alert and efficient. They are doing a big job," he said.

Physical training is a part of a sailor's education which is not neglected at the "Cataraqui." Basketball, baseball and toughening up exercises form a routine part of training.

To enable older men to brush up on their hazy recollections of school days and to assist younger men who have had little training in physics and mathematics, a school is conducted as part of the syllabus, and is headed by Lieut. E. Smeathers, formerly of the Kingston school teaching staff.

"Happy Ship."

Efforts are made to make the "Cataraqui" a "happy ship" and lists are posted showing current entertainment in the vicinity.

Signalling is important in the navy and, because conditions of war imposes wireless silence, visual signalling is especially stressed. Before the sailors leave the training ship they have a knowledge of sempahore aand morse visual signalling and telegraphy.

Discipline and a good sound general knowledge of work in the navy are the chief things which the course here aims to teach. Having passed the course, the sailor, no longer a recruit, passes on to an advanced training centre.

By the time he leaves Kingston the seaman has picked up along with technical knowledge a considerable amount of naval jargon. He knows that if someone tells him he is "going astern" his cap is on backwards, and he refers to the galley, not the kitchen. When absent from duty a sailor is "adrift." Spare time other than leave he terms "make and mend."

One man on the "Cataraqui" who is much sought after by the boys in blue is the accountant officer who handles the pay of personnel at the training ship. "People begin to act polite to me toward the end of the month," said the Cataraqui's" paymaster jokingly. Men in the navy are paid only once a month he explained because a sailor at sea has not the permanence of abode that the soldier or airman on terra firma enjoys. The paymaster informed the reporter that a sailor is paid $1.25 a day on joining and usually receives at the end of the first six months an additional 25 cents a day.

"Aboard the Cataraqui" as on other naval establishments men may assign pay to buy bonds through the accountant office. Here the sailors bought bonds so quickly when the Fifth and Sixth Victory Loans started that by the third day the establishment's quota was reached.

Perhaps the most remarkable feature about the "Cataraqui" and similar training ships is the rate at which raw recruits are taught to be good seamen. It would appear that the establishment works on a mass production basis with the stress still on quality rather than quantity.

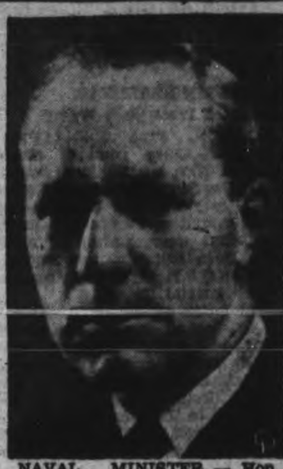
DEADLY GAS BREAK OCCURS IN NEW YORK—A young girl, one of scores overcome by chlorine gas when a gas tank toppled to the street from a truck and burst open, lies on the lap of a friend as other victims begin to recover from their near fatal ordeal. The accident occurred at the Myrtle Ave. and Flatbush Ave. extension, Brooklyn, New York. Police emergency squads were rushed to the scene as people fled in panic. The deadly gas fumes seeped out over an area about 10 blocks square.



NAVAL MINISTER — Hon. Angus Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services and who has been one of the staunchest supporters of the Royal Canadian Navy. Under his direction Canada's naval strength has increased from a personnel of 1,700 men before the war to 75,500 men and 4,500 women today manning all types of war vessels from the small patrol boats to aircraft carriers.

MORE ABOUT— Butter Rations

The association also termed "disgraceful" orders that non combatant units of the Australian Army be provided with egg meals "when the pregnant women are unable to obtain their minimum food requirements."

In urging acceptance of the new ration, Forde said it was three times the ration in the United Kingdom, and 50 per cent more than in the United States. (In Canada it is eight ounces weekly, the same as Australia's former quota. The United States ration, on a point system, usually is estimated at about 8 ounces a week.

Kinsmen Plan Charter Night

CAMPBELLFORD, June 3. — (ENS).—President Matt. Currie and members of the Belleville Kinsmen Club will conduct the charter night meeting of the Campbellford Kinsmen Club on June 7th inst.

With unusual enthusiasm the inaugural meeting of the club was held in the Villa Trent last evening when the charter membership list was filled in short order and the officers chosen for the coming year.

Forrest Dennis presided at the gathering of nearly thirty young men.

After the application for the charter was completed, nominations for the various offices were held and resulted as follows: President, Forrest Dennis; Vice-Pres.. Jack Frick; Secretary, Ken Kingston; Treasurer, W. J. Callaghan; Directors Roy Barnum Roy Smith and Harold Dooher.

The election of thi committee and the enthusiasm shown by the members augers well for the success of the Kinsmen Club in Campbellford.

Food Production In Australia Sets New Record

Written for The Canadian Press
By DON WHITTINGTON

Australia's capacity to produce food has become one of the vital factors governing Allied war plans, not only in the Pacific but in Europe.

Food production in Australia has now been placed on the same priority plane as munitions production, and the entire country's rural resources are being organized on national lines.

The commonwealth now has to feed every Australian and Allied fighting man in the Southwest Pacific, provide as much food as possible for the South African area, maintain a minimum food standard for Australian civilians and keep exports to Britain at a maximum.

We are providing 90 per cent of all American food requirements in the Southwest Pacific, and have greatly increased the total amounts of meatt and most dairy produce exported to Great Britain.

At present Australia, with a population of 7,500,000, is feeding the equivalent of 10,000,000. That figure will rise steadily until the Pacific war is won.

This effort has been achieved only by considerable sacrifices by Australian civilians. Meat, butter, tea and sugar are rationed. The meat ration is fixed at a maximum of 32 to 36 ounces weekly for each adult. Before the war the average Australian ate from five to six pounds of meat weekly.

To offset their own shortages, and to increase production generally Australian civilians have been encouraged to cultivate home gardens. Backyard gardens are now organized on a scale never before dreamed possible.

Australia has supplied Canada with wool, sugar, hides and skins, and dried and fresh fruits. But Australia has received from Canada more goods than have been sent in return. Australia has also supplied the United States forces in the Southwest Pacific with goods and services valued at $1,000,000 daialy.

Practice Explained

The practice of saluting the colors, now part of naval routine everywhere, was instituted by Lord St. Vincent in 1707 as a means of instilling respect and preventing mutiny on board his ship. The White Ensign is raised as "God Save the King" is played, and the entire crew turns toward the ensign and salutes.

Heavy Training Grooms Men For Efficiency

"When you sight the enemy there is but one thing to do . . . sink him!" An admiral of the Royal Canadian Navy who made this statement in a graduation address, voiced the main purpose of the long weeks and months of training that a naval recruit must take before he is qualified to take his place in a fighting ship in modern war.

Weapons Changed

Weapons have changed out of all recognition in recent years. New inventions that were in the early stages of scientific research less than a decade ago are now standard equipment in our ships of war and to attain efficient proficiency in their use requires a high degree of specialization in the training of our fighting mariners.

To meet this need specialized instructional schools have been set up in different parts of the country where gunners, signallers, anti-submarine specialists, artificers, torpedo ratings, shipwrights and others in the highly diversified personnel of modern war receive a complete course in of training in their particular duties. From these schools and from the divisional training centres comes an everincreasing stream of trained men to man new warships building in rising numbers in Pacific coast, Great Lakes, St. Lawrence and Maritime shipyards. At the operational naval base both streams converge and here they pass into the guiding orbit of the training command.

The function of the training command is to ensure that the ships are put in condition for sea warfare with a minimum of delay; that their weapons, equipment and engines are operating satisfactorily and that the crew have an efficient understanding of and a sufficient proficiency with their weapons and duties to enable them to go into action as an able and coordinated fighting unit.

Duties Important

The duties of the training command therefore are vastly important and highly responsible. They are the introducers and sponsors of each new ship and each new crew to active service duties on salt water. The next time the ship and her crew go into action will be against the enemy and the success they achieve will be measured by the ability which they have mastered and marshalled the fighting equipment at their command.

In most bases the training commander will be a senior officer who has spent several years at sea as an executive officer and commanding officer of destroyers or larger ships, and has been brought ashore during the present war to use his ability and experience in preparing others for the same service. On his staff are officers who have specialized in gunnery, signals, anti-submarine and other branches of naval training.

The routine procedure of the training command is carefully planned to secure the greatest efficiency possible in the time at their disposal. They are concerned with the working up of two types of ships—those newly-received from the builders and those which have undergone a long refit. In the case of a new ship the crew will be largely "green hands" laced with a sprinkling of experienced seamen. The commanding officer is often a first lieutenant of another ship taking over his first independent command. The crew of a ship which has undergone a refit will have a fair number of green hands among her personnel and a "brushing up course" is very necessary to bring her up to a state of fighting efficiency again.

Check For Defects

In both cases the procedure is practically identical. The ship's arrival is signalled ahead and, from the time she steams in under the guardian guns of the maritime naval base which will be her seafaring home until she sails on her first active service operational commission, she is under the training command.

The first thing that is done on the ship's arrival is to check for defects. She may be having engine trouble and in need of pump adjustment or repair. A boiler cleaning may be required and, in any event, there will be compass adjustment, sounding equipment overhaul and other check-up of her equipment.

EGG RECEIPTS

TORONTO, June 3—During the past week egg receipts have shown some slight decrease. This, however, was insufficient to cause any change in the trend. The local consumer demand remained fairly active. Deliveries to the Special Products Board were not as heavy as in the previous week, but were still more than sufficient to meet the needs of local breaking houses. Among current arrivals undergrades predominate. Out-of-town movements consisted of one small shipment to a military camp.

Trading on the butter market the past week was quite light, with prices for first grade easing to 33¼ cents. A fairly satisfactory rate of production has been noted and present supplies appear sufficient to meet all needs. Quality remains good.

Some activity was noted on the cheese market, with a few odd lots being offered. Prices ranged from 20¾ to 21 cents.

have to be given for this action.

He added there were some 50,000 high-category personnel in the Home Defence Army who would be subject to overseas service if such a decision was taken.

Dubois Case

He referred to the case of Theodore Dubois, 33, Ottawa, stationed on Home Defence at Chilliwack B.C. who declined to "go active." The officer said Canada was committed to a policy of raising Active Service Force composed of volunteers, but that Dubois "misunderstood his duty."

Because Dubois declined to volunteer for General Service his name will be "blacked out" of an Honor Roll of enlisted members of the Ottawa Rowing Club.

The roll was made up of members of the Club who volunteered for Active Service and in error Dubois name was included. When the the error was noticed Capt. Roy L. Bryon, Club President, suggested that Dubois, former Canadian Single Sculls Champion, volunteer so his name could be left on the roll. Dubois declined.

Dubois said in a letter to the president that at his induction an Army examiner told him there was no difference between active service troops and others and that those who hadn't volunteered "would be sent over the pond" as soon as it was found necessary.

"Logically then," he continued, "I do not see any sense in doing more than the necessity calls for."

The Army spokesman agreed that on the face of it Dubois' statement was logical enough.

A Misunderstanding.

"I've seen Dubois row and I've seen the courage he displayed in exerting that extra bit for victory," he said. "Therefore I cannot accuse him of cowardice. I've seen his public spirit on many occasions and I can't accuse him of shirking his duty. But I do say that he misunderstands his duty.

"I am sure a courageous athlete such as Dubois does not fully realize that he is needed in the active Army and that he would be doing the right thing if he responded to recruiting pleas and became a general service soldier."

He also recalled that Col. Ralston had said in the Commons that he supported any efforts made by public spirited Army leaders and citizens to induce men to volunteer for overseas service.

The officer concluded:

"A lot of persons are ready to criticize what they call a confusing system of assuring reinforcements for our overseas forces. I only wish they would give the same energy talking up volunteers and our worries would be that much lightened."

Canada Added Many Ships In Four Years

Year by year, since the beginning of the war, Canada's Navy has become steadily larger and larger. Thousands of new seamen have been trained, and sent into the battle by sea; and more and more ships have been built. It would be wrong, though, to think that our ships have remained the same year after year; for our Navy is not only becoming larger in size; it is becoming better and better in the quality of its ships.

This his been due to the skill of our shipbuilders, who, given the fine designs made by the British, have been quick to adapt Canadian shipyards to the production of new types of warships. In addition to this, four fine destroyers, with great record of service behind them have been presented generously to the Canadian Navy by the British. This has made a noticeable increase in our naval strength, and has enabled Canada to take on a still greater share of protecting the sea-lanes from the German U-boats.

New Destroyers.

Amongst the ships added to the Royal Canadian Navy last year were also four splendid new destroyers of the Tribal class. These destroyers, built for Canada in Britain, are of the fastest and most powerful type of destroyers in the world; and two more of them are being built in a Canadian shipyard on the Nova Scotian coast.

New types of minesweepers have been designed and built; and a warship, somewhere between a destroyer and a corvette, and known as a frigate, is now to be seen not only in the shipyards, but also out at sea.

Bank Reserves Over 22 Million

OTTAWA, June 3 —(CP)— The Commons Banking and Commerce Committee Friday added somewhat to its knowledge of the 10 chartered banks' inner reserves but still is without information on the actual amounts placed in these reserves to meet unforeseen contingencies.

C. S. Tompkins, inspector-general of banks, reviewed figures given in a statement to the Commons by Finance Minister Ilsley last month, and noted that in the 15 years ending last year the banks had set aside an amount of $22,500,000 for unforseen losses and similar expenses.

He gave no indication of what amount had been taken from this total to meet contingencies or how much had been placed in this reserve previously.

Nothing Hidden

Mr. Ilsley, who has promised a statement on the inner reserves and bank taxation, said there had been no attempt to conceal the fact banks had inner reserves when he reviewed their earnings and profits before the House.

Arthur G. Slaght (L. Parry Sound) said committee members should show whether they were "mice or men" and demand the information be given on the inner reserves. If necessary they should report to Parliament and say they could not proceed with "blinkers" on the eyes.

Speaking to a motion by J. Lafontaine (L., Megantic-Frontenac), which would confine discussion to clauses in the bill rather than continue a general review of banking and finance, G. C. McGeer (L., Vancouver Burrard) said the committee's main duty was to seek an improvement in conditions.

Unbelievers In Ephesus Fan Hatred Against Paul

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 4 is Acts 19:1-20:1; Ephesians, the Golden Text being Ephesians 2:10, "We are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared that we should walk in them.")

IN THIS lesson Paul came to Ephesus, one of the richest and most noted cities of Asia Minor. At this period it was under the influence of Greek civilization, and the Greeks worshipped Diana, and the temple of Diana, one of the wonders of the ancient world, was at Ephesus.

This temple of Diana possessed valuable lands, it controlled the fisheries, and its priests controlled the money of the city. People brought their money to the temple for safe keeping, and it became as important to the ancient world as the Bank of England to the modern one.

At Ephesus Paul met "certain disciples," and asked them, "Have ye received the Holy Ghost?" They answered that they did not even know whether there was an Holy Ghost. They had been baptized by John the Baptist or his followers. Paul, therefore baptized them in the name of Jesus Christ, and they received the Holy Ghost.

Teaches in the Synagogue

Paul went, as was his custom, into the synagogue, where both Jews and Greeks came to hear him. Many were persuaded and believed, but some spoke evil of the way he taught, and he left and separated the disciples, then went to the school of one Tyrannus, who evidently was a prominent person. There Paul continued his preaching for two years.

Special miracles were wrought by Paul at this time. Handkerchiefs or aprons taken from him were taken to the sick and those with evil spirits, and the diseases left the sick and the evil spirits those afflicted with them.

Hearing this, some bad men, especially seven sons of Sceva, a Jew and chief priest, tried to drive out evil spirits, calling over them the name of the Lord Jesus and saying, "we adjure you by Jesus whom Paul preacheth." The evil spirit inhabiting one man answered these men, "Jesus I know, and Paul, but who are ye?" And the man with the spirit leaped upon these imposters and wounded them, so that they ran away naked.

This became known to Jews and Greeks alike, and fear fell upon all who had been trying to imitate Paul. Many that believed came and confessed their evil deeds.

Now in Ephesus was a silversmith named Demetrius, who made shrines for Diana, growing rich thereby. He called together all men of this craft and pointed out to them that Paul taught that there were no gods made with hands. If this continued, they would be deprived of their livelihood, said he, and moreover, the temple of Diana would be despised.

So much did Demetrius arouse these people that the whole city was in confusion, and having caught two of Paul's companions, Gaius and Aristarchus, Macedonians, they rushed them into the theatre. Paul could not get in and the disciples also held him back, certain chiefs who were his friends asking him not to venture into the theatre.

Shout "Great Is Diana"

Alexander tried to make a defense, but when they knew he was a Jew they shouted him down, and for about two hours they cried out, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." The town clerk, however, representative of Roman law, sent all these people about their business. If Demetrius and his men had a real grievance, said he, there were courts in which it could be tried; in other words, he would not allow mob law to rule, and he also reminded them that the city might have to answer for the uproar, and he dismissed them all.

When it was all over, Paul embraced his disciples and departed to go into Macedonia.

All this transpired about 53 or 54 A. D. The letter to the Ephesians, which constitutes the last part of our lesson, was written when he was a prisoner in Rome, about 10 years later.

In our brief space it is difficult to know what to quote from the wonderful epistle written by Paul to his friends in Ephesus. The whole book should be read and pondered. Let us, therefore, just quote one small part here:

"I therefore, the prisoner of the Lord, beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called, with all lowliness and meekness, long suffering, forbearing one another in love;

"Endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

"There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling;

"One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all."

CONFERENCE CHURCH—The twentieth session of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada will be held next week in the Trinity United Church, Peterborough. The sessions open on Tuesday, June 6, and continue until the afternoon of June 9. The visiting conference speaker is to be Rev. James Gordon Gilkey, D.D., of Springfield, Mass. All sessions are open to the public.

Christ Tests His Disciples In Feeding the Multitude

REV. E. R. JAMES

Jesus seeing that a great multitude cometh unto Him saith unto Philip: Whence shall we buy bread that these may eat?—St. John 6:5.

The mind of the Beloved disciple was fascinated by this moving question: "Whence shall we buy bread that these may eat"? It is the proof of the Good News: "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son." This disciple uses a word for miracle which means a "sign," that those who have the eyes to see may understand.

It startles the thoughtful student that there is no mention of the temptations in the wilderness. Yet it is quite reasonable that the Lord was telling His Apostles about those trials when this happened. Mark the "therefore" in the Revised Version. The hungry multitude brings to His mind His own hunger and His resistance to the temptation: "Command that these stones be made bread." He refuses to turn the stones into bread but feeds the multitude with a few loaves and fishes.

Our Lord would not turn the stones into bread for His own hunger but He offers to perform a still more wonderful miracle by turning the unstable Simon into the rock Peter—the Rock man.

The Lord would not cast Himself down the pinnacle of the Temple to receive the acclamation of multitudes: yet by feeding the multitude the men were moved to say: "This is of a truth that Prophet which should come into the world."

The Master of men would refuse the offer of the kingdoms of the world by the Devil but by this sign the men were determined to "take Him by force and make Him a King."

This sign gripped the imagination of the Apostolic Church for the four Evangelists relate it. The multitudes of that day lived very close to poverty and hunger. They only asked for bread and a few fishes and were content. What a lesson for our generation with its high standard of living.

The Disciples had been with Him for perhaps two years and He is now testing them. Have they caught His Spirit; are they fitting themselves to be His Messengers of the Good News?

The Master tests their SYMPATHY. "Jesus saw a great multitude and had compassion on them." The Gospel writer uses a very rare word for "compassion." It means literally "moving towards with the outstretched hand." The disciples saw with their own eyes how deeply moved the Master was by the hunger of the people. Do you look out upon these terrible days and are moved with compassion? If so, what are you doing to relieve the distress. Do not allow the compassion to evaporate. That is the way to Hell, which is paved with good intentions.

The Master tests their FAITH. He called them "that they might be with them." They knew that He put His whole trust and confidence in the Father. "He trusted in God" both friend and enemy recognized. They prove their faith by bringing to Him the few loaves and fishes, sardines or smelts. "But what are they among so many"? is their exclamation. Yet they bring them. They have a spark of faith. Will you bring your one or two talents to Him in humble faith, crying: "Lo, I come to do Thy will, O my God."

The Master, Who has been a Carpenter, tests their ENERGY. They seek and find the lad, his name unknown. He also helps. He stands in the Presence of the greatest of men; he looks into the eyes of the Perfect One. With wondering eyes he offers his little basket of bread and fishes.

Let us not forget that the Lord takes the bread and gives thanks for plain, barley bread. Do you give thanks for your food? If not, why not? He breaks and gives to His disciples and the disciples to the people. He needs your help and my help to feed His people; His distressed brethren. What an inspiration that we are helpers of the Lord in His work of compassion.

The Master tests their REVERENCE. "Gather up the fragments that remain that nothing be lost." Is their any unnecessary waste at your table, especially when multitudes are going hungry?

"Gather up the fragments that remain." There are broken lives in our midst; men and women who have been wounded physically, mentally and spiritually in these terrible days of war. Are you thinking about them? Are you praying for them? Are you doing your little bit in helping them to recover their health, mentally and spiritually. They are members of God's family; they are our brethren. God will certainly fulfill His ancient promise: "I have seen the affliction of My people and I will come down and deliver them."

JESUS SAITH UNTO THEM: I AM THE BREAD OF LIFE: HE THAT COMETH TO ME SHALL NEVER HUNGER: AND HE THAT BELIEVETH ON ME SHALL NEVER THIRST.

PAUL IN EPHESUS

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—II Corinthians 6:1-5:21

Scripture—Acts 19:1-20:1; Ephesians

Paul asked certain Ephesians if they had received the Holy Ghost, and when they said no, they had been baptized by John the Baptist, he baptized them again in the name of Jesus.

God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul, so that from his body were brought to the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and diseases departed from them, and evil spirits went out of them.

Hearing of Paul's success with evil spirits certain men tried to cast an evil spirit out of a man, but the spirit cried, "Jesus I know, and Paul, but who are you?" and wounded them severely.

A silversmith who made shrines for Diana incited the people against Paul, and they seized two of his companions, but the city clerk released them. Paul embraced them. Golden Text—Eph. 2:10

Peterborough And Our Navy

There are over 700 men and women from Peterborough in the Royal Canadian Navy; there are not many inland towns of our population in Canada which can equal that record, or better it. In recognition of Peterborough's achievement one of Canada's new corvettes has been named H.M.C.S. Peterborough and will take her place in the Navy commanded by a man from this city. Tomorrow we shall all have a chance to see the vessel which bears our city's name at Cobourg; it will be a proud day for Peterborough.

Elsewhere in this edition of the Examiner our readers will find all the information about H.M.C.S. Peterborough which we think will be of interest to them. In particular we have tried to get pictures of every man who is attached to the ship; in some cases pictures were not to be had, and we offer this as an explanation of what might otherwise be taken as oversight or discrimination. We have tried to gather together all the news about the corvette which is public property, and we hope that those who are especially interested in it will find this copy of our paper a useful permanent record.

The building of the Royal Canadian Navy—men and ships—has been one of Canada's most spectacular achievements in this war. Before the war we had 1,700 men in the Navy; now the total strength is more than 80,000, of which 4,500 are women. Since the outbreak of war our Navy has done a magnificent job of convoy work, has guarded our coasts, and has on many occasions distinguished itself in battle against the enemy. In four years Canada has risen from an inconsiderable position to third place among the naval powers of the United Nations.

In this work men and women from Peterborough have borne their full share. In recognition of that fact there will henceforth be a ship in the Navy which will bear our city's name, perhaps far out upon the oceans of the earth. We have good reason to be proud, and we shall follow the fortunes of H.M.C.S. Peterborough as we follow the fortunes of all those men and women from this city who are now far from home in the service of their country and their King.

Germany Tips Her Hand

A dispatch from Stockholm tells us that five American flying-men who were forced to bail out over German territory were set upon and killed by German civilians; the same story has been given out by Berlin, but the number of men killed was given as one. This is in accordance with the plan of Dr. Josef Goebbels, still Minister of Propaganda and Enlightenment in the Third Reich, who incited this sort of killing by a carefully calculated campaign conducted through German press and radio. Allied fliers, he said, were murderers who machine-gunned defenceless people; let the public, therefore, treat them as they saw fit.

Now why did Goebbels do this? According to the laws of warfare a flier who bails out is taken as a prisoner of war exactly as is the captured soldier or sailor. Why does Goebbels incite the German people to set upon these men and kill them like beasts? We think that it is because there is something in the German nature which makes Germans go in for dirty fighting when they are being beaten. By this incitement to savagery Goebbels has tipped the German hand.

It is hard to remember that the bloody game of war has its rules and its decencies which all fighters observe. It is a simple case of do as you would be done by. No man wants to be mobbed and clubbed to death; no man wants to fight when he hasn't a chance of putting up a good show; no man wants to fight when he has no weapon.

Admittedly the giant bombers which fly over Germany do immense damage and doubtless they kill a great many people. But the German bombers did the same thing when they flew over Britain, and there was never any hint from the British Government that parachuting fliers were to be treated other than as prisoners of war. It was for the Germans to make that move, and thus to reveal the streak of savagery in their nature which shows itself clearly when defeat is near.

Traffic And Safety

We think that the time has come to say a word in appreciation of the good job which the acting Chief of Police is doing in cleaning up the troublesome traffic situation in this city. In Peterborough we have a complicated—not to say confused—system of stop streets, and several parts of the business section in which traffic snags are likely to crop up if the police are not vigilant. Of late there has been little trouble of this kind, and the heavier traffic which warm weather brings has been well handled.

The hand of the police force might be strengthened, however, if higher fines were provided for minor breaches of the traffic regulations. If a motorist is in the habit of running through a stop street—and there are scores of motorists in Peterborough who have precisely that habit—he may do it successfully twelve times, and be caught on the thirteenth offence. But he may figure that it is worth a trifling fine to have escaped a dozen petty annoyances.

But stop streets are all decided upon for a definite purpose; the Stop sign is not an arbitrary bit of tyranny by the Police Force. Every motorist who disregards a Stop sign places himself and an unknown number of other people in danger. Careless motorists must be checked if accidents are to be avoided.

The only way to check them is to make the penalty severe enough to act as a deterrent. If the fines for small traffic offences were stiffened, the police would be able to do a much more thorough job.

You Don't Have To Drown

Swimming weather is here, and already the newspapers are carrying reports of drowning accidents. Now there are some drownings which appear to be unaccountable, but the majority of these accidents can be avoided if swimmers will observe a few rules of safety, and we print them here:

Don't swim in water over your depth unless accompanied by a boat.

Don't swim in unknown water alone; never dive in unknown water.

Don't swim or bathe when tired, overheated or full of food or drink.

Don't indulge in horseplay in the water—or in a boat.

Don't take a boat out until you have learned to handle one.

Don't stand up, walk in, or rock the boat.

Don't ever forget that water, while it is a far better servant than fire, can be an equally deadly master.

In addition to these rules, we should like to utter a caution to experienced swimmers who are in the water with inexperienced swimmers: never encourage an inexperienced swimmer to do things which you are doing yourself unless you are completely confident of your ability to save him if he becomes exhausted. The place to practise swimming stunts is in a properly roped-off pool, where there are plenty of devices to help the novice if he gets himself into trouble. Never imagine that you are giving an inexperienced swimmer a helping hand when in reality you are only tempting him to do things which are beyond his skill and possibly beyond his strength.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mr. Cordell Hull has expounded his plan for world security, and he seems ready to go the hull way.

Summer is officially here. French Canada has had its annual orgy of moral indignation about women wearing shorts.

Detroit bakery-wagon drivers are on strike for more dough. Or did they just want a few days to loaf?

It is reported that Rommel has narrowly missed death once again. He has narrowly missed victory once or twice, too.

German planes, eager for signs of invasion, are making frequent flights over Scotland. But we can trust the Scotch not to give anything away.

"Washington Lawyer Found Innocent of Slaying Wife's Lover" says a headline. Well, it's nice to know that somebody in the family was found innocent.

Grisly observation by the Kitchener Record: "No matter how you may play your hand in the game of life, in the end you'll be trumped by a spade".

Diary Of A Literal Man

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Today I made a bold decision; I am going to put my Victory Garden back in grass. Last year I toiled and slaved over the miserable thing, coddled it with fertiliser and petted it as no garden has been petted since the great days of Versailles. And what was my reward? A miserable basket of tomatoes which I could have bought for sixty cents! For the market gardener, growing vegetables is a full-time, skilled occupation upon which his life depends. For the gifted amateur it is a restful and soul-restoring hobby. But for the greenhorn, the fool-in-a-field, the man with brown thumbs, it is outrageous folly. This year I shall do all my Victory Gardening in the hospitable shop of some Italians.... This is only common sense. I will write diaries to amuse the market-gardener, and he will grow vegetables and fruits to feed me. A fair exchange. I would hate to read a diary written by a gardener, and I am sure that he would gag on my vegetables.

MONDAY: The Jews played a prominent part in my consciousness this morning. A synagogue has suffered from fire in Quebec, and it is suspected that nasty Gentiles were trying to burn it down, which is not unlikely. All faiths, including Christianity, have their tyrannous and malignant side. More justly, perhaps, they have tyrannous and malignant followers, but can a faith be said to exist anywhere but in the deeds and thoughts of its adherents? Anyway it looks as though some Christians were trying to spite the Quebec Jews, and I will bet any money that they will not be caught or punished—not in the good old Christian city of Quebec.... This evening I listened to "Information Please," and marvelled once again at the number of Jews it seems to include—Jewish master of ceremonies, Jewish experts, and numberless questions from Jews. Are the Jews brighter in the head than Christians, and are they more intellectually curious? I really don't know, but from my personal experience I would say that there is no more irritating and hopeless creature than a stupid Jew. Fortunately they seem to be rare.

TUESDAY: Looking through a volume of "Who's Who In America" today I discovered a curious page in the introduction which informed me that ministers of the Gospel are more likely to beget children of genius than mere laymen. The Who's Who people offered this conclusion on the basis of statistics compiled from their book, and inclusion is Who's Who was taken as the authentic stamp of superiority. To be exact, Protestant clergymen contributed in proportion to their numbers 2,400 times as many eminent persons as unskilled labourers, 35 times as many as farmers, 4 times as many as business men, and twice a many as other professional men. In fact, one preacher in every 15 may confidently expect to produce a child who will get into Who's Who.... I was impressed by this, and felt that my parents had cheated me of a notable advantage in life, for my family tree is singularly free from sanctified persons, although one ancestor of mine, Edward Irving, was excommunicated by his presbytery for insisting on the humanity of Jesus Christ. Obviously no descendant of that heretic will ever sneak into Who's Who.

WEDNESDAY: Music, like food, has a special flavour when enjoyed out of doors. But I like to choose my music. A neighbour of mine has a radio which he leaves on all day long and and its unceasingly chatter and whine floats over into my garden. I have reason to believe that he is a godly man, and if I ran a machine which made blasphemies audible in his garden every day he would have me run in by the police; but the drivel which comes through his radio is blasphemy in my ears. There was a great deal to be said for the primitive radio which had to be listened to through a set of head-phones; at least it compelled the addict to enjoy his vice in private.... My lilacs this year are particularly fine and large, and I am sure this is because I have been dosing them with a solution of Vitamin B1. Doubtless in a few years chemical gardening will be a commonplace—hypodermics for hydrangeas and cathartics for costive campanulas.

THURSDAY: To the movies tonight to see "Lady In The Dark," the film version of Moss Hart's play. Most of the movies which have any meat on their bones are adaptations of stage plays. As I have a copy of the stage version of L.I.D. I was able to make a close comparison of the two versions. The movie cut much of the thought out of the play, and put four lumps of sugar in it, and served it to the great public in that form; nevertheless, it was the best movie I have seen in a dog's age. But why do the movie makers imagine that their audiences cannot understand things which are perfectly clear to theatre audiences? Only, I suppose, because experience has taught them that the average movie-goer is a boob.... Harold Bell Wright is dead; his books sold in millions of copies, although they were quite worthless as literature. But he knew something which many a clever novelist has never learned; he knew how to tell a story. Thousands of books are written today which have no plot worth considering, and which are full of vapourings which the authors mistake for thought and psychology. Wright had no use for thought or psychology; he simply wrote stories. I remember sobbing over "That Printer of Udell's" when a mere babe.

FRIDAY: My poor brother, Fairchild Marchbanks, has been in trouble again, I see. It appears that he yielded to the appeal of an advertisement offering five yards of good garden loam at $1.25 a yard, and instructed the loam-vendor to drop it in the road outside his house. Poor Fairchild has always been a dreamy, impractical fellow—I am myself the business brains of the Marchbanks tribe—and he did not realize that loam is sold by the cubic yard. When he awoke May 24, therefore, he was horrified to find a heap of loam about the size of the Hamilton Mountain in the street, and a policeman urging him between clenched teeth to move it away. Fairchild slaved all day, and only the thought of good Queen Victoria, who bore up so well during a long and difficult reign, kept him from assuming a disguise and fleeing to a far country. ...I am sending him some tables of mensuration which I copied from the back of a child's scribbler, so that nothing of this sort will occur again.

SATURDAY: Have had another interesting letter from G. Y. who has twice been visited by a ghost, and who also expresses pleasure at finding "observations in a Canadian paper which are not meant to be taken too literally." The supreme virtue in a newspaper is to be literal, and I am as literal as any reporter. Being literal is merely recording the evidence of the senses with all possible accuracy, and that is what I do; life has always appeared to me as a jumble of clownish incidents with occasional flashes of pathos and beauty. If I resemble any character in literature, it is the child in "The Emperor's New Clothes"; everywhere in life I meet people who think that they are magnificently, or at least respectably clad, but who seem to me to be as naked as our father Adam—or mother Eve, as the case may be—and what I write about them is literal truth to me, whatever it may seem to my readers.

Welcome To Prime Minister Curtin

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

CANADA has had many wartime visitors, but few among them will receive a more sincere and hearty welcome than Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia. The people of this Dominion respect and admire the part played by Australia in this war, and those feelings will naturally be reflected in their welcome to the Commonwealth's first minister. Of all the Dominions, Australia has been nearest to the war in a physical sense. Its fighting men were in the earliest Middle East campaigns, before the danger to the homeland led to their recall. Since then, their record speaks for itself.

The war record of Australia's armies is matched by that of the Australian people, and in making this record the Commonwealth has been given strong and able leadership by Prime Minister Curtin. Mr. Curtin is one of the few labour leaders in the world who also heads his nation. He went into power on a labour platform advocating the high-wage, high-profit economy which is the somewhat odd outgrowth of the Australian brand of socialism, and he has stoutly maintained these principles since taking office.

John Curtin's career opened humbly enough. He started as a printer's devil in Melbourne—and a printer's devil, in case any of our readers are unfamiliar with the term, is the bottom rung in any printing shop. In as short a time as possible, he took part in union affairs, holding several offices. He took up the cause of revolutionary socialism and worked hard at it, occasionally confusing it with atheism. He was an apt pupil at oratory, possessing a naturally pleasing voice. His voice has grown more harsh with much use, just as his socialism has grown less revolutionary with more experience, although he remains first and foremost a labour man.

However, he has never permitted his staunch adherence to the cause of labour to blind him to the needs of his country at war. Labour is ruled as rigidly in Australia as any other section of the community since war began; in fact, the manner in which a Labour Government has handled recalcitrant workers might well serve as a model for other countries. But although restrictive machinery exists, and has been used, Prime Minister Curtin prefers to talk matters out and to meet irate delegations himself—a task at which he is a past master. A delegation from Sydney, determined to have a showdown on some union matter, recently went up to see Mr. Curtin. On their return, their fellows demanded a report. The leader somewhat lamely replied: "We never quite got to the matter you mean. Old Jack kept talking about the war—but he was bloody impressive, he was."

This newspaper is happy to join Canadians everywhere in extending welcome and tribute to a man who has led his people ably and successfully through a great crisis in this history. The suddenness with which Australia was thrust into the world's limelight made severe and unexpected demands upon its leader. He has met them in a manner which meant much to the United Nations' cause.

Letter To The Editor

TOOTHPICK PUBLICITY

Sir,—From the press reports the public might be led to believe that the most important discussions that took place at the Ontario Dental Convention in Toronto centred around the use of toothpicks. One paper in a rather humorous editorial pictured the male of the species as coming into his own by flaunting a toothpick, none daring to make him afraid.

There would seem to be something wrong with our method of controlling publicity of what happens and what is accomplished at a convention. Why some dentist speaking for himself and not voicing the accepted opinion of the profession at large, as given glaring headlines, has always been a matter of wonder.

So far as the use of toothpicks is concerned, every dentist knows that immeasurable harm can be done to the gums in the interproximal spaces between the teeth by careless digging with the wrong kind of pick.

There are some authorities on mouth care who advise stimulating this gum tissue with a round smooth wooden point but they always instruct their patients how to use such an aid.

This is a vastly different thing from the austentatious fellow who with his thumb in his vest and using his tongue as a suction pump proceeds with a toothpick to remove half his meat course from his teeth.

We hope the public will not be misled into believing that we want to return to the manners of the time of Henry the VIII, and least of all that the dentists are taking a lead in this retroactive step.

A great deal of time at the convention was given to dental public health. Both the Federal and Provincial Governments are deeply concerned about how to bring to more people an adequate health service and they are consulting the dental profession very freely for guidance and advice in formulating a wise plan.

DR. J. S. MIDDLETON
Pres. Dental Public Health Council of Ontario.

Cow Found Path

The Chicago millionaire, C. K. G. Billings, built himself a beautiful home on the heights overlooking the Hudson River at the upper end of Manhattan Island. It was necessary to construct a roadway up a steep and rocky hill to the house, and Billings consulted a friend concerning the best way to accomplish the task.

"You aren't in a great hurry, are you?" inquired the friend.

"No," replied Billings.

"Then I'll tell you what to do," said the other. "If you want the job done right, put one of your cows on that land and give her time to lay out a path up that hill. Trust her to find the easiest and most comfortable grade."

Billings accepted the suggestion, and today an asphalt highway follows the winding path laid out by the bovine engineer.—Christian Science Monitor.

Dangerous Ground

Herbert Morrison wants a more bureaucratic system of government after the war. He wants Parliament to hand over more of its powers to Whitehall. To do him justice, Mr. Morrison put his case well, and he also put it frankly. What he said was that pressure on Parliament's time will be so great that there will be no opportunity for the "line by line" examination of bills which was possible before the war. Instead, he suggests, Parliament should tell the Government what it wants "on lines of broad principle and finance." Once that has been done, the executive would work out the details and put them into practice by means of orders and regulations. We all know what that means. The defence regulations are a prime example of this kind of procedure. The British people suffer them because they realize their necessity. But they do not like them. — London Daily Mail.

Reckless and False

Within a few days of a blanket denial from the Ontario Civil Service Commission, Ontario C.C.F. Leader Jolliffe charged that large numbers of Liberal civil servants were being replaced by Conservatives. J. W. Noseworthy, C.C.F., M.P. for South York, made a similar allegation in the House of Commons a fortnight earlier and was faced with the denial mentioned.

Apparently it is definite C.C.F. strategy to make any sort of a reckless charge to gain attention without the slightest regard for the truth or the slightest attempt to provide proof.

The procedure has been used repeatedly by the C.C.F. in their efforts to stir labour unrest by charging, in the face of audited reports to the contrary, excessive war profits to certain Canadian companies or industries. It is now being used by them to foster political discontent in Ontario.—Financial Post.

LIE DETECTOR LIES

In Manhattan, New York Post Columnist Leonard Lyons reported that in California a psychiatric patient was asked if he were Napoleon. He craftily said "No." A lie detector showed he was lying.—"Time" Magazine.

FLYERS TURN COWBOYS

After bombing the Japanese at Truk and other central Pacific islands, flyers of the 7th Air Force are brought back to Hawaii for rest periods. They change to high-heeled boots, checked shirts and ten-gallon hats and go out to the huge cattle ranches as guests of the owners.

The airmen, converted into cowhands, take part in round-ups, branding and other ranch operations and find time to hunt wild pigs and wild turkeys.

After a gang of flyers has zoomed through a ranch it is reported unreliably that the cows have to be taken up in planes to soothe their nerves.—New York Herald Tribune.

SHORT-LIVED PIONEERS

In his address to the London and Middlesex Historical Society Dr. J. J. Talman, of the University of Western Ontario, effectively exploded the idea that the pioneers were long-lived. While he admitted that records were rudimentary he reported that a careful search of parish registers in different parts of the province, checked by study of newspaper files of the 1830's, indicated that the average life expectancy of citizens of this part of Canada was from 23 to 27 years. Now it is approximately 58 years for men and 60 years for women. — London Free Press.

REDISTRIBUTION

We will never have evenly distributed prosperity and oportunity or even-handed justice in the Dominion of Canada so long as the trend towards centralization continues and nothing is done to change it. This is not just editorial phrase-turning: it is a plain statement of an intolerable condition. There is an old gambler's maxim that "When the kitty begins to get it all, it is time to redistribute the chips." And surely, it is time to "redistribute the chips" in Canada and to spread the benefits of Canadian activity, Canadian opportunity more fairly from sea to sea.—Halifax Herald.

A Bible Message

I will extol thee, O Lord; for thou hast lifted me up, and hast not made my foes to rejoice over me. O Lord my God, I cried unto thee, and thou hast healed me.....

Thou hast turned for me my mourning into dancing: thou hast put off my sackcloth, and girded me with gladness; to the end that my glory may sing praise to thee, and not be silent. O Lord my God, I will give thanks unto thee for ever. (Ps. 30: 1, 2, 11, 12.)

Art thou not from everlasting, O Lord my God, mine Holy One? we shall not die.....

Thou art of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on iniquity. (Hab. 1: 12, 13.)

And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him: and he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying.... Agree with thine adversary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing. (Matt. 5: 1, 2, 25, 26.)

Softball Game Monday For War Victims

The mingling of a first class sports event with an effort to help give the sufferers from air raid attacks over Britain a sporting chance to get on their feet once more, is a special feature of a softball game to be held this Monday night at Riverside Park between the Switchgear and Plaza teams of the City Softball League.

In previous years this has been one of the outstanding events of the season, a really good game being provided, itself an attraction well worth the attendance of all sports lovers, and this year promises to be no exception, the game scheduled between these two teams involving the immediate leadership of the league, with evenly matched teams to contest each other, in addition to which, two first class prizes for a draw are being offered.

These include a Kenwood blanket being donated by the League itself, and a rug which has been given as an attraction to help the fund along by the Peterborough-Brinton Carpet Co. Ltd., whose employees have done a great deal to help the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund ever since it first started to operate.

Bridge Club Friends

It has often been said that "A friend in need is a friend indeed" a saying which holds a great deal of truth, and when a group gives under such a name, they sure demonstrate their friendliness to a marked degree when the people they help are thousands of miles distant and there would seem little prospect of their ever meeting them. Today a gift of $6.30 is registered as coming from Bridge Club Friends, who render this act of service for other people in distress, who would certainly consider them friends indeed.

When the Giver of every good and perfect gift walked the paths of this earth, He taught that even a cup of water given in His name to relieve the necessities of other people was given as unto Him, and a gift of $5.00 acknowledged under "I.H.N. per W.K.R." quite suggests that this donor means just that, for it has appeared in similar manner on a number of previous occasions, demonstrating a full reality that all good Christian works continue going on from strength to strength.

Another penny box collection adorns this day's list, the latest of these to a very large extent consisting of the lowest coins of the realm amounting to $3.30, coming from the box located at the Utilities Office on Simcoe street, which is always collected every second month since they first went into operation on behalf of the fund.

Fire Damages Warehouse

A terrific bolt of lightning which blacked out the houses on Auburn street at the north end of Ashburnham, struck a one storey warehouse on the old Auburn Mill property igniting wool stored there, and extensive damage was caused before firemen were able to bring the stubborn fire under control.

The warehduse formerly used as a weaving room is a modern brick building and is owned by G. Whitaker and Co., wool merchants. At the present time it is jammed with high grade wool tops, all of which will have to be removed and processed because it is soaked with water.

The fire which presumably started near the wire terminals at the north end of the building ignited the burlap containers, and firemen entering the building had to contend with dense, choking smoke, which had little chance to get out because all windows were boarded. However the fire itself did little damage but the building is sprinklered and the water from the sprinklers saturated tthe wool.

About 20 youngsters had a merry time when firemen started to remove some of the woool which was blocking their approach to the fire, and the boys sent wool tops flying through the air in human chain fashion, piling it in the yard outside the main entrance. Spectators gave firemen valuable aid both in handling the firehose and removing the wool.

An official of G. Whitaker and Company hesitated to make an estimate of the loss last night, but it will run into the thousands of dollars.

The lightning bolt blamed for this fire, shattered an elm tree on Auburn street about a hundred feet south of the mill, and residents in that section were without power for several hours.

War—4 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press)

JUNE 3, 1940—British admiralty announced loss of six destroyers and 24 minor vessels out of a total of 900 used in the Dunkerque evacuation. Zeebruge harbor blocked by British with concrete-filled vessels. Germans bombed Paris, killing 254 persons.

JUNE 4, 1940—In announcing completion of Dunkerque evacuation Prime Minister Churchill said 335,000 British and Allied soldiers had arrived in Britain. He declared Britain would fight on "if necessary for years—if necessary alone" to final victory.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED — Pte. Charles Smith of Cobourg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, who was wounded last month and later returned to his unit, has been wounded again. His mother received word Friday that he has been seriously wounded. On the first occasion his injuries were light.

Grazing Horse Killed By Lightning

An electrical storm, as violent as it was short, struck the city a few minutes before six o'clock on Friday night, and though there was an interruption of Hydro service for two minutes at the beginning of the cloudburst which accompanied the lightning and thunder, both the Utilities Commission and the Bell Telephone reported only minor interference with their regular service.

The Hydro's high tension was cut off for two minutes throughout the city, but thereafter only trifling difficulties — branches of trees falling on wires—required the aid of service men. The Telephone Company reported "no lines down, no poles down," and indicated that only between 15 and 20 telephones were put out of order. Of these, all but a few were back in service by 10 a.m.

The duration of the storm was only about 30 minutes, and the precipitation was limited to .21 of an inch. However, the storm was directly over the city for several minutes and lightning was reported to have struck in several places. It went in on the wires through the walls of the Auburn Woollen Mills, and the subsequent drenching of goods stored there by the automatic sprinkler system resulted in some loss.

Lightning also struck in the lot beside the house of J. H. Keating, 383 Edison Avenue, and a horse grazing 20 feet from the residence was killed by the bolt. A large willow tree on the ball diamond at Armour Park was still another casualty of the storm.

R.C.A.F. Recruiting Crew Here Tuesday

The Royal Canadian Air Force Mobile Unit, operating from No. 11 Recruiting Centre, Toronto, will visit Peterborough on Tuesday.

The Unit, under the command of Flight Lieutenant T. A. K. Fletcher, will accept groundcrew applications from the following skilled tradesmen between 18 and 49 years of age, inclusive: Carpenters, Construction Accountants; Diesel Mechanics; Stokers and Stationary Engineers; Engine Mechanics; Pumpmen; Masseurs and Postal Clerks. If under 38, applicants for these trades must be unfit, it is understood, for overseas service with the Army.

Applications will also be accepted for standard tradesmen. No previous experience is necessary; men accepted will be trained for Air Force trades. Applicants must be over 17½ and under 45 years of age. If under 38 they, too, must be physically unfit for overseas service with the Army.

The Y.M.C.A. will again be headquarters for the Mobile Recruiting Unit during its sojourn here in Peterborough. Interviewing hours will be between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Kiwanis Club Hears Lecture On Rose Growing

"Peterborough's Horticultural Society is the third oldest in the Province of Ontario, having been founded in 1861, and I have heard it said that it was the oldest society of any kind in the city," John Smith, flower lover and gardening expert, told the Kiwanis Club at their Friday luncheon meeting.

Mr. Smith, speaking on the subject of rose gardens and bushes, prefaced his remarks with a brief reference to the Peterborough Horticultural Society, its history and work, and paid special tribute to the great interest and energetic efforts on the society's behalf of Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. and Mrs. Fraser. "They have done an awful lot for the Horticultural Society," said Mr. Smith, "and we appreciate it."

The first rose came from China, the speaker pointed out, and down the years they have proved a fascination to many individuals and nations. The ancient Romans spent much money on improving the breed, and Cleopatra and Nero were ardent devotees of the flower. Later the Bourbons in France and the Dutch growers did a great deal of work in breeding roses; and, Mr. Smith stated, some of the finest roses of the modern age were importations from France.

Growing Methods

Introduced by William Ovens, the speaker gave pointers from his knowledge and personal experience of many different aspects of growing and caring for rose bushes. In regard to garden location, he said that the spot selected should be protected from both north and east winds; and that bushes should not be piled up against a wall. "They want to be in the open," Mr. Smith said of them.

Clay soil was better than sandy soil, he indicated, and cultivation, which would cut down on the threat of spores and fungi, should be done once each week until the beginning of August. Thereafter, only a little raking would be required. Mr. Smith also advised that pruning should be done 'severely.'

There were different ways of preserving bushes from winter-kill the speaker pointed out, but he believed the best was to lay boards alongside the bush, packing soil against the boards and the bushes. The soil should be left until the middle of April, and then, he cautioned, should not be removed all at once, because wind and sun were hard on the plant just emerging from its winter rest.

The vote of thanks to Mr. Smith was moved by Richard Raine.

Camp Borden Soldier Held For False Alarm

After a false alarm had been turned in from a box at Hunter and Sheridan streets Friday evening, Pte. Joseph Blanchard, member of the R.C.A.M.C. at Camp Borden was arrested and will be tried today on a charge of making a false alarm of fire.

When the box was pulled the fire department was busy fighting a fire at the Auburn warehouse of A. G. Whitaker and Company.

Capt. Archie McDonald with a couple of men answered the call to Hunter and Sheridan streets and learned from a watchman at the Quaker Oats Company that two soldiers had been seen at the box and that they had gone north on Sheridan street.

Capt. McDonald went in search of them and brought Pte. Blanchard and another soldier to the police station.

No charge was made against Blanchard's companion this morning.

250 Temporary Homes

TORONTO, June 3 — (CP) — Toronto city council early today authorized continuance of negotiations with Wartime Housing Limited for the erection of 250 semi-permanent homes here for families of servicemen and ex-servicemen.

Opponents of the proposal maintained private enterprise should build the dwellings and said the houses to be constructed by Wartime Housing were "inadequate" for families of members of the Armed Forces.

SENIOR RANKING OFFICER—Vice-Admiral Percy Nelles, now senior Canadian naval officer overseas, who had more to do with the building up of Canada's navy than any other man. As a boy he attended the Lakefield Preparatory School and the Trinity College School at Port Hope.

Vice-Admiral Percy W. Nelles Laid Foundation For R.C.N.

Senior Canadian Naval officer overseas and the young man who was in command of a young navy until his recent appointment in London, Vice-Admiral Percy Walker Nelles at 51 is Canada's ranking naval officer.

The man on the street is beginning to be aware of what this country and, indeed then entire Commonwealth of Nations owe to the foresight and energy of this brilliant, and modest officer during the peacetime years directly preceding this war. The foundation he laid made possible the amazing accomplishments that started with the drop of the hat when war was declared.

Huge Job

Looking back at Canada's prewar navy of 15 vessels, and realizing as we now do that with the U.S. neutrality regulations, every item of war supply and equipment from the U.S. as well as Canada, must leave this continent for the British Isles via some Canadian port, Canadian citizens today feel an extraordinary thrill over the first exchange of messages between Great Britain and Canada's navy. How soon, the Admiralty asked, on the outbreak of war, could the Canadian Navy be ready to organize a convoy to accompany merchant ships out into the Atlantic. Admiral Nelles replied: "Now"—or the technical words to that effect.

Since his appointment in 1934, to succeed Commodore Hose, as chief of naval staff, Admiral Nelles had visualized the role his little navy must play, that of a skeleton organization that must be planned to act as an instrument of expansion the moment the war clouds gathering on the horizon should break into the inevitable storm. He is said to have known personally by name every vessel afloat in Canada, private, merchant, pleasure craft, sailboat or launch, and what wartime role each could be made to play.

Born in Brantford, Admiral Nelles is the son of Brig.-General Charles M. Nelles. His mother was one of those rare "grandes dames" of army circles, a woman whom the ranks revered. Of her two only children, the younger, Norman Cunningham Nelles, was killed in action at Ypres in 1915.

Went to T.C.S.

Admiral Nelles was educated at Lakefield Preparatory School, Port Trinity College School, Port Hope. When Admiral Kingsmill came back to Canada from England to organize a Canadian navy in 1908, second youth to sign up on the strength was Percy Nelles, age 16. He has come right through the entire life of the navy, from the days when his preliminary training was done on a fisheries protection service vessel, to the acquisition of the Niobe, and the gradual achievement of a small fleet of our own. Nelles attended Royal Naval College, Greenwich, and followed the usual courses of instruction for officers of the Royal Navy till he was commissioned a lieutenant.

Nelles began the last war attached to Admiral Craddock's flagship in American and West Indies waters. Later, in H.M.S. Antrim, he saw continual service convoying Canadian troops and war supplies from Halifax to the Clyde. After the war ended this service sheet shows him constantly returning to London for further study, staff work at the Admiralty, service with the fleet training step by step in the same pattern as officers of the Royal Navy. He had the remarkable experience in 1929 of being the first and only officer of the Canadian Navy ever to command a British cruiser, when he served as acting-captain of the Dragon.

Fire In Technicolor

TORONTO, June 3 — (CP) — First technicolor pictures ever made of a forest fire in Canada were brought to Toronto yesterday. They were made by a crew of cameramen who this week visited the 70,000-acre forest fire in the Gowganda district of northern Ontario.

BABY VICTIM OF GERMAN SUB—The baby, Centre, is Beatrice Trapunski, 16-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Trapunski, Polish refugees, shown with her. The baby was one of three persons who lost their lives when a German submarine stopped the Portuguese liner Sepra Pinto in mid ocean and forced the 385 passengers to take to lifeboats. The baby was lost in the transfer. Later, on orders from Berlin, the castaways were permitted to return aboard the liner and proceed with the exception of two Americans who were taken prisoner by the U-boat. The child in rear centre is Irene Trapunski, another child of the family. The photo was sent to Rabbi Pliskin of Baltimore, friend of the Trapunskis, some months ago.

Whiskey Supply Left In Hotel 16 Years Ago Taken By Aussie Before Envious Employees

TORONTO, June 3—This is a story that's going to break a thousand longing hearts, as a thousand pairs of parched lips shape the saddest words of tongue or pen.

It is also a story of efficiency, honesty and integrity in the face of awful temptation, on the part of several generations of hotel employees.

Gentlemen, let's get it over. Know herewith that all the time the monthly liquor ration was relentlessly jolting down from a paltry 180 ounces to the present sniff of 13, there was two-thirds of a bottle of Scotch reposing in the checkroom of the King Edward Hotel. It has been there since 1928. It is still there.

But it's too late, boys. Tonight it will be rightfully and legally claimed by the holders of ticket J7899.

In 1928, Wally Goodwin, head of the censorship office in Australia deposited two-thirds of a bottle of Scotch in the check-room, and subsequently left the city with ticket J7899 still in his pocket. (Those were the days, remember, when people could forget two-thirds of a bottle of Scotch.)

Allan Dawes, Don Whitington and Fred Smith — three Australian newspapermen, who are touring Canada under auspices of the Wartime Information Board— are going to cash in on Wally's absent-mindedness tonight. Attending a dinner given in their honor, they're going to stop in at the check-room on the way.

And, according to P. K. Hunt, manager of the King Edward, they're in luck. After 16 years, the stuff is still there.

After an investigation last night, he came back with the information that a parcel labelled J7899 is still on the check-room shelves. "There have been alterations going on lately at the hotel, and the parcel was found then," he explained, matter-of-factly.

Which just shows you. Miracles do happen.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, June 4

SUNDAY'S horoscope indicates a rather complicated state of affairs, with promise of much joy and pleasure, success and achievement, but the auspicious conditions may be nullified by various forms of extravagance, self indulgence, wild and dubious conduct. There may be temptations in connection with writings, documents or agreements, which may be distorted or manipulated toward unworthy ends. Personal extravagances and excesses also may menace.

Those whose birthday it is may have a difficult and dangerous year, with perplexities and problems largely resulting from selfish, extravagant and unprincipled indulgencies. Particularly are writing and documents liable to be distorted, twisted or made to serve expediency rather than principle. Similar excesses and recklessness in private life may jeopardize happiness.

A child born on this day may be so self-centered and careless of its honor, integrity and prudence as to need strict supervision in its infancy.

For Monday, June 5

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a complex one, with much promise of settling the affairs on a firm and enduring basis, largely through shrewd, sturdy and determined methods based on good sound sense. Tactful and diplomatic handling of critical affairs, with diligence and proper approach, should be able to set aside dangerous, irregular and difficult situations. Excess and extravagance, with irregularity in writings and contracts may threaten. Romance and social or emotional associations may likewise be subject to adverse circumstances.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which difficulties and irregularities may be complicated by careless, dubious and involved factors. Straightforwardness, sound judgment, diligence and sterling worth may set in order tricky or doubtful circumstances. Even romance and affectional ties may be imperilled by hasty, careless or irregular conduct, extravagances and indulgencies.

A child born on this day may have many sound and sterling qualities although in instances may be rash, careless, extravagant and may invite trouble with papers or writings. It should have careful early training.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

With the British War Victims' Fund getting every cent of the gate receipts Monday night's City League battle between the loop-leading Switchgear and the second-place Plazas which is called for 7 o'clock at Riverside Park should draw by far the biggest crowd of the season. The league officials in selecting this natural as a benefit game for the War Victims' Fund have been actuated by the motive of wanting to make the donation as substantial as possible and so they have picked the best game of the campaign for that purpose. Further interest will be created by the fact that a handsome rug and a blanket will be drawn for and will be carried home by two lucky fans whose numbers happen to be drawn. As for the game itself it looms up as the 1944 feature attraction so far. Plazas lost the opening game to Switchgear but since then have won three games in a row without a great deal of difficulty. Switchgear have not been beaten in four starts so that first place will be the prize when the rivals clash Monday night. A win for Plazas would leave the clubs tied for the leadership. On the other hand a Switchgear triumph would give Manager Murph Chambers' team a two-game lead. Both outfits will give all they have to win this argument for there is keen rivalry between them.

* * * * * *

The City Softball League has progressed far enough to indicate that the two finalists for the title this year are likely to be Manager Murph Chambers' Switchgears or the Plazas with St. Peter's apparently the only other team in the loop likely to threaten the two leaders. At present the standing is as follows:

| | Won | Lost | P.C. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Switchgear | 4 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Plazas | 3 | 1 | .750 |
| St. Peter's | 2 | 2 | .500 |
| Soldiers | 0 | 3 | .000 |
| U. E. W. | 0 | 3 | .000 |

Switchgear and Plazas seem to have the edge over the field not only in power but in pitching strength. Each of them has three pitchers lined up. On the contrary St. Peter's, with a neat fielding team has been operating with only one hurler, loading too much work on Gene Reynolds. Soldiers have some weak spots in the lineup and also need pitchers but it may be too soon to read them out of the contention. This Procyk who pitched against Switchgear looks promising. The Union team, beaten three straight games, needs strengthening and also leadership that will put fight and hustle into the outfit. Just because they represent a union they shouldn't act as if they had two strikes on them before they get to the plate.

The Best Battle Yet

Peterborough wrestling fans have heard with delight that Wilbur Toar Morgan, the Battling Marine is going to partner Frankie Sexton in the tag team match with Palermo John Katan and Al Bunny Dunlop at the Tunney show at the Brock Tuesday night. The dearest hope of local enthusiasts is to see Katan and Dunlop get an artistic shellacking for the chesty manner in which the two paraded around the ring after their victory the other night sent the crowd out of the arena in angry mood. The two bad men after ganging up on Elitch and finally tossing him out through the ropes staged a march with their right arms uplifted and the fans didn't like it a little bit. They are looking to the new team of Sexton and Morgan to straighten things out and to give the boastful Katan-Dunlop duo a real wrestling lesson. With a resourceful, courageous, powerful and clever partner like the former Marine to help him out Frank Sexton will be able to cut loose every minute he is in the ring knowing that if he finds the going tough and needs a rest he can count on Morgan taking care of the situation. Nick Elitch tried hard the other night but he lacked the poundage and durability and eventually was thrown twice to give the villains the match.

* * * * * *

Oddly enough the firm of Katan and Dunlop seem actually relieved that they will not have to face Elitch again. They both claim that the manner in which the rotund Nick butted with his head bothered them more than anything else they had to meet and they declare that while Morgan is a clever wrestler he will not give them as much worry as Elitch did. "That nut has a concrete dome," Bunny Dunlop said. "Every time he hit me I felt as if I had been bumped by a truck and I for one am glad he will be out of there, I know Morgan is good but he follows regular methods. That head-butting is new and there should be a rule against it. Somebody is liable to get a fractured skull if Elitch is going to be allowed to keep on using that stuff." However we have an idea that before Sexton and Morgan get through with them both Dunlop and Katan may be wishing that Elitch was back again, in spite of his hard head.

They'll Be Missed

Peterborough softball fans in general and the players of the Westclox team in particular will be interested in learning that Hazel Baynton the blonde pitching star and Jean Aiken, the classy catcher of the Stratford Kroehlers are going to Montreal to play. Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon-Herald breaks the story as follows: "Now it's Stratford's turn and this city is hit even harder than Toronto was because the Montreal Lions have induced Hazel Baynton and Jean Aiken to change their place of abode, which deprives Stratford of its best battery. It may be a blessing in disguise, much as Stratford fans hate to see these two girls leave our midst, because it will enable teams in the Perth County League to be on a more equitable basis. Few will deny that Hazel Baynton was the top pitcher in the Perth circuit, and certainly the most effective hurler in the intermediate section of the Provincial Women's Softball Union, at least among those teams Stratford Kroehlers met and defeated last summer for the Ontario crown. Hazel came to Stratford two years ago from Woodstock, where she had previously displayed a lot of class while playing against Stratford. Once she was paired up with Jean Aiken here, another top performer in her position throughout the province, there was nothing to stop this battery from leading Stratford to its first provincial title."

If the Army's call doesn't come soon Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants will be so far ahead in the home run race that there will be no one else even close. The great little slugger came through with his 11th and 12th home runs of the season yesterday and his two circuit blows supplied the punch to enable the Giants to take the Pittsburg Pirates 6 to 4. Mort Cooper pitched the St. Louis Cards to a 9 to 3 win over the Phillies, keeping eight hits well scattered. In the American League the Detroit Tigers ran their winning streak to seven straight triumphs, the longest victory parade set up by the Bengals in five years, by beating the Boston Red Sox 4 to 1 with Johnny Gorsica pitching seven-hit ball and Rudy York and Pinky Higgins cuffing homers. Hank Borowy won another game for the Yanks as the New Yorkers defeated the Cleveland Indians 5 to 1, beating the Canadian-born Paul Calvert. Another American League feature was the four-hit pitching of Bob Muncrief of the St. Louis Browns in shutting out the Philadelphia A's 3 to 0.

Earl Whitehill To Pitch In Relief Role

By VERN DEGEER

TORONTO, June 3—Earl Whitehill, 44-year-old coach of the Buffalo Bisons, is labelled for relief pitching assignments just as soon as he can shake the miseries out of strained muscles in his leg.

Manager Bucky Harris said last night there was no joke about the story Whitehill was to put his once famous southpaw delivery to work in the International League.

"You'd be surprised," said Bucky "how much speed and curve Earl has retained. I don't know how many innings he can last, but I'm certainly going to try him in relief roles as soon as his leg mends.

"One of the reasons Earl kept his arm in shape," he added, "was because he did much of the batting practice pitching for us last season." (Whitehill was coach of the Phillies during Bucky's short but hectic experience in Philadelphia.)

Could Be Erratic

Whitehill had a lifetime pitching average of .540 for 16 years' service in the American League and one year in the National. He is one of the few southpaws to hit the 200-game winning mark. His count was 218. Typical of southpaws, Earl also could develop wild streaks. For example, the record book shows he tied the American League mark in 1924 by hitting four batsmen in one game.

While on the Whitehill subject yesterday I reminded Bucky of visiting his Washington Senators training camp at Orlando, Fla., in the spring of 1936.

Whitehill and Chief Hogsett were off in a corner, conducting a two-man pitching experiment on Joe Krakauskas, a Canadian boy.

Says Krakky Confident

"That," chuckled Bucky, "was no ordinary experiment. It was one of the experiments of the century. Krakauskas was big and strong, and could throw a ball through a brick wall, provided he could hit it. But he needed a home plate as big as a garage door to aim at. If he could have developed control, there's no telling how far he could have gone in the majors. I finally had to give up on him. I guess Whitehill and Hogsett were relieved."

Told the effervescent Krakky was now with the R.C.A.F. overseas, Bucky cracked: "Unless Joe has changed, I'll bet he's telling a few of your officers how to win this war. That kid was never short on confidence. He should make a good airman, provided they don't let him steer a plane with his left hand."

Pete Gray, Player With One Arm, Seeks Majors

ATLANTA, Ga., June 3—(AP).—The gangling, one-armed ball player said tersely:

"I can make it. All I want is a chance."

He was 26-year-old Pete Gray, of the Southern Association Memphis Chicks, and the chance he was speaking of was with a major league team.

A Nanticoke, Pa., Boy.

Gray — born Peter Weisner of Nanticoke, Pa.—is playing his third year of organized baseball. Memphis manager Dor Prothro, former pilot of Philadelphia Phillies, says the colorful centrefielder is equal to most major league talent to-day despite his handicap. Prothro thinks he is ready for the big time. So does Billy Evans, president of the Southern League who formerly headed the Red Sox farm system.

"Mr. Prothro says he thinks I can make the grade, and I do too," said Gray. "I'd sure like to try it, and he says I'll get a chance this year."

In Nanticoke, when he was six, Gray jumped off an automobile and fell beneath a back wheel. It was necessary to amputate his right arm about six inches from the shoulder. Determined to be like other boys, he learned to throw with his left hand, eventually began baseball. He began his professional career with Three Rivers, Que., in the Canadian-American League, in 1942, leading the league in hitting at .381.

Last year, with Memphis, he hit .289, finished fourth in fielding for regular outfielders. This year he is hitting .336 — including two homers — and leads the league in stolen bases.

In fielding, Gray tucks his glove swiftly under the stump of his right arm while holding the ball across his chest with the left. With the return motion he grips the ball and throws it.

When a dispute arose over one of Gray's catches at Birmingham, Evans issued a special ruling on legal catches by the one-armed star.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

With victories in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness to his credit, Warren Wright's Pensive goes to the post today at Belmont Park as the favorite to cop the 76th running of the Belmont Stakes against seven other three-year-olds. A win for the Calumet farm chestnut would permit him to join the select circle of six horses which have accomplished the triple-win in U.S. turf history. If the eight entries go into the race, the winner receives about $55,000. In the case of Pensive, this would send his earnings for the year to $195,000. Chief opposition is expected from George D. Widener's Platter.

Six races form the card for the 10th annual U.S. Scholastic Rowing Regatta on the Schuylkill river at Philadelphia today, the only crew from Canada being the four from the Wentworth Technical School, Hamilton, who travelled by automobile to the scene.

War Fighting

Famed in the ring as lightweight rivals, Philadelphia Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack both turned their immediate attention yesterday to war fighting. Montgomery, N.B.A. champion, was inducted into the U.S. army at New Cumberland, Pa., while Jack entered the army at Fort Benning, Ga.

Johnny Ray of Pittsburgh yesterday intimated there had been discussions regarding a 15-round bout, without purse, between his fighter, Cpl. Billy Conn, former light-heavy-weight champion, and Sgt. Joe Louis, holder of the heavyweight crown. It would be held overseas or in the States to entertain servicemen, he said.

A crowd of 17,021, wagering $1,895,068 on eight races saw Jockey Ted Atkinson of Toronto ride three winners at Belmont Park yesterday but he did not figure in the Orchid Hills feature which went to a 12-to-1 outsider, Grant Thorn's Sticky Kitty, by a head over the favored Miss Barbara.

Orioles, Giants Set Hot Pace

By The Associated Press

Jersey City and Baltimore, currently the hottest clubs in the International League, continued to set a torrid pace as both were victorious in last night's games.

The Little Giants, behind effective pitching of Andy Hansen, defeated the hapless Syracuse Chiefs 5-3, who now have lost their last 10 games. The win gave the Giants eight victories in their last nine games and increased their first place lead over Toronto and Baltimore to 1½ games.

The Orioles won their seventh in succession, downing the last-place Newark Bears 9-7, to deadlock Toronto for second place. Frank Skaff made three of the Orioles 10 hits and drove in two runs.

Montreal and Rochester were halted by rain after the Royals had gained a 3-0 lead in three innings.

is a slack season for Canadian sports, so naturally the columnists are hard put to get their daily efforts together, and have to reach for material. That's the reason more than a few of them have been delving into the intricacies of female participation in sports and getting themselves in the bad graces of the girls.

Latest to get involved is H. A. Cole of the Guelph, Ont., Mercury. He doesn't object to the girls in games, but is unkind enough to believe that the men spectators aren't so interested in the keen competition as they are in the keen curves on display. And, says Mr. Cole, it's quite often the older men who display much eager interest in the softball lasses.

"They may totter down to the park on crutches," he says blithely. "They may laboriously trundle themselves along in wheelchairs . . . just the same, they'll get there if it's the last thing they do."

Perhaps in all this we may have discovered the elixir Ponce de Leon was looking for.

St. Kitts In

The rumor had been spread abroad that St. Catharines, Ont., thrice holder of the Dominion lacrosse championship, would have no team this year. But now comes word St. Kitts will field a senior boxla team after all, and that backers of the game are waking to the importance of encouraging the juniors and juveniles in the sport. Lacrosse could use th boost that the younger players could give it in a few years.

Saturday Subjects:

Bicycle racing in Winnipeg has been hard hit by the war. So far, 63 riders from the Belgian Club are in the armed forces, leaving only a dozen or so to hold the fort for the duration . . . Latest trouble on the labor front is the referees' strike ultimatum in Toronto. Unless they get more beans in the pay envelopes by June 10, soccer officials threaten to walk out and leave the boys to play by themselves. There'll be spirited opposition, but the Halifax defence baseball league is seriously considering staging Sunday ball games—with no tariff collected at the gate of course. The fight for Sabbath sports has always been keen, but so far its advocates have made little progress. . . . Hazel Baynton and Jean Aiken, star battery of Stratford's girls' softball team, have been lured away to Montreal by the female Royals.

Mel Ott, Giants—Led New York to seventh straight with 11th and 12th home runs in 6-4 victory over Pittsburg.

Jim Tobin, Braves—Limited Cincinnati to three hits in hurling his third shutout of season, helped the cause with single driving in two runs of 4-0 edge.

Rudy York, Tigers — Belted two-run homer and single in Detroit's 4-1 decision over Boston for the seventh successive victory.

Pepper Martin, Cardinals — Collected three hits and scored one run in Cardinals' 9-3 triumph over Phils.

Bob Muncrief, Browns — Tamed Athletics with five singles in hurling 3-0 shutout.

EXPECTS BIG THINGS OF JOE—Joseph Nuxhall, 15-year-old Hamilton high school boy who joins the Cincinnati Reds on June 8, as a pitcher, is shown here (Right), with the Reds' manager, Bill McKechnie. Nuxhall, 6 ft. 3, is the youngest player ever to perform with a major league club.

Giants, Tigers Capture Seven In A Row

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer.

If the baseball season ended to-day the St. Louis Browns would win their first pennant by .0006 of a percentage point over the New York Yankees, but October with its World Series cash is still far away.

Detroit continued to scorch the heels of the front-runners in the Harridge loop with its seventh straight yesterday, while Mel Ott's surprising Giants ripped along the same win path to No. 7 at the expense of Pittsburg. The Tigers are only 1½ games behind the Brownies.

Ott was the big individual story for the second time this week as the Giant pilot banged out home runs Nos. 11 and 12 in a 6-4 nod over the Pirates. Master Melvin has hit eight in the last 10 games.

The St. Louis Cardinals pulled out in front by a 4½ lengths as Mort Cooper came up with another brilliant eight-hit effort in trimming the Phillies, 9-3. The Majors broke out with a rash of five night games attracting 70,339 fans.

Jim Tobin grabbed his third shutout on a three-hit performance against Cincinnati and drove home two of the Boston runs in the 4-0 edge.

Chicago ended its six-game losing streak behind Claude Passeau, but Leo Durocher put on his biggest storm act of the year before the Dodgers bowed 2-1. Lippy Leo was ejected from the game after Umpire Jock Conlan disallowed a Brooklyn run.

In the American League Bob Muncrief blanked the Athletics 3-0 as his St. Louis mates won on four safe blows. Hank Borowy stopped the New York slump yith an eight-hit, 5-1, performance against Cleveland.

Thurman Tucker upped his average to .415 with three singles in Chicago's 5-2 edge over Washington, helping Thornton Lee finally make the victory grade after six defeats.

Detroit's seventh straight triumph was a 4-1 nod over Boston on first-inning homers by Rudy York and Pinky Higgins.

Newcomers Hold Top Spots In International

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—Six new names adorned the International League's "Big 10 At Bat" today, but Antonio (Chico) Rodriquez of Syracuse clung to the No. 1 spot despite a 14-point skid to .374.

Close on his heels were two newcomers, Bobby Maier of Buffalo and Elmer (Red) Durrett of Montreal, who jumped from nowhere to the place and show positions with sensational spree.

Maier, youthful third-sacker who hit .360 for Hagerstown last year, leaped from 14th to second place by belting 16 bingles in 34 trips, hoisting his average from .317 to .346. The figures include games of May 31.

Durrett, Guadalcanal veteran, came up with the big jump of the week, however, climbin from 18th to third place as his percentage soared from a respectable .306 to a robust .344.

Joe Overman, Rochester, sixth with .327; Carroll Lockman, Jersey City, seventh with .323; Tony Castano, Toronto, tied for eighth with .321, and Frank Heller, tenth with .320 are the other first-timers.

Holdovers are Jack Sturdy, Rochester, fourth with .336; John Corriden, Montreal, fifth with .333, and Stan Benjamin, Baltimore, knotted for eighth with Castano at .321.

Maier's base hit outburst gave him the lead in that department with 48 safe knocks.

Morris Aderholt, Montreal, leads in home runs with seven, is second in runs batted in with 33, and in stolen bases with 10.

Jersey City leads in team batting for the fifth straight week with a mark of .284. Toronto retained its fielding honors with a percentage of .969.

Sam Lowry, Baltimore, and Kemp Wicker, Rochester, are tied for pitching leadership, each having won four and lost one.

Henry Armstrong Loses To Joyce

CHICAGO, June 3 (AP) —Henry Armstrong, boxing's former triple title-holder, stepped on a broken rung on his climb back up the fistic ladder to the game's pot of gold last night.

Willie Joyce, the 26-year-old negro from Gary, Ind., who broke even in two previous encounters with the former king of three boxing divisions, upset the fistic dope book and won the rubber match by a unanimous decision in a 10-round, fiercely fought bout.

Belying his 32 years and 13 years of ring warfare, and apparently not bothered by stifling heat, the Los Angeles negro, an 8-5 favorite, never stopped swinging from the opening bell to the end. And while he displayed his championship form in power and motion, many of his punches missed their target.

Thus Joyce, who weighed 139 compared to Armstrong's 141¼, broke Hammerin' Henry's consecutive ring victory string of 10 bouts before 10,367 fans, and dealt him the second of four beatings suffered by the former champ since he returned to the ring two years ago.

REPLACING MANPOWER—In many lines of endeavor for the past few years, womanpower has been replacing manpower gone to war. This is true in the Canadian telephone industry as elsewhere. An example of this is found in girls replacing men as coin-box collectors. In the picture above, a pretty young Canadian has just started her day's rounds emptying nickels from the public telephones in one section of her community. (National Film Board Photo)

SECOND MARRIAGES HAPPIER

Older Couples Do Not Expect So Much From Union As Do Romantic Youths.

ONE of the strange and interesting things about marriage is that second marriages are so often happier than first ones. This is not only contrary to tradition but to the logic of the case, for youth is the time of love and romance and hot blood and it would seem that a marriage entered into while the bemused youth saw his bride as a dream a-walking, and the starry-eyed maiden beheld her groom as a Fairy Prince, would be the preferred risk in matrimony.

But according to the divorce statistics young marriages smash on the rocks far oftener than older ones, and the younger they are the more liable they are to shipwreck. Teenagers have hardly a chance of surviving the storms of wedlock; whereas middle-aged men and women, embarking on their second voyage, as a rule have a pleasant and uneventful trip across the matrimonial sea.

And whether this is because age and experience teach all but the foolhardy to use their heads as well as their hearts in picking out their Number Two mates, or because they are better losers, is an unsolved problem. For in marriage there are a million exceptions to every rule.

Older Couples Ready For Hardships

Of course, there are many valid reasons why second marriages are a safer gamble than first ones. The main one of which is that the experienced do not expect too much of marriage as the inexperienced do. The boy husband and girl wife expect marriage to be a rose-strewn path down which they will wander billing and cooing, and when they find out that it is a rocky road to travel they only too often throw up their hands and quit. But the man and woman who have trodden it before are prepared for its hardships and take them in their stride.

It is commonly said that husbands and wives treat their second mates better than they did their first. That is true. There are very few men and women who ever look at their dead mates without their consciences reproaching them for the cruel words they have said, for the lack of tenderness and kindness they have shown, for the fact that they held another's happiness in their keeping and they trampled it in the dust.

Another advantage that the widow and widower have in marriage is that they go into it as professionals, not as amateurs. It takes the better part of a first marriage to teach men and women how to be good husbands and wives. It is only after they have fought their way practically to the doors of the divorce court that they learn how to walk high, wide and handsome around the subjects on which they disagree, and how more efficacious it is to spread the salve than it is to use the hammer in domestic crises.

Perhaps second marriages are not so filled with circling wings and clouds of glory as first marriages are. They are peopled with no glamor girls, but there is generally a woman on one side of the hearthstone who learned how to cook at the expense of her first husband's digestion and how to manage a man without his knowing it, and on the other side is a man whose dear departed Maria left him, as a priceless legacy, the knowledge of how to smooth a wife's fur the right way and keep her eating out of his hand.

Hastings Boy To Be Ordained

TORONTO, June 3—Seventeen young men, graduates of St. Augustine's Seminary here, will be ordained to the Holy Priesthood in Catholic cathedrals throughout the Dominion today. The Sacrament of Holy Orders will be administered to six of them by his Grace the Most Rev. James Charles McGuigan, D.D., Archbishop of Toronto, in St. Michael's Cathedral at 9 o'clock this morning.

Three of those who will be ordained at St. Michael's are from the Archdiocese of Toronto: Rev. Alfred Caley of St. Brigid's parish, Toronto; Rev. Leo Perusse of Thorold, and Rev. Joseph Majka of St. Catharines. These young men will celebrate their first Holy Mass in their native parishes on Trinity Sunday, June 4. Of the other three, Rev. J. Coughlan of Hastings, Ont., is from the Diocese of Peterborough, and Rev. Joseph Cotter and Rev. Francis McIsaac, both of Sydney, N.S., are from the Diocese of Antigonish.

Contest Winners To Get Medals

A temperance contest sponsored by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, was conducted at the regular meeting of the Nettie McKenzie Mission Band of Knox United church, in the junior room. Junior members taking part were Marilyn and Gwynneth Todd, Margaret Johnston, Shirley Killingbeck, Allan McIlraith and Robert Ross, with Margaret Johnston the winner.

Primary members taking part were Esther Brown Oryce McIlraith, Aileen Todd, Barbara Craff, and Murray Manders. Esther Brown was winner. Medals will be awarded to the winners by the W.C.T.U. Judges were: Mrs. T. H. Rehill, Mrs. G. Rowe, and Mrs. A. B. Cunningham.

"Making People Happy" was the theme of the service. Shirley Kilingbeck read the Scripture and Miss Inez Barrer the leader, offered a prayer for the missionaries. "Freedom from Fear," a story from Africa, was read by Miss Barrer. The meeting closed with the dedication of the offering, which was taken by Barbara Cragg and Murray Manders.

No Happiness in the Home When Mother Is Sick

The tired, worn out mother cannot make a happy home if she is sick and worried by the never ending household duties.

She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, downhearted and discouraged, can't rest at night, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as when she went to bed.

Women suffering in this way may find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a remedy with which to help recuperate their health, build up the run down system, and assist them back to health—happiness again.

Price 50c a box, 65 pills, at all drug counters.

McLean—Lang

LIFFORD LINE, June 3—(ENS)—St. Mary's Church, Lifford, was the scene of a pretty wedding this week when Leona Marie Lang, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Les. Lang, became the bride of John Samuel McLean, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. John McLean of Lindsay. Rev. Mr. Mason, rector of Manvers parish, was the officiating clergyman and a large group of neighbors and friends as well as about fifty guests witnessed the ceremony.

The church was decorated for the occasion by members of the Guild. The entire front of the interior looked lovely with a profusion of spirea, honeysuckle lilacs, snowballs, geraniums and ferns. A variety of bouquets adorned the church windows. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to music played by Robert Sisson, organist of the church.

Macie Lang, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and George McLean, brother of the groom, was best man for his brother. The bride wore a white wedding gown, a white coronet of flowers from which flowed a white veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaid as frocked in a pink gown with pink coronet and net veil. Her bouquet was pink roses and mauve iris.

The wedding supper was served at the home of the bride. The happy young couple left later for a short honeymoon. On their return they will take up residence on the groom's farm near Lindsay.

Reynolds—Downing

A quiet wedding took place recently in St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, when Dorothy Florence Downing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Downing, Omemee, became the bride of Robert J. Reynolds, son of Mrs. J. Reynolds, Lauder avenue, Toronto. Very Rev. Dean C. E. Riley officiated.

The bride wore a pale pink sheer and lace dress for the ceremony, white accessories and a white hat and veil. Her corsage was of orchids and lily of the valley, and she carried a white prayer book. The couple were unattended.

St. Paul's Ladies' Aid Has Diamond Anniversary

An impressive candle-lighting service, when 60 candles were lighted representing each year of service of the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, was a highlight of the diamond anniversary services in the church Friday evening. As the great lights in the church were dimmed, the first five candles were lit in memory of the first president, Mrs. Alec Smith, by her niece, Mrs. V. E. Austin. As the name of each past president was read, a representative went forward and lighted candles in her honor, one for each year served as president. Mrs. Robert Ross and Mrs. M. D. Chenhall were in charge of this portion of the service.

As the last candles were lighted, the 60 tiny flames seemed to merge into a blazing torch, symbolizing the will of the Ladies' Aid to continue their work, and their unwavering faith in the future. As the offering was received, the choir sang "Onward, Christian Soldiers". The penny-a-day offering from various groups in the Aid was also received with Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart dedicating the contributions. The C.G.I.T. girls of St. Paul's assisted in taking up the collection.

Mrs. W. H. Hall lighted a candle in honor of Mrs. T. Fairbairn, the second president of the Ladies' Aid, and also in memory of her mother, Mrs. W. T. Taylor. Mrs. R. Fortye lighted the candle in memory of Mrs. James Dennistoun; Miss Laura Davidson in honor of her mother, Mrs. William Davidson and Mrs. Munro. Miss Lilian Hall lighted the candles in memory of Mrs. Robert Hall, followed by Mrs. J. Pulkinghorn for Mrs. C. White.

Mrs. Manson Comstock fired the taper in honor of her sister, Mrs. E. F. Mason, and Mrs. Albert Garbutt the candle in memory of Mrs. J. Garbutt. Mrs. John Comstock lighted the taper honoring Mrs. C. H. Moore. Mrs. D. Jordan, president for three years, lighted her candles, while Miss Maude Finnie lighted the candles commemorating the two years of service as president rendered by her sister, Mrs. J. W. Hall. Mrs. W. A. Parker represented Mrs. W. Lyburn. Mrs. H. Morgan and Mrs. F. Rowan, lighted their candles, and Mrs. T. Gilgour was represented by Mrs. J. H. Gilgour. The following lighted their own candles: Mrs. Fred Hall, Mrs. C. Blewett, Mrs. J. Marsh, Mrs. A. Jack, Miss Lena Eakins, Mrs. Gordon Hall, Mrs. J. Skinner, Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss and Mrs. H. McKenzie, concluding with Mrs. A. A. MacIntyre, who is serving her second term as capable president.

Formed In 1884

Miss Lillian Esplen, as historian of the Ladies' Aid, gave a brief outline of the 60 years of the organization, mentioning some of the highlights of the long years of service. Although the church was founded in 1859, it was not until 1884 that the Ladies' Aid was formed, and on February 4, 1884, the first meeting was held. During the first few months after the Society had been founded, two energetic projects were under way. In order to carry out the terms of the constitution, which Miss Esplen read in full, a committee was formed, to visit the homes of the congregation, and to provide help where needed. The speaker stressed that the constitution demanded that aid be not given exclusively to members of the congregation, but wherever needed. The other important committee was the organ committee, which assumed complete responsibility for the purchasing of a new pipe organ.

Various projects were sponsored to raise the $3,000 needed for a suitable organ, and included monthly collections, lectures, organ recitals, teas, and lawn parties. Another interesting feature mentioned by the speaker was, that at that time, the church was lighted entirely by gas. The zeal and concentrated effort of the women was ably shown, when in December 1884, the secretary was instructed to notify the Session of the Church that the organ could be obtained as soon as the church was ready.

Help Sunday School

The Society, however, did not confine its efforts to the improvement of the church. In February, 1885, the members decided to order a set of dishes for the Sunday School engraved with the crest of St. Paul. Thoroughness was an attribute also displayed by these women, since they provided the funds for a cupboard to hold the new dishes. In May, 1885, the Society paid for a table, a carpet for the ladies' parlor, vestry, and platform, and also donated $300 towards the carpeting of the church. In September, 1885, money was voted to the Sunday School, to begin a library, and to begin the distribution of Sunday School papers.

Another important step stressed by Miss Esplen, was the decision in December, 1885, to name a committee to organize a choir of young people of the congregation, to lead in the singing at all meetings.

The events Miss Esplen spoke of, were taken from the minutes of the first seven years of the society's history, as taken from the original secretary's book. Various sums of money were given to aid in the projects of the church and to assist with the work of the Sunday School.

Mission work of the Ladies' Aid was also outlined by the speaker, and she listed several donations given to the Mission School, and the means of raising the money employed by the women at that time. An outline of the other activities of the society showed that the work was always continuing, and that the women were ever eager and ready to help in any way possible. In the more recent years of the Ladies' Aid, principal items were the large sums loaned to pay off mortgages, decoration of the manse, and the sum of $3,000, promised to aid in the redecorating of the church.

Choir Given Assistance

Choir banquets have been held annually since 1885, and gowns have been kept in repair, and replaced when necessary. Latest contribution in this respect was the supplying of gowns for the junior choir. Christmas baskets were sent each year to missionaries in the field. Since the war, the speaker explained, a great deal of Red Cross work has been done, and boys and girls serving in the armed forces have been remembered at Christmas. Money has also been put into war bonds, with a total of $2,200 in bonds being presented to the Board of Managers for the restoration fund.

In conclusion, Miss Esplen said, "Anniversaries are times to look back upon the excellence of the past, and, keeping it in mind, to look toward the future. So, upon this Diamond Jubilee, may we be resolved to work together in peace and harmony toward the accomplishment of even greater things in the years which lie ahead."

Letters Sent

The platform was lovely with baskets of vari-colored iris. Mrs. W. Cochrane, the secretary, read letters from Mrs. E. F. Torrance, wife of the late Rev Dr. Torrance, a former minister at St. Paul's, and Mrs. R. Pogue, wife of the late Rev. Dr. Pogue, also a former minister at St. Paul's. Both women expressed regret that they were unable to attend the services, but wished the Ladies' Aid continued success in its worthy work. Rev. Dr. Smart conducted the devotional period. Mrs. A. A. McIntyre presided. Members of the St. Paul's Cub pack acted as ushers.

Greeting from the United Churches of Canada in Peterborough were brought by Mrs. W. G. McLaren. Mrs. Maurice Pringle brought greetings from women in the Baptist churches in Peterborough, and Mrs. J. C. Adams greeted the members of the society on behalf of the women of the Anglican churches in Peterborough. Mrs. P. Lindores brought greetings from the women of the Salvation Army. Dr. Smart, on behalf of the congregation of St. Paul's congratulated the society on its sixtieth anniversary, and expressed the hope that the work would continue throughout the years. M. B. Chenhall was at the organ, with Mrs. W. D. Taylor and Mrs. V. A. Read at the pianos. For its selection, the junior choir sang "Passing On."

At the conclusion of the service, bouquets of deep red roses were presented to Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. R. Fortye, and Miss Esplen. Mrs. John Hornall moved the vote of thanks to all taking part in the prgram.

Mrs. W. A. Burrell and her committee, were in charge of the refreshments, served to all the guests in the Sunday School room. Receiving were Mrs. McIntyre and Mrs. J. D. Smart. Mrs. J. J. Craig, Mrs. T. F. McArthur, and Mrs. W. Gray, vice-presidents of the society, were hostesses. Pouring tea were Mrs. W. H. Hill, Miss Erkine, Miss L. Eakins, Mrs. J. Marsh and Miss L. Davidson. Assisting were Mrs. D. W. Clark, Mrs. H. C. Sherwood, Mrs. H. Taylor, Mrs. C. Prophet, Mrs. B. McLean, Mrs. A. McConkey, Mrs. W. Curry, Mrs. A. E. Barry, Mrs. John Hornall, Mrs. Pulkinghorn, Mrs. W. J. Gordon, Mrs. W. L. Ferguson, Mrs. W. Browne.

Rev. H. L. Roberts, Rev. W. A. Filer, and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe said a few words to the gathering as lunch was served.

Honor Winner At Festival

W.M.S. Prepares Indian Bale

At the June meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Knox United Church, in the church parlors, Mrs. M. Ego reported that the response to requests for the annual bale for the Indian Mission School had been particularly good. Clothing donated was valued at $25, and the money given to buy supplies amounted to $4.50.

Members of the society decided to bear the expense of sending a teenage girl to the Leadership school in Whitby at the end of August. Another help to the young people of the church was contained in a motion which voted $6 to be given to the Young People's Union, for their paper, "Knox News."

Mrs. V. Grainger, assisted by Mrs. F. Morrison, Mrs. M. English and Mrs. A. Sanderson, took charge of the devotional and study periods. Topic for the latter period was "Temperance," and members held a discussion on this subject before adjourning.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Some pie recipes using our own good Canadian apples, and other recipes used in making tasty desserts, using all the fresh fruits that will be coming in starting this month and lasting throughout the summer. The first recipe uses apples.

Apple-Ring Pie

5 medium sized apples, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ cup corn syrup or 1-3 cup liquid white honey, 1 tablespoon butter, spices. Line an 8½ inch pies pan with rolled out pie paste. Wash, core, and pare apples, slice about 1-3 inch thick. Combine flour and equal amounts of sugar and sprinkle half in the paste lined pie tin. Arrange about half the apples in the tin, drizzle with half the corn syrup or honey and put in some more apples arrange leaves cut from make a layer of apple rings, and distribute the remaining corn syrup or honey. Dot with butter. Dampen rim and cover with a strip of paste about one inch wide. On top of the opples arrange leaves cut from pastry. Crimp border. Bake in hot oven 450 degrees for 12 minutes, then in moderate over 375 degrees for 35 minutes longer.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie

2 cups diced rhubarb, ¾ cup sugar, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, pastry, ¼ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Stew rhubarb and ¾ cup sugar until soft. Cool, add milk and beaten eggs, with sugar, flour, vanilla and salt. Add lemon juice. Pour into pastry lined pie plate and bake. Make a meringue of the whites of the eggs and spreead over top.

Raisin Pie

Grated rind and juice of 2 lemons, grated rind and juice of 1 orange, 1 cup light brown sugar, 1¼ cups water, 1 scant cup of walnut meats coarsely chopped, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 cups seeded raisins.

Cook together all ingredients except cornstarch. When it comes to a boil, thicken mixture with cornstarch mixed with 1 tablespoon cold water. Use as a filling for a double crust pie and bake.

Recipe For Pie Paste

11 tablespoons flour, 5 tablespoons shortening, 3 tablespoons cold salted water. Mix until smooth and roll out. Be sure to use no more water than recipe calls for.

"TIRED" ALL THE TIME

She felt miserable—draggy—low in vitality—lower in spirits. She hadn't thought of her kidneys, until a friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. At once she took Dodd's. The "washed out" feeling was soon replaced by clear headed energy and restful sleep. Headache, backache, lassitude and other signs of faulty kidneys disappeared. 112

Four Are Dead Following Shooting Spree

BREWER, Sask., June 3—(CP)—Four persons are dead and one man is in hospital at Melville today as result of a shooting affair at two farms near here Thursday night which police said was motivated by jealousy.

Death last night of Julius Bella, 34, wanted for questioning following the deaths of Mrs. Anthony Osicki, 50, and her two daughters, Helen, 19, and Mrs. Jacob Mann, 23, and the wounding of John Woloschuk a neighboring farmer, ended a day-long manhunt in bushland during a rainstorm. Police said Bella shot himself when cornered by a posse near McKim, about 125 miles northeast of Regina.

Condition of Moloschuk, in Melville hospital, was reported as "critical" but attendants gave him a fair chance of recovering.

Twenty Royal Canadian Mounted Police, assisted by the police dog "Dark of Yorkton" searched heavy woodland for the armed man for almost 24 hours until they spotted him about 10 miles from the scene of the shootings. As the dog went after Bella, a shot was heard, and he was found dead with a bullet wound in his head.

Piecing details of the shooting together since a nine-year-old boy reported finding two women dead on a road near Mrs. Osicki's farm home, police said Helen Osicki had been friendly with both Bella and Woloschuk and that jealousy apparently was the motive for the tragedy.

Helen Osiciki's body was found in a wagon pushed into brush beside a road. Woloschuk had been shot at his farm home near the Osiciki residence.

Police were unable to say which of the women had been shot first or whether the Osicki tragedy occurred before or after Woloschuk had been wounded.

Mrs. Osicik's husband was away at the time and police said there apparently was no eye-witnesses.

Date of an inquest has not been decided yet.

Ask Government To Review Publicity Costs

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON, Ont., June 3 (CP) The 44th annual national convention of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire yesterday elected conveners of national standing subcommittees and adopted resolutions related to women's work in Canada to wind up the five-day meeting.

Summing up its year's activity, which was reported earlier in five-day convention, delegates from all provinces and the Yukon passed resolutions to:

1. Ask the Federal pensions department to allow women's auxiliaries for military hospitals as a result of the reduced expenditure these auxiliaries have been able to effect in civilian hospitals.

2. Request that all government boards whose business relates in any way to women and children should include women members, especially the dependants' allowance board and the committee on home nursing and first aid whose membership does not include women.

3. Ask the finance minister to reconsider the entire publicity policy of the war finance committee, since the I.O.D.E. does not feel that the patriotism of Canadians has to be stimulated in order to finance the Dominion's war effort.

oners alone in the past 24 hours in repeated counter-attacks, vainly attempting to halt the Americans from widening the gap in their frontal defences and advancing in the strongly-held Lanuvio area.

Total 14,000

This brought the total prisoners taken by the 5th Army alone in the current offensive to more than 14,000.

The 5th and 8th armies together have taken more than 20,000 prisoners.

It was officially reported the whole Campoleone area near Lanuvio was "littered with enemy tanks and vehicles" and German losses were mounting steadily as Allied artillery smashed desperate enemy attempts to form up for fresh counter-attacks.

Despite the cautious tone of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's communique, it was obvious the Germans already were rooted out of the strongest positions they could hope to hold in the Alban hills and that the 5th Army break-through to Rome might come soon.

Front Line reports said the Americans were hitting toward Rome along the Via Casilina from Valmontone. It was apparent that German postions along this vital road were jeopardized by the simultaneous 5th Army smash through the hills to Monte Castellacio.

377 Huns Taken

The enemy was fighting desperately to cling to what is left of his deep defences all the way from the sea coast to the Via Casilina, but without reserves he could not long stand losses such as he has suffered in the past three weeks and hope to do anything more than delay the Allied entry into Rome.

The infiltration into the hills to the north, which enabled Allied Infantry to encircle Velletri, paid rich dividends when 377 prisoners were seized within the town, described officially as a road centre which "opens the way for a further advance northward."

Enemy sources already were reported fighting around the little volcanic Lake Nemi northwest of Velletri but the Allied command was silent on any action in that area.

New Zealanders on the right of the 8th Army front, stabbed northward three miles beyond Sora on the Avezzano road.

The German D.N.B. agency acknowledged today the Germans had been "pushed back" from Valmontone, and it reported American troops were "within a few kilometers of Palestrina," four miles north of that former German bastion.

("In order to ensure that efforts of the combined air forces shall be concentrated on the most important objectives for the United Nations, direct contact has been established between the headquarters concerned.")

The American airmen, unable to speak Russian, heartily greeted the Russians as "Ivan." The Soviet mechanics replied appropriately. They had worked for months with American ground crews to get the bases ready.

While the idea of the west-east shuttle bombing was said to have originated with Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the United States army air forces, the project was first decided on at the Moscow conference last fall, and got under way last February after it had been discussed at the Teheran conferences of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin.

The R.A.F., however, pioneered shuttle bombing. On the night of June 20, 1943, Lancasters took off from Britain, bombed Friedrichshafen, Germany, and landed at Allied bases in North Africa. They made the return flight three nights later bombing the La Spezia naval base, Northern Italy, without loss.

His Mother Died

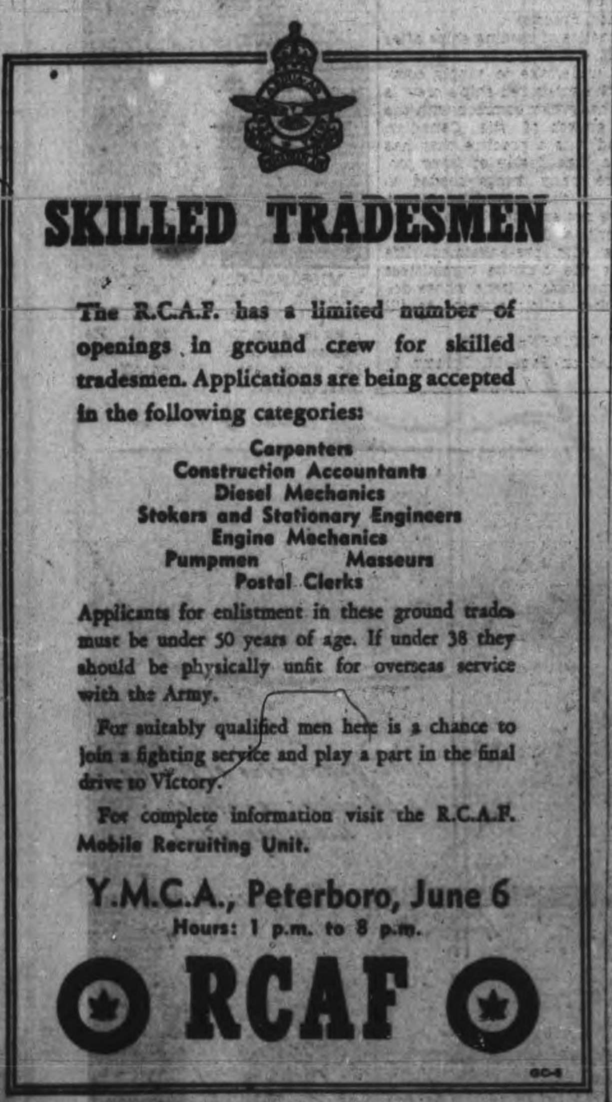
LONDON, June 3—(CP)—American airmen at the 9th Air Force base in England have contributed nearly $3,000 to an education fund for four-year-old Tony Everitt, orphaned last Saturday when his mother saved a gunner from his crashed and burning plane and then died trying to rescue others.



The R.C.A.F. has a limited number of openings in ground crew for skilled tradesmen. Applications are being accepted in the following categories:

Carpenters
Construction Accountants
Diesel Mechanics
Stokers and Stationary Engineers
Engine Mechanics
Pumpmen Masseurs
Postal Clerks

Applicants for enlistment in these ground trades must be under 50 years of age. If under 38 they should be physically unfit for overseas service with the Army.

For suitably qualified men here is a chance to join a fighting service and play a part in the final drive to Victory.

Members Seek Pensions For Pioneers

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, June 3 — CP).— A plea that the men and women pioneers of Canada be granted a pension to-day—"in the eventide of their lives"—as a matter of right and not as charity was made yesterday by several members of the Commons.

The plea came from several members in Opposition groups and from two Government supporters during examination of a $16,000,000 item in the Finance Department's war appropriation estimates which provides a supplement to pensions for the blind and the aged.

The members urged that the Federal Government take over full control of the administration of old age pensions; that the pensions be increased, and that the eligible age for pensions be reduced from 70 to 60 or 65 years.

Making the suggestions were G. G. McGeer (L-Vancouver Burrad), Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, A. W. Neill (Ind.-Comox-Alberni), C. E. Johnston (SC-Dow River), Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South), Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), John R. MacNicol (PC-Toronto Davenport), Mrs. Cora Casselman (L-Edmonton East), and several others.

Would Help Blind.

Support for more generous assistance to the blind came from W. K. Esling (PC-Kootenay West). Mr. Esling, who is almost totally blind, urged that the eligible age for pensions for a blind person should be reduced from 40 to 21 years.

And from Labor Minister Mitchell came support of a contributary pension plan under which everyone, "even the president of the C.P.R." would be entitled to a pension by right.

Mr. McGeer said the aged of Canada should no longer have to live on the edge of pauperism. The Dominion had the wealth to provide a comfortable living for the men and women who built the country, but this apparently was not recognized by some forces within the Government.

The government had failed to follow the policy advocated by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in 1931, when he favored the Dominion's taking over the Pension system.

Mr. Graydon said the time had come "when human values very definitely must replace material values in a way we in this nation have never known."

"It seems easy for promises to be made and often bidding takes place, but what the older people want is action," he said.

Wants Full Control

Mr. Neill said a Commons committee should be set up to frame the basis for a sound post-war Pension Policy. In many cases the regulations passed by the Provinces had led to unfair conditions and pensions had been long delayed by technicalities.

T. L. Church (PC—Toronto Broadview) said the Dominion government should take full control of the Pensions and not share it, as at present, with the Provinces.

Mr. Johnston said Finance Minister Ilsley would "be a lot skinnier than he is today" if he had to live on a pension such as is paid to the aged of Canada. Mr. Ilsley would probably find it difficult to keep a home and feed and clothe himself on $25 a month—the maximum old age pension.

Practice of taking assigned pay from soldiers into account in computing the amount of old age pensions came in for criticism from J. W. Noseworthy (CCF—York South.)

Finance Minister Ilsley, replying to a question by Mr. Noseworthy, said both dependent's allowances and assigned pay were counted as income and reduced the pension.

Mr. Noseworthy said pay assigned by a soldier was his property and the government had no right to use it to reduce pensions.

WASHINGTON, June 3—(CP)—President Roosevelt, at a press conference yesterday, said some war refugees will be brought to the United States and one of the plans under study contemplates housing them in an army camp no longer needed by the military.

West Election Speakers In High Gear

REGINA, Jnue 3 — (CP).—The Saskatchewan general election campaign pushed into high gear to-day after more than 140 candidates were nominated yesterday Polling day is June 15.

At Regina, Federal Agriculture Minister Gardiner warned Thursday night the C.C.F. would set up planning boards that would dictate to farmers everything that should be grown in the way of crops and livestock. Such boards, he claimed, would rob farmers of their initiative.

Progressive Conservative Leader Rupert D Ramsay at Saskatoon pledged to abolish the education tax if his party was placed in power.

Premier W. J. Patterson, speaking at Prince Albert, said the C.C.F. had not produced one specific charge of maladministration against the Liberal Government of the last 10 years. He also criticized Socialism.

Mr. Patterson said M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. Leader, had recently declared the Regina C.C.F manifesto of 1933, which called for the eradication of capitalism, remained the basic C.C.F. policy. Therefore, Mr. Patterson said, "No C.C.F. Government will rest content until it has eradicated capitalism and put into operation the full program of socialized planning."

C.C.F. Leader Rev. T. C. Douglas, recently resigned member of Parliament for Weyburn, announced at Gravelbourg a C.C.F. Government after June 15 would shift the basis of taxation from land and consumption to profits of mortgage companies.

Mr. Douglas said mortgage company profits now go out of Saskatchewan at an average of $40,000,000 a year. The mortgage profits would provide a source for financing the C.C.F. social program.

Mr. Ramsay said the education tax was "unfair," that it penalized the small buyer, and that the original intent of the use of the tax had been circumvented. The small buyer was obliged to pay 6 2-3 per cent on a 15-cent purchase. The education tax — one per cent on purchases — became effective in 1937.

Presentation Made To Springville Women

SPRINGVILLE, June 3—(ENS)—Mrs. Joshua Grandy and Miss Mary Southam were honored recently by their friends of the church and community.

An address given by Mrs. Bernard Preston expressed the regret of their friends at their impending departure from Springville.

Both Mrs. Grandy and Miss Southam have contributed much to the work of the church organization and the community activities. They have given freely of their musical talent which will be missed.

Mrs. Harold Cathcart presented Mrs. Grandy with a cameo pin and Miss Southam with a suitably engraved locket.

Personals

Mrs. Harold Cathcart attended the annual Garden Party at the Ontario Ladies College. Whitby.

Miss Mary Staples of Toronto spent the week end at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Horton of Ingersoll are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Whitfield.

Duncan Seymour was at his home for the week-end.

Miss Dorothy Cathcart is spending a week at home, after which she will join the Bank of Commerce staff, Peterborough.

Attempt To Burn Sunday School Fails

TORONTO, June 3 — (CP) — Fire Department officials to-day said an attempt to burn St. Matthew's Anglican Sunday School here last night was prevented when firemen were summoned to the scene by Mrs. D. Goodyear who said she saw the flames from her home and put in an alarm.

Firemen discovered fires started in three different places. An investigation is under way. Damage was estimated at $200.

Hastings News

Mr. and Mrs. Insley and daughter Lucy of Toronto were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. W. Moore.

Mr. Walter Whitred and party of Hamilton were recent guests with Mr. and Mrs. S. Whitred.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stinson were guests with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McDonald, Healy Falls.

The young people of Trinity United Church enjoyed a weiner roast this week to close their meetings for the summer months.

Mr. Clifford Baker of Toronto spent the week-end with Mrs. Baker and family of town.

Sqdn. Ldr. Porter Returns Home From Overseas

LAKEFIELD, June 3—(ENS)—Squadron Leader Gordon Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Porter, who is back in Canada after two-and-a-half years as a chaplain overseas, has had many interesting experiences since he last visited his parents in the village.

As chaplain of the R.C.A.F. he was stationed with the boys doing the coastal work and the fighting in the British Isles. When he first went to Scotland he was in charge of the chaplains in some 200 stations, flying from one to the other. This number was later reduced to 100.

He said the Canadian boys are playing a most effective part in the war on the German U boats. They also are vitally interested in government plans for their rehabilitation to civilian life, and ever ready for action, have a strong nostalgia for Canada and attend church regularly.

Scotland, Sqdn. Leader described as a beautiful country with a scalloped coast line and Edinburgh always seemed more like home to him as he had attended college there nine years ago. Civilians in Scotland are severely rationed, especially in milk, butter, meat, fresh vegetables and fruits.

The Scottish educational system impressed the padre very much. Even in what we would describe the "back woods" there will be a modern school and if there are not enough pupils to have a school the government employs a teacher to go from house to house to live with the pupils and teach them, he said.

Quite often on a leave the chaplain went to Dublin. Here one may purchase all sorts of delicacies that are not to be had in the other cities. Even bananas, but for 50c a piece. Dublin does not have a black-out, only a dim-out, but was bombed by the Germans once by mistake.

Poverty Stricken.

De Valera's policy of isolation has resulted in terrible poverty in Southern Ireland, and the youths are going to Scotland, Northern Ireland and England and joining the armed forces.

One of the most picturesque Isles is the Island of Iona, which is off the West Coast of Scotland, and is the centre of great tourist and religious interests. Here there is an old theatre constructed in the twelfth century, and the people have intuitive ability to act, and many of Britain's most famous actors come from here.

At present, a most interesting experiment, the revival of religion, among the youth of Scotland is being carried on by the Rev. Sir George McLeod, who was given a fortune for this purpose by a ship builder.

Master Hardships.

The British people, Sqdn. Ldr. Porter found to be very serious but with a saving sense of humor.

"The country is shabby, the people themselves are not fed, clothed or housed as they should be but their morale is still very high.

The housing situation is critical, due to the fact that no building is going on. But prefabricated houses, known as "Stop-Gap Houses," and being planned which will help considerably."

Canada seemed very clean and fresh, compared to the Islands and the padre was amazed at the termendous variety of foods, he found.

The chaplain was amused as he told how he guarded safely nine pieces of luggage from Scotland to Belleville, there to have his golf clubs stolen as he greeted his wife, and children at the station.

However, they were recovered by the station police.

Sent To Toronto.

He is spending the month of June holidaying with his wife, two daughters and baby son, Ian, who was born shortly after his father went overseas, and his parents at Lakefield.

He will then take over his new appointment as Senior Chaplain at Manning Depot, Toronto.

In closing the interview, Sqdn. Ldr. Porter said "Canada must be prepared to take peace as seriously as she did war."

700 Peterborough Men Are Serving In Canadian Navy

Although Hundreds Of Miles From Ocean Peterborough Is Most Navy-Conscious Centre

By FRED CRAIG

One of the strange local features of this strangest of all wars is the question of how the inland city of Peterborough, hundreds of miles from the ocean, has become one of the most navy-conscious inland centres of Canada. The dedication on Sunday of a corvette named after Peterborough is official recognition of the fact that this community has made a contribution to the personnel of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve that will compare favorably in respect to population with the record of any centre in the Dominion.

Peterborough and the immediate district have sent over 700 young men to help man the ships of the Canadian Navy. Wherever Canadian men-of-war are serving Peterborough sailors are to be found. They have served in the naval actions in the Mediterranean, some of them have been on the perilous passage to Murmansk, they are bobbing about on the North Atlantic in corvettes on convoy duty to the British Isles, to Iceland and on the triangular run down the American coast, they have ranged far south in the Pacific and up to the Aleutian Islands. At the present moment scores of Peterborough boys are overseas waiting to play their part in the invasion. They are among the crews of landing barges; they are serving in Canadian minesweepers or on corvettes and destroyers and frigates that are likely to have a share in the task of putting the invading army of the United Nations on to the European continent. Anywhere where there is a Canadian ship there is almost certain to be a Peterborough sailor.

A Cross Section.

Within a radius of a block from the corner of McDonnel and Water Streets twelve boys from eleven different families have gone forth to join the Canadian Navy. There is no particular reason why that section should be mentioned except that we happen to know the neighborhood and the boys a little better than some other neighborhoods and other boys and because those dozen lads from one little corner of the north ward represent a cross-section of the hundreds from all sections of Peterborough who are wearing the

1,000 Ditty Bags 1944 Order

"To look after the 100 odd men from Peterborough who have joined the Canadian Navy, and send them comforts", read the aims of the Peterborough and District Women's Auxiliary to the Navy, set forth at the first meeting, February 23, 1942. Thirty-six women were present at this organization meeting, with F. G. Mann as chairman, and Mayor James Hamilton as guest speaker. Hon. Angus Macdonald was named honorary president.

Since this meeting in February, 1942, the Auxiliary has grown from 36 members to 129 members, and the 100 odd Peterborough men in Canada's Navy who were cared for the first year, have had their ranks swelled by almost 700 more. It is expected that the Auxiliary will pack almost 1,000 ditty bags for Peterborough men. Four hundred and seven ditty bags were forwarded to Peterborough men for Christmas, 1943, and 22 were sent to men in the merchant marine.

From letters received from grateful men in the service, members have learned of the appreciation with which these well-filled parcels were received. Well into 1944, the secretary was receiving letters of thanks from boys on active service whose gifts finally had caught up with them. So many of these letters were received that they could not all be read, consequently they were put on display at meetings, for members to see. Several mothers of boys who sent their thanks in letters to them, expressed their appreciation during meetings.

Year-around Job

The work of the Auxiliary is not confined to ditty bags, however. A

JUST MADE IT—Leading Seaman Cyril O'Toole enlisted in the R.C.N. just a short time before the war broke out in 1939. He has been at sea almost continually and his ship the H.M.C.S. Chambly was credited with sinking a German submarine during the time of the battle for the Mediterranean. Seaman O'Toole has five brothers and two sisters serving in the armed forces and also a brother-in-law Leading Torpedoman Robert Weir who was rescued when H.M.C.S. Ottawa was lost.

Nine In Navy Some Years

Call Of Sea Felt Years Before War

During the years from 1936, when war to many civilians was no more than a faint shadow on the horizon, nine Peterborough boys, many of whom were still students in school, felt the strong pulling of men who go down to the sea in ships, and they signed up in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Since the time they reported light heartedly for duty, when they made cruises to many parts of the world, nearly all have been in a good deal of action, protecting Canada's fighting men, and her merchant shipping. A few have been discharged, but most of them are still serving, and while experience has tempered their enthusiasm, they like their work.

They are members of a small group who are privileged to say they belong to the Royal Canadian Navy. Most of the men enlisting in the Navy since the war belong to the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve.

Her's Will Be No Pleasure Cruise

Peterborough citizens will follow with deep interest H.M.C.S. "Peterborough" and the hope for her continued safety and protection of the officers and men will be continuously expressed. Her's will be no pleasure cruise, when she sails forth to serve her King and Country, running the convoy lanes, rolling and plunging amid mountainous seas, whipped by gales and ever on the search for the U-boat will be her duty. She will race back and forth among slow moving cargo ships of her convoy and keeping ceaselessly watch over her charges, ready to blast with gun and depth charge or her deadly ram at the first sign of an enemy submarine.

Eternal Father, strong to save,
Whose arm hath bound the restless wave,
Who bidd'st the mighty ocean deep
Its own appointed limits keep,
O hear us when we cry to Thee
For those in peril on the sea.

Peterborough's own naval vessel the H.M.C.S. "Peterborough" will visit Cobourg on Sunday, arriving there at noon. At three o'clock the official ceremony will take place and at its conclusion there will be an inspection of the ship. The Citizens' Co-ordinating Committee of which Gordon Miller is chairman a year ago set up a corvette committee with George A. Macdonald as its head and since that time this committee has been busily engaged securing comforts for the men and many other articles which are not provided by the navy. These articles include four electric kettles, four hot plates, six toasters, six irons, radios, phonographs, 100 new dance and popular records, two washing machines, rugs, carpets, clocks, thermos bottles, woollen articles for every man, leather vests, laundry bags and many other items which will make the life on board ship more comfortable for the men.

From the Peterborough Red Cross came 89 of each of the following, turtle-neck sweaters, ditty bags, seaman's stockings (long and short) neck pieces, helmets and mitts.

The piano which is to go on board is the gift of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational Training School while practically every Church and social organization in the city had something to do with the supplying of money or other articles.

Deer hunters provided the skins for the sailor's vests and the Kiwanis club donated a motion picture equipment.

Grateful To Citizens

Mr. Macdonald said the response for donations has been exceptionally good and he and the members of the committee are indeed grateful to the citizens of Peterborough, "we the members of the committee have been thrilled with the response which we have received from organizations, societies and individuals."

The official ceremony will open with a welcome to the officers and men by Mayor James Hamilton; Mayor J. D. Burnett of Cobourg and Mayor J. H. Stephenson of Port Hope will extend greetings and a welcome from their respective municipalities; greetings will also be expressed by Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, Senator J. J. Duffus, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and Harold Scott, M.P.P.; George A. Macdonald will speak for the Corvette Committee and Gordon Miller for the Citizens' Committee.

The dedication service will be conducted by Rev. Kenneth Malane and Rev. W. A. Filer while "God-

Citizens Gave Full Support

Officers and men forming the ships company of H.M.C.S. Peterborough, now about to enter on its life of active duty patrolling the waters of the North Atlantic, will be the richer in comfort and happiness through the gifts of many groups and individuals donated to furnish and equip the ship and to administer to the daily needs of a sailor's life at sea.

Largely responsible for the magnificent success of the appeal to give support in fitting out the Peterborough in a manner that would redound to the credit of its name-town were the efforts of the Corvette Committee, sub-committee of the Peterborough Citizens' Committee. Under the chairmanship of George Macdonald, it has, as a whole and in different sections, held well over 100 meetings since its organisation in July of last year.

Members of the committee include T. A. Mackay, Mrs. Weldon Fanning, Mrs. Fred Hooper, Mrs. Frank Merritt of the Ladies' Navy Auxiliary, Mrs. Clair Collins, the secretary, and Ross Dobbin in charge of procuring the electrical equipment. Purchase of the numerous small articles included in the ditty bags was delegated to Mrs. Fanning and Mrs. Hooper.

A Common Practice

The practice of naming ships after communities and having those communities undertake to supply comforts to the sponsored ship's crew is one that has grown common with the wartime growth of the Canadian Navy, and it is a practice that has reached a high degree of favor too. There are many things needed to brighten up the long days at sea which are not supplied by the naval department, and it is these missing links with pre-enlistment life and that the corvette committees and the patriotic citizens whose donations they solicit attempt to fill in.

DIES OF WOUNDS—Petty Officer Thomas MacDonald, who was serving aboard H.M.C.S. Prince Albert, died of wounds received when his ship was torpedoed in 1942. He is the son of Mrs. Coral MacDonald, Niagara Falls. PO. MacDonald was the first Peterborough casualty.

DIES AT SEA—Coder Ralph Freure, son of Mrs. Lea Freure, 607 Water Street, died at sea following an emergency appendicitis operation in November. He had been serving on the corvette Drumheller.

MISSING—Chief Petty Officer Kenneth Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Williams, 263 Engleburn Avenue, is on the missing list. He was serving on H.M.C.S. Athabaskan which was torpedoed off the coast of France in April.

CORVETTE PETERBOROUGH—Not very large but extremely useful is this corvette Peterborough, and she along with scores of other corvettes will play an important part in keeping the convoy lanes to Europe and the battlefronts open. Nine hundred tons and 200 feet long she will carry a crew upwards of 90 and six officers. In her four-inch guns, Oerlikons, depth charges and secret anti-submarine devices she will carry a potent "sting" for U-boats.

year-round knitting standard is maintained, and these articles are always sent to boys in need. Torpedoed or ship-wrecked sailors are furnished with a new supply of knitted articles, and every boy in the Navy, the Volunteer Reserve, or the merchant marine, who comes home on leave, receives an "issue" from the Auxiliary. This "issue" contains seven warm, useful, knitted articles—a pullover, a scarf, a pair of gloves, three pairs of sox, and a tuck-in. If the sailor is on service on a minesweeper or a similar ship, a helmet often replaces one of the other articles.

Mrs. Roy Pilling, who has been convener of wool since the Auxiliary was formed, has filled her position capably, and distributes wool to members at each meeting, collecting the knitted articles for distribution. In 1942, a total of 423 articles were completed, and well over one hundred ditty bags distributed. In 1943, the articles distributed numbered 1,193, with 191 on hand for January, 1944. In spite of a shortage of wool for several weeks in the early days of 1944, the knitting has been kept up, and it is expected that an equally large number of articles will be completed.

Always an active organization, the Navy Auxiliary has endeavored to sponsor some activity each month, so that funds could be accumulated against the huge expense of the ditty bags. Garden parties, bingos, teas and sales, salvage collections, membership dues, tag days, donations, and raffles, have been some of the means used to raise money. Mrs. E. L. Ainslie, who has been treasurer almost since the beginning of activities, has carefully noted all entries in her books, and at the March meeting in 1944, the auditors' reports showed that her books were correct in every respect.

At the first meeting, Mrs. W. E. Dorrington, Sr., was named president; Mrs. Robert Weir was named secretary, and Mr. A. Kittson, treasurer. After Mr. Kittson had organized the bookkeeping system, he resigned, and Mrs. Ainslie accepted the position, which she has held since that time. Other executive members for the first year were as follows: Mrs. J. G. M. Wilson, Mrs. J. Hawthorne, Mrs. W. Parnell, Mrs. Claude Rogers, Mrs. W. Farr, Mrs. B. Fowler, Mrs. H. McMahon. The executive for 1943 was as follows: Past president, Mrs. W. E. Dorrington, Sr.; president, Mrs. E. Wand; first vice-president, Mrs. Frank Merrett; second vice-president, Mrs. George Lynch; treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Ainslie; secretaries, Miss L. Booth and Mrs. George Moore. Other membersof the executive were Mrs. F. Board, Mrs. Roy Pilling, Mrs. H. F. Doig, Mrs. A. Chartren, Mrs. B. Fowler, Mrs. W. R. Parnell, Mrs. F. D. Craig, Mrs. George Groombridge.

The present executive is as follows: Past president, Mrs. E. Wand; president, Mrs. Frank Merrett; first vice-president, Mrs. George Lynch; second vice president, Mrs. F. D. Craig; secretaries, Mrs. G. Groombridge, and Mrs. George Moore. Other members of the executive are Mrs. Roy Pilling, Mrs. A. Chartren, Mrs. G. Eason, Mrs. B. Fowler, Mrs. W. J. Routly.

First mention of a corvette to be named for Peterborough was contained in a letter to the Auxiliary in September, 1942, from Coder Leonard W. Phillips, whose mother, Mrs. M. Phillips, lives on George street. In May, 1943, Mrs. Fred Hooper read a letter stating that the keel had been laid for the corvette "Peterborough", and a year later, in May 1944, the "Peterborough" was christened by Mrs. E. Evans, sister of Llewelyn Evans, second Peterborough boy in the Navy to lose his life in his country's service. Mrs. Coral Macdonald, mother of the first Peterborough navy boy to lose his life, who was to christen the ship, was unable to be present for the ceremony because the date had been advanced from the original time set for the christening.

blue of the Navy.

They are typical Peterborough boys. Short years ago they were going to school or working in the C.G.E. or the Westclox or some other Peterborough plant. Their chief interests in life were hockey and softball and basketball, skiing and swimming, the movies, dances at the Brock or at Rye's, boogie-woogie music from the radio or the juke-box and of course the inevitable girl friend.

None of them had ever seen the ocean. None of them had ever expected to see it. Newfoundland and Halifax and Esquimalt were names only dimly remembered from geography lessons. The Aleutians were not even a name on a map so far as they were concerned.

All Over The Map.

Today those twelve lads, like the hundreds of other Peterborough boys in the Navy, are scattered over the globe. One is a stoker on a Canadian destroyer on escort duty, another is a seaman on a Canadian corvette somewhere in European waters, a third is a wireless telegraphist on a corvette on convoy duty in the North Atlantic, a fourth is a sail-maker on the east coast, another is a supply officer in the same sector, still another has been serving in a corvette which is just back from a cruise in southern waters, another is in training as an engine-room artificer and still others are on sea duty along the Atlantic coast.

That McDonnel-Water Street neighborhood is navy-conscious because of those twelve lads who are serving far from home and the other younger boys who are getting ready to follow their example. The families compare notes as to the all-too-meagre news that comes all-too-seldom from the area's contribution to the R.C.N.V.R. and if one boy happens to mention meeting another in some faraway port the information is passed on to the family of the second boy in a neighborhood clearing-house of naval data. And incidentally the traditional hymn "Eternal Father" with its prayer for "those in peril on the sea" has taken on a new meaning and a deeper significance in the homes from which these boys have gone.

What has been said about this one little corner should be multiplied many times over to give the complete picture for the whole city.

Have Made History

Peterborough sailors have already written some fine pages of navy history. The telling of most of it will have to wait until after the war for the silent service does not allow much to be said for the present. However the case of Lieut. David Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud H. Rogers throws some light on the services that are being rendered by local members of the R.C.N.V.R. A few years ago Lieut. Rogers' only knowledge of amphibious operations was such as could be gained from piloting an outboard boat around Stoney Lake. Came the war and he was quick to enter the naval service. He was assigned to combined operations and eventually it fell to his lot to take part in some of the most stirring expeditions in the history of the war.

Lieut. Rogers was in command of a landing boat when the Canadians invaded Dieppe and played an important part in that operation. When the time came for the Allied invasion of North Africa the young Peterborough officer was once more in the thick of things. He helped put ashore part of the invading forces at Oran. Then came the attack on Sicily and again came an important role in the placing ashore of Canadian forces on that Italian Island. In fact Lieut. Roger's boat carried some of our own Hastings and Prince Edward men on that occasion. And after Sicily there was the further job of moving the Allies across the straits of Messina for the attack on Italy proper. Now Lieut. Rogers and many other Peterborough sailors who are manning landing barges are awaiting the order for the biggest pob of all—the establishment of beachheads on the continent for the final smash at Hitler and all that he stands for.

No Slackening Up

There is little sign of any slackening off in the local interest in the Navy. During the last couple of months nearly a hundred more boys from this city and district enlisted with the R.C.N.V.R. and more are lining up.

Much of the credit for the record made by Peterborough goes to H. B. Cowan, Jr., the circulation manager of the Examiner who has been the recruiting officer for the Navy here since early in the war. Upon his shoulders has fallen the responsibility of interviewing the prospective recruits, discovering their training and back-ground and endeavouring to fit them into the navy in posts where they will be able to serve to best advantage. In addition he has personally transported scores of Peterborough Boys to Kingston.

Many well-know local athletes are in the big quota that Peterborough has contributed to the R.C.N.V.R. To mention them all would be a difficult task but a few of them may be named as a sample of the class of youth the Navy has obtained from Peterborough.

Hockey has contributed many former Peterborough junior players, including Nels Foster, Joe Rochetta, Red Easton, the late Tom McDonald, "Dutch" Pammett, the late Roy Grainger, Jack Mortimer, Emmet Creighton and Johnny Johnston, sub-goalie of the Peterborough seniors.

Collegiate football has supplied Spike Matthews, Gordie Burns, Bill Cuppy, Tom Lillico, Rob Roy, Les Ascott, Max Graham, to name a few from memory. From the ranks of the city's basketball teams such players as Jimmy Thorburn, Joe Stewart, Jack Craig, Warren Smith, and Joe Csumrik, have gone to don the blue of the Navy and softball has sent along its representatives Fred Garvey, Bob Crowe and Bill Lewis.

WRENS DO THEIR PART—Although the exact number of women enlisting from Peterborough in the Wrens is not available, there have been quite a few, and two of their number are pictured here. Wren Nellie Smith (Left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Smith, 223 Perry Street, is stationed at headquarters in Ottawa. She is a Captain's Writer, and was formerly employed at Genelco. Wren Gwyneth Flowers (Right), granddaughter of Mrs. Margaret Flowers, 417 Dublin Street, is serving overseas, doing radio work.

Mothers Puzzle Navy People

Recruiting officers in the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service say they can never understand why some mothers are loathe to see their daughters in uniform, when they don't think twice about sending them off to college away from home.

In the navy, Wrens must be in quarters with the ship darkened at 11 o'clock six nights a week; late leave is midnight. They have the very best supervision and are working with the finest type of person in naval offices. Their meals and quarters are in charge of graduate dietitians and they are getting training equivalent to the best obtainable in many lines. Their discipline is as strict as that imposed on men serving at sea—for these girls are taking the place of men and are treated as naval ratings. They learn to be self-reliant, respectful to superiors, and loyal to their navy and their country, while they are being clothed, fed and quartered at the Government's expense—with pay.

BROTHERS IN R.C.N.—Chief Petty Officer James Lawson and Chief Stoker Petty Officer Lloyd Lawson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lawson, 19 Ware Street, both joined the R.C.N. several years before the war. While C.S.P.O. Lawson enlisted first, his brother was the first to report for duty.

Sailors Have Their Own Language

When a lad joins the navy, he not only has to learn how to handle a rifle, tie a knot and sail a ship but he has to learn a new language, too. Old salts have a way of expressing themselves which is unique, and to get along in the navy, the recruit must learn a bit of salty slang.

For instance, here are few of the words he might come across on his first day in the navy:

Killick—leading seaman.

Galley—kitchen.

Mess traps—knives, forks, spoons, etc.

Pusser—very smart.

Pay-bob—paymaster (he'd better learn that one quickly.)

Toothy—dentist.

Red lead and bacon—stewed tomatoes and bacon (a favorite dish at sea.)

Skulling—loafing, lazing.

Party—girl friend for the evening.

Swinging the dog—splitting the do watches.

Klinker-knocker—stoker.

Sick bay shakle—safety pin.

In the rattle—in trouble, in the bad books.

Free the slide—pass the butter.

Sloshy—the cook.

Woodspoiler—shipwright, carpenter.

Pongo—soldier.

Pidgeon—airman.

Wash out—get rid of, failed.

Flea bag—hammock.

A blast—a bawling out (recruits get 'em every day.)

It is any wonder the poor fellow finds his first day a little "grim" and rolls into his flea bag a trifle bewildered!

Paint Head Dies

MONTREAL, June 3—(CP)—William S. Fallies, 75, former president of the Sherwin-Williams Company, died at his home at nearby Senneville last night, he was born at Palmerston, Ont., and before coming to Montreal worked at Toronto, Brantford and St. Catharines.

15 Original Sea Cadets Serving With The Royal Canadian Navy

That so many boys from deep in the interior of Canada have been attracted to the naval service in this war has been a continuing anomaly almost beyond the understanding of their elders who might perhaps share this potent appeal of the sea to young lads who had never heard its booming, if they could but turn back time to their own 'teen-age and its swift and gleaming enthusiasms.

Almost equally surprising has been the response of still younger boys to the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps, enrolling thousands of them in cities and towns across Canada, in port cities where the sea and its arms are their constant companions, and in inland communities where salt water has seemed only a legend of a far continent.

Committee Named.

Such was the misty and distant background of the proposal by a representative of the Navy League of Canada as a guest speaker at a luncheon of Peterborough Kiwanis Club in December, 1942, bringing the suggestion that its members should consider the sponsoring of a corps of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets. The club replied to that well remembered exhortation by appointing a committee of inquiry composed of M. G. Hardill, T. T. Rodger, Dick Raine, and S. J. Longhurst. Their responsibility was to inquire into the project, ascertain the facts and report to the Kiwanis Club.

Several trips were made to Toronto to consult Navy League sources of information, and finally after an interview here with A. R. Scobell, Toronto, of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Committee of Ontario, Peterborough Kiwanis decided to undertake the organization of a corps of the Sea Cadets.

Soon Had 100 Applicants.

Action was immediate and resultful. On January 26, 1942, the Kiwanis Committee advertised in the Examiner for recruits, and presently had a list of one hundred applicants. The first medical parade was held on February 11, and on the 19th of that month the fledgling Corps mustered for the first time, parading at the Y.M.C.A. Uniforms were issued March 28, and by the middle of April the Corps took over its "ship," quarters that were rigged up in Victoria Hall, the local theatre of fifty years ago.

And so gradually and hopefully H.M.C.S. Howe assembled officers and crew and equipment and settled down to the routine and discipline and traditions of the Navy. True, much of its detail of its lines and decks had to be conjured of imagining, but the long flight of stairs down to the main street seemed a realistic companionway down which the ship's company marched during the lengthening evenings of spring, 1943, for their first public appearances, and to the nearby market square for leg and elbow room in their basic training.

Went to Camp.

At midsummer the Corps received a severer test of their budding seamanship when they went to the camp for two weeks, eight officers and 132 Cadets, to Princess Alice Camp, maintained by the Navy League of Canada on Minnicog Island, Georgian Bay. Discipline was upon them afloat and ashore, except in their periods of recreation, and the Cadets of only a few months' experience, 'teen-age boys who had become accustomed to the strangeness of their sailor uniforms, acquitted themselves so manfully and efficiently that they returned home to the Howe with a new assurance. They had found their sea legs at Princess Alice Camp, and has acquired in the companionship and unspoken rivalry with other Cadets a stronger confidence that carried them through their first winter aboard ship into the spring of 1944 and their first official inspection which won for them a fine compliment from the inspecting officer Lieut.-Commander Hugh Plaxton of Kingston.

Fifteen Join Navy.

Of its originals, Peterborough Sea Cadets have lost 20 per cent of its personnel. Families of some of the boys moved to other places. The first flush of interest waned in other lads and they simply dropped out. Only one boy was dismissed, chiefly because he did not take seriously his responsibility as a Sea Cadet.

Fifteen of the older boys enlisted for active service in the Royal Canadian Navy, and probably by next Christmas ten others will follow them to sea.

At present the Corps numbers 168 Cadets, including their band of buglers and drummers. The keenness of their Corps spirit has been sharpened by the many congratulations extended to them after their first annual inspection in May, and also by the prospect of two weeks in camp this summer on the St. Lawrence River at Gananoque.

Peterborough Kiwanis Club are happy in their brood of young mariners, and feel highly repaid by these youngsters who, like colts that have to be broken to the halter, have learned the significance and importance of discipline, and have acquired the rudiments of the naval terms and phrases and handicraft, with attractive air of maturity in their duties aboard ship. The club's investment has been approximately $1,700, already yielding returns in the intangibles of boyhood that abundantly repay the members, and especially those Kiwanians who are officers of the Corps, for all their time and effort in the planning, building and guidance of the young crew of H.M.C.S. Howe.

"The opportunity to sponsor the Peterborough Sea Cadets came to the Kiwanis Club just at the time when the club had decided to discontinue temporarily the operation of the Jackson Park Camp for children, and take some more pressing war time activity," said C. H. Saunders, president of the club.

In operating the Peterborough Royal Canadian Cadet Ship "Howe," fifteen officers take two evenings each week in giving instruction to the boys, as well as considerable extra time for their own training. The Medical Officer is called upon to be present at most of the parades. Two active chaplains are attached to the Corps.

Other members of the Kiwanis Club are called on for extra assistance in accounting and stores. The Cadet register now shows one hundred and sixty-eight on the roll, exclusive of officers.

The Sea Cadet committee oversees the care of the ship, duties apart from the details handled by the Officers is on call for consultation when required, and is responsible to the Naval authorities for all equipmenut supplied to the Corps.

The chairman of this committee has recently been appointed by the authorities, as Sea Cadet chairman of this district.

A special recruiting committee has members present at every meeting and an officer accompanies a member of this committee in making a call at the home of each new recruit.

A Cadet entertaining committee undertakes the responsibility of providing necessary funds for activities of a recreational nature.

The guiding principle of the Sea Cadet movement is to build better citizens. That this is being accomplished is demonstrated by the fact that but a fraction of one per cent have been before local authorities on charges of delinquency.

Ask the parents of the boys! Their comments have been most encouraging to the Officers of the Corps. While it would be possible to quote individual remarks it will perhaps suffice to say that several mothers have enthusiastically commented on the change for the better—in the increased alertness and more strongly developed interest in everything going on since their boys have taken up Cadet Training.

When Lieut.-Commander H. J. Plaxton, recently inspected the Corps, an eloquent demonstration of their real interest was registered by the Cadets in giving their Commander a ninety-nine per cent attendance record.

Some of our friends have questioned why some Cadets taken have been below standard height—when enthusiastic youngsters appear with laboriously brushed back "pompadours" stretching themselves to the limit, and have to be refused admission—when they follow through a second time with one and a half inches of lumber in the heels of their shoes it becomes difficult for the recruiting examiner to be too critical.

Yes, the work is worth while, and the more the Officers of the Corps and the members of the Club have to do with the Cadets, the greater the urge to do more and more in promoting the efficiency of their work.

The training of Sea Cadets is no longer looked upon as a war time activity but as an all-time work in the youth education movement which it is hoped will result in the development of always more and more young men better prepared to take their place in the wonderful heritage which is in the future of this Canada of theirs."

Personal Aspects.

In persuading S. J. Longhurst to assume the responsibility of directing the organization of the Peterborough Cadet Corps as its commanding officer, the Kiwanis Club soon discovered in accumulating results that their choice and appointment justified their confidence and hopes. Lieut. Longhurst is a bachelor with a business background that has been slanting toward vicarious domestic experience in his position as manager of Peterborough's wartime housing estate, expanded of late to a corresponding supervision of Wartime Housing's interests in Eastern Ontario.

Although he was vicarious landlord of some hundreds of family tenants of wartime houses it was ironically suggested that Mr. Longhurst would have "lots of time" to devote to the proposed Cadets, and likewise that as a bachelor he would feel an avuncular interest in the scores of boys who were to become his charges. At any rate, Mr. Longhurst accepted the position and only his associate officers know the contribution in time and effort, in detail of correspondence, and big brother vigilance over his boys, he has made in behalf of the Kiwanis Club and their enterprise of manly guidance of a representative group of Peterborough boys who are actually a cross-section of the city's youth.

A revealing test of such a Corps is regularity of attendance. In that respect the officers and ratings of the Howe rank among the most faithful and punctual in the whole Sea Cadet Corps of this country.

Lieut. Longhurst has had the sustained co-operation of his fellow officers, half of whom are, like himself, members of Peterborough Kiwanis. To stimulate interest and attendance, a competitoin was arranged last winter among the five divisions of the Howe's boys. One result is that since January the average attendance at Corps parades has been 92 per cent. A dinner at the Empress Hotel was arranged as a reward to the winning division of the ship's company, and its guest list was extended to include the many other boys who were registered with 100 per cent attendance.

One of the Cadet Corps officials in Eastern Ontario has rated the Howe as first in that area.

Officers of the ship are especially grateful to the Corps committee composed of M. G. Hardill, chairman, T. T. Rodger, Dick Raine and C. H. Saunders for their sympathetic support, for their personal interest in the progress of the Corps, and in the equipment of the Corps quarters, a factor that has helped greatly in building up the keen spirit of the boys in doing their utmost for the good name of the Corps and all that the blue uniform of the Navy represents.

The officers of the Corps are as follows:

Commanding Officer—Lt. H. G. Longhurst.

Executive Officer—Lt. C. H. Huffman.

First Lieutenant—Lt. J. J. Collins.

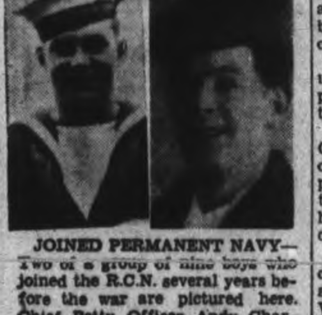
REVIEWED BY PRINCESS ALICE— Peterborough Sea Cadets of R.C.S.C.C. Howe are shown being reviewed by H.R.H. Princess Alice, while they were training at Princess Alice Camp, Minnicog Island, in Georgian Bay last summer. The Peterborough Cadets are also shown in the cutter saluting with their oars following a race with Welland and St. Catharines. In addition to regular camp routine, the boys get some naval training. The unit is under the leadership of S.C. Lieut. Stanley Longhurst.



JOINED PERMANENT NAVY— Two of a group of nine boys who joined the R.C.N. several years before the war are pictured here. Chief Petty Officer Andy Chartren (Left) enlisted when he was 17½ years old. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Chartren, 472 Roger Street. CPO. R. Earl Middleton (Right) enlisted when he was 17, and has now been nine years in the R.C.N. He is the son of Mrs. Margaret Middleton, Inverlea Street.

IN CORVETTE CEREMONY — Mrs. Coral MacDonald, Niagara Falls, whose son, Petty Officer Thomas MacDonald, was the first Peterborough boy in the Navy to be killed, will take part in the Corvette ceremony at Cobourg. On behalf of the mothers of the boys on active service she will wish the crew Godspeed.

ON WEST COAST—Petty Officer Kenneth Long is stationed on the West Coast with the R.C.N.V.R. He is the youngest son of Mrs. Ellen Long, Park Hill Road, and the late Rowland G. Long.

LEFT SCHOOL TO ENLIST— Chief Petty Officer Bun Dorrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dorrington, 52 Victoria Avenue, left school to join the Navy at 16. He was on the Assiniboine when it sank two U-boats.

Nine In Navy

Joined at 16

Bun Dorrington, now a Chief Petty Officer, at present stationed in Halifax, was one of the first to enlist when he was 16 years old. He had just finished his third year in Collegiate when love of the sea lured him into the Navy. C.P.O. Dorrington was a member of the crew of H.M.C.S. Assiniboine when it sank two U-boats in August, 1942. The commander of his ship at that time has since been reported missing after the torpedoing of the Valleyfield. A few months earlier he was in action with his ship H.M.C.S. Ottawa, and had also served on the Saguenay and the Margerie.

His friend, C.P.O. Earl R Middleton, who enlisted at 17, saw action off the coast of Ireland and at present is instructing at Halifax. He has spent nine years in the service.

Among the earliest to enlist was C.P.O. Andy Chartren, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Chartren, 472 Roger street. He enlisted at the age of 17½ years. Until 1939 he had a wonderful time. He was on the Saguenay for three years and took many cruises, travelling through the Panama Canal, visiting California, and in southern waters. One of the biggest thrills of his pre-war days was a visit to England during the Coronation. His many pictures and souvenirs have been carefully cherished by his family.

C.P.O. Chartren has the Volunteer Service medal and bar and the 1939-1943 Star medal. He has completed seven years in the Navy and signed up for another seven. While he is now stationed ashore as a physical instructor at H.M.C.S. Stadcona, he was on North Atlantic patrol for several months and then was stationed in Scotland for a year.

In Shipyard

Leading Seaman Jack Killoran, was only 17 years old when he enlisted, survived a torpedoing, from which he has never fully recovered and he received his discharge. Since he cannot sail the ships, he does the next best thing, makes them, for his pals to carry on the job.

He is employed at a Toronto shipyard. The young sailor who had served on the Ottawa and the Saguenay, "got it" while he was on H.M.C.S. Levis off the coast of Iceland. Prior to that he had spent 13 months overseas. He is the son of Mrs. Margaret Killoran, 300 Wolfe street.

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lawson, 19 Ware street, joined the Navy before the war. C.P.O. James Lawson enlisted in 1936 when he was 17. He signed up after his brother Lloyd, but was called first, they too were friends of Bun Dorrington.

C.P.O. J. Lawson served on the Skeena, Saguenay and the St. Laurent. In the first year of the war he was aboard the Saguenay when it was cut in two off the coast of France. After serving on the Saskatchewan, he was changed to Cornwallis, where he is a gunnery instructor. His brother Lloyd, was called in 1938 and for a time they were together on the Saguenay. He sailed on the St. Francis, a minesweeper, and did patrol work. Now a Chief Stoker Petty Officer, he is in Halifax.

Serving Overseas

Leading Seaman Cyril O'Toole, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. O'Toole, Sophia street, enlisted in 1939 shortly before war broke out. He has been at sea almost continually and took part in an action in which they sank a U-boat. There are six other members of the family in the forces and at the present time he is stationed overseas.

Leading Seaman Joe McDonnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McDonnell, and whose wife recently moved from Peterborough, is instructing on the Cornwallis. He enlisted in 1937 at 17 years, had the routine training of other boys. He served on the Port Arthur for a time patrolled the Mediterranean, his ship getting an Italian submarine, off the coast of Algiers. This is his eighth year in the Navy.

Another boy was also released from service with the Navy. He is John Leonard, son of Mrs. Daniel Leonard, 111 Sophia street. Enlisting in 1936, he spent 3½ years on the Saguenay and was one of two boys in the Navy under 18 years of age, who were given special seats at the Coronation. Since his discharge, he re-enlisted in the forces, and is now serving with the R.C.O.C. at Barriefield.

C.P.O. W O'Rourke, formerly of Peterborough, enlisted in the R.C.N. several years before the rest of the group.

Sailors Require Many Books

This year, the magazine committees of the 60 branches of the Navy League throughout Ontario are striving to secure 2,000,000 magazines and books for sailors, members of the Canadian merchant navy and sailors of Allied Nations' navies whose ships touch Canadian ports.

When Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery was asked in London recently what his men in North Africa wanted (and men at sea are even more cut off from means of recreation), he said: "When you write them, be sure to send them magazines and books, thing to read."

There is solace and comfort and relief to the tired nerves of sailors in reading matter that cannot be obtained from other sources, when they are restricted for weeks on end to the confines of a small warship or a freighter.

An authentic exhortation from one who knows what servicemen need, should be enough to set every one working, here in Ontario, on that 2,000,000.

Mrs. W. Dorrington 53 Victoria avenue, is in charge of this work in Peterborough.

Safe In Jail?

MONTREAL, June 3.—(CP)— Police have started an investigation into the death of a prisoner in the city jail here Thursday. An autopsy showed the man, who was in the criminal insane wing, might have been murdered.

Good Fortune and Good Hunting

At last, Peterborough will now have a real, hard-hitting, fighting ship in the war. We will all be proud each time the news comes, "All ships in the convoy arrived safely," because we will know that Corvette Peterborough will be carrying her full share of guarding lives and precious cargoes to overseas destinations.

Lt. Jack Raine No Novice In Ways Of Sea

The man who will be taking Peterborough's Corvette into action against the enemy, Lieut. Jack Raine, R.C.N.R., is no novice, and while young in years has some of the attributes of the old sea dogs who knew their ships from top to bottom.

At 17 years of age, he entered the service of the Merchant Marine and served four years as an apprentice. After receiving his officers tickets he spent another four years travelling with a number of merchant shipping companies. Transporting cargoes to every part of the world, gave him invaluable experience in acquiring knowledge of the sea. He is familiar with the vagaries of the weather, and like all true sailors loves his ship, which to him is not an inanimate object.

Although he was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne in England, when he decided to retire from sailing he came to Peterborough and for five years he served as manager of the Raine store on Rubidge street. When war broke out, he wished to put his special training to use and joined the R.C.N.R. For a time he served on H.M.C.S. Fundy, an ocean-going minesweeper, as first officer, later taking command of the ship.

He is better known for his service on H.M.C.S. Wasaga, another minesweeper, which he commanded. Lieut. Raine was mentioned in despatches when his ship helped tow H.M.S. Caldwell into a repair base after it had been damaged in a heavy Atlantic storm. The Navy Department praised the Wasaga's crew for the way in which they assisted with the destroyer, a delicate operation at the best of time, without difficulies made by the storm. For many months, the tiny minesweeper did convoy duty in the worst of weather, guarding material desperately needed by the Allies overseas.

Although there are no Peterborough men serving on the Corvette as yet, the Skipper, is hoping that in the 30 men still to be assigned, one or two will be drafted. He is proud of his new responsibility and has vowed his confidence in the record H.M.C.S. Peterborough will make.

His father, who died in Peterborough in 1934 as a result of former war wounds, served with the Royal Field Artillery, Imperial Army in the last war. A brother, James, formerly manager of the George street Raine store has been overseas four years with the R.C.O.O.C. Mrs. Jack Raine who before her marriage was Marion Worboy, lives on Sherbrooke street.

Good For Morale Of Men

Besides, navy men say, naming a ship after a community is considered to be good for the morale of the men who sail aboard her, since her personnel feel they are supported by a group of people at home. Sponsoring a warship also gives citizens an opportunity of expressing their desire to aid the war effort.

After the ditty bags supplied each member of the crew and containing many useful articles of everyday importance, each man will receive woollen articles, leather vests and laundry bags. Then there will be the following electrical equipment: two washing machines, four electric kettles, four hot plates, six toasters, six irons and radios. There will be 50 packs of playing cards, six dart boards, and 12 other games; four subscriptions to the Readers Digest and four to McLean's magazine; 100 new dance and popular records; a moving picture unit; six wash boards, 12 scrub brushes, a pencil sharpener for the wardroom; Peterborough crest for the wheelhouse, rugs and carpets, 250 coat hangers, six 8-day clocks, needles, pins, thread and wool for the housewives and six thermos bottles. The corvette committee also undertakes to fully equip the crew's canteen.

The extensive list of donations is appended below with the name of organizations and individuals who have contributed to the equipping of the "Peterborough." As for the corvette committee, that will remain in existence, standing by to carry on if replacements are needed and to supply further articles should they be requested by the commanding officer, Lieut. Jack Raine. At Christmas time the committee is planning on sending appropriate gifts to all the ship's company.

Red Cross, Peterborough Branch, 89, of each, following articles: Turtle neck sweaters, ditty bags; seamen's stockings (long, short), neck pieces, helmets and 4 "housewives" mitts; students, Peterborough Collegiate Institute, piano; St. Mary's Convent, Sacred Heart School, Immaculate Conception, St. Peter's School, Lakefield Public School, No. 13 Troop, Mark St. Scout Auxiliary, St. Luke's Scout Auxiliary and Cub Auxiliary, No. 4 Troop Sacred Heart, No. 5 Troop All Saints'; the full quota of shoe laces, pins, needles, buttons, 3 colours mending wool, black and white thread for "housewives."

Grove School Has Turned Out Men Of Outstanding Naval Ability

Over a period of years at a quiet beauty spot in the village of Lakefield, the Grove School has been turning out men of outstanding ability who have entered the service of the Royal Canadian Navy, where they have served with distinction and have risen to high posts.

At the present time there are nearly 100 Grove "Old Boys" serving in the Navy, and all have done well. Vice-Admiral Percy Nelles, now overseas, is a graduate of this school, as is Capt. A. O. Davey of Ottawa, Lt.-Cmdr. K. A. Mackenzie, Lt.-Cmdr. Hugh Pullen, and Lt.-Cmdr. John Roper. All of these attended the Royal Canadian Naval College in Halifax before the last Great War. At the present time there are two Grove boys at the Naval College in Esquimalt. Kaye Fraser, son of Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and Mrs. Fraser of Burleigh, entered the ranks, and is serving on H.M.C.S. Frontenac. He graduated in 1943.

Three brothers, all graduates of the Grove School, are commissioned members of the Royal Canadian Navy. They are Lt.-Cmdr. Fred Frewer, Lt. John Frewer, and Lt. Philip Frewer, grandsons of F. M. DelaFosse, 457 Water Street.

Following in their father's footsteps, the boys are making a place for themselves in the naval service. Capt. G. Frewer, father, went to sea in 1895 as an indentured apprentice on a four-masted Scottish barque (a sailing ship). He was an adjuster of navy compasses at Halifax in the last war, and is now principal of the Toronto Nautical School.

Lt.-Cmdr. Fred Frewer, 24, joined the Navy seven years ago and has earned his present title. He participated in the Battle of Narvik, Norway, when the British Navy gave the Germans a sea lesson. He is the youngest R.C.N. lieutenant-commander.

His brother has likewise seen action. Lt. John Frewer, 26, is now commanding officer of a corvette, H.M.C.S. Matapedia, participated in the evacuation of Dunkerque. It was his hazardous task to run a small boat back and forth from large Navy vessel to the Dunkerque beach, the small craft filled to overflowing on every venture. He was in a bank when the war broke out.

The third boy, Lieut Philip Frewer, 21, is serving on H.M.C.S. Haida, which was accompanying H.M.C.S. Athabaskan when it was torpedoed in April. He was attending the University of Toronto when he enlisted.

speed" will be expressed by Mrs. Coral Macdonald now of Niagara Falls and formerly of Peterborough whose only son Petty Officer Tom Macdonald lost his life when the H.M.C.S. Prince Albert was lost. Lieutenant Jack Raine the commander of the corvette will reply for the officers and men.

Prior to the official ceremony the ship's crew will display on board the comforts supplied by the citizens of this city.

Keel Laid Last Fall

The keel on the H.M.C.S. "Peterborough" was laid last fall at the Kingston shipyards and on the morning of January 15 she was launched, but on account of the cold weather it was impossible to hold the christening at that time. This took place last Saturday in Kingston with Mrs. Edward Evans sister of Lwyellan Evans who lost his life when the H.M.C.S. Croix was sunk performing the ceremony.

"No better ship has ever left the shipyards" according to T. G. Bishop, general manager of the shipbuilding company and he is sure she will be a credit to the city sponsoring her.

She has had her trials and is now ready to be turned over to the Royal Canadian Navy and her voyage to Cobourg on Sunday.

Canadians Held In High Regard By Royal Navy

"Send us Canadians every time."

That one sentence, spoken by a Royal Naval engineering officer at a combined operations training base, bears eloquent testimony to the high regard in which Canadian men are held for this hazardous and exciting work, and is especially interesting now in view of the part Canadians are playing in the Italian campaign.

The outstanding feats these men performed in the invasion of Sicily is a most creditable reflection on the intense training which prepared them for their gallant action in the front line. Their job was to go in, under enemy fire, and put the troops ashore. "Assault landing craft" they call their little ships, and it's a good name.

"Canadians are just about ideal for this work" the British officer continued. "They's got imaginotion, initiative and dash. There's a certain recklessness about the job which appeals to them. We can use as many as you send us."

Behaved Admirably

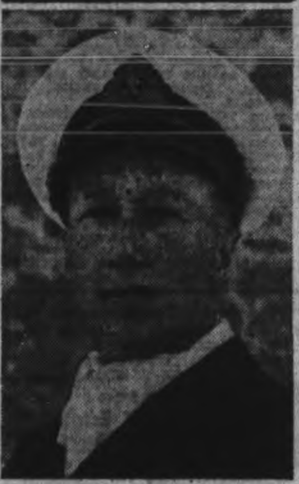
In spite of heavy bombardment from shore batteries continual sniping and a most difficult approach to the beach, the craft are maintained in day and night operations.

Beach conditions are often very poor. Near-misses to craft and personnel are many and steel helmets save many lives.

The Canadian flotilla at Oran behaved admirably under fire and was favorably commented on by all concerned with the speed and efficiency with which they carried out their assignment.

Morale was superb and the men genuinely loved their task which was regarded more as a skylark than a serious operation. It was difficult to get them out of the craft to be relieved and the loss of sleep or missing a meal never caused a complaint.

Experience gained in this action is being used in the training of increasing numbers of young Canadians who proudly wear the special insignia of the "Combined Ops" on the left sleeve of their uniforms—a pair of air force wings, a tommy gun and an anchor.



SUB. LIEUT THOMAS LILLICO
Son of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Lillico, 515 Hunter street.

FROM GENERATION TO—

The men it takes to operate the machines on one large battleship represent at least 1,500 aggregate years of training, and 2,500 years of experience.

Big Loads Carried By Cargo Vessels

One of Canada's new cargo vessels, protected in convoys by the Royal Canadian Navy, can carry in one load: Enough flour, cheese, bacon, ham, canned and dried foods to feed 225,000 people for one week; steel and other metals in slabs and bars amounting to 2,150 tons; enough universal carriers, truck and motorcycles to equip a full battalion of infanty; enough bombs to load 225 heavy bombers for attacks on Germany; enough lumber, plywood, wallboard and nails to build 90 four-room cottages; two complete bombing planes, stowed on the decks; enough aluminum to build over 600 Spitfires.

BLODGETT—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. James A. Blodgett, who passed away four years ago, June 3, 1940.

What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In heaven, that happy life.
—Ever remembered by Husband and family.

MEIN—In loving memory of our dear father, George Mein, who passed away June 3, 1943.

Loving and kind in all his ways
Upright and just to the end of his days
A beautiful memory left behind.
Sincere and true in heart and mind
None knew him but to love him
None named him but to praise.

Fifth Victory For George St. Bantams

Park Street bantams played George Street a league game at Queen Alexandra School on Wednesday. George Street were able to gain their fifth straight win.

Mr. Corbett and Mr. B. H. Smith, coaches for Park Street, deserve a lot of credit for the interest they have taken in and the time they have given to the Park Street boys. Their team is very young and very small, but they never give up until the last ball is thrown. Plainly their managers have an eye to the future.

Teams:

Park Street—Batley, cf; Corbett, ss; Panter, 3b; Gimblett, p; Walling, c; Graham, lf; Sisson, rf; Hall (borrowed from George Street) 1b.

George Street — Marshall, 2b; Hamblin, 3b; Davidson, 1b; J. Dormer, p; McKee, c; Connell, lf; Smith, cf; Clark, rf; Wood, ss; Richardson for Connell in 3rd; B. Dormer for Hamblin in 7th.

Umpires—B. H. Smith, bases; B. Outram, plate.

Man Given 10 Days For Drunken Driving

Norman Gannon, 39, R.R. 1, Ennismore, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail in police court this morning after he had pleaded guilty to charge of drunken driving.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., issued the customary instruction to the police that Gannon's car should be impounded for three months.

Officer John Stevenson, giving evidence this morning stated that he and Constable Harold Mesley in answer to a telephone call from Douro street had investigated the complaint. They had seen a car pull away from the curb on Douro street and proceed to Armour Road and then along that street.

"It was being driven in a very erratic manner", said the officer, "zig-zagging from one side of the street to the other. We stopped the car and found Norman Gannon behind the wheel. He was very drunk".

Stephen Gannon, brother of the driver, pleaded guilty this morning to having been drunk and he was fined $15 and $2.50 costs.

War Conditions Affect Attendance

HAMILTON, June 3 — (CP) — War conditions have changed the attendance at Universities, Rev. W. W. Brown, president of Victoria College told the Hamilton conference of the United Church here yesterday. The number of women students since the war began has almost doubled.

Dr. Brown spoke of vocational education and said there was a need for training leaders as well as experts. Men trained in the things of the spirit would be the men required for vital leadership. He gave an outline of changes affecting the colleges of the United Church and the plans for making the theological training of an even higher type than in the past.

Rev. Wilbur Howard, General Secretary of the Church for Boy's work, praised the work done by other organizations but said these did not relieve the Church of the responsibility for leading boys to Christ. He commented the work of the Older Boy's Parliament. The hope was expressed that full support would be given to the camps and other activities planned this summer.

LONDON, June 3 — (CP) — The Berlin radio claimed to-day that German naval craft sank a coastal tanker and six fully laden coastal motor vessels south-west of the Yugoslavian port of Siebnik Wednesday, capturing 129 soldiers, 37 women and five children.

The soldiers included British, Russians and Americans, the broadcast added. There was no Allied confirmation. Siebnik is 26 miles north of Split.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LEARN BRIDGE FAST
12—Raising a Suit Bid

IN CONTRACT bridge, it is your desire to bid a game if a game can be made by your side, as there is a big bonus of points for bidding and making a game which you cannot score by merely taking the tricks. It must be both bid and made to give you that bonus. The same applies to bidding a slam, to get the big premiums for bidding and making a Little Slam of 12 tricks or a Grand Slam of all 13 tricks.

There is only one exception to the desirability of bidding a game or slam, if your side can make it. That comes when an opponent has bid so high that you reckon you can score more points by beating his contract, in which case you will generally wish to double him.

Ordinarily, if your partner has made a suit bid, one of the things you consider is the question of whether or not you should raise his bid and, if so, how high. To do this, your first requirement is to be sure that his suit will be safe for your side to use as a trump suit. That means chiefly that your side should have at least eight cards of the suit. If it has only seven, the opponents have six, which usually will not be evenly divided between the opponents. One will have four and the other two more often than they will have three apiece. If that is the case, the player with four may make a lot of trouble for the declarer. But, if your side has eight, it will usually prove a safe trump suit.

Since your partner's suit bid has guaranteed at least four trumps, a total of four in your hand will render the suit pretty safe. You may then consider raising him, and want to know how good your hand will be in support of his. Here is an accurate way to value your "supporting tricks":

Trumps—

(a) One for having 4 trumps, 1 each for any additional ones.

(b) One each for ace, king or queen.

(c) For chance to use them separately, in ruffing side suits, 2½ if you are blank in some suit, 1½ for a singleton, ½ for a doubleton.

(Add your trump values under these three, never counting more than a total one less than your total number of trumps.)

Side Suits—

(a) High cards. Count 1½ for each ace, 1 for each king, ½ for each queen.

(b) Low cards. Count same as in original bid hand, ½ each for first two cards beyond the top three, 1 each for additional ones.

Totaling these, under the headings of supporting tricks in trumps and side suits, will give you the gross number of tricks your hand should be worth to your partner. By adding that amount to 4½—the minimum which you should count him as having—you will reach a grand total pretty close to the exact number he probably will be able to make in the play.

Since his bid of 1-Spade guaranteed probable ability to take a minimum of 4½ tricks—with a maximum as high as about 7½—if your hand counts up to be good for at least 2½ and contains four trumps, you can afford to give him a raise to two, rather than pass, so that if he has a maximum, the side won't miss a game. There are times, of course, when it is better to make a bid different from a raise, but we will get to that later. For the present, we are concerned with your ability to raise.

In considering a raise to more than two, it will pay you to treat his hand as a minimum, with only 4½ playing tricks. Hence, you should not jump the bid to higher than two unless you have at least 5½ "supporting tricks," so that the total in sight is at least about ten. If you raise him to two and he then raises to three, he has indicated more than a minimum, at least about six playing tricks, so you will need about four "supporting tricks to go to four. You ordinarily should have four supporting tricks also to bid two in his suit if the intervening opponent has overcalled his bid—for reasons we will get to later.

17 Are Lost In Lake Erie Boat Disaster

Panic Of Passengers Causes Tragedy Within Shore View

PORT STANLEY, Ont., June 5.—(CP).—Number of persons feared to have drowned Sunday in the capsizing of the motor launch Olga to-day rose to 17 as police announced that 14 persons were still missing. Previously it was believed 12 were missing. Three are known to have drowned.

The police announcement came after careful checking of the names furnished by the 13 persons who were rescued when the Olga, crowded with Sunday excursionists, partly overturned off this Lake Erie harbor.

Bodies of three persons have been recovered: William Babcock, 23, of London, Ont., and formerly of Yorkton, Sask.; Bernice Wood, 29, and Barbara Martin 20 of nearby St. Thomas.

The missing: Edward Goodge and Shirley Handyside 9, of St. Thomas; Sidney Smith, one of the Olga's operators, Stella Meays 17, Russell Hannett, 40 and his nephew Gordon Hannett, 7, Joe Adel, 9, Jack Gardner 12, Donald Ellis 9, Bob Ellis 12, Earl Book 16, all of London; Clifford E. Skeath, a members of the R.C.A.F. stationed at St. Thomas, and two other R.C.A.F. personnel whose names have not been announced.

Ted Vining, operator of the launch with Mr. Smith and one of the rescued, said he was in the wheelhouse with a few of the passengers when the accident occurred.

"The passengers yelled and screamed; I can't describe it," he said. "Nothing could be done. It was an accident. If the passengers hadn't become panicky it never would have happened."

The capsizing occurred about a mile from shore, in full view of spectators on the pier and on the beach. The fact the accident was noticed prevented the death toll from being even higher. An R.C.A.F. crash boat and motor launch based at Port Stanley and a private sailboat were at the scene quickly.

The Olga left her dock at about 4 p.m. and went outside the harbor into Lake Erie. Then Vining swung her in a wide circle back toward port. The motor faltered once, then ran for a couple of seconds. It choked again. Vining said he throttled down to idling speed and asked his assistant on the trip, Jack McKenstrie, one of the rescued, to get a pair of pliers and turn a tap on the gasoline tank.

"A swell caught the starboard stern, but she rode it," Vining said. "The passengers in the wheelhouse crowded to the right. The boat listed considerably and then the swell

Russians Foil German Thrust

LONDON, June 5.—(CP).—Apparently attempting to smash Russian preparations for a new offensive, the Germans continued to attack yesterday, north and northwest of Iasi in Romania, but were hurled back with tremendous losses in men and material, Moscow announced to-day.

A broadcast Soviet communique said that in one sector alone 1,100 Nazis were killed and 30 tanks were knocked out of action. The bulletin indicated the fighting was on a considerable scale, saying the Nazis had thrown large forces of both infantry and tanks into the fray.

Sharp air battles accompanied the ground fighting, and 44 Nazi planes were brought down in combat or by anti-aircraft fire, the Russians said.

Cost-of-Living Index Gains One-tenth Total War Increase Now Stands At 18.3

OTTAWA, June 5 —(CP)—The cost-of-living index advanced one-tenth of a point during April, the Dominion Bureau of Statstics reported today.

At May 1 the index stood at 119.2 compared with 119.1 at April 1—making a wartime increase of 18.3 per cent. Cost-of-living bonuses, which now form part of basic wages, were last adjusted when the index was at 118.4.

In April fractional increases in foods, clothing and home furnishings outweighed a moderate decline in the fuel and lighting sections, the bureau said.

The food index rose from 131.8 for April to 131.7 for May as cabbage, carrots and oranges increased in price. Small declines were recorded for potatoes, eggs and some cuts of meats.

The index of Canadian farm product prices moved lower in May, closing at 101.7 for the week of the 26th compared with 103.6 a month earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Peterboro Boy In Task Force First Troops To Enter Rome

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, June 5 — (CP Cable).—When formations of the 5th and 8th Armies made contact with each other on the Via Casilina, Lt.-Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, 8th Army commander, said: "The road from Naples to Rome is open." The junction was made at noon Saturday and last night Rome fell to the Allies.

Gen. Leese made his comment as he sat in a jeep beside a broken bridge on the highway—the Via Casilina which runs via Cassino and Proninone to the Italian capital. The point where the contact was made is 1½ miles south of Anagni and about 33 miles from Rome.

A British lieutenant and an American warrant officer met first.

With Benny Malkin of Winnipeg, war correspondent for the Sifton Newspapers, Lieut. Bill Boss of Ottawa, and Driver Gordon Woodrow of Toronto, I learned the full significance of the general's words an hour later when I drove into the camp of the 5th Army's special service force, a unit which fought on the Anzio beachhead and which includes Canadian as well as American troops.

(An Associated Press dispatch on Sunday night said 150 American and Canadian infantrymen and 34 Sherman tanks were among the first formations to enter Rome.)

The barrier separating the two armies on the Via Casilina was gone. The Germans, who Saturday morning still were offering sporadic opposition to the Canadians and French troops south of the highway, were killed or captured or had withdrawn into the hills.

Canadians Rest

The Canadian formations, their immediate job completed, are getting a rest. Ontario battalions are in the vicinity of Anagni, the most modern town the 6th Army has captured since the advance began last month.

Polish Premier Visits U.S.A.

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP).—Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk is arriving here today on an official visit, to exchange views with President Roosevelt and to probe means for closing the gap between Russia and Poland.

Acting Secretary of State Edward Stettinius announced the visit of Premier Mikolajczyk in this statement:

"On the invitation of this government, the Polish Prime Minister is arriving in Washington today on a visit of courtesy, his first trip to this country since his assumption of the Premiership.

"He is expected, during his short stay, to exchange views with the President and other American officials on general European and Polish questions."

During the past month hope has soared for a solution to political problems between Poland and the Soviet Union on the basis of co-operation between Red Army troops advancing from the east and Polish underground fighters.

Prime Minister Churchill said in his last speech that he believed the breach was not so wide as it appeared on the surface.

It was announced last Christmas that Mr. Mikolajczyk would come to this country to confer with President Roosevelt, but his visit was postponed, presumably because of difficulties within the Polish government and in relations with Russia.

Thus, his arrival hints that some good chance of solving Russo-Polish difficulties, if not an actual formula, now exists.

Sink 31 Axis Ships In Mediterranean

LONDON, June 5 — (CP). — British submarines sank 31 Axis ships, 26 of them merchantmen, and five naval auxiliaries, in recent operations in the Mediterranean and Aegean Seas, the Admiralty announced to-night.

Seven other merchantmen were damaged, the communique said.

One of the British prizes was a large and strongly-escorted munitions ship bound for the big Greek Island of Crete.

Submarines also shelled a number of shore targets on the Italian and South French coasts and on Crete, the Admiralty said.

Il Duce Growls Some More

Urges Italians To Resist Allies

LONDON, Jne 5.—(AP).—Benito Mussolini appealed to the people of Rome to-day to "make life as hard as possible" for Allied troops which captured his former Fascist capital yesterday.

The former Duce's message was read by an announcer in a broadcast on the same wave length as the Rome radio at 7.19 a.m. (1.19 a.m. E.D.T.) and recorded by the Associated Press.

"With the help of the treachery of the monarchy," said Mussolini, who now heads a puppet Fascist organization under German protection in Northern Italy, the "Anglo-Americans were able to land in Italy. German troops have courageously contested every step of their advance, but have now given up Rome.

"It is a great sorrow for us, and I do not want to resort to propaganda now.

"Italians do not morally surrender to the invader. With all means at your disposal, make life as hard as possible for him. Our will is not broken. We shall continue to fight and to work at the side of the tripartite powers, and especially Germany."

Legion Gains 25,000 Members

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER, June 5—(CP). — The Canadian Legion has obtained some 25,000 new members in the last two years and the organization has been extended by the formation of 81 additional units, J. C. G. Herwig of Ottawa, general secretary, said in his report to the Dominion convention which opened here today.

Mr. Herwig said it was impossible to give definite membership figures but the Legion now had 1,740 units including 1,172 commands and branches, 584 ladies' auxiliaries and 14 junior auxiliaries.

Special services rendered for war veterans and rehabilitation plans for Second Great War discharges were stressed in Mr. Herwig's report.

He said the Canadian Vocational Training scheme, set up to fit men for the three armed services, had made provision for training in connection with the rehabilitation of ex-service men and there were indications the organization would be retained to meet post-war demands.

"It is to be hoped that soldiers serving in this country will realize their duty and join their comrades overseas," Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, general officer commanding, Pacific Command, said in an address to the opening session of last night.

"The Legion must see that the invasion is not hampered by lack of reinforcements," Gen. Pearkes said. "...We must do everything possible so that our men will not have to look backwards to see that others are following."

A resolution to be discussed Tuesday at the convention demands that all Canadian home defence troops be required to serve anywhere. The "total war" motion contends overseas army must be assured of continuous, adequate reinforcements at all times and that there is a large trained force in Canada at present immobilized "under present policy" from active service or essential industry.

1,250 Planes Hammer French Coast

4th Attack In Row On Pus de Calais Blows Get Heavier

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 5— (AP)— Approximately 1,250 American heavy bombers and fighters—leading an Allied aerial assault of powerful proportions against the fortified French coast—smashed military installations in the Boulogne and Calais areas today with an estimated 12,000 tons of bombs.

This was the fourth attack in a row against the Pas de Calais. The area of France closest to England, and it came after R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers attacked French coast objectives and targets in Cologne, Germany, last night, and laid mines in enemy waters, all without loss.

Watchers on the English coast facing Boulogne could see enemy rocket shells rising from the ground, leaving a thin white trail of smoke and exploding high in the air.

For more than three hours powerful fleets of American and British bombers thundered across the English Channel. Clouds which replaced the earlier clear sky failed to halt the offensive.

The raids last night appeared comparatively small in scale, but the Allies' aerial offensive gained momentum by daylight. As one powerful force of bombers returned another roared out. The sky over the Dover Strait later became clouded, but there was no sign of a slackening of the attack.

For one period of about a half-hour aircraft passed over Folkestone with a roar like that of express trains rushing through tunnels. Waves of medium bombers were recognized, as wel as very large numbers of fighters and fighter-bombers.

Hit Paris Area

In three separate attacks on German installations in France yesterday, fighter-escorted United States heavy bombers from Britain made two assaults in the vicinity of Boulogne in the bomb-pitted Pas de Calais department and then penetrated to the Paris area in an evening foray.

Four bombers and three fighters did not return from these operations, a communique said, adding that one German plane was destroyed out of the few put up by the enemy to counter the blows.

Other attacks launched from British bases yesterday included:

1. Bombing and strafing sweeps by R.A.F. Spitfires against German radio installations along the northern coast of France.

2. Attacks by United States 9th Air Force fighter-bombers on two bridges over the Seine at Rouen and railroad targets in the Oise Valley.

3. Sweeps by American fighter-bombers against rail junctions south of Paris.

4. Attacks on French coast military objectives by 9th Air Force fighter-bombers.

Rearguard Units Annihilated Rome Suffers Little Damage

Italian Civilians Die Trying To Silence Guns

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ROME, June 5 (AP)—This cradle of the western world rocked last night with the high wind of freedom, stirred by the 5th Army and thousands of Partisans flaunting red flags.

Behind a screen of Roman volunteers who wore hammer and sickle armbands and waved old firearms, Allied forces drove from suburban Centocelle to the Tiber river while half-smothered with kisses and roses.

The German Wehrmacht, which once swore that Rome was an Open City, fought futilely in the ancient streets to delay the thrust.

Wherever the Allies moved forward yesterday against hit-and-run Nazi armored forces they found Italians—of all ages and degrees of poverty—ready to die for "the liberation."

"Why were you so long coming? We expected you four months ago," said some of the Partisans.

But others, lying dead across German machine-guns they had tried to seize bare-handed, or waiting in unwhimpering silence for their wounds to be bandaged, asked no questions.

I saw a 10-year-old boy carrying ammunition for his elder brother on sniper patrol.

A Stiff Battle

By military standards the battle for Rome was merely a heavy skirmish with the objectives temporarily being to secure the Tiber bridge. From just behind the leading tank, however, I found the struggle as hard on the senses as getting hit between the eyes with brass knuckles.

Several tanks and one heavy self-propelled gun held up our armor for seven hours at a point five miles outside Rome. But the Allied commander accepted unusual risks rather than bring down a devastating fire on areas where civilians might be sheltering or artistic treasures harmed.

As the final push sent General Sherman tanks clattering through Centocell's alleyways and green fields, their machine-guns drove scores of German snipers from cover. Italian Partisans rode the American tanks or preceded them like game beaters.

"I'll bet there are enough Fascist party badges in the Tiber today to make the fish sick," said one officer.

Warn of Gun

Near the San Lorenzo railyards in Rome the Partisans shrilly warned of a German 88 about 200 yards behind the next corner. Light tanks swerved and hit it from the rear while weeping mothers murmured blessings, kissed the hands of the tank destroyer crew members and lifted up their children to be kissed on the cheek.

Within a few seconds after the first tanks crossed under the arch of Porta Maggiore, one of the gates of Rome, the avenue head was filled with what seemed all of the population of Rome. Crowds in order to clasp our hands waded through water from a water main broken by

Tough Problems Face Allies Entering Rome

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON June 5.—(AP).—Edward R. Stettinius, undersecretary of state said to-day prompt measures are being taken to relieve food shortages in Rome, and that some announcements will be made about them later.

This raised the possibility that President Roosevelt might take occasion in his 15 minute broadcast tonight on the fall of Rome to reassure the people of that city about Allied plans for their welfare, as well as to state the Allied position with respect to military uses of Rome, and also to cover any Italian political questions of primary concern to the United States government.

On political implicatons of the Italian capital's fall, Stettinius said that while he did not know of any exact timetable, it was his understanding that King Victor Emmanuel now will delegate his powers to Prince Humbert and step aside. It is not contemplated that the king return to Rome.

Meanwhile, American diplomats viewed the fall of Rome as speeding the grand assault on Hitler's Europe and confronting the Axis satellites and wavering neutrals with clear evidence of the ultimate fate of Berlin.

Officials examined reports on the Balkans and other European areas for signs of reaction as President Roosevelt prepared a 15-minute ra-

30 Jap Planes Downed In Day

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NEW GUINEA, June 5 (AP)—Japan flung more of her husbanded air force into swirling sky battles in the Southwest Pacific—risking 70 planes, losing 30—and mounted fierce mortar fire resistance against a new American ground offensive on bloody Biak, deports disclosed today.

Loss of only one Allied plane was listed in the accounts of air action during which seven other Japanese aircraft probably were shot down in addition to the 30 and several were destroyed on the ground.

On Biak, main island in the Schoutens off North Netherlands New Guinea, American invaders changed offensive tactics after units which landed there May 27 failed in a push along a coastal road towards three airfelds.

In the new drive, while one column moved back from retreat along that road another bucked treacherous terrain in an accompanying drive along the ridges from which the Japanese previously had poured down a murderous fire. The columns crunched ahead slowly against intense enemy mortar, machine-gun and rifle opposition.

9 Dive Bombers

Twenty Japanese dive-bombers were sent against the invasion beachhead. Australian fliers shot down eight and ack-ack gunners got another.

Pope Has Freedom No Longer Menaced By Huns

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, June 5 — (AP) — The powerful 5th Army drove across the Tiber towards Northern Italian horizons in pursuit of the 10th and 14th German armies today—with hardly a look at captured Rome, ancient seat of western civilization fallen a prize to Allied troops after nine months of sacrifice.

Last-ditch German rearguards died within the shadow of the Roman forum and in the streets of the government quarter in bitter clashes as Italian Partisans, barechested and wearing a hammer and sickle insignia, fought hand to hand with Fascists and Nazis in a brief battle for liberation.

Police officers said all was quiet at the Vatican, where the Pope has been a virtual prisoner of German bayonets since last September. A Berlin broadcast asserted Baron Von Weizsaecker, German ambassador to the Holy See, "has left his residence in Rome, Villa Bonaparte, and moved to Vatican City. Other diplomatic missions of the tripartite powers will move to Vatican City—namely those of Japan, Hungary, Slovania, Romania and Finland."

(King Victor Emmanuel was expected to hand over his power to Crown Prince Humbert at a formal ceremony in keeping with his promise of several months ago to act when the Allies entered Rome.)

Although first reports from Rome were scanty concerning damage in the city, a number of demolitions were carried out by the Germans. Dispatches said the Fiat factory had been the scene of one such demolition, while efforts also apparently were made to wreck gas, electric and water utilities.

The other main objective, the destruction of the German 10th and 14th armies, remained to be carried out, and towards this objective the 5th and 8th armies pressed to-day.

Fighter-bombers hammered away at the fleeing German columns, leaving congested highway to the north littered with dead and wounded and smashed vehicles.

The 5th Army tore off and chewed up additional chunks of the disorganized Nazi forces which had tried vainly to stem the advance on the Italian capital long enough to hold open an escape route for hard-pressed troops in the shredded defence line south of the city.

The danger to Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's forces still facing the left flank of the 5th Army between Rome and the seacoast grew steadily.

The main escape route of these forces was lost when Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's Armor and Infantry—including a Canadian-American special force—crashed through the defensive screen on the outskirts of Rome yesterday and swarmed into the city, where they met only spoadic resistance.

Prisoners taken in the 25-day-old all-out offensive climbed past the 20,000 mark. In relentless strafing and bombing the Tactical Air Force had destroyed or damaged 1,200 German trucks and other vehicles.

The widely-acclaimed entry into Rome—climax of nine months of hard fighting in Italy—was accompanied by fresh gains in other sectors of the front.

Take 5 Towns

Palestrina, astride an important retreat road north of the Via Casalina 4½ miles north of Valmontone, was cleared of the enemy.

At the same time the British 8th Army, with which Canadian Corps units are fighting, drove the enemy completely out of the Sacco valley, clearing the towns of Fluggi, Piglio, Paliano, Guarcino and Cave.

An official account of the drive into Rome said:—

"Reconnaissance elements entered the southeastern outskirts of the

Japs Advance 17 Miles Across China

Menace Changsha In Honan Strategic City

By SPENCER MOOSA
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHUNGKING, June 5—(AP)—Japanese vanguards from the north struck within 25 miles tonight of strategic Changsha, provincial capital of Hunan, field dispatches said.

This marked a 17-mile advance from Sinshih.

The U.S. 14th Air Force is giving strong support to the Chinese fighting to halt the enemy advance toward Changsha, harassing the Japanese without respite.

Field dispatches said a second Japanese column which advanced 16 miles southwest from Sinshih had been driven back.

The Japanese made still further landings on the southern shore of Lake Tungting, the latest north of Yiyang, 50 miles northwest of Changsha. This exposed the city to attack from the northwest, north and northeast, and the Japanese seemed to be trying to converge the columns.

In Hupeh province, the enemy made another attempt to cross to the west bank of the Sungtze River, a tributary of the Yangtze, but were driven back. Chinese authorities said this activity probably was an enemy screen for the drive on Changsha.

On the Salween front in Yunnan province, where Chinese are attempting to drive into North Burma, the war bulletin said Chinese forces had crossed the Shweli River and pushed to within 12 miles of the Japanese of Tenghung, cutting the main enemy supply artery to the north.

Major Battle Rages In Bosnia

LONDON, June 5 — (CP). — Fierce fighting is raging in Western Bosnia, here the Germans are bringing up strong reinforcements to support an offensive against the bitterly resisting Yugoslav Partisans, Marshal Tito announced today.

"Our men are heroically defending every inch of soil and are inflicting heavy losses on the enemy," said a bulletin broadcast from Tito's Headquarters.

"On the remaining frontal sectors in Yugoslavia fighting of local character is being carried out."

The communique reported the derailment and destruction of two trains laden with German troops and war material on the Belgrade-Zagreb line, which was said to have been cut in three places.

Another "Orderly Retreat"

Huns Lose Prestige In Fall Of Rome

STOCKHOLM, June 5—(AP)—The Germans first learned of the fall of Rome in a 7 a.m. broadcast today, and the Berlin press said the Allied victory "involves a loss of prestige for Germany."

The German-controlled Scandinavian press bureau summed up Berlin comment thus:

"The evacuation of Rome is the result of Kesselring's strategy and the city itself is not of great military importance. But giving up one of the Axis capitals involves a loss of prestige for Germany."

The Berlin correspondent of Aftonbladet said the Germans made a "lightning retreat" from Rome, withdrawing the main body of German troops to new positions north of the Tiber and north of Rome.

"Now all roads lead to Berlin," Aftonbladet commented editorially.

Burma Battle Sapping Jap Strength

Mixed Allied Force Gains Slowly In Mogaung Valley

KANDY, Ceylon, June 5—(AP)—Chinese and American forces have gained 200 more yards in their drive in the southeastern section of Myitkyina in continuing severe fighting in that beleaguered Japanese base in North Burma, it was announced today.

A communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters also announced that on the extreme western end of the North Burma front the Japanese are withdrawing from the town of Mamsum.

British air-borne Chindits were declared to be continuing their attack from the south of Myitkyina from the neighboring village of Wingmaw, and Allied levies have raided Nsopsup, north of the key Japanese base.

Forty miles to the west at Kamaing the Japanese garrison "is now more closely invested," the war bulletin said, explaining that Allied troops have reached positions 4½ miles east and 6½ miles southeast of the town.

Capture Village

Chinese troops thrusting down the west side of the Mogaung river valley were said to have captured a village. Allied troops have proved themselves more than a match for the Japanese in India and Burma "in equipment, training, toughness and endurance," and those campaigns "can now be regarded with satisfaction though not with complacence, an official headquarters operational review said.

Noting that arrival of the Monsoon season had brought little slackening in Allied operations, either aground or in the air, the review said with guarded optimism.

"To the Japanese, Burma shows signs, which must appear ominous, of becoming a dangerous running sore, draining away men and supplies whose reinforcement and replacement will grow more costly and difficult as Allied presure increases."

The summary said that "overwhelming air superiority" and lack of any enemy challenge in the Bay of Bengal or the Indian Ocean "have been powerful factors" in favor of the Allies.

Churchill Club Renews Aid For War Victims

When the history of the past four years or more comes to be written, the name of the Rt. Hon. Winston Randolph Churchill will hold a very prominant position, from the important part he played in giving leadership and inspiration to all peoples of the British Commonwealth of Nations in their rise from what to many must have appeared a certain doom at the hands of an aggressor nation, who sought to overwhelm them by sheer force and might of men and armaments.

At the moment when victory in the not too distant future seems to be fairly certain, it might not be out of place for all to pause and reflect on how much the free nations of the whole world owe to the example of his indomnitable spirit, which could pierce the dark clouds to point the way to the silver lining, out of the gloom and almost desperate despair that followed on Dunkerque and in so doing pay a justly deserved tribute to all that he has meant to the Emipre in her time of need, rather than waiting until he has passed beyond their mortal ken, and then the day of opportunity in this respect will be forover gone.

Peterborough Churchill Club.

In those dark days when the inspired leadership of this great man set the pace along the path that was to lead the way towards the hopes for the future, of which the fruition seems on the brink of dawning, the Peterborough Churchill Club was formed both in admiration and as a tribute to him, their objective being to give what assistance they could in something that was very dear to his heart, that of giving aid to the many thousands of people who were suffering from enemy air raid attacks over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

With Ross L. Dobbin as chairman and Fred G. Mann as secretary, the membership rapidly gained momentum, coming close to the 1,500 mark, and from the fee of $1.00 per person the fund benefitted well over the $1,000.00 mark after defraying the cost of the membership pin and card. Right now would seem a most appropriate time for members to make themselves known by wearing this pin, and such as can do so might feel it a privilege to pay a renewal fee, as a further tribute and thankoffering to assist further in the same work, for which the need will remain until the enemy is finally overcome.

New Lakefield Members

Coming at a time when the years of preparation to deliver what is hoped will be a final crushing blow to the enemy has reached its peak, it would seem a good omen that three new members are added to the list, all of them originating from the nearby centre of Lakefield in the persons of Mrs. H. E. Moore, Mrs. Dora MacMillen and Miss Waterman, who were presented with their memberships just prior to leaving that community during recent times, the record of such having been forwarded by John McKerchar who represents the fund in that place.

Then as if to further accentuate the good that the club can still do both in a humanitarian sense and as a tribute to their namesake no less than ten renewals are reported in this story as coming from Ross L. Dobbin, Fred Hills, Miss Margaret Rodney, H. B. Cowan, J., Ed. Riley, Herbert S. Routley, Mrs. H. S. Routley, Miss Verna Johnston, Percy E. Moore and Fred G. Mann.

The club will be glad to welcome newcomers to their ranks, and perhaps the lead given by those who have made renewals, will act as an inspiration that others might follow, all working towards the day when a well earned victory will come with its day of rejoicing, from out of the gloom that prevailed when Mr. Churchill first became the Premier of the Mother of Parliaments.

dio broadcast summing up his government's official reaction.

The broadcast, over all major American networks, is set for 8:30 p.m. EDT tonight. It was expected to emphasize the symbolic importance of the Italian conquest and to bear upon its political significance.

It has long been a theory of diplomats and political leaders both here and in London that the day the Allies marched into Rome would be the real beginning of the end for neutral and satellite support of Germany throughout Europe.

At the same time military authororities and international political experts grappled with two tough problems stemming directly from the military triumph. Admittedly the more difficult was the problem of rushing food supplies, medical equipment and clothing to the population of the city.

Information available here was that the people had suffered severely at the hands of the enemy who removed all portable supplies even though the city itself had escaped the devastation of a seige.

The other task confronting directly the Allied command of Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, and indirectly the London, Washington and Moscow governments, was that of reorganization of the whole Italian regime headed by King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Pietro Badoglio.

King Victor promised weeks ago he would retire when Rome was liberated. His son, Crown Prince Humbert, will take over in his place as a sort of regent.

The Allied governments have taken his promise literally and its fulfillment is expected momentarily.

Turned In False Alarm Soldier Fined $25

Pte. Joseph Blanchard 18, a member of the R.C.A.M.C. stationed at Camp Borden, was fined $25 by Magistrate G. A. Langley in police court on Saturday after he had pleaded guilty to turning in a false alarm of fire from the box at Hunter and Sheridan streets on Friday night.

The alternative was 20 days imprisonment and Magistrate Langley served notice that the fine was not to be taken as a precedent. He intimated that there would be more severe penalties in the event of any further violations of the section.

Blanchard is a French-Canadian and the services of A. Letellier had to be secured as an interpreter.

Assistant Fire Chief George Smith, in giving evidence, stated that the false alarm had been sent in during the time that the brigade was fighting a fire in the Auburn storehouse of G. Whitaker and Son and had to be answered by a number of firemen.

W. J. Arthur Fair who voluntarily defended Blanchard pleaded that the young soldier was a stranger to the city, that he had been drinking and that his action had been a thoughtless prank on his part.

Religious Education In School Is Threat To Christian Church

That the new program of religious education in the Ontario schools as being organized by the Department of Education might well be the most disastrous step for the Christian church and Christian faith in Ontario was asserted by Dr. Dr. J. D. Smart in St. Paul's Presbyterian church on Sunday morning.

Dr. Smart took as his subject "Some questions about the new program of religious education in Ontario schools" and in his discourse was most critical of the move as threatening the very future of the Christian Church.

Dr. Smart said many people today were saying how fine it was that the government is recognizing the importance of religion and how wonderful all the children of the community were going to get a hour of Christian teaching each week. "It looks outwardly like something we Christians should be greatly enthusiastic about. You may therefore be surprised when I tell pou that this program has in it the greatest of dangers. As it is at present being organized it might well be the most disastrous step for the Christian Church and the Christian faith in the province of Ontario.

"Why do I say that"? asked Dr. Smart?, "In the first place the churches of Ontario have been ignored by the Department of Education in the working out of this new program. There is a committee made up of representatives of the various churches which has or some years been working on the problem of Christian teaching in our schools. Under the direction in a great many communities and Peterborough has been one, the ministers of the churches go into the schools and teach for half an hour each week. This committe has not been consulted in the drawing up of the new plan. A text book of what to teach is being prepared and the churches are being given no opportunity to examine what is going into it or to make suggestions.

"This is not all. In our normal schools where public school teachers receive their training Christian instruction until now has been in the hands of the churches. I understand that starting in September the church will not be allowed to have anything to do with it. The preparation of teachers to teach religion is to be assigned to men who have no responsibility whatever to the Church. Their only responsibility will be to the government department which employs them and by whose favor they hold their office.

Thus dclared to Dr. Smart the government of Ontario is proposing to take over the teaching of religion to our children and rather abruptly they are saying to the Church. "Stand aside. This is now our job."

"Can you as Christians agree to that? Can you as Christians permit it to happen? You will do well to think deeply on that question between now and September."

What Will Be Taught

"But since the government, on its own is going into the teaching of religion what kind of a religion do you expect the government is going to teach? I have already had a few indications what it is to be like. It is apparently to be a very practical course in ethics and in ethics alone; that, is, it is to teach the children how to believe that they may be good citizens of the country they live in. But when I hear responsible people who are to have a part in this program scoffing at the teaching of Christian doctrine and asserting that nothing more needs to be taught our children than a code of conduct, I become very distrustful of the whole program. It looks very much to me as though the government has its own idea of what kind of religion our country needs and it is not what we in the church as a presentation of the Christian faith and the churches way of life."

"That is the situation that we have to face," declared Dr. Smart. The minister pointed out that the church at various times in its history has had to guard itself against wrongful interference on the part of the state. He told of how ministers of the Church of Scotland 100 years ago when the state tried dictatorial means, left their manses, preferring to loose everything rather than surrender the church's sacred rights to the state, and formed the Free Church. He also pointed to Hitler's Germany where one of the first acts of the Nazi government was to assume the responsibility of religious teaching. "But the government religion which they taught proved to be something quite different than what any Christian church worthy of the name would teach. It proved to be the ethics of Nazi good citizenship and not the Christian faith at all."

Always in the past when the state has acted as though it were the church it has been the beginning of evil days for the church, Dr. Smart declared. The reason for this move by the Ontario Department was said to be to unify the people. The power of religion as a unifying force in any society large or small has always been recognized. Where the religion degenerates society begins to fall apart. At present Canadians are being held together by the task of winning the war. But the leaders feel that when the war is won society will split into fragments with disastrous results. "Therefore they say that we must spread a few simple religious principles through our entire population which will then act as a bond of unity.

"Measured on the one hand by communism and on the other hand by fascism our government wants to secure stability for the future by grounding the children in school in the principles which they consider necessary for the preservation of a Christian democratic society," he said.

"Perhaps many of you feel the same need and will sympathize with what the government is doing. Perhaps you will say that the urgency of the situation justifies the government in taking upon itself the task of religious education for the future. But, I ask you, are we to guard against the false religions of communism and fascism by exposing our children to a government-concocted religion which is likely to be, by any Christian standard, only a little less false than either of these? The cure that is being proposed may turn out to be as dangerous as the disease."

Christians in general have shown a remarkable disinterestedness concerning the matter of teaching the Christian faith to children. They organize Sunday schools and everyone wants to leave the responsibility to someone else. The speaker acknowledged that the church had not been doing a very good job for the community in Christian education.

However, regardless of circumstances, Dr Smart maintained, a government dare not proceed as though it were the church, as though the functions of teaching the Christian faith belonged to it and out of such a course of action there could only come conflict and disaster.

In closing he said that the secular ethic is not a satisfying substitute for the Christian faith. Creeds, doctrines and such things cannot be dismissed as largely non-essential and that something much more than a simple code of conduct was necessary to be taught to the children. "Now is the time for Christian people to awake and face the issue. What kind of religious teaching do you want your children to receive for the future. You must make a negative or a positive decision."

As we passed the Basilica of Santa Maria Maggiore, Romans from upper apartment windows shouted a warning that a German scout car was ahead.

Curse German.

We were proceeding down the Via Nazionale in front of the Bank of Italy—one block from the Roman Forum—when a German heavy machine-gun suddenly began firing. My driver, Pte. Kenneth Kopplin of Huron, S.D., headed straight into the entrance of a big store. When the shooting stopped we saw the wrecked scout car ahead with two Germans dead and another dying with blood gushing from his chest.

A tubby German captain in new field-gray uniform stood against the wall, the prisoner of two sight-seeing French officers who had surprised him in a truck on a side street.

Italians shrieked curses at the German as he blinked owl-like through horn-rimmed spectacles.

They cried at the sight of a dying American soldier.

Moonlight shone through a gauzy mist as our infantry silently, in Indian file, encircled the Forum and the Palazzo Venezia where Mussolini's balcony hung empty.

The battalion which entered Ferentino also was the first one in Anagni after a company for a battalion on the left flank had a skirmish with the Germans on Route 6.

Maj. Allan Ross of Montreal led the company which moved up to support reconnaissance troops who made contact with the enemy Friday night. The Germans withdrew after a brief engagement.

Early Saturday there were further minor clashes which cost the enemy about 30 prisoners and some dead.

With the Canadian formations resting, the Canadian advance was taken up by South African troops under the Canadian Corps command and armor and infantry followed on the heels of the enemy into the hills north and northeast of Anagri.

After our meeting with Gen. Leese, we crossed the stream by the broken bridge, as soon as it was temporarily spanned. Along the road we met the returning reconnaissace troops. The Canadians had eight prisoners, three of them wounded. These were captured from a dugout after being ousted by grenades.

L. Cpl. L. Lacroix, Ottawa, and Trs. R. J. Barbier, Ottawa, and I. D. Morris, New Liskeard, Ont., were guarding them while awaiting vehicles to pick up the wounded. The prisoners were weary looking and one whose arm was blown off was unconscious.

The men in the patrol included Sgt. D. Henry, Prescott, Ont., Tprs. E. Chadwick, Cornwall, Ont., S. L. Crogie, Douglas, Ont., D. R. Rickson, Pembroke, Ont., M. L. Spark, Hamilton, Ont., and R. G. Demers, Eastview, Ont.

At Castellacio the surprised Americans gave us a guide to the special service force. Ours was the first vehicle to come through from the 8th Army.

Object of the visit to the special service force was to find out what Canadians in the 5th Army were doing since the battle for Rome began. But we were the questioned rather than the questioners. The soldiers were all anxious for details of the Canadian Corps share in the fighting and we had to recite the exploits of almost every battalion.

We found, however, that the special service force is living up to its reputation as a magnificent fighting formation. It took close to 500 prisoners on Friday in the vicinity of Castellacio and has been fighting hard and successfully since it left the positions held on the bridgehead.

Ron Summer

These special task force men included soldiers from many parts of Canada and the United States. Included among the Canadians we met were:

Lt.-Col. John Bourne, Lt.-Col. Tom Gilday, Montreal, Sgts. F. J. Presswell, Ingersoll, Ont., F. Kroll, Oshawa, Ont., Donald Greene, Almonte, Ont., Pat Smith, St. Catharines, Ont., C. W. Mann, Port Hopue, Ont., Ptes. Bill McLean, Hensall, Ont., Ron Summer, Peterborough, Ont., T. Shields, St. Catharines, Ont., G. C. Hoffman, of Pembroke, Ont.

It was 6 p.m. Saturday when we left the force and 1½ hours later we were back at our 8th Army camp. The Engineers already were repairing a bridge in Anagni and the first tanks of a British formation were fording the narrow stream. French infantrymen were marching in single file into the hills in fast pursuit of the enemy.

Alberta Steers Feature Of Livestock Show

A car load of Alberta steers that have been fitted for market as good commercial stock will be a feature of the Spring livestock show at Millbrook fair grounds Friday, June 9, Sam S. Staples remarked to the Examiner today that he hoped the farmers of the district were not forgetting this event.

"These cattle from the West will likely be mostly grade Herefords and Angus," Mr. Staples said. "They are being brought here by Canada Packers and are made available at our Millbrook show to indicate to our local breeders the kind of finished product the Western producers supply. I also understand that perhaps 90 per cent of these cattle will grade in the top class of "special quality" or "red brand."

The Examiner was informed that there is a local district market for cattle of this type and grading, but producers generally fail to develop their stock to corresponding standard of finish that has been noticeable all winter in cattle brought from Alberta.

"This is an is an educational feature of our show," said Mr. Staples. "We want to make it useful to farmers in our own area of Peterborough, Northumberland, Durham and Ontario counties, and we think this is going to be a helpful feature."

Mr. Staples also pointed out that livestock reaching the Millbrook show ring have already been inspected by breed officials and only the best animals are approved.

Another Remand

Maurice Pelland, 19, charged with the theft of a car from the parking lot of A. Preston, Charlotte street, on May 14, was again remanded when he appeared in police court this morning owing to the absence from town of his solicitor, W. J. Arthur Fair. The trial will be held on Thursday.

ALLIES RESCUE ROME, ETERNAL CITY—This is Rome, Eternal City, which Allied troops took from the Germans on Sunday. Every precaution was taken to spare from bombing the myriad historic and sacred sites, locations of which are shown here. The Vatican City lies across the Tiber River in an area of its own. The ancient Rome of "the seven hills" lies to the south, while centred, is the area in which time is echoed from medievalism to the ninteenth century.

2 Teachers Engaged To Fill Vacancies

CAMPBELLFORD, June 5 (ENS)—At a special meeting of the Board of Education held Saturday evening, Miss Helen Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wood of Campbellford, was engaged to fill the vacancy created on the Public School staff by the resignation of Miss C. McKelvie. Miss Irene M. Foster of Toronto was engaged on the high school staff, replacing Miss A. V. Parker, who has resigned.

Trenton Flier Forced To Land At Norwood

NORWOOD, June 5.—(ENS).— A Harvard training plane from Eganville which developed engine trouble on Saturday was forced to land in a field of grain belonging to N. Andrews.

For some time before the pilot attempted a landing, the people of the village could hear the engine missing. The airman worked to bring it back, but was finally forced to make a landing about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, scraping a tree as he set it on the ground.

A second plane seeing the trouble, dropped a note ordering the pilot to remain with his machine. Shortly afterwards, a number of airmen arrived to guard the plane, and to escort the flier, whose home is in Muskoka, to Trenton.

Reach Sweden

STOCKHOLM, June 5. — (CP-Reuters)—The Stockholm Tidningen said Sunday that two British prisoners-of-war who escaped to Sweden from a disciplinary camp in Poland attained freedom on their 13th attempt.

Hit Kuriles

PEARL HARBOR, June 5.—(AP).—United States bombers attacked the Kurile Islands on the northern approaches to Tokyo and Truk in the Central Pacific for the fifth consecutive day, the navy announced yesterday.

Roseneath News

Those from a distance attending the sacrament of confirmation in St. James' Anglican Church on Sunday morning included Eric Pulfer, W. Pulfer, Mrs. Hoard and Mrs. Lobb, of Hastings, and Misses Walda Webb and Luella Brown, of Peterborough.

Mrs. Frank Brown was in Dartford for the week-end to visit her brother, Lloyd White, prior to his departure for Toronto on Sunday for special medical treatment.

Those from a distance attending the shower and dance for Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Thackeray recently included Mises Noreen Adams, Walda Webb, Luella Brown, Evelyn, Jean and Phyllis Thackeray, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tuck, all of Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Down attended the golden wedding anniversary at Hastings on Sunday of the latter's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Waddel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nill and George, of Brighton, were week-end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. A. Nill.

W. R. Hitchcock Dies In Cornwall

CORNWALL June 5.—(CP).—W. R. Hitchcock, 81, who obtained employment with a group of men sent to Cornwall in 1883 by Thmas Alva Edison to install the first electric plant in a local cotton mill, died in hospital Sunday.

A native of Massena, N.Y., Mr. Hitchcock came to Cornwall when 21 years of age. He later installed electrical plants in industries in Quebec and the Martimes. He obtained a franchise for a power house here in 1886, but potential customers became skeptical and he wired premises free to the capacity of his plant—about 1,000 lamps of 16 candle power.

In 1893 he organized Cornwall Street Railway Company and later the Cornwall Recreation Company. E. H. Hitchcock of Detroit and M. J. Hitchcock of Brockville, Ont., are brothers and Mrs. E W. Summers of Mahsena a sister

5 High School Cadets Win Shooting Medals

CAMPBELLFORD, June 5 (ENS)—The results of the D.C.R.A. competition in shooting by the Campbellford High School cadets was announced by Principal Greig.

This competition consists of the monthly shootings. The average made by the team was 85.7 per cent. Five of the boys made an average of over 90 per cent and each one of these cadets will receive a medal.

The following are the winners: Ross Taylor, Alex. Johnston, Jack Connor, Joseph Clark and Douglas Free. The Strathcona Medal, which is given by the Strathcona Trust was won this year by Alex. Johnston.

Fifth Set Of Quads Born Within Year

LONDON, June 5—(CP)—Britain's fifth set of quadruplets within a year—Lindsa, David, Carol and Pauline Robinson—all were reported doing well today.

The children were born Saturday night at a London hospital to Mrs. Edith Robinson, wife of an R.A.F. aircraftman. The father saw the infants for the first time Sunday.

The hospital reported that the mother spent a restful night.

The children were the second set of quadruplets born in England in the last two weeks. On May 22 Mrs. Daisy Moxham, wife of an R.A.F. fying officer, became the mother of three boys and a girl, but one of the boys died.

The hospital gave the weights of the Robinson quadruplets as: Linda, three pounds, nine ounces; David, three pounds, 13 ounces; Carol, three pounds, 10 ounces; Pauline, three pounds, two ounces.

Primate Confirms Fourth Generation

ROSENEATH, June 5.—(ENS).—Two members of a class of six candidates going up for confirmation in St. James' Anglican Church Sunday morning were members of the fourth generation confirmed in this church. They were Gene and Aureen Brown. Their mother, Mrs. Frank Brown; their grandfather, the late John White, and their great-grandfather, the late William White, comprise the four generations.

Other candidates were: Helen and Merla Braithwaite and Elsie Yule, all of Roseneath, and Mrs. Eric Pulfer of St. George's Church, Hastings. The sacrament of confirmation was administered by Right Rev. Derwin G. Owen, archbishop of Toronto diocese and primate of all Canada. Bishop Owen addressed the class and congregation on the duties of men toward God.

Spirea and white geraniums were massed at the altar.

Raise $205 For Navy

CAMPBELLFORD, June 5 (ENS)—The tag day held on Saturday under the auspices of the Bemersyde Chapter of the I.O.D.E. was successful according to the report made by the regent, Miss Eleanor Ferris. The collection was made by the members of Trent Valley Chapter, assisted by High Schol pupils and the receipts, which were $205.30, go entirely to the Navy League.

Use Hail Stones

HENSALL, June 5—(CP)—Hail stones as large as 50 cent pieces fell on the farm of Mr. Bruce Koehler, well-known district farmer two miles and a half west of Hensall, during a severe storm Saturday, breaking several windows in his house and also limbs of trees. Mr. Koehler and some neighbors gathered up enough hail stones to make two large freezers of ice cream.

Christ Church Observes 90th Anniversary On Sunday

CAMPBELLFORD, June 5 (ENS)—In the quaint old church erected in 1854 and consecrated in 1861 by the Hon. and Rt. Rev. J. Strachan, first Bishop of Toronto. Christ Church commemorated its 90th anniversary. The rector, the Rev. W. J. Lennox welcomed the Most Rev. D. T. Owen, Archbishop of Toronto, and Primate of all Canada, and the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, D.D., Suffragan Bishop of Toronto who conducted the Confirmation at the evening service, assisted by Rev. Mr. Lemon of Norwood.

Archbishop Owen in the morning thanksgiving and communion service, congratulated the rector, wardens and congregation on their work in Campbellford. He expressed unbounded confidence in Mr. Lennox and advised the study of the record of the local church and its ninety years' history for the past is a living experience.

"A great purpose is at work, and the story of this church shows the breath of eternity upon her or she could not survive. The spirit of our forefathers, who facing sickness, forest fires, and all the difficulties and dangers of those pioneer days, is with us today and their faith must be ours for we also stand in the presence of the Lord of history. The words of the Psalmist are appropriate because they bring to us the thought of God who has been our refuge and strength through all generations. In Italy they dug up an old house on which was written, 'This too must pass.' We too must pass but we have a Comforter for every distress."

The sacrament of Holy Communion was administered by the archbishop assisted by the rector.

Candidates Confirmed

At the evening service the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Toronto addressed the candidates for confirmation reminding them of the solemn and sacred promise made on this occasion. He said that the apostle prayed for and laid hands on the Christians in the early church.

This act brought to mind the heritage of members of the Church of England which was established long before A. D. 313, he declared. This was the year when records of the Church of England began with the attendance of British Bishops to a church conference in France. He further reminded the candidates that this ceremony would strengthen them spiritually and that it was a confirmation of the vows given for them by their parents.

The following were confirmed: Manley Thomts Grills, Basil Robert Darrah, Paul Murray Ferrill, Hugh Grant MacColl, Walter Southern, Mr. and Mrs. E. Huycke, Mrs. H. Johnston, Mrs. J. Cleugh, Miss Victoria Turner, Miss Jeannie Shaw, Mrs. William Normington, Dorothy Fay Poulton, June Mary Yearwood, Barbara Elaine Beatty, Shirley Margaret Yearwood, Elizabeth Jane Sutton, Elaine Jane Reid, Mary Olive Normington and Vera Isabel Hardy.

Rev. Mr. Heurax spoke on behalf of the congregation of their pleasure in his attendance at the anniversary.

Need Teaching

The Bishop chose for his text three words from the second verse of the 12th chapter of Hebrews (Looking unto Jesus) which he said is the secret of the best in life. Jesus taught men the need for instruction similar to that in the confirmation service. He was obedient, cheerfully submitting to the will of his parents.

"We see purity, courage and strength as we look to Jesus. Our daily life requires these virtues and in addition we will have an ideal and a companion with whom we can walk and with whom we can speak."

The choir under the joint leadership of Mrs. J. L. Benor and Miss G. Maynard led in appropriate music for the special services and at the evening service an anthem "Oh for a closer walk with God" the solo parts of which were taken by Master Basil Darrah and Major J. M. Bygott.

The altar was decorated by bouquets of beautiful spring flowers.

The special services will be continued next Sunday with a military service. The preacher at the morning service will be Hon. Brigadier the Rev. Canon C. G. Hepburn B. A.-B. D. M. C, principal army Protestant chaplain and in the evening the Rev. W. Simpson B. A. Rector of Blackstock and arch deacon of Peterborough.

Rev. F. H. Cosgrave M. A. D. D. L.L.D. Provost, Trinity College Toronto will preach at the morning service on Sunday June 18 and Rev. W. A. Filer B. D. Rector of All Saints of Peterborough will preach in the evening.

Painful Treatment

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—(AP).—A massive survey indicating that swift, drastic treatment most effectively prolongs the lives of men with advanced cancer of the prostate gland was reported Saturday to the western section of the American Urological Association. The treatment calls for castration and for partial removed of the gland, plus continuous doses of stilbesterol, a female sex hormone.

Senator Ill

MONTREAL, June 5.— (CP).—Sen. C. W. Robinson last night was at the Royal Victoria Hospital where his condition was said to be "not serious." Nature of ailment was not disclosed.

Mrs. Lorne Thackeray Presented With Gifts

ROSENEATH, June 5.—(ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Thackeray (nee Ruby Blodgett), recently married, were guests of honor at a dancing party recently in the Orange Hall. About two hundred persons were present and many beautiful gifts were given the young couple.

During the entertainment they were called to the stage, and on behalf of the group, Bernard McCracken read an address of felicitation, and Clark Mouncey made the presentation of a rose satin bedspread and matching cushion.

The bride was wearing her wedding gown of cloud mist white chiffon over white taffeta.

On Sunday morning the executive of the United Sunday School presented Mrs. Thackeray with an electric iron. Mrs. Earl Waldie read an address, and Superintendent Andrew Brown made the presentation. Mrs. Thackeray is teacher of the primary class.

Defensive Strategy

A most interesting article recently appeared in the Russian publication War And The Working Class, written by Col. Tolchenov of the Red Army, in which he discussed the strategic position of the Germans, as they face a series of converging attacks on their European Fortress. Germany has now been forced into a defensive strategy, and no war has ever been won by defence, as has so frequently been impressed upon the United Nations. As things stand at present it looks as though the Germans would soon have to face attack from Russia, in Italy, and from the west, and Col. Tolchenov quotes the great war authority, Clausewitz, on action of this kind:

"Converging operations possess the advantage that the action aimed at 'A' is at once reflected at 'B' without losing any of its force in relation to 'A' and that the action aimed at 'B' is at once reflected at 'A' so that together they constitute not only 'A' plus 'B' but something bigger and that this gain is obtained both in the tactical and strategic ellipse".

The Germans have not been able to launch an effective counter-offensive in Europe. They have struck at Russia, but not with sufficient strength to disconcert the Russians or cause them to alter their strategic plan. They have been unable to stop General Alexander's troops in Italy; the best that they have been able to do is to make an orderly withdrawal. If the invasion in the west should come at the same time as the Russian offensive in the east, Clausewitz' principle would apply and we might see Germany very quickly in a tight corner.

If our invasion should misfire, of course, and be confined to a bridgehead like the one established at Anzio in January the advantage to the Germans would be very great, both strategically and psychologically. In a triple attack on the German fortress all three theatres of war are of equal importance, and indeed it has been suggested that the Italian front might in the long run prove the most important of all. In the last war the great forces were concentrated on the western front, but it was pressure from Salonika and Italy, where comparatively small forces were engaged, which broke Austria, and ruined German chances of prolonging the war.

Germany is very strong still. Only the most carefully calculated strategy will bring her to ruin.

Tugging At The Counterpane

We have said it so often before (it was not original with us in the first place) that we apologize for saying it again, but we have no alternative: Politics makes strange bedfellows. And quite apart from the eccentricities of those who manage to sneak into the bed, we are frequently appalled by the goblin character of those who merely creep round it, tugging ingratiatingly at the counterpane. The Liberal Party now peeps over the bolster to see the Labour-Progressive party, better known as the Communist party, grinning at it from the floor, lolling out its tongue and suggesting that it might crawl under the sheets. We presume that the Liberal Party will merely turn its back on this horrid vision, treating the whole thing as a cheese-dream with no basis in reality.

These are hard days for the Communists. Russia has repudiated them and the only other Left party in Canada, the C.C.F., will have nothing to do with them. Where are they to turn? They cannot stand alone, but if they could form an alliance with an existing party they might be able to work a few of their old Commintern tricks and exercise a certain measure of power. Therefore they have approached the Liberals with a scheme to form a Liberal-farm-labour coalition which would oppose all those who suffer from "selfish interests, prejudice and fear of democracy". The Communists, presumably, would supply the farm and labour support. But unhappily for this scheme, the Liberal Party already has a good measure of farm and labour support, and sees nothing but danger in anything extra which the Communists could bring from those quarters.

The Liberal Party would not accept the support of a Communist party, because Liberalism and Communism simply will not mix. But the matter goes deeper than that: the Communist party in Canada has been so deep in so many kinds of skullduggery that no other party would touch it now with a ten-foot pole. Its best course seems to be to dissolve itself, as its counterpart in the U.S.A. has already done. So far as Canadian politics is concerned, the present party is a spent force.

Short-Sighted Eagle

The Chatham News draws attention to this interesting prophecy which Charles Lindbergh made before a committee of the United States Senate, on Feb. 7, 1941:

"I believe it is obvious that England cannot obtain an air strength equal to Germany's without great assistance from the United States; and my personal opinion is that, regardless of how much assistance we send, it will not be possible for America and British aviation, concentrated in the small area of the British Isles, to equal the strength of German aviation, with unlimited bases throughout the Continent of Europe".

Of course Lindbergh was wrong, and it is not our intention to gloat over that fact. But we think that it is worth while to point out that there was never any real reason to suppose that Lindbergh was a good judge of such matters. He was a remarkable flier himself, and his great flight from New York to Paris made history. But the kind of ability which is needed to fly an airplane cleverly does not necessarily exist side by side with a knowledge of international affairs, good judgement in matters related to strategy and politics, or the ability to appraise the spiritual resources of a nation.

Lindbergh's career has been a pathetic one, and the public and the press is largely to blame. He scored a remarkable, but limited success in a spectacular, but limited field of work. Because he was young and handsome, good-mannered and boyish we put him on a pedestal which was too high for him. We did not see, or did not admit, that his boyishness was the outward sign of intellectual immaturity; boys are often very clever with machines, but we do not trust their judgement in matters of national importance. The public ruined Charles Lindbergh, and he had not enough brains and self-knowledge to prevent the public from doing so.

Lindbergh was impressed by German efficiency and the number of German planes which were ready to go into action. If he had known anything about world history he would have known that the race is not always to the swift or the battle to the strong. He would have known something about British tenacity in the face of danger. But all Lindbergh knew was airplanes, and he made his judgement on the basis of what he knew. The mistake lay in asking his opinion.

A Word About Paper Salvage

Great and praiseworthy enthusiasm is shown by the school children of Peterborough in their work of collecting waste paper; the work is necessary, and some of the children do it well and some do it not so well. It is to the latter group that these lines are addressed:

In your collection of waste paper you are helping the war effort of Canada. But in order to help to the limit of your ability, you must do your job as efficiently as possible. Some of you, when you take waste paper from a cellar or an attic, or a garage, leave it neat and tidy; but there are others among you who leave these places littered with paper which you have spilled, or which you have not bothered to put in your bundles, and when you have gone the person who gave you permission to take the paper away wishes that she had never let you inside her house; you have only done half a job.

It is well to learn as early as possible that there are two ways of doing every job—the right way and the wrong way. The slovenly, messy way of collecting waste paper is the wrong way. Our soldiers in Italy are not doing a slovenly, messy job, and if you want to do your best to help them you must measure your work by their standard.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

MUCH needed moisture came to parts of Western Canada in the form of snow, but, unfortunately in Edmonton they had an ice-storm first which coated the trees; a heavy fall of snow followed, with quite disastrous results to the shade trees in the city. Many of these trees are Box-Elder, or Manitoba Maples, commonly called, and they will not carry much of a load and are easily wrecked in a storm. One person from Edmonton informed me that it would take about three years growth to repair the damage.

Box-Elders grow rapidly and so are often planted on the prairies and in western cities, but they are only a make-shift at best and hardier trees should be used. Elms do quite well in Edmonton, and in many parts of Manitoba very fine elm trees are grown.

LAST year a good deal of buckwheat was seeded in Ontario and it turned out rather well in many districts. This is bound to be a year in which feed grains may be rather scarce, and wherever a field was not ready for barley or oats in time, buckwheat will make a fair substitute. I don't know any crop that will be helped more by a fair application of commercial fertilizer than buckwheat. Reports indicate that there will be a reduction of the acreage of feed grains in the United States, and there will be in Canada, so every acre of buckwheat that is seeded, after other spring grains are in, will be a useful addition. Buckwheat as a crop has not been always held in high regard here, which has often accounted for its being seeded in a rather slipshod fashion. Like all other crops, however, it will pay well to get your field in a good condition of tilth before you sow it. Give buckwheat a chance on land in good heart, and well cultivated, and it will pay you for your pains.

I ATTENDED a very delightful complimentary luncheon at the London Hunt Club on May 27, tendered to Thomas E. Wilson, the well-known meat packer of Chicago. The hosts at the luncheon were Messrs. Ray Lawson, I. E. Smallman, Thos. F. Walker and Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, president of Western University, at London, who presided. The occasion was simply to do honour to Mr. Wilson on one of his visits to his home city and county. Many warm tributes were paid to the guest of honour, and through it all was a genuine feeling of kindliness for a man whom success could not spoil, and whose name would stand high on any roll of honour for men who regard highly the personal esteem of the people they serve in a wide public capacity.

As a youth in Chicago, Tom Wilson began as a clerk in the yards of the C.B. & Q. Railway, and learning of an opening with Nelson Morris & Co., Chicago Packers, that another clerk had refused because it mean early rising, Tom Wilson secured it, thus imposing on himself the first "daylight saving" regulation I had ever heard of. A strong, able young man, with a geniality that never savored of bossism, with a firmness when he knew he was right, and an enthusiasm for the land which he knew was at the basis of all his business, Thos. E. Wilson made a success of the enterprises he undertook, and won the friendship and faith of the livestock producers as I had only seen it done before in the personality of Senator Pat Burns, of Alberta. The highest honour ever paid to Mr. Wilson was when the New York interests wished to enlarge and extend their packing-plants and sought out Thos. E. Wilson to take charge; but gave the company a new name, Wilson & Company. What's in a name? Aye, there's the rub! There was something in the name "Wilson" that stood for the best in that business:—

"The rank is but the guinea's stamp,
The man's the gowd, for a' that."

Mr. Wilson's work with the 4 H Clubs in the United States is only one of the things he has done to bind men—and boys and girls—to him. As a breeder of Shorthorn cattle, he built up a herd to challenge the best. He trod the pasture fields of Collynie, Calrossie, Uppermill and Millhills; he bought a Perth Champion. He did the job well.

Above all, it has been the kindly man, the delightful personality, that has made Tom Wilson great.

IN the State of Missouri it is estimated that about one-quarter of the wheat crop has been destroyed by floods. Every year or so these rivers that drain into the Mississippi run rampant and the damage they can do is simply appalling. The wheat loss in Missouri will be about 8 million bushels, but there will be other farm losses which will amount to a considerable sum. Wherever muddy rivers overflow, great damage can easily occur to all fields under crop or grass, while buildings are usually almost ruined. Protection from floods is highly important to farmers having land in such districts and the difficulty seems to be that proper precautions are not taken in time, no matter what the danger may be. The work on the Grand River, in this province, is a fine example of what can be done to prevent floods and, though the cost is large, the land protected makes it well worth while.

WITH the invasion of Europe in the offing, all reserves of food should be carefully husbanded. The Allies will require all the meat, wheat and dairy products we can furnish to support the men who have this ghastly task to undertake, and what we get paid for it will be far less important than that the enemy shall be silenced for all time. When the invasion begins, if you can get no gasoline, don't be surprised—buy a horse. This is a test for life and death.

EELS IN THE THAMES

In Belgium and in Germany, especially among the poorer classes, eels are an almost standard food and they are often preserved (I have no idea by what method) so that they keep in a portable state for a long period.

A good proportion of those eels have been supplied from England. Elvers, reaching the western rivers, especially, I think, the Severn, after their marvellous two years' journey across Atlantic waters, have been netted by the million and sold for export. Why a country that has been so dangerously dependent on imported food should decide to export its native food is a policy difficult to explain and more difficult to justify.

Has the change to a saner view begun? In absence of the foreign market a cool million of elvers have been enlarged in the Thames. They grow very rapidly, and it is to be hoped that they will be returned after not so many days and help to rival even the kipper in humble bills of fare. In the past we have wasted almost all our species of coarse fish, if the savoury and sea-nurtured eel may be allowed inclusion with pike and perch and roach and the rest.—London Spectator.

Popular Tradition Shattered

(NEW YORK TIMES)

ONE popular tradition about pioneers and discoverers and inventors was shattered by the Boer farmer Jacobus Jonker, whose death is reported from Johannesburg. Ten years ago, after 20 years of fruitless prospecting in the Transvaal mineral fields, he found the fourth largest diamond in the world, weighing 726 carats uncut. When processed it yielded 12 gems which in the aggregate must have sold for more than the millions of dollars at which it was insured when brought to New York in its raw state.

Now the tradition is that the original discover or inventor or settler always remains a poor man. The enormous profits fall to the late comers, the merchandisers, so to speak. Painters starve in garrets and their pictures later sell for fabulous sums. Jacobus Jonkers sold his diamond to the South African syndicate for $350,000, which was not bad for an Afrikander sourdough.

This being that, it might pay to look a little more closely into this tradition of the impracticable inventor and pathbreaker who must be content with a crust or actually starves to death while his fortunate successors reap where they did not sow. Actually there must be a good many inventors who were also good business men and whom the world generously rewarded. Thomas Edison by himself would constitute a formidable exception. George Westinghouse would be another.

It is no doubt true that inventors in the employ of big corporations have often failed to receive a fair recompense for their valuable ideas. But here, too, there are exceptions. Only a few weeks ago we had the story of an inventor in one of the basic industries who won his fight in the courts, to the tune of several million dollars. It was a fight, to be sure, which ran for nearly a generation.

Actually it is the good earth, the good metalliferous earth, which treats its pioneers best. The large group of gold and silver multi-millionaires from California and neighboring Nevada — the Mackays, Fairs, Joneses, Stewarts, Stanfords, Hearsts—did for the most part serve an apprentices in the minefields. Later came business and speculation and railroad building to magnify their rewards.

Zest In Accurate Observation

TO know that another has observed a detail in inanimate or human nature which we had noted for ourselves, to have brought into the foreground of our consciousness a phenomenon which we had been only half aware of before, to have this half-conscious impression stamped clearly by the incisive epithet or the apt simile, to have an old recollection freshened into a living possession,—all these things belong to the pleasures afforded by realistic intensity. One cannot do better in treating this natural zest in accurate observation and clean-cut description than recall the familiar passage in our literature which illustrates this point. In the famous fourth chapter of Cranford, Mr. Holbrook "walked before me, with a stooping gait, his hands clasped behind him; and, as some tree or cloud, or glimpses of distant upland pastures, struck him, he quoted poetry to himself, saying it out loud in a grand, sonorous voice, with just the emphasis that true feeling and appreciation give. We came upon an old cedar-tree, which stood at one end of the house—

'The cedar spreads his dark-green layers of shade.'

'Capital term—layers! — Wonderful man!.... Why, when I saw the review of his poems in Blackwood, I set off within an hour, and walked seven miles to Misselton (for the horses were not in the way) and ordered them. Now, what colour are ash-buds in March?'

"Is the man going mad? thought I. He is very like Don Quixote. 'What colour are they, I say?' repeated he vehemently. 'I am sure I don't know, sir,' said I, with the meekness of ignorance.

"'I knew you didn't. No more did I—an old fool that I am!—till this young man comes and tells me. Black as ash-buds in March. And I've lived all my life in the country; more shame for me not to know. Black: they are jet-black, madam.'"

Mr. Holbrook's appreciative criticism helps us to realize to how large an extent the promise of the early works of Tennyson lay in the evidence it gave of his keen delight in the observation of nature, and in the vividness and faithfulness of the language in which he recorded its appearances.—From "Essentials in Poetry," by William Allan Neilson.

Culled From Our Contemporaries

LAZY WAYS

Wooden-soled shoes for all may soon be the order unless women take more care of their footwear.

A Board of Trade investigation has revealed that most women and girls pull their shoes off without unlacing them. This damages the stiffening, strains the stitching, and reduces by many weeks the normal life of the shoe. A Board official said: "If the leather stocks are not more carefully conserved it may soon mean wooden-soled shoes for all men and women."—London Evening Standard.

WHAT MEN SAVE

An American merchant ship was sinking in the Mediterranean.

The third officer went to his cabin, deliberately put aside his watch and ring and picked up six handkerchiefs and a bracelet he'd bought for his wife; another officer searched frantically for the ship's cat, which was about to have kittens; a seaman calmly took off his shoes, and put on two right ones; the purser opened a drawer below his bunk, took two packages of cigarets from a carton, left the rest, left two valuable watches and all his other personal belongings behind.

Almost everyone left all of his personal belongings. No one appears to have known what he was doing until after it was all over.—Providence Bulletin.

INDIA LEARNS

Japanese arrogance, ruthless exploitation and cruelty, which have turned even the Buddhist priesthood in Burma against their once adored champions and liberators, have done their work in India. As a martyred saint Mr. Gandhi's spirit might still have made the great Hindu masses restive. As a potential prophet of Japanese appeasement, he is disarmed by the record which the Japanese have made for themselves among neighbouring Asiatics, even more than by the news of their waning power.—New York Herald Tribune.

WHY THEY WAITED

That's a nice little story which has trickled out of Denmark regarding Rommel's anti-invasion inspection.

A crowd of Danes filled the street in front of Rommel's hotel in Copenhagen, but remained after he had come out and had driven away. The police tried to move them on, but without success, and finally they asked them why they waited.

"We're waiting to see Montgomery," several of them replied. "He always comes along right behind Rommel."—Glasgow Herald.

ABUSE AND THE C.C.F.

The C.C.F. made a sensible contribution last week to Canadian political life. In an advertisement which appeared in this newspaper, they declared in large black capital letters: "Abuse is no answer!"

This week, a pamphlet was distributed by the C.C.F. in Calgary. The pamphlet describes the Liberals as "reactionary" and the Tories as "withered." Both these adjectives are, we think, employed in an abusive sense. They are what the lawyers would call argumentum ad hominem; that is to say, they are not directed against the ideas or reasoning of the Tories and Liberals, but directly against their personal characteristics.

The expression "withered" implies senility and desiccation; the expression "reactionary," in its popular (and, incidentally, inaccurate) sense, implies a desire to return to former injustices.

The pamphlet uses the word "exploiters," which means, according to our dictionary, people who use their fellowmen selfishly for their own ends. It refers to "nickel profiteers," and also to "money barons." The word "profiteer" is, of course, highly abusive. As for the word "baron," it may connote nobility in England, but in Canada it has become a popular catchword to describe a man who wields tyrannical power....

Well then, if abuse isn't an answer, why does the C.C.F. use it?—Richard J. Needham in Calgary Herald.

DELAYED ACTION

We were standing around in the bureau of missing persons the other day, smoking a cigar and trying to look like Nick Charles, when a patient old fellow came in to report a missing person—his wife. He said she had been missing 15 years.

The bureau clerk was stunned. "You're just reporting it now?" he asked. "You want her back after all that time."

The old fellow nodded and explained, "I just got lonesome."—Magazine PM.

A BOY OF DOVER

The papers run a picture of an English boy of 8 who has known no home but a cave deep in the white cliffs of Dover, out of reach of the German shells from Calais. We are not going to weep over the little chap. Think of the sights he can see from the door of his hide-away; the gleaming airmadas streaming hour after hour, overhead. Think of the tales he will be able to tell his grandchildren about the great days of spring in 1944, when the sky was darkened with flying armies roaring east across the Channel to settle Hitler. Anyway in the picture he seems to be having a jolly good time in his chalk-cliff home. All the small boys of our neighbourhood envy him.—New York Times.

PLAN MISSING

What has happened to Mr. Coldwell's grand plan to nationalize the Canadian Pacific Railway and then keep it in competition with the Canadian National? Nothing much has been heard of this brain-child since the day it was born, and it may be that, on examination of the curious world it found itself in (to say nothing of its father) it simply did not want to live. It would not even serve its original purpose in the world of catching the railwaymen's vote.—Winnipeg Free Press.

A Bible Message

The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech nor language where their voice is not heard. (Ps. 19: 1-3.)

The works of the Lord are great, sought out of all them that have pleasure therein. His work is honourable and glorious: and his righteousness endureth for ever....

The works of his hands are verity and judgment; all his commandments are sure. They stand fast for ever and ever, and are done in truth and uprightness. (Ps. 111: 2, 3, 7, 8.)

After these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and honour, and power, unto the Lord our God....

And a voice came out of the throne, saying, Praise our God, all ye his servants, and ye that fear him, both small and great.

And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia: for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth. (Rev. 19: 1, 5, 6.)

Eye-witness Tells Of Convoy Battle Off Norway

By ARTHUR OAKESHOTT
Reuters Staff Writer

ABOARD A BRITISH WARSHIP OFF NORWAY, June 5 (CP-Reuters)—The fleet air arm has struck again at a convoy in Norwegian waters with devastating effect.

Two 6,000-ton ships were hit, the stern was blown off a 3,000-ton vessel and four flak ships were silenced in an action which cost two British fighter planes.

The operation was carried out northeast of Stadlandet some 190 miles east-northeast of the Shetlands by carrier-born Barracudas, Corsairs and Seafires of a force commanded by Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Moore.

From the bridge of a carrier I watched the striking force take off in brilliant weather.

The operation took place at "night" but, at this time of the year in these latitudes, there is in fact no night.

The strike was led by Lt.-Cmdr. Roy Baker Falkner who was awarded the D.S.O. this week for his attack on the German battleship Tirpitz. The force also included many others who took part in the daring raid on the Tirpitz in March last.

Caught By Surprise

I was present at the interrogation of the pilots in my ship and, as the Admiral said later in his "general" signal of congratulation, the results were "very gratifying."

The leading ship, believed to be a tanker, was hit by at least three bombs and was left smoking.

The Germans were caught completely by surprise and it was not until the attack was started on another ship that the flak really opened up.

"The flak was so thick that I could have got out and walked on it," one pilot said.

Both shore batteries and flak ships with the convoy and others moored inshore opened up but with little effect.

While the Corsairs, and Seafires "took care" of the flakships—and one even had attacked a shore battery—the Barracudas "hit" the rear ship of the convoy—a 3,000-ton vessel. A final attack was made on the centre ship—a modern craft of 6,000 tons painted white with flush decks and a funnel amidships.

The two fighters that were lost, a Corsair and a Seafire, were shot down at the height of the attack when they roared in low to attack.

No German fighters were encouted.

Union Protests Soldier Labor

SYDNEY, N.S., June 5—(CP)—Jimmy Nicholson, secretary of the Sydney Local of the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.) said last night the Union might consider a strike in protest over the employment of soldiers at the Sydney plant of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.

(Labor Minister Mitchell said in the House of Commons yesterday at Ottawa that the soldiers were paid the same wages as civilian workers. The soldiers were employed on a week-end when no civilian workers were available.)

Mr. Nicholson reiterated a charge made last Thursday night that the soldiers employed at the plant last week-end were paid time-and-half for working a second successive shift while regular employees were paid straight time.

The soldiers are members of a Quebec unit.

Chinese Claim Salween Gains

CHUNGKING, June 5—(AP)—Despite heavy rains that impeded operations Chinese troops in the Salween river area north of the Burma road have gained the outskirts of Chiaotou, "where fierce fighting is now in progress," a communique saaid to-day.

Other Chinese forces are forging slowly eastward toward Watien, strategically important town about six miles southwest of Chiaotou.

Beleaguered Japanese in Peichaikungfang north of Tengchung, counter-attacked but were thrown back with losses, the announcement added.

In their Hunan offensive, the Japanese have captured two strong points east of Changteh and northeast of Changsha, and new battles were developing for those two enemy objectives, the Chinese High Command announced.

Paratrooper Goes Up Instead Of Down

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—The paratrooper leaped from his plane, but he didn't go down. He went up.

He watched his buddies float toward the ground, gazed anxiously as his airplane faded into the distance as he personally floated higher and higher.

"With no more control over his movements than a wisp of thistledown," relates the official service magazine Air Force, "the paratrooper was tossed about on the point of a thermal wave.

"He spent half an hour watching his outfit fighting a fierce mock battle on the ground. In time, the thermal wave released the young man and he came down to join his battalion as a fresh reservist."

The magazine said the peculiar voyage took place at Fort Benning, Ga.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

All roads will lead to Riverside Park tonight when Switchgear and Plazas, the two leading clubs in the City Softball loop will clash in a league fixture, played as a benefit for the British War Victims' Fund. Switchgear at present top the champions by one game and a win for Plazas would leave the race knotted up while a Switchgear victory would give Murph Chambers' athletes a commanding lead. With so much at stake and with intense rivalry between the two outfits tonight's game should be about the hardest-fought and most exciting of the campaign. Both outfits are well fortified in all positions, with plenty of pitching and adequate reserve strength and on paper and on the season's record there is little to choose between them. Switchgear will have Ronnie Akers and Bert Harrison, the latter the first shut out pitcher of the season, ready to toss in against the Plazas and it is expected that Holly Mowry who has been out for several games with a damaged finger will have his big bat back into the batting order and that he will take over the catching duties. Plazas will have to choose from Terry Wood, formerly of Genelecs, Dave Wilson who pitched them to a pennant last season and Frank Stokoe, former Toronto power who showed a lot of stuff in his start the other night against St. Peter's. All the proceeds will go to the British War Victims' Fund and there will be two draw prizes, a Brinton rug and a blanket. It looks like the big night of the season and should attract a record crowd. There will be no girls' game tonight.

* * * * * *

The next attraction in the Girls' League will be staged tomorrow night when Westclox seconds who started off their season last week with a win over the Quakers, will clash with the Johnson Motor girls, who have broken even so far this season, with a victory and a defeat. The Baby Bens, with a brand new team of young players gave a good account of themselves in their opening game and if they can play back to the form they showed then should give the greatly improved Outboard Marines plenty of opposition. Either Helen Mark or Marg Smith will be sent to the firing line for the Johnson outfit while Westclox have not named their starting pitcher. Both teams will have their strongest lineups in action. Wednesday night the Girls' League fixture will be a battle between Aircraft and Brintons and that should prove one of the best tussles of the season. The Brinton girls who have won the intermediate championship for the past two seasons gave the Westclox team a tough argument the other night. In fact the teams were tied when the Big Bens went to bat in the final frame.

Record Crowd Likely

Biggest wrestling crowd of the season is certain at Brock Street Arena tomorrow night when the tag team brand inaugurated last week will be the attraction. Few people who saw the battle staged by the team of Katan and Dunlop against Frankie Sexton and Nick Elitch last week would think of missing tomorrow night's argument for the new version of wrestling has had the fans talking ever since. The substitution of Toar Morgan as a partner for Sexton will put the finishing touches on the excitement the bout is causing. Followers of the game here know that Sexton had to carry too big a load in the bout last Tuesday and they are confident that with the hard-hitting former Marine as a teammate the Ohio power house will be more than a match for that well known team of bad men Palermo John Katan and Bunny-Ask-Him-Now Dunlop. Of course the Katan-Dunlop team does not think so. They declare that Morgan will be no improvement on Elitch and that they will clean up just as they did in last Tuesday's show. In fact both these rowdy performers believe that as a team they cannot be beat and they act as if they would just as soon take on a duo composed of Wild Bill Longson and Whipper Watson as anybody else. In other words the Dunlop-Katan partnership thinks a lot of itself. Well, tomorrow night will tell whether or not their confidence is justified.

* * * * * *

The Church Softball League has been staging some lively games and the ultimate champions in the juvenile or bantam divisions are still very much a matter of doubt. There has been a red hot race in both divisions and it promises to continue right down the stretch. So close is the battle in the juvenile section of the loop that they start off this week's games with three teams tied for first place and two more just half a game behind. In other words only half a game separates the first five teams which is as tight a race as could be found anywhere. Tied for the leadership are the St. Paul's, Murray Street and Trinity teams, each of which has won three games and lost two. Next comes George St. with two victories and two losses and All Saints with three notches in the win column and three defeats. Mark Street are sixth with one win and three losses and St. James on the bottom with one triumph and four defeats. In the bantam division two undefeated teams, St. John's and George Street, hold joint possession of the top shelf, with five wins in a row. St. Andrew's are third with four wins and two losses and next in line are Knox and St. James with two wins and three reverses. St. Paul's bantams have only won one out of four starts while the cellar occupants are the Park Street team who have not been able to register a victory in five games this season.

Streaks Are Broken

Saturday was a bad day for winning streaks. The seven-game victory parade of the New York Giants in the National and the winning spurt of the same length set up by the Detroit Tigers in the American were both knocked for a loop. The Giants made a valiant effort to keep their consecutive wins mark alive for they went 10 innings before they were beaten 7 to 6 by the Pittsburg Pirates. The Bengals, however, really slipped when they finally stopped winning for they were beaten 11 to 1 by the Boston Red Sox, in spite of outhitting the winners. It was the sixth triumph of the season for Tex Hughson, the Boston ace. On the whole, Saturday was hard on pitchers, too and some tall scoring was done. St. Louis Browns for example piled up 17 runs while the Philadelphia A's were accumulating seven. The Yanks took another loss, Cleveland Indians nosing them out 5 to 4 in a game that went thirteen innings and called for a flock of pitchers. Another Saturday feature was a defeat for Bucky Walters who started against Boston and was credited with the 5-4 win scored by the Braves.

* * * * * *

In the Sunday bill St. Louis Browns maintained their hold on first place in the American loop by breaking even with the Philadelphia A's while the Yanks were splitting a twin bill with the Cleveland Indians. Bobo Newsom and Joe Berry beat the Brownies in the first game but they fought back in the second and coming from behind twice finally beat Connie Mack's men by 4 to 3. The Yanks got good pitching from Rookie Joe Page to win the opening game of their duel with the Indians 6 to 4 but Cleveland came back to grab off the second fixture 4 to 3. In the National League Pittsburg and Cincinnati both swept double-headers with New York and Boston respectively. St. Louis Cards only got an even break. They won the opener from the Phillies 4 to 3 but then ran into Bill Lee in top form in the second battle and were stopped cold 1 to 0. Lee allowed the leaders but two hits and Schmidt and Donnelly who shared the pitching duties for the Cards did nearly as well yielding only four hits.

Scores Improve In Sweeps; Stan Payne Tops

Weekly ball sweeps held Saturday afternoon at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club drew a fair number of golfers, and the general improvement in scores turned in shows that some of the players have been doing a little practicing.

Last year's champion, Stan. Payne, turned in the best gross of the day with a 79 to capture first prize in the top flight. Hugh Waddell took home the prize for the best net score, proving his handicap is set just about right with an 82-12-70.

In the second flight C. V. Elliott again showed up the field by turning in a low gross of 95 for the first prize, while J. H. Eastwood and Stan. McBride tied for the low net with 75s. Other scores posted are as follows:

In the Sunday sweeps J. M. Watson carried off first prize for the lowest set score in the first flight with a 82-12-70, while H. Waddell, M. Lauder and S. Payne willl be forced to make a draw for second low net prize, having all turned in net 78s.

In the second flight Dr. Weldon came in with the best low net with a 95-22—73 followed by Dr. C. C. Cragg with 96-22—74 for the second prize.

First round draws of the Westclox, Stratton and President's Prize have been posted at the club house and have appeared in this column. Members are warned that their first round matches must be played before their expiration date or both players' names will be crossed off.

Due to the fact that many members were not able to get away to an early start, the first round of the Westclox Trophy will be extended to June 10. The first round of the Stratton Trophy must be completed by June 10 and the first round of the President's Prize by June 17.

Please contact your opponent in each of these matches as soon as possible and ascertain whether or not he desires to play. Should any question arise which would require the decision of a referee, the following members of the match and handicap committee should be contacted in each case:

Referee for the Westclox Trophy is O. A. DeGraw.

Referee for the Stratton Trophy is R. G. Maniece.

Referee for the President's Prize is Joe Jebson.

Referee for the C. G. Graham Trophy is Andy Rutter.

At a later date when draws for the club championship and the Macdonald Trophy have been made Joe Watson will be in charge of the club championship and Stan Northrop of the Macdonald Trophy.

A handicap board has been erected in the men's locker room showing the present handicap of each member and on the back of this handicap card a record is being kept of the best three scores turned in by each player. As soon as three 18-hole scores have been submitted this year the handicap committee will

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, June 5 — (AP). — If a red-haired, pink-faced fellow who played in six World Series for the Yankees and couple of all-star games for the American League wasn't so modest, college baseball coaches soon might be getting a letter something like this: "If you are fellows really interested in keeping college baseball alive, you'd better get together and do something about it."....But Yale's Red Rolfe considers himself just a beginner in the coaching ranks and thinks the veterans would ask: "Who is he to be criticizing us?" ....Having imbibed some of Red's enthusiasm recently, this department is perfectly willing to do the criticizing.

Proposal No. 1:

Rolfe is keenly interested in the formation of a baseball coaches' organization, similar to the Football and Basketball Coaches' Associations, which would help to advance the college game....Such a group wouldn't have to overhaul the rules the way the others do, but it could for example, throw its weight around a bit when football tutors insist that spring grid practice is more important than playing ball; it could support Red's recent suggestion for a national tournament to stimulate interest in college ball in the United States; it could, if necessary, struggle against the raids of professional scouts; it could help its members to build stronger schedules, and (by no means the least important) it could help them become better coaches.

Pensive of Warren Wright's Calumet farm failed Saturday to enter the select group of triple-crown turf winners when he finished second in the Belmont stakes at Belmont Park to William Ziegler's Bounding Home, an outsider that paid $34.70. The winner of the Derby and Preakness was not blamed so much as his rider. Conn McCreary, who was said to have started Pensive's home sprint too soon. Bounding Home, beaten seven times as a two-year-old picked up $55,070 for his victory. Pensive adding $10,000 to his earnings of $298,010 for the last two years. George D. Widener's Platter, expected to give Pensive a battle, pulled up lame.

Hockey broke into the sport news yesterday when Detroit Red Wings announced the trade of Ken Kilrea for Laurence Thibeault of the Buffalo Bisons in the American Hockey League. The Wings have also signed three Chinese brothers, William, Albert and George Chin of Lucknow, Ont., who will play for their Galt farm club.

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians last night suspended Pitcher Vernon Kennedy for alleged insubordination. The twirler had won 10 and lost seven games last year and this season his showing comprises two victories and two defeats.

The Canadian Army baseball team registered a 4-1 victory over the U.S. Army Central Base nine at Wembley Stadium, London, before 20,000 fans. Sgt. E. F. Smith of Kingston, Ont., catcher for the Canucks, won the encounter when he poled a homer with the bases loaded.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Although we were rained out on Friday night we were not on Saturday, but we were just about frozen out

In spite of adverse weather conditions many bowlers came out and helped to start off the Saturday night club on the right foot.

We remember that last season these little tournaments were very popular and as the season went on the attendance grew every week. We look forward to big crowds this season.

The winning rinks were:

First—R. Fulford, Dr. Fulford, G. Coleman, Jr.

Second—J. Detcher, Mrs. H. Wilson, R. Payne skip.

Third—E. Wellwood, J. Withers, H. Wilson, F. Dearborn skip.

G. Gimblett, Judge S. Smoke, C. Williamson and S. Williams were up in Toronto Saturday playing at the Canada Club greens. They won two games and lost one, but their scores were a little low for the prize list. Our boys are hardly in shape yet, but we expect to be hearing from them later in the season.

We are offering hearty congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. G. Soulby. It's a grandson.

Below is the draw for to-night:

G. Coleman vs. F. Dearborn.
R. Hutchinson vs. L Loftus.
S. Lowe vs. P. Moore.
H. Northrop vs. T. Ryan.
G. Sorenson vs. C. Williamson.
R. Burns vs. H. Freeman.
W. Ashby vs. D. Bell.
J. Fitzpatrick vs. F. Kerr.
J MiDonald vs. K. Sloane.
V. Selkirk vs L. Turner.

BUILDS CITIES

FROM country cow-paths have grown Canada's paved city streets, in whose high buildings thousands of people earn their living. Whence came the change?

The answer is individual enterprise. Some man, with foresight and courage, recognizes the possibilities of an undeveloped region, invests savings, buys property, starts building. Others follow his lead . . . a city is in the making.

Chicago Trims Senators; Giants Lose Two

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

The Washington Senators, hailed as a pennant contender in the American League, are all but falling apart on their first western road trip. The Nats dropped a doubleheader to Chicago White Sox yesterday, 6-5 in 10 innings and 9-1, and plummeted into the cellar.

Ed Garnett, with four hits in the opener, and Tom Turner, with a home run and two singles in the nightcap, sparked the Sox to their double win.

St. Louis Browns retained first place in the American loop by splitting a twin bill with the Athletics while the runner-up New York Yankees divided a bargain bill at Cleveland.

Bob Newsom, aided by Joe Berry's relief pitching, twirled the A's to a 4-3 triumph in the opener. The Browns won the afterpiece by the same score when Relief Pitcher Jack Kramer singled Mark Christman home from second.

Yanks Beat Cleveland

Cleveland's largest turnout of the season—27,342—saw Rookie Joe Page Pitch the Yanks to a 6-4 triumph in an 11-inning first game. The Indians took the nightcap 4-3 behind the six-hit pitching of Allie Reynolds and Steve Gromek.

Big Bill Lee twirled a two-hit 1-0 victory against St. Louis Cardinals to give the Philadelphia Phillies a split of their doubleheader. The National League champions won the opener, 4-2 behind Harry Gumbert and George Munger.

Pittsburgh swept a twin bill from New York Giants, 9-4 and 7-4. The Pirates walloped five homers in the opener, two each by Jimmy Russell and Babe Dahlgren and one by Vince DiMaggio.

Cincinnati beat Boston Braves twice. Gerald Walker's first-inning homer won the opener 1-0. The Reds combined 14 hits with four Boston errors to take the nightcap 7-3.

Detroit and Boston Red Sox split their War Relief twin bill. Paul Trout chalked up his seventh win for the Tigers in the opener, 2-1. Rookie Clem Hausman then pitched the Sox to a 5-1 triumph.

Chicago Cubs beat Brooklyn, 6-5, in the first game of a scheduled double-header. The second was called because of darkness, after the 10th inning with the score tied, 8-8.

New Tag Team Expects To Clean Up

Tag Tea Wrestling, which made a tremendous hit with the audience here the other night, goes again Tuesday night in the Brock Arena. The same two mat villains, John Katan and Bunny Dunlop, who triumphed here will be back again. But this time Dunlop and Katan meet Frank Sexton and his new partner, Toar Morgan. The team of Dunlop and Katan managed to beat the team of Sexton and Elitch last Tuesday when the two ruffians managed to corner poor Nick and really knocked him around for the final fall.

But with the big Fighting Marine, Toar Morgan in there with Sexton it may well be a different story. Katan and Dunlop claim to be the two most rugged matmen in the business and are fond of boasting that they can beat any two other wrestlers in the wide world. Both Sexton and Morgan however are magnificent wrestlers and fighters too. Sexton really held his own end up nobly the other night. He gained his team's only fall when he used a pile-driver to flatten Bunny. And neither the vicious attacks of Katan nor the often illegal assistance of Dunlop could stop him. Now that he has been partnered with a grappler of Morgan's ability the Pacific Coast champion fully expects to reverse the situation. The fans will be pulling for that too.

Probably never before in the old Arena has there been such excitement as prevailed when the four huge matmen got at each other.

Ordinary wrestling has its high and feverish moments, but this new twist that they've termed Tag Team battling provides innumerable opportunities for super-duper thrills. With four mat giants, not to mention the referee, thundering around the canvas and all kinds of extra skullduggery being injected the scene was one of the liveliest we've ever seen.

Next Tuesday's uproar should set a new peak in all departments.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, June 5.—(CP).—The youth of Montreal are said to be getting more baseball conscious, and turning away from the mushball paths, Al (Montreal Herald) Parsley reports. And the reason for this is not hard to find, he continues, but lies in the sudden ascension of Stan Breard, native of the Montreal district, to a post in the International League with Montreal Royals.

All along, it's been softball that appealed to the lads, but they are beginning to get the idea, under present circumstances there are grand opportunities in baseball for a willing youngster with a good pair of hands or a productive batting stance.

Since Breard gave the home-town boy makes good complex to the Royals, interest has been seething among Montreal youngsters. A new league was formed in the Rosemount district, and enthusiasm has been mounting in the other leagues. So, even if Breard doesn't turn out to be a burning star in the league, he can feel well satisfied with his share in baseball because of the way he stimulated the game in Canada's big port city.

Incidentally:

The heat is on the bookies at Winnipeg tracks this season, Herb Manning reports in the Winnipeg Tribune. He says five of the plungers' pals paid fines totalling $1,000 as authorities cracked down on their extra-parimutuel activities.... Johnny Lifford, Saint John's aging but still game boxing star, seems to have taken a leaf from Tennyson's book. Lifford has been crippling the title aspirjations of younger and fleeter boxers all along. His latest victory was over Ralph Walton, tough little negro scrapper from Montreal.... Mike Rodden, former N.H.L. referee, football coach, and one-time sports editor of the old Toronto Globe, is handling the Kingston Whig-Standard sport page now, succeeding Bill Walshe. He is writing a column, "Highways of Sport," filled with reminiscenses of old-time athletes and their doings.

Sailor Does 5,555 Sit-ups

GREATLAKES, Ill. June 5. — (AP).—AB. Bill Froehling did 5,555 situps in three hours and five minutes, recently.

A sit-up is part of your daily dozen to reduce the waist-line. You lie flat on your back, someone holds your ankles, and then you rise to a sitting position.

Froehling, 150-pound, 18-year-old recruit from Kingsford, Mich., lost four pounds 14½ ounces during his exercises.

"But I stopped too soon," he said. "I could have done 2,000 or 3,000 more, and some of these days I am going to do 10,000."

The Navy claims Froehling's feat is a world's record.

Cricket Game Lasts All Day

MONTREAL, June 5 — (CP). — In an all-day cricket match here on Saturday Asbury College, Ottawa, defeated Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, Que., decisively.

Batting first, B.C.S. were all out for the total of 13 and Ashbury at the lunch withdrawal had virtually won the match by having made 16 for one wicket.

On play being resumed, Ashbury continued to score freely and declared at 152 when only six wickets had fallen as the match was played with 12 aside there were thus five wickets to fall.

Going in the second time, B.C.S. did better and had made 55 for six wickets when time was called.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press.

Gerald Walker and Arnold Carter, Reds — Carter blanked Braves with four hits in opener, winning 1-0; Walker hit homer in first for only run of game and made four hits to pace the Reds in the second victory.

Babe Dahlgren and Frank Colman, Pirates — Dahlgren hit his fifth and sixth homers of week in opener; Colman's pinch single in eighth inning drove in what proved to be winning runs in 7-4 Pirate victory to give Pittsburgh double triumph.

Don Johnson, Cubs, and John Bolling, Dodgers — Johnson's single in ninth drove in winning run in opener; Bolling made four hits and drove in four runs in nightcap to be responsible for Dodger tie.

Johnny Hopp, Cards, and Bill Lee, Philies — Hopp made three hits and scored twice in 4-2 Card win in opener; Lee held Cards to two hits in finale, registering 1-0 win.

Joe Page, Yankees, and Mickey Rocco, Indians—Page won 11-inning opener, hit triple and scored twice; Rocco made three hits and drove in two runs in 4-3 win to give Indians even split.

Ed Varnett and Tom Turner, White Sox — Made four hits, drove in two runs in 6-5 win in 10 innings of opener. Turner hit home run and two singles in second game to give White Sox double win.

Redwings Clip Orioles For Two Wins

(By The Associated Press)

Sunday's double headers in the International League resulted in the termination of one streak, but the other still kept rolling not so merrily along.

Rochester put an end to Baltimore's string of eight victories by taking both games, 3-2 and 6-4, but Syracuse kept up its losing ways by dropping both ends of a twin bill, to Buffalo, 8-3 and 10-8.

Roy Gardner of the Red Wings outpitched Red Embree of the Orioles in the opener, allowed only six hits to Embree's seven. Bill Emmerich won his seventh game in the nightcap, though he needed help from Lou Sakas in the sixth inning.

Zeb Eaton, pitcher-outfielder of the Buffalo Bisons, made three hits in two games. He drove in three runs in each game.

Jersey City's league - leading Giants captured both ends of a double header from Toronto, 2-1 and 1-0, dropping the Leafs from second to fifth place. Bob Barthelson and Ken Miller pitched airtight to register the decisions, Miller allowing only two hits in blanking the Leafs in the nightcap.

The last place Newark Bears ended a four game losing streak by taking the finale of a double bill from Montreal, after losing the first 8-4. Stan Breard, rookie Royal shortstop, singled twice with the bases full to drive in four runs in the opener.

A Nice Bag

CAIRO, June 5.—(AP).— R.A.F. planes based in the Middle East destroyed 17 enemy supply vessels and damaged 25 in attacks last month ranging from the coasts of Greece to the eastern waters of the Aegean, it was announced yesterday.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

War Admiral, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, won the Belmont Stakes seven years ago to-day to take his third straight major race as a three year old. The famous son of the great Man O' War coasted home to a four-length victory, equalling the mile and a half American track record for the distance of 2.28 3-5 set by Handy Mandy 10 years previously.

Canadians Hide 25-Pounder In Poppy Field

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, June 5.— (CP).— The fields were alive with poppies and with guns—with poppies that made you think of the last war and with guns that demanded your thoughts for its successor.

The poppies were red in their beauty but the guns had tramped them and anything else nature had thought to mother in this Italian soil as it neared the little river the Germans had chosen as the obvious bulwark for their Gustav Line. War had tramped the poppies before but never a war that bred guns in families as large or as blatant as these.

Their chorus that night the Allies opened their assault on the Gustav line was a thing of wild violence, of light that broke over the hills in erratic exultation of sound that multiplied itself upon the shaggy slopes it met on either side.

And beside them were the gunners, happy in their release from the secrecy the monotony of accumulating a multitude of weapons beneath the eyes of an enemy who could look upon thier positions by day but couldn't see as they dug and camouflaged and soiled the fields by night.

Like Many More.

Ten days before the opening of the assault Sgt. P. F. Latham of Moose Jaw, Sask., and his crew had begun to establish their 25-pounder in this field were now it stood. The story of Sgt. Latham and his crew is the story of hundreds of other gun sergeants and hundreds of other crews.

For 10 days they ate their breakfast before dawn, ate their lunch cold from food brought them with thier breakfast got their dinner after dark. For 10 days they couldn't move by day from beneath the camouflage net that hung lazily over the gun post they had dug into the earth, reinforced with bags of soil, bettered with dugouts to which they could go if enemy guns came too close in retaliation.

For 10 days they lived in wonder whether the Germans would spy them or others of the hundreds that had sprung up around them in positions the enemy could see from the hills he held beyond. But those 10 days had gone and two more, and still the Germans had not found them out.

Between 11 o'clock and four that first night Sgt. Latham and his crew fired 415 rounds from their black, blunt weapon.

Now, two days later, they were still firing. Sgt. Latham was still saying "fire" as No. 1 of the crew, L. Bdr. I. P. Johnson of Melville, Sask., was still laying. Bdr A Kellner, Otterville, Ont, was doing his job.

From Italian Bases

Sweeping up from Southern Italy, between 500 and 750 heavy bombers of the U.S. 15th Air Force made a strong attempt yesterday to sever the main rail lines between France and Italy.

One force hit the Turin yards, the double-track Mount Cenis railroad leading west from Turin to Lyon, a bridge on the Italian side of the Modane tunnel through the Alps, and tracks near St. Michel on the French side.

Other bombers singled out the Riviera line, bombing a viaduct southwest of Cannes and the Var River ridge, southwest of Nice. Still other formations hit the Genoa railyards and the Recco viaduct to the east. The yards at Novi Legire and the harbor at Saxona, both about 25 miles from Genoa, also were targets.

British-based R.A.F. bombers attacked the big chemical centre of Ludwigshafen in Germany, objectives along the French coast, and scattered mines in enemy waters without loss of any aircraft in operations Saturday night.

It is estimated now that Allied planes poured more than 147,00 tons of bombs on Continental targets during May. Of this total, nearly 100,000 tons were carried from British bases and 48,000 from the Mediterranean

Allied airmen in the European, Mediterranean and Middle East theatres shot down at least 439 German aircraft last week as against an Allied loss of 280.

Divorce Faces Hess

LONDON, June 5—(CP)—The Reynolds News, London Sunday newspaper, said today it has learned Mrs. Rudolf Hess had sued her husband, the former deputy Nazi Fuehrer, for divorce "on grounds of desertion and insanity." The newspaper said the case would be heard privately in Leipzig and that Hess, a prisoner of war in the United Kingdom, would be notified of the petition through the Red Cross.

Not Over

HALIFAX, June 5 — (CP). — Defence Minister Ralston told an audience of men and women of the Army Saturday that he does not "hold the view that the war is nearly over." He was speaking at the opening of Cathedral Barracks, Canada's newest C.W.A.C. centre.

TANK - SUPPORTED CANADIAN INFANTRY ADVANCE — Driving forward against the Germans in the current battles raging in Italy, tank-supported Canadian infantry creep forward over a low ridge while shells burst against Nazi defensive positions only a few hundred yards away. Shells fired by tanks being used as support artillery can be seen bursting on the hillside. (Canadian Army Overseas Photo) caught her broadside.

"She listed full to portside, with the passangers running and sliding to portside. She filled with water on the portside and settled on an even keel."

Vining said he broke a window in the wheelhouse and helped out three small boys who were inside with him. He told how the passengers swam around the boat and how he was pulled under the water when "some big man" grabbed him from behind, breaking his grip on Shirley Handysides.

"When an R.C.A.F. crash boat came up, the people seemed to get panicky and during the confusion two or three people went under. They seemed to lose their grip. They were too weak to hold on.

"There were 20 lifebelt from my boat floating in the water but not a soul was using them."

Mrs. Evelyn Smith, one of the rescued, was taken to hospital for treatment for exposure. He condition was described last night as "satisfactory." Her husband, Sidney Smith, was among the missing.

Port Stanley, nearest resort point to London, attracted hundreds of Londoners during the day. When word of the tragedy got to London, anxious parents and relatives streamed by motor toward the lakeshore. . .
